TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THIS LIFE-LONG INTOXICATION

What a blessing to me are books! When I have in my head, and what a blessing eyes are to everyone! My eyes have led me to wonderful beauty that no words can adequately describe, and they have been the means of enjoying a life-long intoxication through the reading of an endless number of books.

We can't always call on our friends, but we always call on our books. Those who love well keep close to us. Also, in a great book, we usually get the best of the one who wrote it. That's why books live so long. I have small books I slip into my pocket or grip whenever I take a journey. I am lost without a friendly tome near.

It is inspiring to walk into a great library reading room and note the scores of eager eyes centered upon printed pages. You can almost feel the intoxication that is going on in those minds that are so concentrated upon the open pages. We read books in our youth that give us enjoyment, but in later years we get companionship upon another reading, and that book is cemented to us as a friend.

I like to have so many friends of mine as possible to know my friends. There are however limitations to such a distribution, but I can say that my friends, as has put himself into a book, built up a friendship for the globe! And it is that we, who love books, may have the same friends to live for joy and inspiration no matter what the separation in miles. That's why it is such a pleasure to tell people, who read this brief talk from day to day, about books that I have found worth me.

There are books in my library that I read again and again — each time a mental intoxication. The authors of many of these books live and intoxicate, as though their bumps lips uttered them again in life.

No one can measure the importance of books in the world. I know of newspapers, however, that hardly mention a book in their columns from one end of the year to the other, yet there are also those that do give attention me to many a treasure. Every newspaper in the land should have daily "Book News" space. It would help to make them more widely read.

Windfall Damage Causes Big Drop In Apple Crop

Toronto, Oct. 25 — (CP) — Windfall damage in the Peel, York, Niagara and Burlington districts has caused a reduction in Western Ontario apple crop estimates this year, but the drop is slight, says the monthly fruit and vegetable report of Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Slight codling moth damage was another factor which caused experts to arrive at a lower figure. The total yield now is expected to be 6,647,740 bushels, an increase of 30 per cent over the 1948 yield.

The Eastern Ontario apple estimate now is 4,605,500 barrels, which would be a 42 per cent increase over the 1948 crop.

Pear estimates for the western section of the province call for a 73 per cent increase from 1948, whereas Eastern Ontario estimates this year, but the drop is a 29 per cent increase and plums 35 per cent.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

Today, I'd like to tell you about a talk I had with a doctor who is in charge of research work at one of the New York cancer clinics. He made me promise not to use his name because he was afraid he might be blacklisted by the foundation which pays his salary.

I began by asking him to sketch in his pre-research career.

"The usual ten-year grind", he said. "Four years of college, four more at medical school, a year as intern, and a year in residency training."

"What made you go into research?"

"Like a lot of young doctors", he said, "I couldn't get used to sitting by while a patient died simply because I didn't know anything else I could do for him. Every time I looked up into the eyes of sick men who had entered the bed of a man in the last stages of cancer, I told myself that my job wasn't to go on using the hit-or-miss techniques but to find out the mystery and help find the real cure."

"How did you go about getting started?"

"I made the usual applications", said the doctor, "and finally found the hospitals and universities had no funds to hire research men, and that I couldn't get a job unless a foundation paid my salary. For complicated things, most foundations won't give you a fellowship unless you first have a job. In addition, it's almost impossible to get a grant until you've published a certain number of articles in learned books, of course, you can't publish such papers until you've worked in a laboratory and had a chance to do research worth writing about.

"It finally boiled down to this — I'd have to get a job doing a cancer laboratory, or I could take a job paying $120 week doing concentrate, in the munitions outfit. Well, I had just gotten married and was ready to settle for the money, but my wife wouldn't hear of it—she went out and got a nice job and made me stick to my test tubes."

"How long did you work for free?"

"About a year," said the doctor, "during which time I got the centre—a very decent guy—squeezed me onto the payroll at $3,6 a week."

"You could have earned more washing dishes."

"We managed to get by", said the medico, "but the following year my wife had a baby—she had to quit her job. After that, it was pretty rugged. As, for instance, we couldn't afford to buy a crib, and the youngster had to sleep in a donated baby carriage.

"Somehow, though, we bulled our way through, and by the end of the following year I had gotten a couple of research pieces published. When I came to back me up, I applied for a fellowship paying $3,000 a year."

"Minus withholding tax, I presume."

"It paid not sound like much, but I felt like John D. Jr. when he received his allowance from the doctor. "Last year, I went through the application rigmarole again, and got another grant, and this time I got the full $3,-800."

"What do you do to earn all that money?" I said.

"I'm in charge of three cancer projects and help on half a dozen others. On the side, I run a local hospital, write up the wards and give seminars."

"Any chance of a raise?"

"I'm afraid not," said the doctor, "and, as far as fellowships are concerned, they're going out the end of the line. I'm 39 now, and the foundations don't like to give grants to men over 30."

"There's always the job in the industrial lab", I said.

"It may come to that", said the M.D., "but I hope not. No matter what it pays, I'd like to keep plugging away on cancer. It seems a lot more important than developing a new shade of face powder ..."

The day after our talk, I happened to pass the medical skyscraper in which the young doctor works, and I noticed that an additional wing was under construction. Dozens of steel workers bricklayers and carpenters—all averaging around a hundred a week—were getting in each other's way.

Over the half-finished entrance was a space which looked as if it might eventually be filled by a block of marble on which a fitting inscription would be carved.

"I know what it ought to be", I said to myself. "Too much concrete, too little for brains."

Urges Support Of Poppy Fund

In a few days, Nov. 5th., to be exact, the citizens of Belleville and district will be asked to purchase the poppies which make it possible the Canadian Legion, Belleville Branch No. 99 to carry on its welfare work.

This work is important, but I think one thing that perhaps has not been sufficiently stressed is the fact that the poppy is the symbol of remembrance—remembrance of those who worked in World Wars.

Psychiatrists are apt to be a little short, and were it not for the annual poppy sale I sometimes think that nothing a cancer laboratory, or I could take a job paying $120 week doing concentrate, in the munitions outfit. HOW GOOD ARE YOUR NERVES?

The energy which some people spend in making excuses for not doing things is more than enough to accomplish the things in the first place. How often we hear, "I'm not feeling well today", or "If only I had money enough!" We all know the old, familiar alibis.

Easy as it is to make excuses to others, it is still easier to make them to ourselves. Yet it is amazing how frequently people with really valid excuses—health, extreme poverty, blindness for example—accomplish great things.

Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland, lies not far below the Arctic Circle. The climate is cold; in winter the sun shines only a few hours a day. Because other building materials are scarce, grey stone, concrete and corrugated iron predominate. If ever a city had a right to be dull and drab, Reykjavik could. Yet the first thing that strikes a visitor is the color—in the summer plots of bright green grass everywhere thousands of window boxes with cheerful flowers; glowing and vivid curtains and ornaments and pottery in the windows.

Their secret? Very simple: It is as easy to make the city bright as to complain about it. Perhaps overcoming handicaps vanish when you adopt this attitude!

SCHIZOID P ERSONALITY

I have received several letters asking me to define a schizoid (pronounced "skitzoyd") personality. Any word ending in—oid means "like" something. Thus schizoid means like schizophrenia. So we must first find out just what a schizophrenic personality is.

Schizophrenia is one of the psychoses, in distinction to the neuroses. It is characterized by peculiar manners of thought and behavior.

The schizophrenic turns away from reality. He lives in an unreal world of his own. For this and this thinking he is like that of a child. You've all noticed how children's play is colored by fantasy; they make up things as they go along, to suit the needs of their games and imagination. The thinking of the schizophrenic is similar to this. The fantasy may dominate his life completely.

Hallucinations are often part of the schizophrenic's mental processes. An hallucination is the name given to something that is seen, heard, or smelled, by the psychotic individual. An example is a voice which is heard by the schizophrenic. It says "kill him to destroy himself, that he is guilty of something, and that some one or danger looms. The normal observer cannot hear the voice, but the schizophrenic is convinced that there is no voice at all. He actually hears the voice, so why should he believe someone else when he is told that it is unreal? Reality to him is incredible.

The delusion is another abnormality of thought in schizophrenia. You've all heard examples of grandeur and delusions of persecution. They are common in schizophrenia. For example, a schizophrenic might think he is Napoleon, and no one would point out to him that there are ten other people in the institution that know they are the real Napoleon, he would most likely state that they are impostors. You can see he lacks normal reasoning powers.

The peculiar abnormalities of thought and behavior are a few of the important ones in the schizophrenic.

The schizoid personality, on the other hand, still lives in a world of reality. He has not "broken with reality," but they may be in danger of an approaching break. Under unfavorable circumstances of life they may develop into a psychotic, a full-blown schizophrenic. The schizoid personality may be a person who is very eccentric and shows bizarre patterns of thought and behavior. But remember that he is distinguished from the schizophrenic in that he still has touch with reality.

The schizoid personality is extremely narcissistic, or self-centered, and constantly seeks approval by others. For this reason that a schizophrenic personality is.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

The war between the various safety razor manufacturers has been going on so long that it deserves no rank with "Hundred Years War or the Wars of the Roses. It has been one of the great perennial battles of the advertising world for almost as long as most of us who shave can recollect. Literally millions of dollars must have been spent in the newspapers and magazines in the effort of these companies to cut each other's throats with a safety razor. Obviously they haven't succeeded, because they are all in it still, and, even, with signs of any blood having been lost. What they have provided us—who, of course, pay for the advertising in the long run—is a great deal of shaving equipment, ever improving; but also with restful advertising that encourages us to shave and enjoy shaving. It's inspirational.

The latest campaign in the long razor war is based on speed. Speed in changing blades. One company came out a year ago with a sensational campaign featuring zip, swish, click, snap, bingle—it's lal—ally out!

This speed campaign had all the rival razors gasping on the safety razor merry-go-round. If you will see that the other was the first to introduce the idea of speed, too. "It's out! It's in! Flash, zip, whip, snap, snip!"

Then, as we all know, from all that we shavers are in a terrific hurry, the razor blade campaign conjures up a of the manhood of the land, rushing into the bathroom, snatching the razor off the cabinet shelf, and then, with a series of rapid, brushless cream or gel strokes, and without any attention, to swipe the whiskers off their chins.

The truth of the matter is about eighty per cent of men love to shave. They like to fiddle and diddle around with hot water, soap, brush and a razor, the whole amusing lie mechanism the better. A shave is like a dalliance with a bath, a leisurely, subtly, clammy man goes into the bathroom, and nothing happens out. The only kind of people who shave the way the safety razor advertisements imagine people do are the kind of people who write safety razor advertisements.

British Papers Condemn Plans As Inadequate

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Prime Minister Attlee is in the uncomfortable position of the fellow who is damned if he does and damned if he doesn't.

This predicament arises from his drastic experiment of devaluing the pound sterling in an effort to increase British exports and so bring the country out of its economic-tail spin. Then, having made this devaluation, he was faced with the necessity of devising ways to prevent inflation from growing out of it.

The formula accepted for this safeguard was to slash the government's budget by £3,000,000,000 ($8,200,000,000), which was heavily laden with social welfare projects and defence measures. Previously the government had warned of how drastic the slash would be and what sacrifices it would involve.

So the whole country was set for a fresh blast of austerity. Then when the first of disclosure arrived in the House of Commons Monday the caution-cracker proved to be something of a squib.

The terrific slash was only an eight-per-cent cut. This was such an anti-climax that the general public not only was surprised but was worried for fear the government program isn't drastic enough to meet one of the gravest economic crises the nation ever has experienced.

Condemned As Inadequate

All the major British newspapers, excepting the pro-labor London Daily Herald, condemn the proposals as inadequate.

The London Daily Mail said: "After ministers' measured warnings, the nation was braced, tensed, keyed-up for heroic shocks. They have not come. Once again the government have shirked the unpleasant duty and have run away from a grave situation."

This assault by the press was the heaviest Attlee has encountered since the Socialists came to power some 4½ years ago. Did the Prime Minister, astute politician as he usually is, misjudge the temper of his public? Has he been too timid in his demands for further sacrifices?

In the first place he had to ask himself how much more austerity could be endured by a country which had labored with tightened belt for 10 years. If he made the burden too heavy what would happen in the general election which must be held next July? The correct answer to that was perhaps a matter of life and death to Britain's experiment in Socialism which he was directing and which he obviously believed was in the interests of the country.

Of course that argument can cut two ways, for failure to make cuts heavy enough to solve the economic crisis also might have the effect of defeating Socialism. It is true that the Socialist government inherited the crisis. But while the Attlee government can disclaim responsibility for creating the emergency, the fact remains that it will be held largely responsible for finding a solution. Therefore if the cuts in expenditures aren't sufficient, the blame naturally will be assessed against Socialism.

U.N. Step Towards Peace, Social, Economic Security Speaker Tells Kiwanis Club

The world took a great step forward with the founding of the United Nations in 1945; a step toward world peace and social and economic security for the peoples of the world," stated Reverend J. Grant Sparling, rector of Christ Church, speaking at the weekly Kiwanis luncheon held yesterday at the Kiwanis Centre on Dundas Street. Mr. Sparling's address on the United Nations was the result of the club's efforts to, in some way, commemorate the U.N.'s fourth birthday, which was celebrated on Monday.

Mr. Sparling went on to briefly outline the organization of the United Nations. He pointed out that the governing body of the U.N. was the General Assembly in which each member nation is entitled to have more than five representatives. He said that, perhaps the most outstanding section of the organization is the Security Council, which is made up of 11 member nations. He said that this council is made up of five permanent members, consisting of the major world powers, and six elected members. He pointed out that the peculiar aspect of this council is that a majority of seven rules providing that the five permanent members are in agreement.

Three Major Divisions

Reverend Sparling stated that there were three c f r major divisions in the U.N.; the Economic and Social Council, Trustee Council and the International Court of Justice.

"Although there has been little progress made in controlling the A-bomb and the manufacture of weapons; it would be wrong to suppose that the U.N. has failed," he declared. He pointed out that the Security Council prevented the spread and eventually brought an end to hostilities in Palestine, that they averted disaster in India and that this Council was instrumental in preserving the peace during the tense days of the Air-Lift.

Some Dissension

He agreed that there was dissension in the organization. "But", he added, "the United Nations is only four years old. We have the Christian Church which is 2,000 years old and here dissension is apparent to an alarming degree. Are we to assume that the Christian Church is not doing good in the world? On the contrary, the Christian Church is the greatest power for good in the modern world despite its disunity." He pointed out that on the whole standards the U.N. is a great moral power for peace.

He said that publicity was dropping. "It's up to the people to 'keep the pot boiling' as he declared, "and we must keep the ideals of the pot before the public."

"Our future lies in this," he stated, "that we either have one world or no world at all."

Workmen Find Another Body In Wreckage

Toronto, Oct. 26—(CP)—While the fire-destroyed cruise ship Noronic was being pumped out Tuesday, workmen found another body in the wreckage.

The vessel, which burned at her berth here Sept. 17, is slowly being pumped out so that the hulk may be refloated and removed to Hamilton for scrapping. The upper works have already been removed.

The remains discovered Tuesday may be those of one of the 14 persons still listed as missing. Identified dead total 105, making the total death toll 119. That was the final figure established Oct. 13 on the basis of Red Cross investigation and medical evidence.

The body was that of a middle-aged woman, clad in a man's overcoat over her nightgown.

Price of Tires, Tubes Increased By 3½ Per Cent

Boston, Oct. 26, —(AP)— A 3 1-2 per cent increase in the price of tires and tubes was announced Tuesday by E. J. Thomas president of the Goodyear Rubber Company.

Thomas made the announcement while speaking to the American Trucking Association. He said there had been a five per cent decrease in the price of tires and tubes last summer.

Thomas said he was optimistic about the future of the rubber industry, adding new fields were opening up in use of rubber for flooring, walls, wrapping material for foods and in the elimination of vibration in automibiles.

Raymond C. Firestone, a director of the Firestone Company, predicted a five percent increase in the price of tires and tubes by the first of the year when he addressed the convention Monday night. He said mounting costs of production would be responsible.

Decision May Be Far-Reaching For Hotel Owners

Ottawa, Oct. 26 — (CP) — A decision that may have a far-reaching effect on prosecutions under the Liquor Licence Act will be handed down in county court here within a few days.

Judge A. Gordon McDougall Tuesday reserved decision on the appeal of Aldis M. Fleming, owner of the Belmont Hotel in Ottawa, against conviction on a charge of permitting a person under the age of 21 years to be on licensed premises.

The case hinges on the question of whether a hotel owner is responsible for the actions of his employees under the meaning of the section under which the charge was laid.

Counsel for Mr. Fleming argued that if the statute was rigidly enforced, every hotel owner or licensee would have to stand at the door of his beverage room and be constantly on the lookout for youthful - looking would - be drinkers.

MARRIAGE NOTICE

CLARK—MEYER—On Saturday, Oct. 21, 1944, at 4 o'clock, in St. Michael and All Angels Church by Rev. Mr. Howden, Marilynn Ann, daughter of Mrs. Meyer and the late Mr. Howard Baildon Meyer, to Edmund Clark, son of Mrs. Clark and the late Mr. William Edmund Clark.

The full skirt which ended in a short train was caught up in front in two scallops, each scallop being held by a white rose. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a beaded crown. She wore a single strand of pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of red roses and shepherdia.

J. Foster, Paul Street, Picton, and the late Mr. Foster. The church was decorated for the occasion with dahlias in shades of mauve and yellow, and with multi-colored snapdragons against a background of ferns.

The groomsman was Mr. Donald Hobson, of Picton, and the ushers were Mr. Wallace Brown, gowned in pink taffeta with matching bridal headdress and lace mitts, and carrying a basket of blue 'mums', and Rex Walters.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Rickarton Castle Hotel, Picton, where carnations in pink and white were used in profusion for decoration. Guests were received by the bride, Wallace Brown, who wore a becoming gown of silk faille in a raspberry shade, with black footwear hat and black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The bride's mother assisted wearing a gown of black crepe with matching hat and accessories; her corsage was of red carnations.

The bride's table was centred with a beautifully decorated wedding cake, topped with pink roses, and with tall tapers on each side in candelabra.

Woman Born in Montreal Turns Politician in Bermuda

Pagel, Bermuda, (AP)— When the surreys and the 10-horsepower taxis get into a traffic snarl in Bermuda, the gal who has to straighten them out is Montreal-born Mrs. Edna Watson.

One of two women members of Bermuda's parliament, Mrs. Watson is a blond, blond woman of genteel manner, who looks as if her proper background would be an English garden party.

Actually she manages to run much of Bermuda's government business, conducts a successful group of guest houses runs a farm and in her spare time works as a physiotherapist at the local military hospital.

At her stately home Scarrington Lodge, she is every inch the hostess, intent upon her guest's comfort. In parliament, she is considered a political power to be reckoned with. Discussing her surprising and recent political career, she said: "I never had any old silver at her home here, she said:

"I never had considered going into politics. The nice Bermuda men always have considered women's place was in the home.

"We have had woman's suffrage here only since 1944. You know. The 1940 elections were the first time a woman could run for office. The thing all came up very suddenly. I was asked one Thursday to stand for parliament. The next Thursday I was in."

Mrs. Watson made no speeches, did no campaigning. Instead, she took an advertisement in the local newspaper to publish her platform, which included: Old age pensions, courses in rural training for rural school and social security. She said:

"This was an unheard-of method of seeking public office, but apparently it worked. Anyway, I was elected."

Now she is chairman of the transport control board and the social welfare board, two of the most important committees posts in the Bermuda House of Assembly.

The problem of planning an adequate transport program for Bermuda which until recently allowed no automobiles on the island, keeps her busy most of the day. Some of the old residents want to go back to the horse and buggy days. Others seek to raise the present 20-mile speed limit for automobiles (still limited to 10 horsepower).

What Mrs. Watson wants to do is plan an over-all transit system with ferries and buses, so that Bermudians can get to and from work without depending on taxis, as most of them do now.

Mrs. Watson was born in Montreal and came to Bermuda with her husband after he was gassed in the First World War.

For a time the Watson ran a dairy farm during the Second World War. Returning, she expanded Scarrington Lodge into a series of guest houses, continued her truck farming and apparently managed to have no idle hours. When the opportunity arrived to enter public service, she managed to work that in also.

Served 26 Years In Prison, Woman Given Pardon

Detroit, Oct. 25—(CP)— Mrs. Maude Cushing Storick, who has served 26 years in prison for the poison murder of her first husband, was pardoned yesterday by Michigan Governor G. Mennin Williams.

The 56-year-old woman will be released immediately.

Mrs. Storick, who has been imprisoned longer than any other woman in Michigan history, appealed for a complete pardon before the State Parole Board recently on the grounds he was convicted in a wave of hysteria in her hometown of Dowagiac, March 17, 1923, and claimed the neighbors and jurors were "prejudiced" because she married Emory Storick a month after Cushing's death.

The Governor's pardon was based on authorities conviction now that the woman did not commit the crime.

Mrs. Storick had claimed earlier that she was a "constant user of a deadly poison which' his own physician recommended against."

MEMBER URGES

Wants Expansion

He urged expansion under government direction of Canada's steel industry, because the government had saved much of the people's money to subsidize the big steel companies.

Mr. Ilsley said that besides bringing in a budget outlining the country's financial position, the government should introduce a plan showing how it would use part of surpluses to take the edge off unemployment" in depressed areas of Canada.

Other speakers in the debate included Rodney Adamson (PC—York West); John Blackmore (CC—Lethbridge); Rev. Dan Mclver (L—Broadview); Alistair Church (PC—Toronto Broadview); Andre Gauthier (L—Lac St.-Jean); Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf), and Auguste Maltais (L—Charlevoix).

The debate was interrupted for an hour at the evening session to permit discussion of a bill, sponsored by Mr. Gillis that would give the National Labor Relations Board more power.

Mr. Gillis said his bill would enable the board to withdraw which party was at fault in any labor dispute. The guilty party then could be dealt with through magistrate courts.

Can't Accept Proposals

Labor Minister Mitchell, whose speech was interrupted when the hour for private members' bills was completed, said the government could not accept the proposal. Mr. Gillis was asking for arbitration, he declared.

At the House opening, External Affairs Minister Pearson said one of the causes of the recognition of a Communist government in China is assurance that it is not controlled by a foreign power. Another was assurance that the new country has full control over a defined area.

Meantime, in the Senate debate continued on a bill providing for abolition of appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council.

Senator J. W. de B. Farris (L—British Columbia), said he supported the principle of appeals to the Privy Council but would not oppose the legislation abolishing them.

Should Solve Problem

In the Commons debate, Mr. Blackmore said efforts should be made to arrive at a system of distributing the world's production. He regretted an apparent return to policies under which food was destroyed in some countries while people were starving in others. If there was a proper system of distribution, people would believe they were living in a second Garden of Eden.

Mr. McIvor said the principles of Christianity should be applied to trade. If the United KingDom could not buy Canadian wheat because of lack of dollars, Canada should make the wheat a gift or lend the necessary dollars to Britain.

Called for Repeal

He called for repeal of the eight per cent sales tax on hearing aids and the paying of allowances to persons incurably afflicted with arthritis.

Mr. Church renewed a request that Toronto be given representation in the Federal Cabinet. He urged economies by a government, which, he said, was "not happy unless it spent at least $1,000,000 a day." He supported his party's request at a Commonwealth Trade conference.

Mr. Adamson said it seemed that Canada should let the Canadian dollar finds its own level. The recent 10 per-cent devaluation was artificial and no reflection of the real value. Canada would progressively be shut out of a market after market overseas unless a way was found of enabling sterling-bloc countries to buy Canadian goods on an open market.

Andre Gauthier urged that unemployment insurance be extended to those engaged in seasonal employment in the pulp and paper industry. In his constituency this year many were unemployed because the industry had a large reserve of pulp and had halted cutting operations. He also urged a limitation of the means test for old age pensions and a reduction in the age eligibility.

Dr. Pierre Gauthier urged a crusade against alcoholic beverages. In some places taverns, bars and hotels were selling liquor to 16-year-old children. In Quebec the laws against liquor were not being enforced. He hoped that the provincial authorities "will at last open their eyes and have the law respected."

Would-be Robber Gets Rough Treatment

Toronto, Oct. 25 — (CP)— A smash-and-grab robber had a sore jaw today after an unsuccessful attempt to rob an east-end jewellery store Monday night.

Lou Davies, proprietor, told police he was working late when a rock came sailing through the window of his store. Then followed an arm to grab a cigaret lighter.

He said he ran out and caught the thief, who dropped the lighter.

"I managed to hit him in the face and kick him enough to make him grunt before he escaped into a lane," said Davies.

Scotland Yard Says Crime Is on Decline in Metropolis

London Letter:

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 25—(CP)—Crime is on the decline in London—and that's straight from Scotland Yard. The Metropolitan police force's headquarters say there's less wrongdoing now in the big city than at any time since the war.

Police statistics for the first six months of the year show a marked decrease in nearly every class of crime — except smash-and-grab raids on jewelry stores.

"But there is no longer evidence of a master mind," a Yard detective said. "Most raids are planned without skill and many of the culprits have been caught within a few minutes."

There has been a 70-per-cent drop in cases of robbery with violence and with intent to rob — in 1948 there were 373. Under the same headings are classified street hold-ups, bag-snatches and handbag grabbing.

Instances of shop - breaking— 11,752 in 1948 — have fallen by 23 per cent and house-breakings by 20 per cent.

Reasons for Drop

A Yard official said "the drop in serious crime is the more surprising since London's police force is still 3,000 men short." He gave five main reasons for the drop:

1. Many well-known receivers of stolen property and hundreds of expert thieves are in jail.

2. The public is not buying expensive jewelry, and the receiver is not so willing to buy stolen jewelry, for he knows he may have to keep it a long time. Both receivers and thieves would rather, for quick sale, have half a dozen rings worth £10 ($30.20) each than one worth £60.

Black Market Failing

3. The black market is failing off because goods are more plentiful while money is short.

4. More use is being made of police boxes from which the public can telephone information to a police station. Often within 90 seconds of a call being received the information is broadcast to patrolling radio cars.

5. Under the new Criminal Justice Act, a criminal who might formerly have been sentenced to three months' hard labor in police court now is sent to high court sessions where he may get a year's imprisonment followed by two years' corrective training.

Some police officers attribute the decrease in crime in the London suburbs to better street lighting. After most street lights have been switched off for the night, a regular police car patrol gave five main reasons for the of the suburbs is maintained.

RUSSIA DEMANDS

Presumably Yugoslavia's acting charge d'affaires Leo Latinovic will continue to serve as head of the mission, a post he has filled since Mrazovic left Moscow.

If normal diplomatic procedure is followed, Yugoslavia now can nominate another person as Ambassador to Moscow. The Russians could either accept or reject this nomination.

Russia has only minor diplomatic representation in Yugoslavia. Her last ambassador to Belgrade, Anatole I. Lavrentiev, returned to Moscow in August when he was named Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs.

The Petsamenes Trial

During the Rajk trial a Hungarian school teacher Dr. Gyorgi Terlesmyas, identified as Mrazovic's mistress testified that the Yugoslav and Rajk plotted against the Hungarian regime with Tito's interior minister, Gen. Alexander Rankovic.

Mrazovic at the time was Yugoslav minister in Budapest.

Marshal Tito denounced the trial testimony as lies aimed at increasing Soviet pressure against his regime.

The Soviet Union and her eastern satellites used the Rajk trial testimony last month as the basis for scrapping their treaties of friendship with Yugoslavia.

"Of the satellite countries, Czechoslovakia has demanded the recall of the Yugoslav Ambassador to Prague. Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia have expelled most of the subordinate Yugoslav diplomatic representatives from their capitals, and Tito has retaliated with an equal number of expulsions.

INDIA PLANS RAIL LINE

New Delhi — (CP) — Assam will have a new 145-mile rail link with the rest of India entirely through Indian territory early in 1950. After partition Assam's rail connection with the rest of India was cut off as the line passed through Eastern Pakistan.

Inquiry Ordered Into Liquor Case

Toronto, Oct. 25. (CP)—Attorney-General Porter and Liquor Commissioner Welsh said today they were ordering inquiries into the case of the 13-year-old Port Credit girl found in a drunken condition last Sunday.

Mr. Porter said he had ordered officials of his department to confer with Port Credit police to learn full details.

He said he was keenly interested in the situation which prevented the laying of a charge of supplying liquor to a minor being prosecuted in Port Credit, which is under the Canada Temperance Act of Peel County.

Examination of legal technicalities involved would be made, he said, to assure some prosecution of the person or persons who supplied the girl with liquor.

TWINS, BOY MISSING

Toronto, Oct. 25—(CP)—Police of suburban York township today sought three-year-old girl twins and a four-year-old boy playmate, missing since early this morning.

The search centred in the Black Creek Valley district of the township. The children are Bonnie and Sheila Gilberts and Johnny Harris.

How soon after the birth of the baby are my reducing exercises be started?" Both American mothers-to-be have gone forward to you. If you're nursing your baby check the diet with your doctor first before starting on it. Gynaecologists claim that proper reducing exercises should be started within a month after the birth of the baby and the most effective exercise is this: Sit on the floor with the back braced against a wall. Lean forward to touch the toes and as far beyond as possible, holding legs in a straight line and with knees touching.

BEST HEARTS: "My mother has become almost a mental case. Her memory is gone entirely and the days are all a fog to her. When we talked of putting her in a home she became violent. Is anything bad in the medicines? The cures are at a terrific rate. Where can we get a list of good homes and what are their rates?" Hearts like my mother may be taken ill.

Check with the Department of Public Health both at the Parliament Buildings and at the City Hall. Homes for the aged are maintained by the provincial authorities. Doctors in charge have an adequate list of rest homes and similar organizations.

SALAD FORK: "At an informal dinner is the salad fork placed to the left or to the right of the regular fork? And is it true it does both every and could this be used for the fish course?" The salad fork is usually elegantly placed to the right of the regular fork. Fish is correctly served on a plate placed with the regular table service but brought in with the salad. Dessert salad fork is used for pie.

Graduating Class Gets Diplomas At H. & S. Banquet

King George Home and School Association entertained the former eighth grade pupils, now students at first forms BCI and VS at a graduation banquet in the school Monday evening. There were about 170 parents, members and guests in attendance. Snowy white tablecloths, were centred with clusters of yellow mums and dahlias tied with blue ribbons. The school colors were further carried out and with candles of these colors in silver and crystal holders. The room was made very attractive with huge clusters of autumn leaves tied with the school colors.

Mrs. C. A. Brown, president of the association had charge of the program and she welcomed the guests paying special tribute to the graduating class, 22 in number, and their parents. Other toasts followed to which suitable responses were made.

A toast to the graduates made by Mr. Hackett expressed a belief that their success was not due alone to any one teacher's efforts, but due to a combination of all teachers and members of the class, working as a unit to the benefit of each. He further stated a typical example of the kind of students this class had been simply stated in a remark by a supply teacher, who after a day with them had said, "My what a lovely class you have."

He said although they were through with credit marks they had been adding up in the past two years of public school they were not through with credit marks because they would be adding them up each according to his conduct the rest of their lives.

This was very ably responded to by Ann Morrall who expressed the thanks of the class to Mr. Hackett for his kind remarks even though they were not all true.

Greeting From the Bd.

Greetings were brought from the Board of Education by Miss J. Tickell, who expressed the hope that each student would continue to go to school for as long as possible. Each year would help to carry them along their chosen way of life. Each one should not only try for the 50 per cent they must attain but for the highest mark they were capable.

Toast to the teachers was capably made by June Thomas who expressed her thanks to all the teachers who helped them reach this stage in their education. Special thanks to Miss Thompson, Miss Smith and Mr. Hackett for their last four years in school. She extended good wishes to Mr. Fairman in his new school and expressed the feeling of the school that his position had been ably filled by Mr. Hackett. This was responded to by Miss H. Thompson who said it had been a pleasure to have taught the class and recalled many amusing incidents which had happened in their two years with her.

Toast to the parents was made by Gary Hall, who thanked the H. & S. Association, who had sponsored this banquet and pointed out the debt of gratitude which the students owed their parents.

Mr. J. Bennett ably responded to the toast.

Valedictory Address

The valedictory was given by Maureen Wyatt. She said it was a privilege to come back to the familiar school. She was happy and proud having been allowed entrance to High School. Their exemplary training had fitted them well for their new life and they looked forward with confidence and eagerness to High School. With gratitude in their hearts they thanked their teachers for their patience, tolerance and friendliness which helped them.

She also thanked the Board of Education and special thanks to the Home and School Association who made this possible. She concluded with verses from "The Builders" from Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

Mr. K. Fairman, former principal expressed his satisfaction to be back with his old friends and introduced the guest speaker, Judge J. C. Anderson, Judge of Family Relations and Juvenile Court. Judge Anderson said that he wanted the boys and girls to not think of him as a judge but as one of themselves at this time. He said sixty per cent of the world's population of 14-year-old children were unable to write. This seems like a very startling statement, but the children of Canada, who are fortunate enough to have education until they are at least 16, should be grateful. He said that they are now at an impressionable age and they should listen to their teachers, parents and elders and would gain an inspiration and prove in every case the best thing to do.

Thanks to the guest speaker were expressed by John Baker, who laid he hoped the rest of the graduating class would learn wisdom from the remarks heard, as he had.

Mr. L. A. Kells presented the diplomas to the graduates and expressed his congratulations to each individual student.

Mrs. R. A. Watt presented the Home and School Scholarship to Barbara Bennett for the best all around student. Each member of the graduating class was presented with a pass to the Drive-in Theatre by L.N. Buck (treasurer).

Mr. Howard Hall expressed the appreciation of those present to all parents of the school who donated so freely and to Mrs. Butler and her social committee who spent so much time and effort in making the banquet such a success.

NEW THEORY

But chemist Urey sees an easy way for the iron to sink to earth's centre while the earth was still a large, hard ball of dust. He names the chemical condition necessary, by which melting iron slips in little rivulets along silicate rocks.

Urey's idea of iron sinking to the centre of a solid earth explains a lot of mysteries. It explains the Pacific Ocean, the continents, their drifting apart, the lost continents, the tropical climate of Antarctica, the great glacial periods, and the fluctuating length of the day.

As the iron sank, it displaced the lighter material at earth's centre. This material rose on one side of the earth—where Europe now stands—as the first land. On the opposite side a compensation depression formed, which now is the huge basin of the Pacific Ocean.

Worker Gets $21,000

Toronto, Oct. 26. —(CP)—W. E. Brain, Toronto rubber worker won $21,000 today when the horse Good Taste, a 22 to 1 shot, ran second in the Cambridgeshire Handicap at Newmarket.

Brian said this was his first Irish Sweepstakes win although he has been buying tickets for 20 years.

It was the first report of a Canadian winning a major prize in the sweep.

Mr. Brain is an inspector for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. He and Mrs. Brain have three children.

Dorothy, one of the children, said she was so excited couldn't even listen to reports of the race.

"I just feel like standing on my head or going out and having a big celebration", she said.

As far as was known here, no Canadian holds a ticket or Sterope, winner of the handicap, or on Meyney Hampton, who ran third.

Other Canadian ticket-holders and the horses for which they were rooting:

Cameron T. Langton, Brantford, Ont., Moon Dust; Ted King, 23, Hamilton, Lusitgue]; James Wixson, Toronto, Laverstroke; Herbert Chubb, Ont. Yodd Islet, B.C., Kilbelin; Abe Nashman Toronto, Silver Gate; Albert Abbott, Preston, Ont. Hyperbole.

Wixson's Laverstroke and King's Lusitgue] were scratched. But both men get $485 for drawing those horses.

Down-channel the 23,000-ton British aircraft carrier Illustrious was pouring oil on raging seas, 30 miles off the Lizard Cornwall, in a bid to save the crippled 627-ton Glasgow steamship Yewpark.

A radio message from the warship said a tug was on her way to take the Yewpark in tow.

Lifeboat stations were placed on the alert through the British coast, although in some places seas were so heavy lifeboats were unable to go out.

Off Holyhead, northwest Wales the crew of, one coastal vessel, the 700-ton Mayflower, had to be taken off by a rocket-fired line.

Trains on the main London-Penzance line were diverted after foundations of the track had been washed away near Dawlish, Devonshire.

Householders had to be evacuated from waterside district in Scotland. Two railroad lines on the border were blocked as a result of the overnight storm, and the main east coast line from Edinburgh to London was closed for 4 1-3 hours.

Storm havoc on the continent also was reported.

Eight sailors were drowned in the storm which has raged off the Breton coast for three days. Three more were lost when a tug was in collision with a banana ship off Cape Janet, near Marseille.

9th Anti-Tank Takes Lead In Darts League

The 9th Anti Tank Regiment darts team swept into the lead of the Belleville Service Darts League by virtue of their 7-0 win over Brewers' Warehouse in the games played this week.

In the other matches, the ANAF Veterans took the measure of the CNR Veterans by a 6-5 score while the Follwell Supply darties turned back the Hasty Pees team by a similar count.

Indicative of the even distribution of strength of the six teams is the fact that eight of the nine games played thus far this season have resulted in 6-5 scores.

The league is still closely bunched with only three points separating the leading Anti Tankers from the cellar-dwelling Brewers' Warehouse team.

The standing to date: 9th Anti Tank Regt., 18 points; H. and P. E. Regt., 17; ANAF Veterans, 17; Follwell's Supply, 17; CNR Veterans, 15; and Brewers' Warehouse, 15.

AVERT STOPPAGE OF MILK DELIVERY IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Oct. 26 — (AP)— Stoppage of milk deliveries to 11,000,000 consumers in the metropolitan New York area was averted early by tentative settlement of a threatened strike of 15,000 milk drivers and handlers.

The settlement requires ratification by five locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (A.F.L.) It provides a pension and welfare plan financed by employer contributions of 10 cents an hour a man. This had been demanded by the Union.

Doctor Opens $150,000 Hospital

Toronto, Oct. 26. (CP) —A doctor said today he is opening a $150,000 hospital because of the difficulty of obtaining beds for his patients in Toronto hospitals.

Dr. M. S. K. Rudd said the situation was so bad he found he must either build the hospital, retire from the profession, or start a new practice outside the city.

"I'm only 48, and fortunately fairly well-to-do," he said.

Dr. Rudd said he has purchased a house, which was once used as a nursing home, for the project.

National Hockey Loop Race Tightens; New York Rangers Vacate Cellar With First Win

By VIC MORRIS, JR.
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York Rangers came up off the floor to nudge themselves out of the National Hockey League cellar for the first time this season on the strength of a one-goal victory over their former last-place partners, Chicago Black Hawks.

The fiery blue shirts were forced to come from behind a first period one-goal deficit to eke out a 2-1 triumph over Black Hawks in the only scheduled league fixture Tuesday night. The New Yorkers with four points made up of one victory and two stalemates got a chance to overtake the Montrealers tonight when they clash with Rangers at New York in the only scheduled league game.

Duel Affair

Tuesday night's Ranger-Black Hawk game was a duel affair before 15,618 fans who turned out to see the 1949-50 edition of the Bowker muffin boys in action.

Edgar Laprade settled the outcome of the contest at 10.39 of the third period.

Hawks had taken the lead at 7:19 of the opening session when Metro Prystai sank a goal on a pass from Bep Guidolin while New York was shorthanded due to a high-sticking penalty on Dave Fisher. Both referee and linesmen were in real contention as Alex Kaleta took it up for New York at 8:38 of the second period. He carried the puck into Chicago ice and Gus Kyle set him up on a brilliant passing play seconds later.

Toronto Maple Leafs will be strengthened for their Thursday night game against Montreal with the return of Harry Watson and Gus Mortson. Their only player sheltered by Bob Dawes, who will be sidelined possibly for another week with a knee injury.

Montreal Canadiens received the good news Tuesday night that rugged Kenny Reardon "will likely be back in harness" in time for Thursday night. The star defenceman suffered a severe Charley horse at Boston last Sunday night and, at first, was reported to be out for ten days

Teepees Take Barrie Flyers By 5-2 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

Barrie Flyers, last year's Ontario Hockey Association junior A champions, lost a chance to get out in front of the rest of the O. H. A. pack when they were defeated 5-2 last night by St. Catharines Teepees. Flyers still share the top slot with Toronto Marlboros, idle last night.

Teepees meanwhile, used Tuesday night's game to climb into third place in the loop. They have eightpoints, one point behind the Barrie and Toronto clubs.

In other O. H. A. games Galt Black Hawks, in a home game, defeated Oshawa Generals 5-3; Toronto Senior Marlboros, at Hamilton, defeated the Tigers 6-3 and in Owen Sound, senior Owen Sound Mercuries pleased home fans by whipping the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen 3-1.

Close and even checking in the St. Catharines game forced a scoreless first period and Teepees went ahead on two fast second-period goals. Barrie cut the lead with a fast goal, but Teepees allied in from the opening of the third frame to outscore the Flyers 3-1.

Obie O'Brien scored twice for Teepees with Norm Corcoran, Ted Sullivan and Jack McIntyre each adding a goal. Red McCarthy scored both Barrie goals.

In the other junior A tilt, Galt Black Hawks defeated Oshawa Generals to gain their third successive win after dropping their first four starts. The Generals opened the scoring, but lost out 5-1 by the end of the first frame. The motor city squad split a pair of goals in the second period but were outscored again 3-1 in the final session.

Marlies Lengthen Lead

Toronto Senior Marlboros, on their trip to Hamilton, lengthened their lead in the circuit.

Art Childs, in the Bengal nets, lacked defensive support and was nicked for three goals in the first frame while his jeans-mates added two. Dukes controlled second-period play to bang home two unanswered goals and split a pair of tallies in the third frame.

Scotty Muir was the Duke's strong man with two goals and Bob Hazzard, Chuck Blair, Al Buchanan and Bill Johnson each scored once. Clare Shillington, Murray Condon and Paul Micolinovich were the Hamilton marksmen.

Owen Sounders saw the Mercs clinch second place in the senior loop at the expense of the Kitchener-Waterloo squad.

Bev Bentley, in the Dutchmen nets was a strong factor to keep the Mercs scoreless in the first frame, but the Owen Sounders broke down his barricade early in the first frame and pressed their attack to sink another two tallies before the end of the period. Third period featured close-checking hockey and the only goal of the session, by Mickey Roth, robbed Bobby Gillson, Merc goalie, of a shutout.

Pat McCreary, Bill Allun and Doug Gillespie scored for Owen Sound.

Hull Volants, Ottawa R.C.A.F. Teams on Top

Ottawa, Oct. 26 — (CP)—Hull Volants and Ottawa RCAF vaulted into joint leadership of the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League Tuesday night as each chalked up a victory in a league doubleheader.

Volants sent Cornwall Calumets skidding from the top rung of the standings, edging out a 3-2 victory in the final game, while the airmen trounced Ottawa Army 6-2 in the opener. Both games were worth four points in the league standings due to an unbalanced schedule scoring system.

Hugh Campbell paced the Airmen with a brace of goals, while Ab Renaud, Ted Ribberd, Tony Licari, Stan Rooke and Tom Moore tallied singletons. Army marksmen were Hawley Tressider and Johnny Gagnon.

Charley Blaylock banged home the winning goal for Hull midway through the final period to help with Gus Lebrun and Bob Digour each scoring in the second period. Cornwall marksmen were Bert Lilly and Fred Gardner.

BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

There were no changes in the top National Hockey League scoring positions as a result of Tuesday night's New York-Chicago clash, the only scheduled game. But Metro Prystai of Chicago Black Hawks stepped up a notch from a seven-way tie for third place to a three-way split for the runner-up honors. His first-period goal gave him five points, along with Toronto's Sid Smith and Jackie Hamilton, Detroit's Pelrson, Ted Lindsay, Detroit, and Paul Ronty, Boston, continue to lead the scoring parade, each with three goals and three assists for a six-point total.

The Leaders:	G.	A.	Pts.

Belleville Boy Scores Two as Galt Wins 5-3

Galt, Oct. 25 — (CP) — Galt Black Hawks registered their third successive victory in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series Tuesday night defeating Oshawa Generals 5-3. It was the first meeting of the season for the two clubs.

The Gens used their advantage in size and weight, drawing 11 of the 16 penalties.

Oshawa opened the scoring at 9.21 when Ted O'Connor tried to block a pass in front of the goal mouth and the puck was deflected off Ken Simm's leg and into the net.

The Hawks came back in the last two minutes of play to gain two counters. Jack Green outskated the General's defence and Hawk Brosseau, combining with Don Hall and Gord Warner to outguess Gord Sommerville.

Under fire, Bob Shropshire, Oshawa goalie, lost his temper and was given a penalty for interference on Ken Green, Samobroke serving it. Then on the next play Green got a penalty for roughing on the net, he took a poke at the Hawk.

Oshawa was able to tie it up at 9:30 of the third frame on sloppy ice clearing by the Galt defence. Lou Jankowski tallying on Ted O'Connor's assist. At the 10-minute mark, Galt again took the lead with Jack Gumley batting in Ford's goal in 2.40. It was a hectic third period and Galt settled the issue at 12:30 when Jack Green on a breakaway circled the Oshawa defence to go right in on the Oshawa goal.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 26. —(AP)— One reason why Branch Rickey is the acknowledged No. 1 man in baseball trading is that nearly every time he peddles some surplus Brooklyn talent to another major-league club, the deal calls for a "messenger" to bring the money back ... Recent dickers have brought such players as Johnny Simmons, Bobby Shawn, Jack Dempsey Cassidy, Don Thompson and Bill McCahan in the Dodger organization ... Bill was ready to know what becomes of the messengers, look at the 1946 Rickey sold Monte Basgall to Pittsburgh for $60,000 and Jimmy Bloodworth; the next year Rickey went to Cincinnati for $40,000 and money-later Kermit Wahl ... recently Wahl was whipped in the Athletics for $25,000 and McCahan ... Bill was a right-handed pitcher for the A's a couple of years ago, and if he gets over his arm trouble, Rickey certainly will get some dough for him.

Sports Before Your Eyes

New York hockey writers will throw a party tonight in honor of retiring Kerr Petrie, who has been around as long as they've been playing the game here ...

Nine of 10 players picked for the International Baseball League all-star team this summer to are advancing to the majors. The 10th, Jersey City's Pete Pavlic, may be drafted ... in a boxing bout at New Britain, Conn., the other night Danny Carabella belled Aron Joshua with a left hook. Aron's artillery locks flew right off his head and Joshua lost the fight trying to adjust his wig with gloved hands ... naturally fans said it was the most hair-raising scrap of the season.

White Plains, N.Y.—Pete Kennedy, 149 1-2, New York, outpointed Billy Wyatt, 153, Trenton, N.J. (8).

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

HOCKEY AHOY

Throw away those football cleats, press those tennis rackets, yank the baseball gear in mothballs and clear the decks for King Hockey.

For the season of winter sport is just around the corner and if sufficient of "young guys and gals" keep your fingers crossed, practice every night and pray—well, who knows, you might be chasing the elusive puck, or drifting around in figure eights before another Christmas dawns.

Yup, the old familiar roar of the hockey crowd, the blazing sibilance of steel on ice and the thump of bodily contact may be nearer than you think.

Artificial ice-making preparations are being rushed in Memorial Arena and all efforts are being made to have ice in the arena by Friday night. More finger-crossing at this point, kiddies, for the above is no promise. However, it is a distinct possibility, one that should materialize, if nothing else happens.

The Arena is a hive of activity these days. Washing of the new plastic floor was completed either last night or this morning then a squad of painters went into action. It is expected that actual ice-making will start as soon as the paint is dry.

And hockey fans and other clientelle of the arena are due for another surprise when they see the new job of work recently completed on the old girl's innards.

Large airy passageways now replace the room that was formerly occupied by the director's room and storage space under the west side tier of seats. Easily twelve feet wide they will provide plenty of moving space for large crowds.

South of the exit entrance immediately below the radio booth a large refreshment canteen has been constructed. This connects with the passageway mentioned above which starts from the public skating dressing room to the right of the main entrance. The former refreshment canteen to the left of the main entrance will also be in use. Both will be under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wm. and Mrs. Pooper.

The construction of the new passageway and refreshment booth will not only alleviate crowd pressure on the front canteen, but also provide for better exit facilities in case of fire. Aiding in this also, are two stairways built to ease patron entry to the passageway from the seats on the west side of the arena.

Hockey teams have not been forgotten and new four room dressing rooms complete with showers, etc., are available. Gone is the old congestion when players of two teams and referees, one scrambled for official space and fell over one another, and scrambled for official space and fell over one another, and scrambled for official space and hockey equipment. Each dressing room will be used for one team only during a game, or practice.

While this is being read, the Napanee Athletics International championship of Eastern Ontario are likely locked in bitter baseball battle with the western Ontario champions from Wallaceburg. A large number of baseball fans will be at city stadium in Gibbsville to see the contest, the first of a two-of-three series for the provincial title.

Tomorrow afternoon also in Gibbsville, the Shalleer Lake-Napanee and "Ex" Junior "O" teams play their provincial title feud. It is the payoff playoff with each team having won a game. Napanee took the first tilt in a pitching thriller, but the Lakers came back with a devastating batting attack to swamp the Lions 23-0 in the second game.

'Tis said that the frosty winds blow and the icicles dripping from the eaves, Shalleer Lake reckons in the second game of the playoff. Whatever it was, it definitely was not championship baseball, and somewhere there should be a law. However the battle moves down to Napanee tomorrow and barring mishaps we down the line should be assured of a thriller. Both were weather it should be another spectacle like that which featured the Trenton-Napanee Junior "O" baseball feud between these same old teams.

Johnny Nemeth, erstwhile netball star of Hamilton who made a lot of friends in this city during his brief tenure as a representative of the Peller Brewing Company, has been transferred back to his old haunting grounds in the Ambitious City. Johnny, a grand sportsman and a brilliant athlete in his heyday right, was instrumental in securing the Peller Trophy which will be awarded annually to the "most valuable player" in the City Commercial Softball League. His place in the district has been taken by Vic Simmons, of Whitby, a former boxer, who fought many fights in this city years ago. Vic is a likeable fellow and, like his predecessor, Johnny, will make a lot of friends hereabouts.

Toronto Negroes Score Victories In London Ring

(By The Canadian Press)

Two Toronto Negroes scored decisive victories in heavyweight bouts at Earl's Court Stadium in London Tuesday night. Earl Walls flattened Jersey Kurt Schlegi in 2:07 of the first round and Vern Kecso scored a one-sided points victory over George Rogiers of Belgium in a 10-round affair.

Immediately following the contest, manager Harry Levine, on behalf of Walls, offered a challenge at £1,000 ($3,100) a side to Bruce Woodcock, British Empire heavyweight champion.

Walls scored a classic victory over the giant Austrian Tuesday night. In the first 30 seconds he had Schlegi bleeding heavily from a cut over the left eye.

Schlegi then scored one good left to the head but Walls stalked his man, measured with his left and landed a whiplash right that sent Schlegi to the floor with a crash that shook the 4,000 fans.

Walls, at 198 1-4, had given 16 1-4 pounds to Schlegi.

Kecso scored points almost at will against his inexperienced opponent. He never could muster enough power to flatten the pudgy, blonde Belgian, who outweighed him by 13 pounds. Kecso scaled 181 1-2.

Just as the Saskatchewan Roughrider team is closing in on the league-leading Calgary Stampeders in the Western Interprovincial Football Union standings, Rider players are converging on Stamps' Vern Graham, leader in the individual scoring race.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press at Winnipeg show Graham has totalled 54 points, but Riders' Sammy Pierce and Del Wardien each picked up seven points in the last week on the Calgary flying wing. They now are only nine points off his pace. Two other Riders—Ken Charlton and Ted Elston—follow.

Pierce and Wardien each garnered 10 points during the Saturday-Monday games while Graham was collecting only three.

Jack Kramer defeated Richard (Pancho) Gonzales 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 at New York's Madison Square Garden Tuesday night in a tennis match that launched the professional career of the California-born Mexican who succeeded Kramer as National amateur champ.

Gonzales was clearly the favorite with the crowd of 13,337 but the 21-year-old husky from the public courts of Los Angeles lacked the all-round game to cope with the court-wise Kramer—at least in their initial meeting.

In the preliminary two-out-of-three match, Francisco (Pancho) Segura, the transplanted Ecuadorian, spoiled the professional debut of Frankie Parker of Los Angeles 6-3, 6-4.

In his first move since getting a vote of confidence for 1950, Manager Jack Onslow of Chicago White Sox Tuesday released coach Edmund (Bing) Miller, 55, who was with the club since 1942.

Miller, former star outfielder with Philadelphia Athletics, joined the Sox as a coach under Jimmy Dykes, who preceded Ted Lyons and Onslow at the pale house helm.

At Cincinnati, Joey Maxim of Cleveland, 163 1-4, scored a technical knockout over Joe Kahut, 182, Portland, Ore., Tuesday night when the City Boxing Commission doctor refused to allow the former to answer the bell for the fifth round.

Dr. Walter Phillips stopped the bout after Kahut had suffered a cut over his left temple. Between rounds Kahut's seconds were unable to stop what the physician called a "a temporal hemorrhage."

Maxim, the National Boxing Association American light heavyweight champion, was razor sharp in the over-the-weight fight.

Trenton High School senior gridders avenged a setback suffered at Belleville last week when they defeated Tuesday at Trenton the Belleville Albert College 11-2 in a Bay of Quinte district rugby Ontario secondary schools game. Feature of the game was an 80-yard run for a touchdown by Bob Campney.

Trenton Defeats Albert College By 11-2 Score

Trenton, Oct. 26. — Trenton High School seniors gained revenge for a previous setback suffered in Belleville last week when they handed Albert College an 11-2 set-back in a Bay of Quinte District COSSA football game here.

Albert College took a 2-0 lead in the first quarter on two kicks to the deadline by Don Slater.

Trenton went into the lead in the second quarter after Jim Longhurst blocked an Albert College field goal attempt. Bob Campney picked up the loose ball and evaded Albert tacklers on a brilliant 80-yard touchdown run. Pete Brown converted from placement to make it 6-2.

Trenton moved further ahead in the third quarter when Paul Mueller plunged over from seven yards out after two passes had moved play deep into Albert territory. The convert failed.

There was no further scoring, although Albert threatened late in the final quarter when a poor Trenton kick gave them the ball on the Trenton 18. However, the Trenton front wall stiffened and held Albert short of the necessary yards.

Two Women Open Coffee Shop in Gold Rush Town

Fishwheel, Alaska, Oct., 28.—(AP)—Two women and a coffee shop seem to be the ideal setup for a gold-happy community.

This booming tent town, extending for nine miles along both sides of the Yukon River, blinked today at the arrival of the women.

A week ago the town was non-existent. Then came the gold rush. Now Fishwheel covers more territory than Fairbanks, metropolis of North Central Alaska.

One of the women is Evelyn Grinnell, the wife of a Fort Yukon trapper. She set up a coffee shop in her tent—equipped only with a Yukon stove, coffeepot, a box of cups, doughnuts and some sandwiches.

Evelyn is doing a thriving business.

Coffee—25 cents a cup. Coffee with doughnuts or sandwiches—50 cents.

The other woman is the wife of a Fort Yukon native.

The first showing of gold was made 12 days ago by Clifton Carroll who spotted pea-sized nuggets in the muck of his fish-wheel axle.

Colors have been found consistently along a two mile stretch of river shore adjoining Carroll's claim. A few nuggets also have been found.

Colors are minute flecks of flake gold, commercially worthless but often indicative of more gold somewhere nearby.

Coffee Shortage Soon May Exist Says Association

Selgney Club, Montevello, Que., Oct. 26 — (CP) — Your favorite morning cup of coffee soon may be more expensive — and harder to obtain.

That was the warning given to the Tea and Coffee Association of Canada Tuesday by Dr. Antonia Garcia De Miranda Netto, commercial attache at the Brazilian Embassy in Ottawa. He said a world shortage of coffee soon may exist.

In an address before delegates to the Association's annual convention, Dr. Netto said stockpiles of coffee are almost exhausted. Coffee prices already are high because the world now is drinking more of the beverage than it is producing.

"Up until the present there has been no shortage because of the vast reserves held in Brazil and to a much smaller degree in some of the coffee producing areas," said Dr. Netto. "However, the last of these stocks is slated to disappear by June of next year, and it is not much doubted that from then onward a shortage will develop between production and consumption."

'Sort of Coney Is. Culture' Growing Says Dr. McNeill

Kingston, Oct. 26—(CP)—Dr. W. E. McNeill, vice-principal emeritus of Queen's University, said Tuesday night "a sort of Coney Island culture" is developing these days.

He "not-only cares nothing for artistic standards but definitely flouts them," he said at the 57th annual convocation of Queen's Theological Association. His was the second of four lectures on "The King's English."

Dr. McNeill blamed the sensationalism of some newspapers, the "levelling down of taste" in radio programs and "the essentially tarnishing effect" of poor motion pictures.

These were "new voices whose power to destroy great speech is greater than their power to preserve."

Dr. McNeill also criticized modern usage. He tendency to award vagueness and "dehumanizing" is "repelling", he said.

"DEFENDERS" SAVE NEW YORK

R.C.A.F. reserve and U. S. National Guard airmen punched out a clear-cut victory against "enemy" air raiders, bent on the total destruction of New York in a mock attack on the city by B-26 bombers. Not one air "bandit" was allowed to reach the outer perimeter of New York. Guardsmen are shown busily placing markers on the operations board showing the location of attacking bombers and intercepting aircraft. Eight Canadian jet Vampires were among the defenders.—Central Press Canadian.

Strike Reaching Every American Home, Factory

New York, Oct. 26 — (AP)— Effects of the four-week steel strike now are reaching every American home, office and factory, Iron Age says today.

The strike is "even threatening the success of America's cold war with the Soviet," the National Metalworking Weekly says.

Asserting that the strike already has cost the country 5,500,000 tons of steel, the Iron Age says the many steel using plants throughout the country that have shut down will not be able to start up as soon as the strike ends. Reopening will hinge on replacing items on short supply.

"If the strike ends today," it added, "auto plants would still have to shut down at some future date to build their steel inventories up to a proper operating level."

Hollywood, Oct. 26 (AP)— British hat makers can expect little help from Hollywood stars in a campaign to make men more hat-conscious.

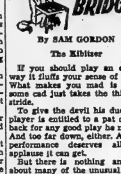
A recent dispatch from London reported that lidless teen-agers are alarming the hat manufacturers. The Britons asked film stars, as arbiters of fashion, to help popularize the wearing of hats.

The AP Hollywood forum selected a cross-section of Hollywood men to answer the question: "How do you feel about wearing hats?"

Burt Lancaster—"I never wear 'em, but I'm not prejudiced against men who do."

Dick Powell—"I'm not a hat man, I think you'll find that men in California, in Florida or Hawaii seldom wear hats because the climate doesn't call for them."

Robert Cummings—"I own 15 hats, but they are primarily to wear in pictures. I never put one on outside the studio. I will own one when I'm in New York, but I generally lose it."



Lee Bowman—"I wear a hat all the time. I got in the habit when living in the east. I think a man looks smarter in a hat than bareheaded."

Humphrey Bogart—"I've got a houseful of hats that I never use. I always buy one in New York, then bring it home and forget about it."

Charles Coburn—"Certainly I wear a hat, at least in the winter. I like to see people dressed up. Men used to wear hats to match their outfits, the same as women do. It is sad to see the people becoming so informal in their dress."

Melvyn Douglas—"I just use a hat for disguise. And only when I'm in New York. I pull it far down over my face and think I'm getting by undetected."

Edgar Bergen—"I'm in favor of hats, although I deplore the trend toward crushed hats with snap brims; they make a person look like a racetrack tout. What has become of the derby, the top hat and the homburg? They add class to a man. Of course, in my case it's well to wear a hat; otherwise I might be arrested for indecent exposure."

The Kibitzer

If you should play an expert way it fluffs your sense of pride. What makes you mad is when some guy just lucks into a thing in stride.

To give the devil his due, any player is entitled to a pat on the back for any good play he makes. And the less fun down, either. A good performance deserves all the applause it can get.

But there's nothing amazing about many of the unusual plays made by experts. Most of them are simply a matter of routine. They are the result of well laid plans to fit the situation.

Adept players have learned the several methods for overcoming dangerous situations. Like a football player who kicks out of the enemy territory on third or fourth down.

In handling a deal, a clever player first looks to see where the danger lies. He merely applies to the problem he has learned for meeting it. Admirable, yes. But phenomenal, no.

A patzocks is content to try the simplest play. An expert is as skillful with the different maneuvers. With a choice he does not grasp the easiest. He chooses the safest under the circumstances.

Having laid a plan, he knows what to look for in the fall of the cards. It tells him whether his selection has a chance for success. If unfavorable, he resorts to what's left.

South was declarer at six notrump in this deal:

NORTH
♥K J 9 3
♦A K Q 5

WEST
♠Q 7 10 7
♥Q 6
♣K J 8 4

EAST
♠8 5 4
♥7 5 4 2
♦10 9 8

SOUTH
♠K 9 2
♥A 10
♦J 7 2
♣A Q 5 3 2

The opening lead from west was spade queen. Known loser is in the third round of spades. A possible loser is in clubs. He must save one of them and calls on his knowledge for the best plan.

The play a beginner will grasp at is an attempt to finesse the south club queen. Not so an experienced player. He will avoid the doubtful finesse in favor of a cinch endplay.

A well laid scheme is on the beam.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle:

Little Benny's Note Book

Yesterday pop sent ma some mixed flowers from the Pocka-doppolo flower store, and ma thawt they came from Horace Entwistle, being the name of an old fellow of ma's before pop, and pop didn't tell her different on account of not wanting to spoil her pleasure, and today when pop came home ma said, You see, William, I was rite.

You're always rite, my dear, and I'm always glad to listen to additional proofs and illustrations, pop said, and ma said, I knew those flowers were from Horace Entwistle because Maud Mews had told me she saw him in town, and this afternoon low and behold I met him myself in person on his way to the station to take the train home.

Has he still got that silly mop of cerly hair? pop said, and ma said, William, he's as bald as a preverbial egg. Compared to Horace Entwistle you have all the ear marks of a long haired musician, and I'm glad to be able to say so, she said.

Is that a nice way to talk after those pritty flowers? pop said, and ma said, Oh, he makes me tired. I thanked him for the flowers, and I told him I knew they were from him even though there was no card with them. Well my dear, imagine how I felt when he acted as if he hadn't the faintest idea of what I was talking about, she said.

The cad, pop said, and ma said, it simply have no time for honest sentiment and then acts ashamed of it.

Of course you threw the flowers out, pop said, and ma said, Well, after all, William, I meen after all, why should I take revendge on innocent flowers.

Meening she didn't.

Youngsters Carry Signs After Pet Dog is Shot

Old City, Pa., Oct. 26 (AP) — Billy Jo Liddle's pet spaniel Queenie was shot to death Monday.

After school yesterday, 10-year-old Billy Joe and 25 of his classmates set up picket lines around the home of A.J. Butler, a neighbor. They had permission from the sheriff.

The youngsters marched back and forth carrying signs reading:

"He killed Queenie" and "Is our pet next"

Billy Jo said the dog was shot after it broke its collar and ran into the neighbor's yard.

Pursued by Driver Highway Patrolman

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 26 (AP) — Herbert Butterbough drove his car at top speed.

He rolled up to the door of a state highway patrol headquarters and ran inside to report that he was being chased by another driver.

He was. By a highway patrolman.

Students Memorial Union, Sumptuous Recreation Hall Will Open at Queen's Sunday

Kingston, Oct. 26. —(CP)—In memory of Queen's University men who fought and died in two world wars, a large recreation hall on the university grounds will be opened officially next Sunday by the Governor-General Vicount Alexander.

The building, to be known as the students Memorial Union replaces a smaller structure destroyed by fire in 1947 shortly before the opening of that year's fall term. It contains a great dining hall where 1,500 meals are served daily to students. It has rooms for reading, study, music, games and debates.

Offices of the Queen's Journal, university newspaper, also are in the Memorial Union. It has a tuckshop, snack bar and lounges for both men and women students.

On the main floor, a special room has been set aside in honor of men of Queen's killed in battle. An archway, a memorial window and war souvenirs, together with seven large paintings presented by the Queen's Alumni Association, recall Queen's contribution during the First and Second World Wars.

194 Killed in First

In the First World War, of the 1,500 Queen's men on active service 194 were killed in action. During the Second World War, 3,000 Queen's students and alumni saw active service and 168 were killed—eight in the navy, 79 in the army and 81 in the air force.

Rev. John Weir Foote, a Queen's graduate who landed at Dieppe in 1942 as a padre with the Canadian forces, was a Second World War Victoria Cross winner.

The Memorial Union was built of Queenston limestone at a cost of $850,000, made possible in part by the current $3,000,000 public subscription campaign for Queen's by donations from graduates and friends. In Gothic design, the building has four storeys and contains 250,000 cubic feet.

Women Admitted

For the first time in the history of Queen's, women students are admitted to the union. Women were barred from the former building by a rule which recalled that Queen's was a men-only institution until 1870 when women were first permitted to take lectures. In 1879, women were allowed to register, thereby making Queen's the first co-educational university in Ontario and Quebec.

Queen's was the first university in Ontario, By Royal charter of Queen Victoria, it was opened in 1841. The Presbyterian Church founded, but it now is interdenominational with no church control. Its colors—red, gold and blue—were adopted from the arms of the University of Edinburgh.

Humble Beginning

From a humble beginning in a rented house with two professors and 10 students, Queen's has grown until now its 33 buildings on the campus on the shore of Lake Ontario are the modern home of a staff of more than 350 and of 2,600 students. Some 1,400 additional students are enrolled in extramural and summer school courses. There are 12,000 living graduates scattered throughout the world.

Apart from the dedication ceremonies, next weekend will be a busy one at Queen's. The Queen's football team plays host to McGill, Rt. Hon. Philip Noel-Baker Minister of Commonwealth Relations in the British cabinet, will be given an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws, Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, United Kingdom High Commissioner to Canada, will visit the university.

FIND RARE MINERAL

New Delhi, —(CP)— Recent Indian geological surveys revealed large deposits of beryl, a mineral used in the manufacture of X-ray apparatus. Only a few other countries produce beryl, the total annual world production being between 1,000 and 2,000 tons.

INDIA FIGHTS MALARIA

New Delhi — (CP) — India's successful fight against malaria was typified by results in Delhi province this summer where incidence of the disease has been only 0.37 per cent — the lowest since anti-malaria operations were started in 1936.

KEEP IN STEP

London—(CP)— Prisoners are to be given a pocket handbook telling them the do's and don'ts of life in jail.

THOMASBURG

Thomasburg— Mr. and Mrs. Raymond French, and children, moved on Monday to their new home east of the village, the home of the late Mrs. Will Shaw which has been occupied for some time by Mr. and Mrs. John Stephen and family. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen moved on Friday to the vacant house of Mr. William Collins on the Moira Road.

Miss Verna Morton, of Toronto, is holidaying at her home here.

Hot Supper

On Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coulter opened their home for the ladies of Christ Church Women's Auxiliary to hold a quilting. In the evening a delicious hot supper was served to about 40 members of the congregation, and their friends. The evening was spent in a social manner. The proceeds of the dinner were very gratifying, and will be added to the treasury. Deep appreciation goes to Mr. and Mrs. Coulter for their kind hospitality.

The Reverend J. W. Flatt of Belleville, and his daughter, of California spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. Melburne Adams.

Relatives from here attended the McNish—Morton wedding at St. Thomas' Church in Belleville on Saturday.

Mrs. John Clarke spent a few days last week with relatives at Bonarlaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sills of Roslin and Mr. and Mrs. Roy McLaren, of Corbyville, visited on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coulter.

Friends of Mrs. Ernest Morton will regret to learn that she has been confined to her home for the past week under the care of Dr. J. H. Bateman of Belleville.

Carmelite Friars Return After Absence of 400 Years

By WILLIAM ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Aylesford, Kent, England, Oct. 26—(CP)—The Carmelite friars return to Aylesford Nov. 1 after an absence of more than 400 years.

For the first time the dissolution of the monasteries, at the time of the reformation, a dispossessed Roman Catholic order is to return to its original home, a 700-year-old monastry.

"The Friars," as the Monastry is known, was founded here in 1241 by Richard Grey, Lord of Codnor. The Carmelites had their beginnings on Mount Carmel in the Holy Land. Later they wandered throughout Europe and finally settled in Aylesford, where their first general council was held.

Called the "White Friars," because of white mantles worn over their dark brown robes, they are well known in England, which historically always has been one of their strongest proginces. At "The Friars" they will instal a new prior, successor to St. Simeon Stock, an Englishman who 700 years ago was elected first prior-general to govern the order in Europe.

Origin Long in Dispute

Origin of the White Friars has long been in dispute. Since 1696 they have been under a papal order of silence on the matter pending a Vatican ruling—which 250 years later still has to come.

One faction held that the order was founded on Mount Carmel by the prophet Elias, that it originally was a Jewish Carmelite Order. The other side claimed the community to have been founded 1,100 years later by Berthold.

Despite the toll of time, the original buildings of "The Friars" remain largely habitable, one of their gems being the 100-foot-long stone refectory.

Purchase price of the buildings an destate has been subscribed by the more than 2,000 Carmelite Friars and several thousand more Nuns throughout the world.

Noting the return of the Order, The Times observed:

"The animosities, political and ecclastastical, which sent them into exile in 1538 have long since been allayed; and many of their countrymen who are not of their faith will rejoice to welcome the White Friars home."

ASKS PRICES PROBE

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

His wery phrasing of it seemed tragically, to break the spell.

Lillian's manner changed. It was as if the play was over and she had to go from the theatre into a cold rainy street again. They rode in silence for a block or two and their horses were content each to walk in the other's walk. Dal glanced at her again and again. The droop of unhappiness was unmistakable, first once more.

He tried valiantly to ignore it, thinking she would respond if he kept up the high spirits. And she did try to respond—tried so obviously that it became artificial. When they had turned up from the depot and were nearing North Marshall street again both were talking in that forced politeness which had characterized them downtown of late. It wasn't a thing to see or tie to in any way; it was simply a restraint, a reproof but strong. Lillian's lips were a little taut in truth, she wanted to cry. Slowly could she explain to Dal Tower that this was a stolen morning, a time that they should never see at first hand coming over . . . but she don't go, don't go, Don't be like that!"

Jason was several yards from the Derrick and his workmen when he paused in front of the crowd. Solemnly he removed his hat and addressed them.

"Gentlemen and ladies," he began, "it ain't gonna be no excitement, and we 'preciates you all just turnin' up anyhow, thank you suhs. This Mr. Dan Mayfield's gonna climb up there for glory, but Miss Millie she don' like no ugly things her oneself. We gonna make it all safe, that's all."

People were grinning, highly amused. Dal and Thad and Lillian, however, were more serious-ly concerned. They listened some what anxiously to Jason.

All at once the old negro closed his mouth and set solemn face to heaven.

"Good lawd," he resumed then, in surprising prayer, "I has to 'splain this to you too, suh, 'cause you knows it's Sunday, the ollest day in the week when it ain't no weirdness here and so this the ollest chance we gits. I makes these niggers rest two whole days to make up for working on a Sunday, and I rests two days my ownself. Thank you suh, amen."

With that astonishing cleansing of his conscience, Jason Weems turned and hobbled back to his task. He had completely stymied his audience. Nobody quite knew if interfere with him. Dal and Thad looked at Lillian and at each other; she shook her head in warning, but said, "Baby blue: The standiest things do happen."

They could only wait near the crowd while the negroes worked. The under-current of levity was swelling and again there when they saw the negroes begin covering the pile of oil pipe in order to paint all of it. It was long lengths of iron, six inches in diameter and dangerously heavy.

"Lizzy," one negro called, "you knows how to handle that gasoline engine, Mr. Weems. I been watching all over the oil fields. You takes that steel rope what runs up to the top of the derrick and—"

Jason assumed charge of that, too. He knew about it, and he really, but this couldn't be admitted. With his own hands he was fitting the cable loop into a pipe. A moment later, straddling it for added pull and leverage, he signalled the impromptu engineer to take up slack.

"Run yo' engine a little," Jason called. "Run it!"

Nobody quite understood what happened, but the crowd here was suddenly transfixed with horror.

Black Jason was dangling at the end of a steel cable 30 feet up the derrick, and was still holding lifted as the gasoline winch throbbed.

Jason let out a terrorized scream.

For an ageless instant some 400 people just stood there as if frozen. A moment ago they were relaxed in easy Sunday afternoon amusement, watching an eccentric, harmless old negro man do a peculiar thing. Then all at once that same old negro was in critical danger.

Jason's clothing had somehow been hooked by the steel cable

Samaritan Relic Shades New Light in Ancient Sect

By ERIC GOTTGETREU

Jerusalem, Oct. 25 — (AP) — The archaeological remains of the Israel-Jewish sect of Pro. Eliezer Sukenik of the Jerusalem Hebrew University. The find was made near the village of Salbit between the Judean mountains and the Mediterranean coast.

On the newly-drawn political map of Palestine, Salbit is situated near the borderline of Israel and Arab-held territory, just as the last Samaritans in Palestine today constitute a sort of racial and religious borderline.

The tiny synagogue, built in the fourth century A.D., contains a mosaic floor with Biblical quotations in Samaritan Hebrew-script and in Greek, Prof. Sukenik said.

Inlaid in the floor also is a seven-branched Jewish candlestick flanking a mountain probably Mount Gerizim on the top of which the Samaritans are supposed to have built their holy temple 2,500 years ago.

The Salbit synagogue, orientated toward Mount Gerizim, is the first discovered of archaeological proof for the great historic past of this ancient sect not of Israelite origin but of a very orthodox Hebrew faith.

The first pointers which led to the important discovery in the Salbit area near Latrun (the Biblical village of Ajjalon) came from Israeli soldiers who fought one of the bigger battles of the Arab-Jewish war there.

Although the war is not officially over and Arab legion troops of King Abdullah's Hashemite Arab army facing Jewish guards near the historic site, the present armistice, honored by all concerned has allowed digging to be carried out.

Under Prof. Sukenik's direction, Hebrew University archaeologous in the Holy Land have just been excavating on Prof. Eliezer Sukenik of the Jerusalem Hebrew University. The find was made near the village of Salbit between the Judean mountains and the Mediterranean coast.

and when people discovered it was a spinning crazily 30 feet high. Off to one side a motor was belching chuff-chuff-chuffs. From the mass of gears and drums and wheels a steel line as big as a man's finger extended taut up to the top of the derrick, 120 feet. There the cable went through a pulley and stretched down inside the derrick, suspending Jason like a human pendulum, lifting him slowly, tortuously. He flailed his arms and legs wildly when he lifted. He tried to reach up and catch the cable in a hand but lacked the strength.

His head and shoulders edged downward from the point of suspension. His hat dropped. His coat flopped over to conceal his head entirely and frighten them still further.

He screamed in unearthly terror. That seemed to jar the others: negroes into some sort of action. The man in the engine, just discovering Jason's plight, cried piteously in his own right—"Mister Weems! Mister Weems!"—but he lacked presence of mind to see that he caused the engine to stall until a second negro ran to him.

This second negro grabbed a lever, Scree-e-e-e! The engine gears screeched hellishly. Wheels braked to a jolting stop, reversed and started turning again.

"Look out! Look out! Oh lawdy Mr. Weems!" The first negro engineer saw the seconds ones' action, and this brought him to life. He sprung wildly at the same lever.

PRIME MINISTER ISSUES CALL FOR 'ADVENTURE'

Free Enterprise and Free Society Must Again Become Militant

Montreal, Oct. 27. —(CP) — Canadian businessmen have a call to "adventure" in their enterprises, given to them Wednesday night by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Addressing the annual dinner of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, he declared:

"For our own lasting security and prosperity, for the defence of the system of free enterprise which has given the people of this continent the highest standard of living the world has ever seen, it is essential for us, both the United States and Canada, to carry our initiative and our enterprise, our readiness to adventure, our 'know-how' and skill, all around the world.

"Militant Communism and other ideologies will never be overcome by retreat and withdrawal and isolation. Free institutions, free enterprise and a free society must once again become militant; even as communism has become militant.

"Freedom should be the leading export of this North American continent.

"But freedom will find a market in other countries only to the extent that free institutions appear to those other countries to offer to the millions, and hundreds of millions, of men and women who live there, opportunities and aids to secure for themselves and their families adequate measure of the material things without which life itself is not possible."

Lady Godiva's Statue Fenced in To Save Grass

Coventry, England, Oct. 27. —(AP)—They've had to put a fence around Lady Godiva's statue. It's to keep the hippies from pawing.

A statue showing the lady, clad only in her tresses and aiding side saddle on a horse, was unveiled last Saturday by Mrs. Lewis Douglas, wife of the United States Ambassador.

Almost at once crowds wanting a closer look began trampling over the surrounding turf. City officials put up a three-foot iron barricade Wednesday to save the grass.

Godiva rode forth in the nude, legend says, some 900 years ago to shame her husband, the lord of the town, into giving tax relief to the people. The townspeople vowed to let the lady pass unseen. But one man looked and was struck blind. His errant ways gave birth to the term peeping tom.

OPPOSITION SEEKS CLOSER LOOK AT EXPENDITURES

Advocates Committee To Consider Estimates

Ottawa, Oct. 27 — (CP) — The opposition wants to get a closer look at government expenditures.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, suggested in the commons on Wednesday that less sessions could be shortened considerably if a special committee was established to consider the estimates of departments, of various departments.

The committee plad, said Mr. Drew, would allow members to scrutinize government expenditures item-by-item and at the same time keep sessions reasonably short. He warned that unless sessions of parliament—now averaging five and six months a year — were shortened, it would be difficult to obtain candidates for public office.

Finance Minister Abbott said the government would study the suggestion and probably report its opinion at the next session of parliament. He will note that with the co-operation of all members a suitable solution would be found for dealing with estimates.

The lengthy committee work has developed mainly in the government asked for, and received, a vote of $114,580,000 to cover its expenditures for the next month. The amount is about one-twelfth of the 1949-50 estimates.

Two Gold Hunters Believe Fishwheel Not Gold Country

Anchorage, Alaska, Oct. 27 — (AP) — Several would-be prospectors returned today from what they called that Fishwheel, the booming tent community on the Yukon flats near the Arctic Circle, is not gold country.

"Amateurs and professionals are pretty well convinced, but they're afraid to leave for fear they'll miss something," Bill Lund, Alaska airlines pilot, said on his return to Anchorage.

Lund, with Robert Stevenson, went to the Yukon flats camp over the weekend and came up with two of the few nuggets he said had been found at the camp.

He said the pilots showed the nuggets to a prospector.

"Lord, he exclaimed, the news to everyone in sight. They grabbed their packs and took off in every direction. Even the old-timers got excited.

Lund added that the value of the gold he panned, Lund shrugged.

"It's worth about 50 cents, I guess. It is surface gold, but I can't imagine where it came from. There's no gold in the creek rocks (small flakes of gold) such as you might find anywhere. But I didn't see any nuggets besides my own and Carroll's."

Clifton Carroll started the stampede when he found nuggets in the size of wheat grains in a muck on the axle of his fishwheel, after which the boomtown has been named. That was two weeks ago.

Diefenbaker Urges Increased Research Facilities be Made Available to the Opposition

Toronto, Oct. 27—(CP)—John sition should have outstanding research trained experts to assist it, paid for by the state."

In a comprehensive review of the role of an opposition in a democratic form of government, Mr. Diefenbaker listed the following functions of an opposition:

"1. It is a day-to-day influence which has a marked and cumulative effect on government policies.

"2. In essence it assures the maintenance of freedom for freedom always dies when criticism ends.

"3. It upholds and maintains the right of minorities against majorities. It should be vigilant against oppression and unjust invasions by the cabinet of the rights of the people.

"4. It finder fault. It suggests amendments; it keeps one political party from becoming infallible for every government is influenced by its opposition.

Big Five, Canada Report No Agreement on World Control of Atomic Energy

Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 27— (CP) — The Big Five powers and Canada reported today they have been unable to reach any agreement for international control of atomic energy.

The six powers indicated in a summary record of 10 secret meetings held during the last three months they will continue the talks attempting to break the East-West atomic deadlock.

Britain, United States, France, China and Canada made their views known to the United Nations concerning methods and aims.

Security Comes First

"All of the sponsoring powers other than the U.S.S.R. put world security first" the five Western Powers said in the 25-page analysis released simultaneously with the six-power report.

The Western Powers said they are ready to accept changes in "traditional concepts of international law and national sovereignty, and economic organization where these are necessary for security."

Russia, they added, "puts its security first and is unwilling to accept measures which may limit its sovereignty or weaken its rigid exercise of unimpeded state sovereignty."

"Any fundamental difference could be overcome, other differences which have hitherto appeared unsurmountable—could be seen, in true perspective, and reasonable solutions might be found for their adjustment" the five Western Powers said.

The six-power report goes to the 59-member General Assembly where a full-dress debate on the problem of international control of atomic energy and disarmament is expected. Example would be stated to start this week. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton represented Canada in the secret discussions.

The Western Powers, in their statement during the talks and in their analysis, expressed continued support of the control plan approved last year by the U.N. Assembly.

The majority plan calls for setting up an international agency

4-Power Plan Might Forestall Any Possible Move by Satellites

Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 27. —(CP)—A Canadian proposal to bring peace to Greece by cutting off aid to Greek rebels was rejected today by United Nations today.

If the plan is carried out, it might also have the effect of forestalling any possible attacks on anti-Communist Yugoslavia by Soviet satellites Albania, Bulgaria and Rumania.

The resolution presented to the U.N. political committee by Britain, France, the United States and China, called on all countries to keep arms or other war materials from Greek rebels and that Bulgaria until it has been determined that they have quit aiding the Greek guerrillas.

There were widely-published reports last fall that Tito was aiding guerrillas —their cause lost — were being supplied from Greece to countries surrounding Yugoslavia, as part of Soviet subversive activities against Yugoslavia Marshal Tito.

Outright condemnation of Albania, Bulgaria and Romania is asked in the resolution because of the aid and support the three Soviet satellites—which are not members of the U.N.— to the Greek guerrillas. Yugoslavia is believed to have stopped supplying the guerrilla whose leaders sided with the Russian-led cominform.

LIKELY TO REMAIN DRY

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 27. (CP) Dundas township 20 miles north of here likely will remain dry.

Voting Monday in each of the four polls in the townships of Palmerston, North Canonto and South Canonto, the vote was 81 to 79 in favor of liquor sale. But a three-fifths vote for sale would have been necessary to change the liquor sale status of the township.

A returning officer said Wednesday night that it is unlikely that returns from the fourth poll, a small one will change the effect of the vote.

Seven Provincial Govts. Oppose CPR Fight on Rates

Railway Claims Board's Award on Rates too Small

Ottawa, Oct. 27 — (CP)—Seven provincial governments today sought to block an attempt of the Canadian Pacific Railway to carry its fight for higher freight rates to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The provinces — all except Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland — intervened before the Board of Transport Commissioners against a C. P. R. challenge of the board's Sept. 20 board decision granting the railways a general eight-per-cent increase.

In the opening hearing, the provinces united in declaring the board had not failed in its duty as the C. P. R. claimed — by delaying judgment on part of the railway application for a 20-per-cent holst.

Applied for Appeal

The railway, which claims the increase was too small, applied to the board for permission to appeal to the Supreme Court.

It wants to ask the court for a ruling on whether the board failed in its duty by not making a final determination of the rate increase before granting further board studies and the report of the Royal Commission on transportation.

In their original application, the railways said the award was a general 20-per-cent rate boost. The Canadian National Railways has joined the C.P.R. in the application but is not taking part in the appeal.

The Supreme Court cannot increase the eight-per-cent award given by the board or order the board to increase it, but can give a decision on whether or not the commissioners carried out their duty.

Protests Long Delay

Today, C.P.R. counsel C. F. H. Carson, Montreal, protested the "interminable delays" possibly years— in the completion of the railway case and the Royal Commission inquiry.

He said the royal commission was developing into "mountainous" proportions No one could tell when the report would be finished and how much longer its report would have to be studied by the government before implementation.

In the meantime, Mr. Carson said, it was the duty of the board to make a prompt award "unfair to the railways and the public, using the existing statutes."

Mr. Carson said the board on the board cannot be put off to await amendment of the freight rates structure", Mr. Carson said.

If there were such a delay, the railways might be compelled to be left without a round rate basis.

Hoffman Predicts Great Progress In World if Europe Recovers

Montreal, Oct. 27 — (CP) — The world can compress more progress into the next quarter century than was achieved in the last half century, Paul G. Hoffman, president of Studebaker told the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Hoffman, who is Administrator of the United States Economic Co-operation Administration, and therefore the chief figure in carrying out the European recovery program, declared he was sure that this progress will depend upon the "free enterprise system."

On that, advances are being made: "The European people have regained their confidence in the future; in their ability to hold on to their freedom."

Mr. Hoffman warned against the ambitions of Russia, but expressed the belief that she cannot succeed on her present line.

"We of the free world insist that peace must be a peace of justice.

"The great block of that kind of peace is the ambition of a small and, wilful group of men in the Kremlin for world conquest. It may be difficult to bring a peaceful Canada, to wrap your mind around the fact that the Soviet Union is planning to take over this country of yours and mine, but nothing less than this is in their minds. Of course, western Europe was first with their timetable: then and then Africa, South America, and finally North America.

"The instrument of the Kremlin for world conquest is, of course, the Communist party of Russia. Today, Communism is clever and intense propaganda. . . . It is the most powerful conspiracy in the world. Its purpose is to destroy or subvert.

GOVT. REJECTS PUBLIC PROBE OF HOUSING COSTS

Question Will be Fully Discussed in House Says Winters

Ottawa, Oct. 27 — (CP)—Reconstruction Minister Winters said today the Federal government does not intend to establish a Royal Commission "at this time" to investigate home-building costs.

He made the statement in a letter to A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor.

The minister was replying to a letter made public by Mr. Mosher Wednesday in which the head of the 360,000-member Congress asked for a commission.

Mr. Winters said the question up immediately an investigating Royal Commission or a parliamentary committee.

("We quite agree that this phase of the housing problem definitely requires the close attention which it now is receiving from agencies of government," Mr. Winters said in the letter. "Others concerned with the housing field are also seeking and finding ways and means to reduce housing costs.

The government, however, does not feel that considerations of residential costs by a Royal Commission is needed at this time", Mr. Winters added. "Rather in the next few weeks there will be several opportunities for full discussion of housing in the House of Commons."

Capital Plan To Create Feeling 'National Pride'

The exhibition, consists of a large-scale miniature of what Ottawa will be years hence on which the plan has been followed.

Mystery Light Shoots Across Sky In Many Colors Trailing Sparks

Buffalo, N.Y., Oct. 27—(CP) —A mysterious light, described by witnesses as a "shooting star" which grew off a bright light, shot through the sky in many colors last night, numerous observers reported. Descriptions varied widely.

Police Radio Station WBEN of Buffalo said he saw "a big spot of fire."

"It turned white like the sun," he said. "It lasted long enough for us to have a good look. It was so big it lit up a whole park and the street I was on was bright as day."

David E. Lewis, an amateur sky gazer, said he was on his way at first of fire shooting through the sky and trailing sparks. "It was in the southern sky, he said, and travelling from east to west.

"It was all over in three or four seconds, but it lasted long enough to afford plenty of time for observation," Lewis said. "I don't believe it was a meteor, because it had none of a meteor's characteristics."

Two guards at the Bell Aircraft Corp. plant in suburban Niagara Falls, Leo V. Moynihan and Charles W. Hoagland, said they sighted what appeared to them to be a blue flame "falling from the sky."

A Bell spokesman said one of the firm's engineers reported seeing what looked like a blue wing tip of an airplane, but that it was travelling too fast to cross the sky to have been attached to a plane.

The Buffalo Courier-Express quoted a Bell official as saying the "secret" was under way at the plant Wednesday night.

George Davis, Buffalo Science Museum astronomer, said "it might have been meteors.

It was the second mysterious light which was reported this week. Monday residents of Hymers, Ont., 30 miles north-

Fine Evening Program Planned For Nov. 11th

November 11th—Remembrance Day", has become universally known as veterans' day in Canada. In the morning tribute will be paid to the many comrades who failed to return and the evening will be given up to less sombre ceremonies in the form of a banquet and get-together when the manly veterans of both wars reunite to go over old times.

In Belleville there is to be no exception this year. Branch 99 of the Canadian Legion has a fine evening of entertainment planned for November 11th. A committee has been formed consisting of Ed Smith, chairman; Bob Bowman, Les Dight, Hans Anger, Harry Rutt; Charlie Marriot, Irvin Scott, and Earl Vanderwoort to organize the affairs of the evening.

At the banquet in the Belleville Armouries, hostess will "first be paid to" Comrade Stanley Fowler or F. Fulton, O.B.E., will be the guest speaker. Mr. Fulton is well liked. Later some first class entertainment has been engaged but details will be given out at a suppler. Tickets for the banquet have been very moderately priced at one dollar per person, just sufficient to cover the cost of the affair, which will be the best in the city and Fred Symons Cigar Store or from any member of the committee.

After the banquet, which is expected to be about 9:30 p.m., a dance is planned to start at 9:30 in the armouries. The services of an orchestra have been obtained, and admission to the dance will be 50 cents a couple to be paid at the door.

Obituary

ALEX BALFOUR MURRAY

As the result of a car accident near Perth last Friday night, Alex Balfour Murray, Sidney Street, Belleville, died in the Perth Memorial Hospital early this Thursday morning. He received a fractured skull in the accident. With his wife, he was proceeding to Ottawa to attend the wedding of their son in that city on Saturday. Near Perth a young man was riding on a bike without a light when to avoid striking him, the car went out of control into the ditch and Mr. Murray was thrown through the top of the car. His wife, although suffering, did not receive a horrid treatment.

The late Mr. Murray was born in Quebec 67 years ago, and has resided in this city for some time being employed with the Canadian National Railways as an engineer.

Pay Your News Carrier Friday So That He Can Enjoy Free Show

An open note to Mr. and Mrs. Subscriber — The Ontario Intelligencer.

A few weeks ago an appeal was made to subscribers of this newspaper to pay their newsboys on Friday evenings so the little fellow could settle his accounts with this office by Saturday morning.

You have been doing a grand job, generally, but there are still a few who forget to leave the nickels and pennies out for the boys, or pay them on paynight.

The most of you are good folks who realize the time and effort expended by the little fellow or girl who brings you your daily Ontario Intelligencer. We know you will do your little to help them in every way possible.

Saturday is a day when most people take it easy. It is also the day when the kids like to play ball, or hockey.

So, here's what you can do to help your newsboy to his own only square his accounts with the newspaper but to get a free ticket to a movie as well.

The management announced today that every newsboy and girl who pays his or her accounts prior to 9:45 Saturday morning, will get a free ticket to the morning show at the McCarthy Theatre. That is this coming Saturday.

Newsboys and girls paying their weekly accounts on Friday night are eligible, but the time between 8:45 and 9:45 Saturday has been set aside for those carriers who are belated with their accounts.

So many of you can not only help your newsboy to get rid of his financial worries, but also help him to see a free show on Saturday morning, by paying your account with him on Friday night.

C'mon, be good sports. You'll pay him eventually, so why not Friday night and let the little guy see a free show Saturday morning.

Hastings Vets Win Prizes on Small Holdings

The winners of this area in the Veterans' Land Act judging competition now have been announced. Mr. R. O. Dulmage of 191 Dundas Street, Belleville, Ont., was awarded $100 prize in the Toronto district and was judged to be the best small holding from the standpoint of utility, of the vegetable garden, landscaping and maintenance of buildings, in Hastings County. Much has been accomplished by this veteran through his personal efforts, in landscaping, general neatness and repairs to his small holding. At the same time has utilized his garden space in a very commendable manner.

Mr. A. M. Haig of R.R. 3, Belleville, Ont., was awarded 12th prize in the Toronto district. This veteran who has constructed for himself a very modern home, overlooking the beautiful Bay of Quinte deserves much credit for his efforts in developing himself in a home, which leaves little to be desired in construction, landscaping, and general utilization of all available lands and buildings.

Competition Keen

Competition was very keen in Hastings County. The progress made by veterans who are establishing themselves on small holdings under the Veterans' Land Act is very much to be marked in the majority of cases. Due in the most part to the untiring efforts of the veterans and their families.

In the small holdings on the sub-divisions of the Toronto district, Mr. A. C. Stratton, R.R. 5, Belleville, was awarded first prize on the Tracey sub-division, Belleville, Ontario.

Here again competition was very very keen. As these veterans are utilizing all land available in a very commendable effort to beautify their homes and surroundings. Also the same time to produce gardens which supply them with seasonable fruits and vegetables for table use in the home.

Much is being done by these veterans and their families to foster a home improvement and beautification in the rural and urban areas of Hastings County. The Veterans' Land Act has extended their appreciation to the prize winners and the runners up, who, with the assistance of their wives have done so much to improve the community in which they reside.

Gore Marsh Fire Causes Concern

A marsh fire in the Gore district south of Rossmore which sent clouds of black smoke curling hundreds of feet into the air caused some concern here yesterday on the part of employees of the provincial highways department.

A dozen or so employees of the department hastily set back-fires where the marsh crosses the highway and thus prevented destruction of guard rail posts and telephone poles.

The fire started at the north edge of the marsh about half a mile west of the highway and on a broad front swept down the marsh towards the highway. Flames leaped 20 feet into the air from the dry marsh grass. How the fire was set was not determined.

Local S.A. Band Earns Good Press Notice in Toronto

A large crowd which packed Earl Haig Memorial Hall on Sunday afternoon saw a re-enactment of David and Goliath, with the combination of music and drama as reported in the Toronto Telegram in a review by Herbert Bridge. The review appeared under the heading 'Little David of Salvation Army Bands Triumphs at Massey Hall Festival".

The Belleville Salvation Army Band was the modern David. This small 23 piece band played between two large well-known bands, Dovercourt and Hamilton.

The program started with a march by the massed bands under the baton of Band Inspector Percy Merritt, a Tait moving March called the "Advance Guard." Then Commissioner John A. Allen, head of the staff of the Salvation Army, was introduced by Commissioner Charles Baugh, and he in turn introduced Major Tait.

The large audience then thrilled to the Belleville band's rendition of "Memories", composed by John Allen, as played by Deputy Bandmaster C. Williams of Windsor.

'Superb Quality'

The small Belleville band was the first to do an individual selection. Their march was also the march "Southern Australia" and right from the start the band showed its superb quality in clean interpretation. The band then played "Guiding The Storm", a tune calculated to produce more pitfalls than any other, although majestically. The final selection, "Peace be Still", was excellent, and no one will ever hear a sweeter finale than the last three chords of that famous old hymn.

Dovercourt and Hamilton put on a wonderful exhibition of band playing. Their selections were completely opposite in style Dovercourt playing "Soul's Awakening" and Hamilton tackling "Crusade of Youth".

The massed brigades also entertained. They were Earlscourt, North Toronto and Guelph, and once again the situation was the same as with the bands. Earlscourt and North Toronto are big brigades and well-known while Argyll is a small brigade and is not well known, but they sang well and pleased the crowd.

Talented Entertainer

Bandsman Arthur Beard of St. Catharines, played a violin solo with piano accompaniment, and proved himself a talented entertainer.

The program was one of the best musical festivals ever presented by the army here. It was one of the meetings arranged for the Army's 67th Annual Congress now in progress here, led by Commissioner J. J. Allen and his wife, from London, England.

Partridge Not Plentiful Says Northern Reeve

A reeve of a northern municipality present at Warden McCarey's banquet in Tweed last night "busted" wide open the theory of outdoor and wildlife experts that this is the year for the heavy population cycle of the noble partridge.

"They opened the season wide," he smiled, "and yet the boys are not getting the birds. A lot of them are getting the well-known 'bird' instead, and that from Mr. and Mrs. Partridge themselves."

The reason the hunters are not getting their expected quotas of partridge is quite simple, the reeve said. "In fact it's so simple it's funny. The reason is, the birds ain't there to get."

And the gentleman should know wherof he speaks for he is a patrolman in his township and covers 14 miles every day.

"There is one partridge this year for every twelve I saw a year ago," he stated. "Tell those who gave the season a better pat ask the hunters. There's two of them to every partridge in the woods."

Says Canadians Must Develop Instincts of Showmanship To Win Recognition in U.S.

Ottawa, Oct. 27—(CP)—Merrill Denison, author and playwright, said today that Canadians must develop traits of publicists and showmen if they are to win the kind of recognition they hope to receive in the United States.

In an address prepared for delivery at a Canadian club luncheon, the lack of Canada then has been told "only in bits and fragments and certainly never with eloquence or passion conviction"—except in the case of Bruce Hutchison's descriptive book "The Unknown Country."

"I do not know why there have not been more Bruce Hutchison's," he said. "Some of the reasons might possibly be found in the involved and somewhat pitiful economics of the publishing industry in Canada. . . others in the needs of your poets and writers and novelists for greater recognition and more sympathetic understanding, spiritual and economic.

"I don't pretend to know the reasons, but I do know that Canadians are wholly inarticulate and almost completely devoid of bor."

Sale of Wreaths Much Greater Than Last Year

Splendid public response in the purchase of wreaths has been received during the current drive for funds by the Belleville Poppy Campaign Committee it was reported today.

Sales of wreaths have this year been considerably greater than last year when gross sales amounted to $3,000, nearly approximately $1,500 for the fund.

The first shipment of wreaths amounting to 43 cartons was received in the city yesterday and the wreaths will be distributed to purchasers today. Another shipment of 110 cartons of wreaths was received today in addition to 16,000 poppies which will be offered for sale on Poppy Day, November 5th. The first wreath was delivered last night to the Belleville Club, by Max Matthews, president of the local Canadian Legion.

Proceeds from the sale of wreaths and poppies, after paying of expenses, will go into a fund for the use of needy veterans in Belleville and district. Emergency welfare only, is supplied through the fund.

Asked to Display Wreaths

Merchants purchasing wreaths are asked to display the wreaths in their stores and on their business and on 'Remembrance Day' Nov. 11th, are requested to place them on the Cenotaph during the Remembrance Day programs. If merchants are unable to place their own wreaths they are asked to contact the poppy committee which will arrange to have a veteran place the wreath.

Donation to the Poppy Fund through purchase of wreaths this year will be possible for income tax purposes, it was stated. Official receipts for this purpose will be mailed to each contributor.

Give Free Poppies

Children of all the Belleville public schools, the Separate School, and students at the Ontario School for the Deaf, will be furnished with a free poppy by the local poppy campaign committee. Four thousand poppies will be delivered to Belleville schools and an additional 350 will be donated to the O. S. D.

Teachers will then explain to the children the meaning of Poppy Day and why they should wear the poppy in honor of the men who died in two world wars.

First Place Essay By Miss Wakefield

During the "Enjoy Shopping in Belleville" week, an essay contest among the pupils of the Collegiate and St. Michael's Academy was conducted on the subject, "Why My Parents Enjoy Shopping in Belleville" and for which valuable prizes were offered. Margaret Wakefield from form G11A was the winner of first prize and herewith is given her essay: The second prize essay will be given on Friday.

My parents and I feel that shopping in Belleville is a most enjoyable experience.. We find that the shops are most interesting, both inside and outside. Even when you just look into a store window it makes you want to buy something. The shops are neat and the clerks are always smiling. Courtesy seems to be their aim. They are more interested in pleasing their customers than in making sales. The merchandise in most of the shops in Belleville is of very high quality.

When you enter a shop you are almost immediately approached by a smiling clerk. He asks you what he can do for you. You may know exactly what you want and in this case the clerk tries to get it for you. If you have no idea of what you want he brings you samples or books. If you are pleased with your purchase he smiles politely and says to go out of the store satisfied. If, however, he does not have exactly the article you desire he will promise just as politely and possibly recommend another shop. Even then you will find that you are satisfied and you will go on until you find what you want, all the while receiving the same courteous attention.

My mother and father have shopped in many towns and cities and also in England and the United States but they find that Belleville is the best place to shop. There is much courtesy, such good quality and so much variety.

In England of course, it is very difficult to shop because of the rations and high prices; but even there the shop-keepers are friendly and are always sorry when they have not got what you want. In the United States it is just the opposite. You can get almost everything, but the clerks are very matter-of-fact about it. All they are intent upon is making sales.

In the larger cities of Canada there are a good many chain and department stores. This, I believe, is not as good as the idea of a man owning just one or two stores and striving to please his customers. The community spirit is made stronger by happy merchants and customers than by purely business transactions. People will come again to buy in Belleville if they see that here we satisfy customers in all ways. Our town is held together by businesslike but friendly merchants in our shops as well as by everything else. Our motto should be "We Satisfy".

Coe Hill Road Has Been Made Wider, Graveled

With grading operations completed on the seven-mile stretch of road leading to the Bancroft-Madoc highway, residents of Coe Hill and district will soon be driving over a first class road from the city motor to Belleville.

Previously the county road leading from Coe Hill to Highway No. 62 was narrow and crooked and in some places was almost too narrow for two cars to pass with safety.

However, due a great deal to efforts put forth by Wollaston township Reeve Cecil Mallory and that of the provincial highways department was secured in improving the road.

Grading operations were commenced one year ago with sharp corners being removed and many of the grades lowered by rock excavation. The entire roadway has been widened to a width permitting safe passing of autos and trucks.

Originally it was planned to have the new road grade surfaced with crushed rock, but the plans have now been changed and surfacing of the road will commence immediately using pit run gravel.

4-Mile Stretch Of New Highway Nearly Completed

The widely known four - mile stretch of "roller coaster" road on Highway 62 between Bannockburn and Millbridge will soon be a thing of the past. Soon motorists travelling that stretch of highway will be driving over a wide, new road which has been literally carved out of the rocks and hills.

Early last spring employees of the Harvey Construction Company cleared the right of way for the new stretch of highway and during the summer drilling, blasting and grading operations have been underway.

Today the grading operations on the four-mile stretch of highway have been virtually completed and traffic is passing over parts of the new highway. Application of crushed stone to the graded surface is now underway and it is expected the entire stretch of new road will soon be open to traffic.

The route of the new stretch of highway commences immediately north of Bannockburn and after crossing the old road in several places continues north on the east side of Millbridge joining with the completed portion of the highway leading to Bancroft.

GOVT WILL MAKE GRANTS

Ottawa, Oct. 27. —(CP)— Finance Minister Abbott said Wednesday the government will announce before the end of the current session of Parliament a grant-in-lieu-of-taxation formula for federal properties in municipalities across Canada.

Mr. Abbott was speaking on a Commons motion to vote the government an additional month of interim supply.

T. L. Church (PC—Toronto Broadview) asked if money for these grants is included in the money asked by the government.

Mr. Abbott said it was not included, but the government now was considering the whole plan and would announce it before long.

ENTHUSIASM FOR CANADA BONDS

Canadians have surprised Bank of Canada officials by the greatly increased interest in the purchase of Canada savings bonds new issue, which are officially said to be selling at present twice as fast as they sold last year. It is pointed out that this does not necessarily mean that the sale will continue at the greatly accelerated rate.

However the display of interest of the people in the issue is a healthy sign and it is hoped that this evidence of saving will become general and be kept in mind by the people. The first five days of the sale of the issue this year brought in nearly $60,000,000, a total which is worth remembering, for it indicates that Canadians can save in peacetime as well as they could in wartime when the demands for economy were of the first importance in carrying on the war effort.

ELUSIVE INDIAN SUMMER

Indian Summer has a charm even in name. Some years it comes and goes and seems not to have been noticed so elusive is this strange spell of weather late in autumn, after the first frost and when nature is beginning to drowse after the growth and activity of the year.

People began to speak of Indian Summer in the late years of the 18th century. The name was first used in New England but the season is not only an American feature of the weather for it is known on three continents. Why the name is used is not very clear, yet the weather is hazy and the name may have been suggested by Indian fires. In Europe a similar spell of weather is known as Saint Martin's Summer, Martin's Summer, Saint Luke's Summer and Old Woman's Summer.

There is an idea held by some that the very elusiveness of the season may have led to the name against the background of Indian life in the New World.

It has been the experience of everyone in many lands to have some fine pleasant season with its wistfulness and its delicate charm, so different from the gay spring or robust summer or even hearty autumn which has preceded it. It seems a natural compensation from nature to man who is to be called upon to yield up the delights of summer. It seems to some something of nature's compensation for the numb and rugged weeks and months which lie ahead. Indeed those who speak of it say it comes after the first frost, so nature as it were, marks that first bite of the cold weather as unpleasant and undesirable and gives in its place for a day or two the ineffable beauty and charm of this second summer. Indeed it leaves memories of summer and autumn merged into one and its brevity is symbolic of those fading pleasures and delights in human life, all too well known.

Indian Summer, so brief and so wistful, fits into man's life and consciousness and leaves memories which linger even when the cold wind comes and the reign of winter has begun. It comes about this time when nominally autumn is about half ended and when the weather begins to take on the more rugged characteristics which finally merge into real winter.

Everyone knows this fleeting time by name and by experience brief though it be.

SMELL OF WILD GRAPES

One knows it is the heart of October when the fragrance of frosted grapes spreads over the countryside. The best and tastiest fox grapes are not beside main roads where thoughtless harvesters snatch and tear. One needs to go back into the quiet hills, away from hard-surfaced roads and the smell of burning gasoline and oil. Wise countrymen know secret places they have discovered over the years; sunny glades in the woods, hidden glens at the far ends of pastures, quiet ravines at the base of a mountain and certain spots in the swamps.

A man is glad to harvest wild grapes; they have a distinctive flavoring of their own. And when he smells the frosted grapes on a bright October day, he knows the year is drawing on.

An Ontario man who had invented safety hatches for buses by a strange turn of fate died of injuries sustained in the overturning of the bus in which he was riding. He had devised a safety roof hatch and had signed a contract with a Chicago firm for the installation of such devices on school buses. Robert Kerr, the inventor, has left to mankind something which can serve in saving life. His untimely end is regretitable.

THE CHANGING MAN

We were chatting, and he said:
"When it's time to go to bed,
I am certain, as I settle to repose,
I am not the self-same man
That I was when day began,
But richer than, or poorer than I rose.

"I grow richer, day by day,
Not in money, let me say,
But a merry jest I hadn't heard before.
Or perhaps I've made a friend
On whom trust I can depend,
Or it may be I have learned a little more.

"In many ways and strange
I am certain that I change
With everything that happens or I do.
Something lost or something gained,
I am pleased or I am pained,
Every day is an adventure that is new."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IN PURSUIT OF PLEASURE

I wonder if we are not all of us in hot pursuit after that elusive thing which we speak of as pleasure. Every day, somewhere, it is hidden within it that nugget of gold which we may well call pleasure. If it were not there, how many of us would keep on in our search for it?

Even the birds are in search for this pleasure. You can see them, as well as animals, playing among themselves. Enjoyment is theirs as well as ours. If we had no pleasure in our work that work would soon deteriorate and our morale would easily fade. You can always pick out the efficient worker by the look upon his face. If he is getting pleasure out of what he is doing, he economizes time and wastes no time. He gets the thing done — and that gives him pleasure.

Mothers give to their children all the strength that they have, and are happy, because they are contributing something that is going to flower within the children's own future years, and then there will ripen a double pleasure for those mothers.

Just to live for pleasure alone, and nothing else, is to defeat life's full purpose. Our pleasures should be the cement that binds our work, our sacrifices and our benefactions. When we get pleasure out of what we do, we do not mind the lame back, or the long hours spent, in perfecting some piece of art, or some extremely difficult task.

If we give pleasure to someone else the pleasure is reacting. It comes back. You never lose in giving it. We even live more for pleasure than we suspect. The fact crowds in upon us. It is fortunate that it does. The sweep of life is thus enlarged. We have a garden, flowers, and beautiful pictures in our homes because they give us pleasure. Enjoyment becomes a habit. A very valuable one.

I watched a World's Series baseball game recently. Over 70,000 people looked on. It was a dramatic and inspiring sight. There was that crowd to get pleasure from the skill and persistence of two teams each fighting its way to a clean victory! Just pleasure, but an enriching one.

Mackenzie's Column
Seek Opportunity Rather Than Security Says Ike

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in his capacity as President of Columbia University, has urged his big array of students to seek opportunity rather than security.

"The best example of perfect security," he said, "is a man serving a life term in a federal prison."

Of course, everybody wants reasonable security. But what terrifies the average citizen of any country which encourages private initiative is the thought of a regimented security — a security which puts him on the half-starvation plane with everybody else — a security which he can't escape because it's just too darned good. This View in Many Quarters

One reason why Ike is popular in many quarters these changing days is that he is an interesting example of it down in the subterranean labyrinth of passages and stores beneath New York's Pennsylvania Station in which the AP headquarters building stands.

Among the shop-keepers of the underground city is Joseph Buzzetti, a friendly Italian - American of 73 who runs two shoe-shining and quick-repair establishments — apparently on a very profitable basis, too. I dropped in on him for a shine and found him ruling over a newspaper headline.

"Pray is it," he exploded, "that there are people, many of them from foreign lands, who are out to turn the wonderful country of opportunity into a totalitarian state? Heaven itself constituted a provide greater opportunities than this wonderful America! They should have had my experience!

"Tell me about it," I said.

A Great Adventure

"I was 13 years old when I landed in New York in 1890 as an immigrant from a town near Naples," said Buzzi. "I was alone, for my family remained in Italy, but I had $3 in my pocket and plenty of faith in life. It was a great adventure.

"In seven years I saved $400— and lost it in a bank crash. But I had faith. I said: 'Here a man can rise. He has opportunities. So I carried on, and when I was 21 I became naturalized. America was my country.

"I got married and 'there were five children. We returned to Italy for a visit to see my people, and there I experienced the evils of the Mussolini dictatorship. We were glad to get back to free America.

"My children were told their children of their experiences and what American opportunities there would be so many subversive elements at work. Here we have freedom of speech, freedom in the possibility to develop as one wants. There is no regimentation."

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

One of my friends is an engineer who, in the past three years, has spent most of his time in the Great Slave Lake country in the Arctic and did a camp where he has a radio set has been out of the question. This man loves classical music and owns hundreds of symphonic and other fine art records. They are 3,000 miles away from him.

"You ask me," he writes in reply to a letter, "how I get along without music? Well, I am not without music. I have an orchestra in my head the like of which you never set foot in New York, London or Salzburg. It is my own, personal symphony orchestra of a hundred and fifty pieces. There are thirty first violins, alone. And twelve violas. In fact, in a twinkling, I can add ten more cellos to the battery with a mere wave of my baton.

"This orchestra I carry with me wherever I go. At a moment's notice, without rehearsal, without fuss or bother, it can stage a concert. Presto! There they all are, in the twinkling of an eye, posed like upon ice in a concert hall waiter than the Rose Bowl; the fiddles, the glittering horns, the dark basses, the glowing woodwinds, the vibrant harp—all waiting my baton! I raise it. The whole arctic stands still. The white sky, the great grey earth miles around me, holds breath. Down goes my baton. And my own symphony breaks gloriously into the opening bars of Brahms' Fourth, Tchaikowsky's Fifth, anything you care to name.

"I have all the great virtuosi here, too. Heifetz and Rubinstein at my private piano, there in front of my inconspicuous sledge dogs, for me and my sled dogs! Think of that, Yehudi Menuhin! Play for Mendelssohn's concerto for me often; and obeys my baton like a lamb. It is true I am not a first rate conductor. Often I get lost in the score, even after the twelve bars. But that doesn't matter. I can switch, with ease, harrassment to no one, to another work of genius. You ask me how I get along without music? I have it."

SOMERSAULTS AND SEASICKNESS

You turn my kind of somersault, forward or backward, without losing contact with floor or ground. Any five-year-old child will show you how.

Last any one think I'm only fooling about somersaults. I assure you that I roll—ah, it might be well to call 'em simply rolls were it not that some people would think that means rolling from side to side as one rolls in bed—I roll half a dozen to a dozen first-thing every morning, and often at any time in the day I roll a few here beside my desk when I'm muddled—and please spare me the obvious crack about excessive wear and tear on the floor.

Many readers have reported results which I had not observed or suggested. For instance, dull headache on rising, quickly vanishing after a few somersaults; cramps in feet and legs which a grandmother aged 70 suffered for many years; insomnia; and shoulder lameness that formerly annoyed a man now in the 81st year have ceased to trouble him since he began somersaulting; lumbago, laziness, constipation and a nasty dispolition vanishing since the somersaults began with 'em, and he hasn't taken a pill in the past six months, although he thought he had to take one pill once or twice a day before.

I estimate that half a million people have joined the somersaulting chorus since we instituted it.

According to a newspaper item Camille Chautemps, while premier of France, found somersaulting a most soothing somersaults on the lawn.

In the movie news reels years ago Luther Burbank rolled a few on his lawn on the occasion of his 70th birthday anniversary—and I assure you the somersaulting had nothing to do with his death two years later.

One professional acrobat tells me that according to all acrobats and Noah Webster a somersault is a complete revolution in the air off the ground or floor, forward, backward, or sidewise. The same acrobat tells me that insistence on calling a mere roll a somersault is as pedantic as insisting that we pronunciation of 'abdomen' (with the accent on the dough), 'Ab-bah', whereas I agree that one must accent the second syllables of abdomen and respiratory and pronounce ra-bi-es in three syllables if one does not want to show one's ignorance.

I'd like to hear from a thousand or so of the half million people who roll somersaults as part of their keepwell daily routine, with particular reference to the two points. First, what effect, if any, has the habit on your sensitiveness to constipation? Second, have you ever been subject to seasickness, and if so, have you suffered with seasickness since you began daily somersaulting?

You see, I have a half formed, perhaps I should say a half-baked theory that somersaulting may tend to make one less susceptible to seasickness. I have never been seasick—but then, I never had the opportunity to be seasick until fifteen or twenty years after I began somersaulting. So I am anxious to learn what your experience has been if you were or are subject to seasickness if you will be kind enough to tell me without compensation.

Frankly a considerable number of people who have tried to do a somersault have become sick and nauseated that they never tried to try again. Such old crocks must be in perilous state to begin with. I do not advise them to try again. What they need is the attention of a physician.

But individuals who experience only mild dizziness on the first few attempts should regard the dizziness as a good sign that they need precisely what somersaults do for the circulation.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

When to Consult a Physician

I am 39 years old and going through the change. In the past two or three months have had hot flushes which have lasted four or five times a month. Is this anything to be alarmed about? (Mrs. P. C. W.)

Answer—Only if you fail to consult your physician about it. Change my eye. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask for article for pamphlet on The Menopause.

How to Breathe

Please send me a booklet telling about a way of breathing that will help me to sleep. I also a booster pump, for one with heart trouble. (Mrs. H. W.)

Answer—For copy of booklet How to Breathe send twenty-five cents and stamped self addressed envelope.

Calcium and Parioidic Sick Headache

I have been taking Ca and D as you prescribed for my arthritis for over a year now, and my migraine headaches are nearly cured. But have Been Told (Mrs. H. W.)

Answer — Yesh, I know, so much calcium will harden your arteries, turn your kidneys to stone, etc. The amount of calcium and vitamin D you take is only a trivial fraction of what authorities estimate that every one needs to maintain the finest of health and strength. Send stamped self addressed envelope and ask in writing for copy (will not do) for pamphlet Why Have Headache?

REAL VALUE COMES HIGH

What beautiful gardens! What ravishing color! What profusion of growth! Yes, but it took the vision of someone who knew beauty and who lingered long over the seed catalogues during the winter months, to produce all this. It took the loving and skillful hand of the gardener. It took evenings of watering during the drought, hours of weed-cultivation, patient cultivation, and last of all, the gardener had to go home and bathe and dress. Flowers or the ones that had passed the climax and were dying.

As it is with flowers, so it is with everything else in the world. We may think that the beautiful, the skilful, the awe-inspiring achievement of man just happened. But behind the skilful results lies a lifetime of patient practicing. The famous artist who paints a moment on canvass that he had first covered with pictures of moments gone by in the jungle. Strong man or woman whose features seem to express in still light the peace in every line of the face and character and whose eyes reflect the set of the mouth. Did it just happen? No. Behind all these results lies a season of struggle with difficulties as hard to handle as the wrestling moments in the jungle.

Everything costs, but everything that has any value is worth what it costs.

Warden and Mrs. McCarey Presented With Tea Service At Banquet at Tweed

Tweed, Ont. (Staff)—Hastings County Council, guests of Warden R. A. McCarey, repeat of this village, paid tangible tribute to the head of the county government here last night, when they presented him and Mrs McCarey with a handsome silver tea service at the banquet held at St. Carthagh's Hall.

Upwards of 200 people, a cross section of the civic, political and municipal life of the county and district honored Warden and Mrs. McCarey at the function which marked the 100th birthday of Hastings County municipal government.

Many Guests Present

Many distinguished guests, representative of the county were present. These included county officials, Clerk Eric Denyes, County Treasurer, Rossf Bailey, chairman for the banquet, Judge J. C. Anderson representing the judiciary; Elmer Sandercock, M. L. A. Hastings West, Reeve Hawdon, M. L. A. Hastings East, Frank Follwell, M. P. Hastings South, Mayor D. L. Storey of Belleville and members of his council; R. D. Arnott K. C., former M.L.A. Hastings West, Mr. Geo. H. Stokes, ex-M.P. Hastings South, Mr. C. I. Jewell, Canadian Bank of Commerce, Belleville, Ken. Yorke, Hastings County Home Superintendent, and others.

Flittingly Celebrated

The Hastings County centenary was flittingly represented and featured in the dramatic entrance of a beautiful white cake emblematic of 100 years of county government in Hastings.

The cake, made in two sections, was brought into the banquet hall by the two oldest ex-wardens present, Peter McLaren, 1911, and Walter Whytock, 1933. In slow dignified procession while the banquet guests stood in a near-reverent hush, the cake was piloted to the table by Piper Jamie Clark of Belleville, where it was presented to Warden and Mrs. McCarey.

They cut the cake with a silver knife, and a piece was presented to each guest.

"This cake" said Warden McCarey" is symbolic of 100 years of county government in Hastings. Our forefathers had the principal to carry on, and lay the foundation of what this county is today. I sincerely hope the next 100 years may produce something for Hastings that coming generations will be as thankful to us for, as we are to those great men who laid this foundation."

Climax of Evening

Climax of the evening of toasts and speeches was the presentation to Warden and Mrs. McCarey.

Reeves Arthur Sauer, Descente, Harry Harrison, Thurlow, and John Bell, Marmora and Lake escorted the gifts to the head table.

"I am a novice in both county council and in functions of this kind," said the Descente reeve, "but I voice the sentiments of the county council when I say that we deeply appreciate sir, your efforts and co-operation with us. We hope you and Mrs. McCarey will accept this gift."

Gleaming silver appeared from wrappings. It was held high where all could see by Mrs. McCarey, a happy smile lighting her face.

"This gift will be cherished sincerely as long as we live," the warden said, in a brief address of appreciation. "Whenever it is used, it will always remind us of times together and carry fond memories and thoughts of my association with the county council."

Mrs. McCarey said "Words cannot describe a heart full of thankfulness. We sincerely appreciate this lovely gift."

"For the Jolly Good Fellows" rang through the dining hall followed by the traditional three cheers.

Keynote of Banquet

Chairman Ross Bailey, in his introductory remarks, noted that the keynote of the banquet was the fact that it marked 100 years of county government in Hastings. He reviewed the system of government over a century and stated that "whatever the elected representatives are' to the people, the better the government."

Warden McCarey, in his address of welcome, paid fine tribute to the residents of his village. He outlined the work of the county council, mentioning that done on the registry office, the court house and other phases of county work.

He said, referring to the new county home, "that plans were ready and tenders would be called for by Nov. 22. The Road Committee, he said, was doing the best with the funds allotted to it. All principal roads would be kept in the best of condition."

Speaking of social services, the warden said that the county wants to try to meet its obligations, especially as far as the hospital was concerned, "but we don't want to get our dollars worth. And we would like to know where we stand."

Trying to do Job

He felt that the county council was trying to do a good job, one that would equal the efforts of the council of 100 years ago. "We are only trying to do the best we can, with an eye to the future."

In response, Reeve Wilfred Spencer, Rawdon, said the warden had given unstintingly of his time. He had been very cooperative with committees.

"He's a good boss" commented County Clerk Eric Denyes. He referred to the many speeches on the program and advised the speakers to "stand up, speak up and shut up." (Laughter).

Proposing the toast to the Dominion, Reeve Wells, Stirling pointed out the fact that no other country offers more to her citizens than Canada. "It is a broad clean country where we enjoy the culture of the old world and the freedom of the new, with no fear of want or threat of oppression."

All Work Together

"We must all work together and if we do we can look forward to preserving more effectively the ideals and institutions which we all cherish and to provide for enjoying a greater measure of welfare and happiness", Frank Follwell, M.P., Hastings South, said in response.

He pointed out Canada's great development in the past and, he said, "Canada becomes a great nation, for her great industries rank with the greatest in the world. There have been great accomplishments in the first half of the century, possibly even greater lie ahead in the next 50 years"

He paid tribute to Canada's efforts in two wars, to the sacrifice of her sons in the armed services. With this in mind, he said, and from other points of view, Canada has developed from a backward member of the Empire to a nation of first importance.

"Canada" Mr. Follwell said, "has not forgotten the individual citizen. By legislation we seek to provide for everyone the minimum necessities of life. We have developed one of the finest systems of social security in any country of our world. We are concerned with human welfare. Personality is more sacred than property."

He paid tribute to the warden on his elevation to office. "It could not have happened to a nicer guy," he quipped. Seriously, Mr. Follwell told the banquet that he was proud to represent his riding of Hastings at Ottawa.

"No member," he said, "is more proud to represent his constituency than I." (Applause).

Judge J. C. Anderson in further response to the toast recalled the governments of former years. "One", he said, "was individualistic, the other socialistic. Between these two extremes and from them came the answer, county council. He quoted a poem written by Percy Phillips, and a statement by the late Sir Wilfred Laurier. "May the vision of these men be our own vision so the nation of the future be our strength in the times to come." Full Agriculture Be Developed Proposing the toast to the province, Reeve Ben Bleecker dwelt at length on its natural resources. Agriculture, he felt was one of Ontario's greatest industries and as such should be developed, especially along junior farmer lines." Junior farmers," he said, are one of the essentials of agricultural Ontario and should be developed for the future. He touched on mining as a thing industry, as all being essential to the future of the province.

Roscoe Kennedy, M.L.A Hastings East, paid tribute to Frank Follwell, M.P., Hastings South. He stressed the fact that governments, municipal, county, provincial or federal are to not only look after the well being of the citizen but to protect him. "Government is democracy", he said, are there for guidance of the people."

He said the Ontario Government had made the greatest strides in the last five years in the history of Ontario in education, roads, and other phases of helpfulness to the people of the province.

Big Mining Boom Here

He hinted that Hastings County might be like for the biggest mining boom in its history in the near future. He said that never in the history of Ontario has there been the co-operation between the government and county councils than there exists at the present. Both are beginning to realize the tremendous part the municipalities play in the development of the province.

Tribute to County Home

Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A, paid tribute to Superintendent Yorke and Matron Mrs. Yorke of the County Home, "They are doing a far better job than I did," he commented modestly. He said that Mr. Hobson had covered what he wanted to say, and then gave a highly informative description of the trip taken through the north country by members of the staff (which was published herein before).

He added, however, that it was a smart move on the part of the city and county council in the purchase of the old county home.

Mayor D. L. Storey of Belleville, toasting the county in a very brief address, expressed his appreciation of the warden's invitation. He added that "I am going to try and clear up that little matter of the hospital before I go out of office. "We, as the city council have had the utmost co-operation from the county."

Reeve Geo. Spracklett, Tudor and Cashell, chairman of county finance, warned everybody he was going to keep expenses down. "We have to keep up our reputation," he said, and urged committee chairmen to do likewise. "The tourist business, especially in our part of the county is second to none," he said, And he added by way of information, "there has never been more lumber taken out of North Hastings in the last 10 years than ever before."

Tourist Trade Essential

Coe Hill resident Reeve Clarke Rollins, Wollaston township, urged more effort be made for the tourist trade in North Hastings. He suggested the maintenance of roads between Belleville and Bancroft. "Hastings", he said, should have her main road arteries improved because he felt that by good roads Hastings would be one of the outstanding attractions to the tourist industry.

In a brief address Reeve Jack Kincaid, Madoc, in proposing the toast to the clerk, stated that after all bequests were the cementing of friendships. T. Graham paid tribute to the warden for his inclusion of the village council and other local friends.

Remember England

R. D. Arnott, K.C., said in reminder that the 100 years anniversary; the ideas and ideals of county councils, the legislature were all based on each part of Great Britain. "Great Britain is in serious shape right now, economically," he said. "We in Canada, are prone to forget that the things we have, we got from over there. Nine years ago, she held off the foe, waiting for us to get ready. We must not forget that. "We in Canada," he said, "should be ready to take our hardships, even to help her. It is no more than our duty." Quoting Sir John A. Macdonald, Mr. Arnott said. "British I was born, British I will die."

Toast to Ladies

Deputy Reeve Harry Coulter, Hungerford, proposed the toast to the ladies, which was responded to by Mrs. R. Bowers and Mrs. Mae Snare, of the Tweed Chapter I.O.D.E, 148 which provided the meal.

The invocation was offered by the Rev. M. W. Healy of Tweed, while Mr. Y. Ardron offered vocal solos. The community sing song was led by Mr. Connor.

Many Dishes Improved by Using Cheese

The story of cheese through the ages begins as a interesting tale and becomes a factual report in a vital food product.

Canada produces every year over a hundred million pounds of cheese, but eats only a small part of it. The larger amount is exported . . . chiefly to Britain where it has a very high standing and brings a premium over other cheeses of similar type.

Cheddar cheese may be white or yellow and mild or tangy to suit the purpose or individual taste. There is an endless variety of dishes to be made with this type of cheese.

The home economists of the Consumer Section, Dominion Department of Agriculture, say that the piece of cheese eaten after a hearty meal often has to take the blame for other dietary indiscretions. Cheese is easily digested if used with cereals, eggs or vegetables to make the main part of the meal and if it is properly cooked. High temperatures toughen protein and make the cheese stringy, unattractive and less easily digested.

There are many other types of cheeses made in Canada to tempt the gourmet but for the average taste, Canadian Cheddar cheese is "tops".

The homemaker who buys Cheddar cheese gets full value for her money and does not pay for waste as she does with many other foods.

The culinary possibilities of cheese are endless and permit great variety of dishes. Here are a few choice ones, Medium Cheddar cheese is used in all recipes

Cheese Muffins

2 3-4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1-2 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup grated cheese
1 egg
1 cup milk or tomato juice
2 tablespoons shortening, melted

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Add cheese. Beat egg, add milk. Make a depression in flour mixture, pour in egg and milk mixture, then add melted shortening. Stir only enough to combine. Full greased muffin tins two-thirds full. Sprinkle with additional grated cheese. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees F. 20 to 25 minutes. Yield —1 dozen medium muffins.

Macaroni and Cheese

2 cups macaroni, cut in 1 inch pieces
2 1-2 cups grated cheese
Salt, pepper and paprika
1 cup milk
3 strips bacon, cut in small pieces

Cook macaroni in boiling, salted water until just tender, about 10 minutes. Drain. Place alternate layers of macaroni and cheese in a greased baking dish, finishing with cheese. Season each layer of macaroni with salt, pepper and paprika. Add sufficient milk until it can be seen through top layer of macaroni, about 1 cup. Sprinkle bacon on top. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Yield: six servings.

Cheese Soup

4 cups milk
3 or 3 slices onion
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
2 egg yolks
3-4 cup grated cheese

Scald milk with onion. Remove onion. Melt butter in top of double boiler, blend in flour, add hot milk and seasonings, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Cook 5 minutes. Add a little of the hot mixture to the beaten egg yolks then add to remaining hot mixture. Cook 1 minute and add grated cheese. Beat with rotary egg beater and serve at once. Yield—six servings.

Note—Egg yolks may be omitted but they make a richer and more delicious soup.

Mooseheart Day Will be Observed By Local Lodge

The Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 433, are holding a Mooseheart Day celebration tonight in the Saco Club rooms, in commemoration of the birthday of the late Hon. James J. Davis, who was Pilgrim councillor of the Women of the Moose organization, founder and builder of Mooseheart, the child city, where the children of deceased fathers of the Loyal Order of Moose, are made to feel that it is a home that belong to them.

It is the aim to make contributions for their care and homelike living and education. The mothers may go with them and they are given remuneration for whatever work they are adapted to, or if they are ill, they are nursed back to health.

At Mooseheart, situated near Jacksonville, Florida, is a true haven for the aged, where they live in a homey atmosphere and are cared for in their declining days. The major committees of all Chapters contribute to the Scholarship Fund at Mooseheart each month.

In our own home and community, grateful letters are received from recipients and from different organizations for gifts and donations received by them.

A Christmas tree for Mooseheart is held this early date so that no child's gift is on the belated list at the Christmas festivities.

The afternoon was devoted to euchre, home-cooking sale and refreshments and will be followed in the evening by an open meeting with the men of the Loyal Order of Moose No. 1004, their wives and friends being invited.

A special guest speaker of the evening will be the social editor of the Ontario Intelligencer. The remainder of the evening's entertainment refreshments and dancing.

Premier Frost Officially Opens New $65,000 School For Wollaston Twp. Area

Coe Hill (Staff)—The public school pupils of the Wollaston township school area here are now able to remember Ontario Premier Leslie Frost for a long time. They will remember him because of charming Ontario Premier officially opened their new school in Coe Hill, and also because he directed that in honor of the event they be granted an additional holiday.

Wednesday afternoon the new $65,000 centralized school built by the Wollaston township school area was officially opened in the presence of parliamentary dignitaries, township officials and residents of the village. School pupils were given a holiday for the official opening, while Premier Frost greeted the children he gave another holiday on Friday.

Members of the township school area board did not fool when they decided a new and centralized school was needed to take the place of six former schools situated throughout the township. They built a school which is modern in every respect and conforms to the accepted design of the Department of Education.

One-Storey Building

The school is of one-storey brick construction containing three classrooms and providing for the teaching also of home economics and manual training. Eighty-five pupils are attending the school from the township being transported in buses owned by the school area. The longest bus route is nine miles.

And the Wollaston township school area is unique in that it supplies a residence for its school principal. This was made possible this year when one wing of the former three-roomed frame school was reserved when the building was razed.

Construction Started in '48

Construction of the new school commenced in September, 1948 and was completed in time for occupancy last Easter. The old school, which had served the primary educational needs of the township was torn down during the summer. High school pupils from the district attend classes at Bancroft.

Premier Leslie Frost in officially opening the new school stated it was revision of the provincial school grant system, together with improvement in municipal roads which made the centralized schools possible. "Students could now be transported comfortable distances to school," he said.

He said the province was now spending 25 per cent of each taxation dollar, or approximately $40 million annually on education. As a result of large grants between 500 and 600 new schools had been constructed in the province during the past five years.

The premier spoke of the installation of hydro through the Coe Hill district and also spoke of the mineral wealth of the Central Ontario area. With the gradual depletion of the Lake Superior iron ore reserves, he forecast there would again be interest in the mineral possibilities of this district. He also referred to tourist attractions in the district.

Need for Good Schools

But he said that such developments should not overshadow the need for good schools and the province was determined that all children regardless of where they lived, should have equal opportunities of education.

"Primary education made possible through new centralized schools was unsurpassed in the province," he said.

"It means that pupils will receive equal opportunities of education and thus fit them for opportunities in later life. It will be your job then to finish the job which we older people are trying to do," he said.

L. Wicks Chairman

Chairman of the township school area board, Mr. Lorne Wicks acted as chairman for the official opening program and welcomed Premier Frost and his party on their arrival at the new school. The new school was then inspected prior to the official opening.

Mr. Wicks assured it was a great pleasure to see the fulfillment of the board's plans. He acknowledged the financial assistance received from the Department of Education and also paid tribute to members of his school board and also members of previous boards for their foresight.

Reeve Clarke Rollins said he felt a mutual pride with other residents of the township in the erection of the new school. He said it was a credit to the township and represented the combined efforts of members of the board as well as municipal officials and others.

Other speakers on the program which despite the chilly weather was held outside the front door of the school, included Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West; Roscoe Bobem, M.L.A. for Hastings East; and D. W. Simpson, public school inspector, representing the Department of Education.

Premier Cuts Ribbon

Following dedication of the school by Rev. T. E. Sandercock, Premier Frost officiated at the ribbon cutting ceremony and the keys of the new building were turned over to school principal Kenneth Forsaeve, by the board chairman. Other clergy taking part in the ceremony were Rev. F. Wicks and Rev. C. S. Wright.

Members of the Wollaston township school area board included Lorne Wicks, chairman and members Fred Whitmore, Harry Campbell, Richard W. Ganier and Herbert Keller. Teaching staff of the school include Principal Forsaeve, Miss Eica Narduzzi and Mrs. Shirley Turner.

School board members stated that due to liberal provincial grants the municipality would be called upon to pay only 11 per cent of the cost of the new school.

They stated that although township school areas are now popular, the Coe Hill school is the only centralized public school in the immediate district where all township pupils attend at the one school.

Following the official opening ceremonies the guests were entertained at luncheon in the Orange Hall.

Liberals Ready To Support Move Says Leader

Brockville, Oct. 27 — (CP)— Farquhar Oliver, Liberal member in the Ontario Legislature, says Liberal members of the Legislature are ready to support any move by the Ontario government toward obtaining an agreement with the Federal government on taxation and health issues.

Speaking at a Leeds by-election meeting in support of Ernest Miller, Liberal candidate, he referred to Premier Frost's statement at Gananoque that the premier was ready to co-operate with the Federal government on three matters.

Mr. Oliver said that on many occasions the Liberals in the Ontario House had tried to make the government "see the light" and come to terms with the Dominion. Yet, time and again, the plea fell on deaf ears, he said.

Other by-election developments:

Welfare Minister Goodfellow of Ontario Challenged: Mr. Miller, the Liberal candidate, to produce a letter Mr. Miller claimed to have received from a welfare department employee charging mismanagement of old-age pensions.

The Ontario government's Charitable Gifts Act, which gives the books of charitable foundations to the scrutiny of public trustees and provides that specific charities be named as beneficiaries, was discussed by David Croll, Liberal Member of Parliament for Toronto-Spadina, by Walter Harris, parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister St. Laurent, and by Donald MacGregor, Brockville lawyer who spoke on behalf of Hugh Reynolds, Progressive Conservative candidate.

Ontario Record In Potato Acreage Yield Announced

Sundridge, Oct. 27 (CP)—An all-time Ontario record in potato acreage yield was announced here Wednesday night at the third annual banquet of the Parry Sound 800 bushel potato club.

Top man was Frank Rick, President of the club, who produced a total yield per acre of 936 bushels on a three-acre potatoes on his Trout Creek district farm. Highest yield last year was 743 bushels, established by Gordon Bidwell, of Barrie.

Last year's record was broken by another member of the club—C. H. Chapman, of Barrie, whose average yield was 774 bushels per acre.

Mr. Rick also won first prize in the quality contest, amassing 196 of a possible 200 points, and second prize in the exhibit class.

LUMBER STRIKE SETTLED

Vancouver, Oct. 27 — (CP)— A strike which would have hit hard at British Columbia's million-dollar lumber-export trade was reported settled Wednesday night. Agreement was reached between the Lumber Inspectors' Union and the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau. An eight-cent wage boost across-the-board, was agreed upon for 280 inspectors.

COURSE FOR FIRE OFFICIALS

Toronto, Oct. 27 (CP) — A three-day training course for fire department officials opened here Wednesday at the University of Toronto. The course, sponsored by the Dominion Association of fire chefs and the Ontario Fire Marshall's office, featured studies of fire hazards for the first day.

Balfour Describes Bathurst Street Church as Communistic

Toronto, Oct. 27. (CP)—Controller David Balfour Wednesday described Bathurst Street United Church as "a centre of Communism" in this city, an accusation that was immediately denied by the church's pastor, Rev. Gordon Domm.

Mr. Balfour told the Board of Control that he based his charge on an incident during a forum debate in which he opposed Communist Stewart Smith, former controller. Mr. Balfour said he was booed while Mr. Smith was applauded.

Referring to the forum, the controller said the atmosphere of the church, "From the gallery to the floor," was Communist. He charged that the church had been a Communist centre for years.

Replied Mr. Domm in a statement:

"I categorically and unequivocally brand Controller Balfour's unwarranted attack as having no foundation in fact. The record of Bathurst Street United Church is open for inspection by any and all men. . ."

The discussion arose when Board of Control by a two-to-one decision rejected a request for a $3,000 grant for the beanery gang, a youth group now known as the Bathurst Community Club. The question of a grant goes to City Council next Monday.

MYSTERY LIGHT

west of Fort William, reported a "strange streak of fire" which moved through a cloudless afternoon sky from the southwest.

Some thought it might be a "comet" but this was discredited by some Canadian scientists.

Frank Stitch, a Hymers fruit nursery worker, said "it was a long streak, of fire, how many miles long, I could not estimate."

It was as bright as the sun and hurt the eyes to look at it," he added.

On Oct. 14, residents in Northern Ontario, Quebec and Alaska reported seeing "a blinding, bluish white blaze of light" and/or "a big ball of fire with a long tail."

Galt, Oct. 27. —(CP)—Several people attending a rugby game here Wednesday night reported they saw a strange light streak across the southern sky about 9:15 p.m.

They said at first it was like a white contrail and then it seemed to double above the clouds and break into a greenish tinted ball and drop.

One man, a former member of the RCAF, remarked that the mystery flash had all the appearances of a Verey light.

Toronto. —(CP)—Officials at Dunlap Observatory said the mysterious light which flashed across the Western Ontario sky Wednesday night was not visible here because of overcast skies. From descriptions given it was their opinion the light was a meteor.

Reports from Oshawa, London, Galt and Brantford in Ontario and Buffalo, N.Y., told of seeing a "strange streak of fire" which gave off a bright light at about 10 p.m. Wednesday night.

Observatory officials said that meteors are visible almost any night the sky is clear but that they would have to be a "very bright meteor to have been seen by so many people in different parts."

Brantford citizens spoke of "streamers of light, almost purple, which seemed to explode in the sky."

In Oshawa it was described as a white light "like a huge orange."

A housewife near London described a "giant rocket" which "would have been the last followed by a "long trail of multi-colored flashes."

Fans attending a football game in Galt said the light which first appeared white, seemed to explode above the clouds and break into a greenish tinted ball before it dropped.

Toronto —(CP)—Did you know that there are 100,000,000 meteors flashing through the atmosphere a day?

Dr. F. S. Hogg, director of Dunlap Observatory says there is "no reason to be in a "tizzey" about them.

"Any time you watch the sky carefully for an hour you'll see one," he said, "They're not really unusual because about 100,000,000 cross the atmosphere every day."

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Who has a perfect husband, but is lonely

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young mother of 25 and have two daughters, one five and the other nearly two. I have a perfect husband who neither drinks nor smokes, and who works hard for us. But I have one big problem. I have no friends and am alone all day.

My housework is done in the early morning, which leaves me with nothing to do in the afternoon, as the children play well. I like embroidering and do quite a bit of it, but I just don't go out to visit or meet people.

I would like it very much if you would ask any young mothers among your readers to drop me a letter so that in this way I could feel I have a friend or two.

L.

Dear L.:

Your problem is a very common one among young mothers who are kept in the house by having young children to care for, even though their home duties would not otherwise fill them down too much.

My advice in such cases is that a number of young mothers with children get together regularly at least one afternoon a week, either bringing the children along, so that all of them may play together while the mothers sew or play cards or something of the kind, or else taking turns baby sitting with the others' children so that the rest of the mothers might have a chance to go to the movies together or engage in some other pleasant form of recreation.

It is hard for me to believe that you wouldn't have at least one or two friends of your own age who would start such a project. If you really are entirely without friends, however, then I suggest that you pay a visit to your local YWCA and see if they have a young mother's club, or if not, ask if one could not be started. I am sure that if you use a little initiative you can find some way to have some good times with other young mothers. I don't think just writing to other young women is the answer to your problem and, anyhow, it is against my policy to introduce people by mail.

I wish you would take my advice and then let me know how you make out.

Wants to marry without parents' consent

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Is there any place in New England where a young man of 20 can be married without his parents consent? And how can a couple who are of different religions be married when the boy does not have his parents consent and the girl does?

C.

Dear C.:

Yes, there is one of the New England States in which a young man does not have to wait until he is 21 to marry without his parents' consent. But under the circumstances you mention—and indeed, under almost any other kind of circumstances—it seems to me far wiser for him to wait until he is older before deciding to oppose his parents in such a matter. When one is young, and very much in love, opposition is hard to take, I know. But many is the case where waiting has saved young people from making a bad mistake, and it is especially advisable where such a serious problem as religious difference is involved.

Street Dress And Stole

Seal stole and wool frock

By VERA WINSTON

SMART simplicity and wearability make for good fashion sense, as is demonstrated by this street dress. Of gray and black striped woollies, it has a lap-over panel in back and a black leather belt which can be worn over or under the accompanying black baby seal stole scarf. The stole is a versatile affair, and can be worn many ways. It has pockets at each end and is lined with red wool. It would be handsome with a tweed suit, or a plain coat.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BECKMAN

A gracious gesture . . . 14-year-old cousin receives separate invitation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father and mother received an invitation to my cousin's wedding. I received a separate invitation. I am 14 years old. Do you think that, since I received a separate invitation, I should send a separate present? And how should I reply to the invitation?

D. A.

I rejoice to tell you, my dear girl, that I am positive that the reason you received a separate invitation is that your cousin and her mother and father are so devoted to you that they wanted to make a special and loving gesture to you by sending you your very own invitation. And a very charming gesture it is!

In your excellent handwriting, and on the note-paper on which you wrote to me, write your acceptance, like this (spacing the lines carefully):

Miss Doris Allen accepts with pleasure the kind invitation of
Mr. and Mrs. Smith

For Tuesday, the eighth of July

(Your father's and mother's "Mr. and Mrs" acceptance should also be in this form.) Then you (and they too if they wish) may write a separate note to your cousin thanking her and her parents for the invitation, and telling her how happily you are looking forward to the Great Day. You may send a separate present if you wish . . . but this is not necessary.

Concerning "grandmother" and "Nanna"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In reference to your advice the other day in your column to a "new step-grandmother": Why not advise this young woman to suggest that her husband's grandchildren call her "Nanna"? Although I am old-fashioned enough to love to be called "Grandmother", my own grandchild seems to prefer to call me "Nanna" — and I have noticed several other grandchildren that we know also like to call their grandmothers "Nanna". I was surprised you did not suggest she be called "Nanna" . . . but of course I am my little girl's 'really-own' grandmother.

A. E.

That was just why I didn't advise that she suggest to her husband's grandchildren that they call her "Nanna" . . . because this loving name has now become practically synonymous with "Grandmother", but customarily, as you say, "a very dear grandmother". (As a matter of fact, even greeting cards now very often use "Nanna" for "Grandmother".)

Also I thought that perhaps, since the two names are now used practically interchangeably, the children might have called their grandmother by that name. You remember that in her question the young woman made it very clear that she was unwilling to be called "Grandmother" . . . so I imagine she would be unwilling to be called "Nanna", the synonym for "Grandmother". I do think . . . and I hope you agree . . . that under the circumstances, "Aunt" before her name would be the best name-solution.

Address reply to "Mr. and Mrs."

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just received a wedding invitation from "Mr. and Mrs.——". In answering the invitation should I address the envelope to "Mr. and Mrs.——", or to "Mrs.——" only?

L. C.

Address the reply to "Mr. and Mrs.——".

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Treatment of dry skin

It is no help to a woman to tell her that her complexion grief may be self-inflicted. It is well sometimes that the surface feels rough. A little razor burn on the bread, more oil in the salad dressing, a few slices of bacon for breakfast and soon there may be a change for the better.

If soap proves irritating to a dry skin there is a way to use it without unpleasant effects. Remove make-up with a thin cream, letting some of it remain on. Fluff up a suds in the washbowl, dip in a heavy washcloth, hold close to the flesh until it is warm and glowing. Rinse away the lather with tepid water, dry and apply a cream again.

There is no such thing as giving a dry skin too much oil. It laps it up. It should be applied at bedtime, without fail, be permitted to remain on until morning, by which time it will have disappeared.

Both cold and hot water may cause the skin to flake, so tepid water should be used, just warm enough to form a rich suds.

Massage is of help because it rouses the blood streams, is likely to normalize the functioning of the glands. When applying a cream, make it a practice to work it into the flesh for at least five minutes. Start the application at the collar bones, sweep up and down over the throat with flattened fingers. Press lightly on the tip of the chin up to the lobes, a movement that will prevent softness of tissues and subsequent flabbiness.

Do light tapping movements over the cheeks. Use your fingers like little hammers. On the forehead do rotary motions, working from the centre out to the temples. Give your ear lobes a little attention. But don't forget the main need; more fat in the diet to urge the sebaceous glands to a state of healthy activity.

You can't give a dry skin too much oil

The ideal complexion is neither dry nor excessively oily. These extremes are caused by the sluggishness or the over-activity of the sebaceous glands, designed to keep the skin surface in a normal condition. The behavior of these glands is influenced by the food we eat. Too much fat in the diet makes them oil makers work overtime, possibly to be rid of the amount of oil that they pick up. If the diet is low in fats, the skin is almost sure to be dry, so that sometimes that the surface feels rough. A little razor butter on the bread, more oil in the salad dressing, a few slices of bacon for breakfast and soon there may be a change for the better.

Fashion Flashes

GOOD IDEA is that of a glove designer who has worked out a whole line of calf trimmed suede gloves, making it easy to tie up with calf or suede shoes or bags. Another group uses calf with alligator trim for the cuffs.

COMING IN, after its big reception at Dior's showings, is the bloused line, already here in many coats and suits. In some designs, there is but a slight blousing in back; others especially belted suits, are softly bloused all around. This fashion will be more definite in early Spring clothes.

SEE-THROUGH bags, of clear plastic, are taking on new notions. A beauty, in clear amber, butterscotch or tortoise, is a top-handled, boxy affair, with two parts. The top part has its own lift-out tray, and both sections close separately, using a double lock which, like the hinges, is of non-tarnishable, polished brass.

WONDERFUL is a two-in-one design of hat and cape. Worn off the hair-line is a pointed cap of red velours trimmed with metallic braid twisted with pearl beads. This is worn over a capelet effect of mauve velvet, softly draped, that ties under the chin.

Cycle Pumping English Girls Cross the Rockies

Victoria, B.C., (CP)— Two young English girls, who wanted to see Canada and meet Canadian people, have had their wish fulfilled.

They have finished a leisurely 2 1-3 month cycling tour covering 1,630 miles from Calgary to Vancouver Island as part of the tour. And together they had only five flat tires on the journey through the Canadian Rockies.

The youthful adventurers are Joan Dilnot from London and Elizabeth Stephenson from Orpington, Kent.

Joan, born in France, has lived most of her life in England. She and Elizabeth have been chums since school days, and have been making plans for the Canadian tour together for a number of years.

Both served with the armed forces during the war, Joan in the WRNS and Elizabeth with the WAAM. On demobilization they decided to begin their often thought-of Canadian trip.

Elizabeth arrived in Toronto nearly two years ago, and Joan followed several months later. They took positions in Toronto and after saving their money travelled to Calgary.

Gears for Hills

On light sturdy English bicycles with three speed gears and with 70 pound packs, the girls began their journey to the West Coast on July 19.

They arrived in Victoria Sept. 27, and in an interview declared themselves "thrilled with western Canada!"

Both are full of praise for Canadian hospitality and for the "marvelous hostels."

"We've had about 350 miles of rides given us by kindly people, and Rave stayed with a magistrate and his family, and families of an engineer, lumberjack, storekeeper and foundry worker. And a cafe owner in Bridesville, B.C., let us use his cafe, after closing hours, to sleep in", they recount.

"Our whole trip, starting at Calgary has cost us only $100 apiece so far", they state. "That includes clothing too. We added raincoats to the small wardrobes."

After a visit on Vancouver Island and later in Vancouver, the girls plan to take ship for New Zealand where they'll spend several months, then a week in Australia en route to England.

Keep Your Curves and Stay Healthy Photographer's Advice

By MARIENNE IZSAK
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, (CP)—Which would you rather be? Slim, under-nourished and unhealthy? Or roundly-curved and bounding with health?

That is the leading question George Hurrell, who has photographed more beautiful women than most other men see in a lifetime, would like to ask the girls of today.

Hurrell believes girls are not only ruining their own health but that of future generations in their attempt to keep their figures down to model measurements.

"Some of the glamor girls I photograph are so thin, they're unhealthy. They don't eat. They are high-strung and nervous like race horses.' "

And, asks Hurrell, what kind of mother does that type of person make? They're a menace to the nation, too.

Girls throughout the country see pictures of these flat-chested, snake-hipped models and try to ape them.

"When beautiful girls from other sections of the country come to New York," continued Hurrell, "They're healthy. But when the fashion business makes models of them, they're almost shadows. And they have to keep themselves that way!"

Hollywood Has It

Women would do better of they looked to Hollywood for figures standards. Hollywood caters more to the masculine idea of feminine figure beauty. It likes curves on its stars.

Some of the figures Hurrell mentions as examples of the Perfect American Girl belong to Lana Turner, Betty Grable, Ann Sheridan and Esther Williams.

Well, what can be done about it?

In the first place, says Hurrell, women should band together to take action against an artificial standard of beauty. Don't let the fashion stylists and models decide for you what your figure should be like.

"The girls were able to get the vote. I don't see why they can't get together, assert their freedom and become real women, not imitations of a few undernourished models."

After that, it's up to the individual woman. Forget about that bit of salad and slice of fruit and eat a hearty meal.

Corner Grocer And Chamber Get Going Over

Montreal, Oct. 27—(CP)—The corner grocer got a going over today at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce—and so, indeed, did the Chamber of Commerce.

And if the corner grocer is afraid of the chain stores; well, he had better look out.

The going over was from D. H. Collister of New Westminster, B.C., who spoke on the subject "Merchants in the Chamber."

He said:

"Too often, the small merchant is inclined to blame others for his own deficiencies.

"He points to the growth of chain stores, department stores and wholesale houses as the reasons for his lack of business expansion.

"Actually, there has been a decrease in the number of chain stores in recent years, with no increase in volume."

Mr. Collister concluded:

"These facts point up the need for an added effort to train staffs and management, if business of smaller stores is to be developed."

However, before he took the smaller store to task, he gave the larger business organizations a paddling, he said.

"Boards of trade have always been interested in industrial promotion and civic development. On the prairies, boards have made wonderful progress with agricultural programs, but little is being done for the business which employs one in every seven employed persons in Canada. The retail merchant seems to be the forgotten man . . .

"There are so many things which can be done to provide a service to the merchant. His business needs protection and it can be developed through co-operative effort. It is surprising that our boards have not done more in this regard."

Fourteen Injured By Explosion In Apartment

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 27 (AP) — An explosion Tuesday night wrecked a four-family apartment building in a housing development, injuring 14 persons.

Police said only 14 persons were in the building when the explosion came. All were accounted for. Only three remained in hospital. Eight of the injured were children.

The blast rocked buildings in a five-block area. It threw some people out of bed in nearby units of the Cedar Springs housing project.

Leroy Shannon, 23, said the explosion occurred in his apartment.

Shannon said he and his wife were in the rear of their apartment at 11.30 p.m., when a terrific blast knocked them down. Shannon said the explosion was accompanied by a blinding sheet of flame.

The explosion lifted the roof off the one-story frame and stucco building and dropped it back, wrecking all four apartments.

Battalion Fire Chief J. W. Owens said he had no idea what caused the explosion.

But a tenant said he had smelled gas for several days and had reported it to maintenance men, who repaired the stove in Mrs. Virginia Ballard's apartment Tuesday.

Asks Six Months In Jail to Live Out the Winter

Toronto, Oct. 27—(CP)—A destitute 72-year-old unemployed laborer was given six months in jail at his own request, so he "could live out the winter."

He told the court he had been sleeping in lanes and eating scraps that he found at the rear of restaurants for the last couple of weeks.

He was fined $5 or six months on a charge of vagrancy.

See: Taxi-Driver Who Allegedly Threw Woman From Cab

Toronto, Oct. 27—(CP)—Police hunted today for a taxi-driver alleged to have thrown a 30-year-old married woman from his moving cab as she fought to resist his advances.

The woman, hysterical and suffering shock and bruises, was taken to hospital after a truck driver found her at the side of No. 3 Highway just outside Toronto.

She told police later that she had hailed the cab about midnight and asked to be driven home. When the driver made indecent advances, she screamed and hit him, she said.

The woman said he slapped her face, opened a door of the automobile and pushed her out.

Jefferson Academy Pilot Plant In Huge System

Washington, Miss., Oct. 27 — (AP)—A school here, asked by its wealthy benefactor to "teach" . . . the superiority of the Anglo-Saxon and Latin American races," is only a pilot plant in a huge educational plan.

Allen Jack Armstrong, son of the George W. Armstrong who promises endowing Jefferson Military College with mineral rights and land worth $30,000,000, told a reporter that "Jefferson will be a sort of pilot plant."

"My father told me that if Jefferson is a success, he will spend every cent he owns on similar endowments to other schools."

The elder Armstrong, 84 and one of Mississippi's more colorful characters, has vast holdings in oil lands and has steel and utilities interests.

He proposed making the endowment to the small school (enrolment 47) if changes already agreed to by the trustees, in the school's charter would:

1. Ban Negroes, Asiatics and non-Christians from the student body or faculty.

2. Allow the Judge Armstrong Foundation to name a majority of the trustees.

Jack Armstrong and other trustees denied that under the new charter the 147-year-old prep school would teach white supremacy.

In the United Church Sunday evening the Reverend C. V. Neeland of Alkens pastoral charge was the guest speaker. The pastor the Rev. L. Scott taking the service on Mr. Neeland's charge. The senior choir was in attendance.

Stirring Message

Mr. Neeland spoke on the text "I Will Go Not Unto You Then at the Beginning." God's promise to the Israelites after they had been conquered and everything lost. Ezekiel now had the task of lifting up their hearts after such a glorious past with such great men as Abraham, Joseph, Moses and Joshua.

Mr. Neeland asked "If we of the present day believe such a promise, as a church and a community. It is indeed a challenge and do we dare accept it?" "There was a time when the Bible was the word around which the home was organized. Churches were full. We are now learning as nations to destroy each other. Morality has slipped."

Mr. Neeland continued his message with the thought that we learn by experience, a few lessons. Slavery has now disappeared. Child labor is no more a working day of ten to twelve hours. Dignity of women is recognized today.

Should Accept God's Promise

"We should accept this promise as Jesus came from God and He lives among us today. Thus God will not fail mankind in their hour of need. We need just to consider the strides in science today. Over 100 years ago it took two days for the news of the King of England's death to reach Canada.

"We read to lay aside hatred, bitterness and scheming. We so often only think of the future life when death comes to someone dear. God depends on us and we must do our part. Let us not dwell upon the past as there is a glorious future," stated Rev. Neeland.

Sharpest Attack on Labor Govt. Made by Former Socialist

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 27 — (CP). — One of the oddities of the Conservative Party's 70th annual conference was that the sharpest attack on Britain's Labor government came from a man who used to be a Socialist himself.

Dark-haired Ivor Thomas, 43-year-old son of a Welsh brick worker, stepped to the conference platform and dealt harshly with his former colleagues.

Here's what he had to say about three leading members of the government:

Health Minister Aneurin Bevin —"His only contribution to the House of Commons debate on devaluation was to change the subject. Since then he has openly boasted that his method of running the finances of the National Health Service was to think of a number, and then double it."

Too Big for Boots

Harold Wilson, President of the Board of Trade — "A source of amusement when Mr. Wilson says he went to school without boots it was because he was too big for them. Mr. Wilson once referred in a speech to Lancashire children going to school without shoes because their parents couldn't afford them.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer — "He reads the lesson, preaches the sermon and takes the collection as well — eight shillings out of every pound you earn."

It was Thomas' maiden speech as a member of the Conservative Party, which he joined last January. His warm-backs won a rapturous reception from most of the 4,500 delegates but observers doubted whether they went down well with the party leadership.

One prominent Conservative suggested the address would have been better material for a music hall comedian than for a political speaker.

Oxford Graduate

Thomas was elected Labor member of parliament for Keighley, Yorkshire, in 1942, with a brilliant record at Oxford behind him, he advanced quickly, serving Prime Minister Attlee's administration first as a parliamentary secretary for civil aviation and then as colonial under-secretary.

His loyalty to Labor began to waver last year and in October he quit the party, calling himself a "repentant sinner." He said his chief complaint was the government's determination to nationalize the iron and steel industry.

Once an editorial writer for Fleet Street newspapers, including the Times, Thomas has written several books. In the latest, published this month, he sums up his reasons for forsaking Socialism under the title, "The Socialist Tragedy."

STATE BUSINESS TAKES FRANCO AND WIFE TO PORTUGAL

Senora Carmen Polo Franco, wife of Generalissimo Franco, is shown (right) when she was greeted in Lisbon, Portugal, by Madame Antonio Carmona, wife of president of Portugal, and government and military officers. Senora Franco arrived by train and was joined later in the day by her husband. Franco is currently on a state visit to Portugal, reportedly to announce Spanish approval of Portugal's participation in the Atlantic Pact. It is the first state visit to Portugal of any distinguished foreign official since the late King Alfonso XIII of Spain visited there in 1909. — Central Press Canadian.

OPPOSITION SEEKS

At the outset of financial discussions, Mr. Abbott announced that the government will announce before the end of the current session a grant-in-lieu-of-taxation formula for federal properties in municipalities across the country.

Transfer Divorce Bills

At House opening, the Commons gave first reading to a private member's bill that would transfer Quebec and Newfoundland divorce bills from parliament to the Exchequer Court. The bill obtained first reading over a chorus of vocal objections.

In the Senate, debate continued on a Commons-approved bill to abolish appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council. The Senate also gave third reading to an act to incorporate Prairie Transmission Lines Limited, a company which proposes to pipe natural gas from Alberta to the Vancouver area and points in northwestern United States.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) touched off the involved discussion of the system of examining proposed government expenditures.

He suggested that the public accounts committee of the Commons have an opinion member as chairman in its job of scrutinizing every government expenditure. This would follow the method used in the United Kingdom parliament.

Mr. Diefenbaker also asked that opposition members have at least part of the expert assistance and information which now is available to cabinet ministers on financial matters.

Raised Out of Order

Mr. Abbott suggested that members take advantage of the opportunities now offered to them to check government expenditures.

Government expenditures were presented annually in the blue book which gave details and reasons for each expenditure.

If any member wished to question the details of the expenditures, departmental officials would be available to answer their questions.

When the debate ended, speaker Rose MacDonald ruled out of order a motion by Mr. Diefenbaker calling for a Canadian Bill of Rights.

Mr. MacDonald said that the Bill, calling for a Supreme Court of Canada ruling on the division of freedom powers between the dominion and the provinces, would involve the expenditure of public funds.

He reminded members that only members of the cabinet could sponsor bills requiring public expenditures.

At adjournment time, F. E. Gagnon (Ind-Chicoutimi) was discussing his resolution calling for a special committee to examine the "advisability or granting to the French-Canadians the proportion and class of civil service positions to which they are entitled."

HOME PLANS APPROVED

Cornwall, Oct. 26 — (CP) — The United States Counties Council of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Tuesday approved plans for a new home for the aged to be constructed east of here at an estimated cost of $1,-226,300. The plans will be forwarded to the Ontario Welfare Department for approval. They call for construction of a two-storey building and of cabins for married couples.

GOVT. REJECTS

Buying Better Home

The minister added:

"The present position is that new houses cost about twice what they did 10 years ago. The increase in price has been somewhat greater for existing houses than for construction . . .

"The increase in the sales price of new smaller houses corresponds closely to the increase which has taken place in the price of building materials, and wage rates in the construction industry."

Mr. Winters pointed out that the government was continuing a policy that increased loans to home owners will only be made available if the home owner purchases his home at a fair and reasonable price.

"It is to be remembered that presently the home owner is on the average buying a better house than he did 10 or 15 years ago," the minister added. "Mechanical equipment, as well as construction methods and material have improved to the extent that at least some of the present extra cost is represented by this difference in quality."

Mr. Monteith, in his letter to Mr. Winters had said high cost home construction is making "it impossible for literally tens and hundreds of thousands of Canadians to own their own homes."

TROPICAL MONTREAL

Montreal — (CP) — Remember last winter when a restaurant owner brought a palm tree from Florida and planted it on a Montreal street? Well, here's a progress report: the tree is doing just fine and has 150 coconuts—small but real—growing on it.

High Legal Fees In Aussie Appeal

London — (CP) — The fee of £9,217 ($28,379.70) received by Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, for his work in the Australian banking appeal recently before the Privy Council, is one of the highest in legal history.

D. R. Menzies, of the Victorian Bar, received a fee of £4,494. It is estimated that the case cost at least £,300,000, of which the share of the state of Victoria was £,17,000.

The hearing lasted for 36 days—a record — and the result was that the Australian federal government lost its appeal against the decision of the Australian high court that the proposal to nationalize the banks was invalid under the constitution.

Although the Privy Council judgment was announced on July 27, no reasons for it have yet been given and no order has been made in regard to costs.

Five Injured In Car Crash

Midland, Oct. 27 —(CP)— One Orillia Collegiate Institute football player is in hospital, another nearly lost an ear and four more escaped with only a shaking up when the car in which they were travelling to Penetanguishene for a football game skidded on wet pavement and landed on its roof in a ditch.

The players were about a half-mile west of Midland when the driver, reported to be Gerry Taylor, lost control of the car after rounding a curve. Ernie Thompson, 16, was pinned underneath and suffered severe cuts to the face and head.

Bill Bull, 15, had 19 stitches put in his left ear, but was able to watch the game later from the sidelines.

Also in the car were Frank Nettleton, Ron Chapman, Bob Wilkie and Tom McEwen. All four took part in the game won by Grills 23-11.

Drive to Increase Use of Wines In Britain Opened by Association

By WILLIAM ROSS
(Central Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 27 — (CP) — The Wines and Spirit Association says that 90 per cent of the people of Britain are "not interested in wine"—and has set out to change the situation.

The association, keen on making Britons as wine-conscious as continentals, is launching a threefold campaign. It wants the treasury to reduce duties on wines, bringing them within range of the average purse, and secondly it's going in for advertising in a big way.

A recently-completed association survey has revealed that less than three pct cent of British men and women are "interested" in wines at any time.

That is, less than three per cent would consider buying wines for their own table, or in restaurants, would drink them unless offered them at a public or private function.

Of 4,000 persons questioned last summer, the association found that nearly half had a "drink" during the preceding 24 hours. But of the total, only one per cent had had wine, and the remainder had drunk spirits or liquers.

A. W. Mahoney, secretary of the association, said "70 per cent of the people in this country are completely uninterested in wines —the thought of touching one never occurs to them."

In austerity Britain — referred to quaintly by the Times as "the circumstances of today" — the newspapers said "importers are affected not only by the inability of the 'landed gentry' to replenish their cellars but also by the lack of such custom as once came from middle-class consumers."

Indicative of the increase in prices over 10 years ago are those for claret. Before the war this tax on claret was only 8d. and prices ran from 2s 6d, for good varieties to 10s for extremely good. Top prices in restaurants were 22s. Today the cheapest bottles sell at 8s, good ones at 22s, and the best in restaurants cost £3— more expensive than champagne.

French table wines now cost 8s. or 9s. a bottle, two or three times pre-war.

Eight Convicts Escape Jail, Take Guns, Ammunition

Break Led by 18-Year-Old Life-Term Prisoner

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 27 — (AP) — A widespread manhunt was on today for eight convicts who escaped from the New Castle county prison with guns and ammunition taken from the jail arsenal.

The slight — led by an 18-year-old life-term prisoner — made a daring break through the prison's front gate Wednesday night after locking up Guard Captain Harry Harrington and taking another guard as a shield.

A burst of machine-gun fire from a prison tower failed to stop them.

Harrington's version of the escape gave these details:

Shortly before 8 p.m., the prisoners were taken back to their cell blocks from the exercise yard.

Danny Morris, 18-year-old life termer convicted of slaying a Wilmington detective Thomas Conaty on Christmas, 1947, asked Harrington for a headache pill. The convict then jumped Harrington and Guard Harry Beck. Marched to Cell

The two guards were marched to a cell and locked in.

Leaving his companions hidden behind a staircase, Norris went to the door leading to the main portion of the prison building. He asked Guard Charles Lynch to let him through to get some papers from the printing shop where Norris worked.

As Lynch opened the door, he was seized and marched past the office of Warden Elwood H. Wilson to the prison arsenal. There, the convicts used Lynch's keys to open the steel door and took a quantity of guns and ammunition.

Handcuffing Lynch, the men marched in single file prison fashion — toward the gate house with Lynch at the head of the line, a pistol in his back.

One of the convicts pressed the button controlling the electrically-operated gate and the parade moved out into the open.

Tower Guard Raymond Pritchard spotted the men but withheld fire until the convicts shoved Lynch aside and ran. Then he fired a burst of bullets but apparently none struck the fleeing men.

COALITION PARTY MAY GET SEVERAL ACCLAMATIONS

106 Candidates in Field With Coalition Supported by 65

Winnipeg, Oct. 27—(CP)—Nominations for Manitoba's Nov. 10 provincial election close today at 1 p.m. CST (3 p.m. EST). The indication was that at least a dozen government supporters would receive acclamations.

An unofficial count Wednesday night showed 106 candidates in the field, with Premier Douglas L. Campbell's coalition supported by 65. Seventeen ridings had only one candidate—a coalition candidate in each case. Among those unopposed was Mr. Campbell, who won by acclamation in both the 1941 and 1945 elections.

Seven members of his cabinet also were without opposition on the basis of Wednesday night's check. The opposing forces, of which the C.C.F. is the main group, faced competition in all but four ridings. The C.C.F. had 34 candidates, at Wednesday night's count.

The 1945 election produced seven acclamations, while there were 16 acclamations in 1941.

The Liberal-Progressives, headed by the Premier, had 44 candidates in the field. Other coalition contingents were: Progressive Conservatives 16, Independents three, and Independent Liberal-Progressive two.

The opposition candidates, apart from the C.C.F., included one Independent C.C.F., four Independents, three Conservatives, four Independent Liberals, two Independent Conservatives, one Independent Progressive Conservative and two Labor-Progressives.

Vote on November 10th

Voters will cast ballots Nov. 10 for 56 of the 57 members who will sit in Manitoba's 23rd Legislature, in the remaining riding, Ruperts Land in the far north, voting was deferred until Dec. 14.

Only one woman had been named as a candidate by Wednesday night, Mrs. Ina Thompson was one of three C.C.F. nominees for the four-member riding of Winnipeg Centre.

Political observers were unanimous in terming this one of the quietest campaigns in Manitoba history. The principal fuss centered on this question: "Is coalition good or bad?"

The coalition had 36 supporters at dissolution Sept. 9, including the two Social Crediters, 28 Liberal-Progressives, eight Progressive Conservatives and one Independent. The opposition, which totalled 21 members, included eight C.C.F. members, four Independents, one Labor-Progressive, two Independent Progressive Conservatives and one Independent Liberal. There were three vacancies.

Redistribution of constituencies this year has increased the number of seats to two.

Forest Products Exports Slump

Ottawa, Oct. 27 (CP)—Exports of Canada's rich rangeland and forest products slumped sharply last month, interrupting the Dominion's drive to sell more on the dollar-rich United States market.

Led by an almost 50 per cent drop in cattle and meat exports over September last year, cumulative exports to the United States for the first nine months of the year, of $1,024,300,000 now are $16,000,000 lower than in the same period of 1948, the bureau of statistics reported Wednesday.

Cattle and meat products account for $28,000,000 of the $31,601,000 September decline in exports over the same month in 1948. A lumber and newsprint drop of $28,220,000 accounted for most of the remainder.

OCEAN CROSSING IS 'ROUGHEST IN 41 YEARS'

Most Passengers on Giant Liner Seasick

Paris, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—The Queen Elizabeth arrived at Cherbourg 24 hours late today after a trans-Atlantic voyage which one of the crew described as "the roughest crossing in 41 years at sea."

Most of the 600 passengers who disembarked said they had been violently seasick. Nobody was injured, but several objects were smashed in the fierce Atlantic gales.

The Hampton ferry from Dover arrived five hours late at Dunkerque this morning when the Deglish Channel ferry service, suspended for a time Wednesday by the worst October gale in 25 years, was resumed.

After causing havoc on land and sea during the last four days, the gale was subsiding and the weather in the channel ports was cold and almost windless.

London, Oct. 27 (AP)—London's tens, experts expected to 23 today—the coldest weather since last spring. Cooking, testing and lighting in many areas were hampered by the first power cuts of the season.

Such cuts in the power supply have been an almost daily winter occurrence of Britain's recent austerity winters. With colder weather millions use more electricity for cooking and heating.

With 10 per cent less electricity available for three morning hours, there obviously will look millions of housewives longer to cook breakfast on electric stoves.

The initial cuts were made only in areas where there isn't much industry so manufacturing plants would not be affected

Beef Selling At Near-Record Prices at Chicago

Chicago, Oct. 27 (AP)—Beef on the hoof is selling today at near-record prices in the Union Stock Yards.

The top 1949 price for cattle, paid Wednesday, was $41.50 a hundred pounds for prime steers. It's the kind of steer which is sold directly to "name" restaurants, clubs and hotels. It doesn't get into the butcher shop.

"People who will buy those steaks don't ask much whether the price is $3 or $5," one livestock commission man said. "There's always a steady demand for beef from those restaurants, regardless of price."

Percy Clark, a cattle feeder of Ogden, Iowa, sent in the top prize load, which consisted of 17 head of Aberdeen-Angus steers. Percy Clark is also, represented at the International Livestock Show, and local traders thought these steers had been culled out from loads he planned to send to the show.

In the last two weeks prices for prime cattle have skyrocketed.

Firefighters Come As Far as Fifty Miles to Save Village

Emsdale, Ont., Oct. 27 — (CP) — Four fire departments saved this village Wednesday night when fire destroyed the main store and an adjacent factory and threatened to wipe out other stores and the Anglican Church here with all $300,000.

Firefighters who helped to confine the flames to the Emsdale Trading Store and the Fine Metals Manufacturing Company plant next door came from as far away as 50 miles.

FOSSILIZED WORM FOUND

London, Oct. 27 (CP)—A fossilized worm that may be 180,000,000 years old has been discovered during excavations on the Thames south bank—site of the 1951 Festival of British Exhibition. "From it experts hope to learn something new about prehistoric London," a festival official said. "The workmen on this site have been asked to watch for relics and unusual objects."

Scotches Rumors Of Nationalization Of Whisky

London, Oct. 27—(AP)—Food Minister John Strachey yesterday scotched rumors the government may nationalize whisky.

Strachey threw water on the idea in a written reply to Emrys Hughes, Labor member from South Ayrshire in whisky-distilling Scotland.

Hughes asked Strachey: "In view of the growing importance of the export of whisky as a means of facing the dollar shortage and in view of the substantial profits made by whisky distillers, will we introduce legislation to make the production and export of whisky a state monopoly?"

Strachey's reply was a fast "no".

CANADA'S SALES TO UNITED STATES SHOW DECREASE

Cuts in Cattle, Meat, Lumber and Newsprint Pulled Down the Total

Ottawa, Oct. 27, (CP)— Canada is lagging behind this year in her drive to sell more to the United States.

Exports to the U.S. for the first nine months of the year have been $1,024,300,000 or $16,000,000 lower than in the same period of 1948, Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday.

Exports of gold were not included in the bureau's report. Import figures were not given.

Total export trade fell nine per cent during the month to $228,400,000 from $251,700,000 in August and was 29 per cent below the unusually high total for September, 1948. Imports exports were boosted by removal of an export ban on cattle.

Big cuts in exports of cattle meat, lumber and newsprint pulled down the export total.

Sales in the U.S. were $113,700,000 a drop from 115,400,000 in August.

Canada's total exports for the first nine months of 1949 have been $2,144,000,000, about $12,000,000 lower than in the same period last year.

Sales to the United Kingdom were about $11,000,000 higher during September, they totaled $58,200,000 and for the first nine months of the year have been $535,600,000, compared with $523,800,000 for the same period last year.

Exports Fall Sharply

Total sales to Commonwealth countries during the month were $77,700,000 compared with $75,800,000 in September, 1948. For the nine-months of 1949 they were $475,600,000 as against $747,400,000 in 1948.

Exports to Europe fell sharply to $37,100,000 from $47,600,000 in September, 1948 and the cumulative total from $322,000,000 in 1948 to $172,100,000 in 1949

Latin America bought $8,708,000 worth of Canadian product, a drop from the $10,946,000 of September last year and the cumulative total were $74,400,000 in 1949 and $88,986,000 in 1948.

As a result sharp drop in exports of cattle and meat,-the value of animal and animal products shipments dropped sharply from $57,200,000 to $29,300,000 while smaller shipments of planks, boards, wood pulp and newsprint cut exports of wood products from $96,546,000 to $68,228,000.

Exports of farm produce rose from $45,000,000 to $53,100,000, largely as a result of an increase in wheat exports from $15,081,000 to $20,210,000. During the nine months, wheat exports rose from $146,459,000 to $312,273,000. Total farm exports for the nine month period were $340,500,000 compared with $403,100,000.

Newsprint shipments declined to $32,681,000 from $38,920,000 but the nine months total was up to $310,180,000 from $277,-253,000.

U. K. GRANTS ASYLUM TO COUNCILMAN

London, Oct. 27 — (Reuters) — The British government today granted asylum to Mihaly Grencser, 55-year-old passport clerk at the Hungarian embassy here. Grencser resigned his post four days ago after the foreign office had demanded his recall as a reprisal for the alleged kidnapping by Hungarian police of a former employee at the British legation in Budapest.

PICKETS MAINTAIN ROUND-THE-CLOCK WATCH AT GATES

5,200 Workers Out On Strike at Oshawa

Oshawa, Oct. 27 — (CP)—Approximately 5,200 automotive workers are on strike here while pickets maintaining a round-the-clock watch at gates of the big plant of the General Motors of Canada Ltd.

The strike, climax of three walk-outs in five days, was called Wednesday by the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O.). The Union decided to strike when four men — three union stewards, and one committee — manner dismissed.

They were dismissed, the union said, when they objected to an alleged company plan to increase the output of car and truck units on the assembly line from 40 to 47 an hour.

The company said it discharged the men because they refused to resume work on the instructions of the supervision chief. The committee-man was dismissed, the company said, because he incited employees on the chassis assembly line to support the body men by refusing to continue their work.

Earlier the company and the union committee had a short meeting, called to discuss the dismissal notices. After it, a company statement said the bargaining committee abruptly terminated the meeting. The strike followed.

The union contends that 40 units an hour is the capacity of the production line.

This is denied by the company, which says the works standards are fair and within the reasonable working capacity of normal operators.

If the strike lasts more than a week, subsidiary firms supplying parts to the motor company may have to lay off some of their workers. Already Duplate Canada, Ltd., Oshawa, windshield manufacturers, has laid off 40 employees.

Dozen Persons Are Injured In Toronto Traffic

Toronto, Oct. 27 — (CP) — A dozen persons were injured in traffic accidents in Toronto Wednesday night and early today and a charge of careless driving has been laid against one of the drivers involved.

Two men and a woman were seriously injured when their automobile skidded on a wet road, hit Dufferin Street and crashed into a hydro-pole. Driver W. H. Campbell was pinned behind the wheel and suffered a possible fractured skull and internal injuries.

Four youths were taken to hospital when the car in which they were riding was struck by a street-car and pushed 45 feet along the tracks. The car driver, Irving Borchiver, 22, was charged with careless driving.

Nine-year-old Daniel Taylor suffered a possible fractured skull when knocked down by an automobile in front of his home.

People Snoop Through Hole In Cow's Stomach

Pullman, Wash., Oct. 27—(AP)—Don't talk about goldfish, in front of cows, a cow with built-in video. Compared with her, fish in a bowl live a life of seclusion.

For two years people have been snooping through a hole in bossie's stomach to see what goes on inside.

The only time she gets any privacy is in the winter. Then she wears a rubber plug in her side to keep the drafts out.

Professor C. Stone, chairman of the Department of Veterinary Physiology and Pharmacology at Washington State College, cut the eight-by three inch peephole in the cow's rumen (stomach No. 1) two years ago so his students could get a first-hand view of a cow's inner life.

Despite her public interior, bossie, age eight, is a normal contented cow, Dr. Stone said. She eats well, and her spring gave birth to a healthy calf.

Stray Calves Upset Farm Life Of Mrs. Dingle

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 27. — (AP)—Six stray calves have upset the serene farm life of Mrs. Nelson Dinkle.

They also are eating like they want to get real fat, quickly.

Mrs. Dinkle, 30, and her husband, operate a small grain and dairy farm and there are no facilities for the six calves.

Mrs. Dinkle brought the calves home a few days ago after she found them roaming along the highway. She put them in her chicken yard, hoping the owner would come and get them.

When they were unclaimed, Mrs. Dinkle asked her lawyer what she should do with the calves.

The law relating to strays—valuable animals, not wild, found wandering from their owner — says Mrs. Dinkle must care for the cattle for one year if unclaimed. Then she can sell the calves, deduct the cost of their year's upkeep from the proceeds and turn the balance over to the county.

Mrs. Dinkle says she has no way of caring for them for two years, so she plans a display advertisement in the Champaign News Gazette. She hopes the calves' owner will see it and claim his livestock.

BD. STUDIES AGREEMENT

Toronto, Oct. 27 (CP)—An agreement came before Board of Control Wednesday under which the Canadian Pacific Railway will pay the city $10,000 in lieu of business taxes on the Royal York Hotel. Another agreement with the Toronto Terminal Railway called for payment of $7,500 in lieu of property taxes on a steam plant which hosts the hotel and Toronto's Union Station. The board deferred approval.

QUEEN'S HONORS WAR DEAD

This large recreation hall, replacing a smaller structor which was destroyed by fire two years ago, will be opened by Governor-General Alexander next Sunday to honor Queen's University students who died in two world wars. More than 350 of the 4,500 Queen's students and alumni who served in the two wars were killed in action. — (CP Photo.)

Three Fellows 'In the Chips' Thanks to Horses

(By The Canadian Press)

Three "little fellows"—a rail-road conductor, a rubber worker and an office clerk—are in the chips today, thanks to horses labelled Reliable and Good Taste

Sterope's victory in the Cambridgeshire handicap at Newmarket, England, was worth $77,500 in Irish Sweepstakes money for each of the 43,000 tickets sold.

Third-place money $15,500 each goes to Don S. Winder of Montreal and 11-year-old Eva Smith of Toronto, Mewsey Hampton is the horse which won for them.

St. Cyr, the big winner, had his ticket 4th 16564 and his nom-de-plume was "Never Win."

"We were all terribly surprised," said his daughter Jeannine. "Daddy was having dinner when the radio announced the 4th ticket. He dashed out without finishing and I don't know where he is now."

"Anyway, he is very happy. I don't know what he will do with the money."

Build Up Your System With Syntona Compound

felt fatigued and wornout.

If you feel tired, worn out and nervous; if bowels are constipated and you suffer from indigestion, gas, sour, upset stomach and rheumatic pain; if you have dizzy spells, headaches and nerves are on edge so you cannot get sound, restful sleep—take a short treatment of Syntona Herbal Compound, the medicine which has helped thousands of men and women suffering this same way.

You, too, may find this medicine to be just what you need to make you feel like yourself again.

Here, for example, is the recent experience of Mrs. Mary Oliver, 249 King Street, Ingersoll, Ontario, who said:

"For a long time I suffered with constipation, disordered stomach and nervousness because my system was full of poisons. I had a very poor appetite, what little food I did eat gave me awful gas cramps and sour acid things afterwards. I was subject to sick headaches and dizzy spells with dark rooms floating before my eyes. I had rheumatic pains finally settled in my limbs, hands and knees, and my nerves were so on edge I couldn't get my proper sleep. I constantly also entered the picture with cold winds and hail, 29-0.

The spectators may have been cold but the players were still hot. Ken Allen, B.C.I.'s left-half was singled after two nice plunges that put the Collegiate on Trenton's one yard line, Brown backed the ball over for another touchdown, The Bellevillians had a field day for still another was scored by Massey by a long plunge. The Collegiate feels that Trenton was a good bunch of clean sportsmen and losers.

B.C.I. seniors are proud of their record of 127 scored points to only 5 scored against them. Coach H. Townsend has called for extra heavy practice between now and the Peterborough clash.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By KEN KELLY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Edmonton, Oct. 27 — (CP) — Many people climb out on a limb at playoff time in any sport, and George (Edmonton Journal) MacKintosh is no exception.

He figures Saskatchewan Roughriders, on the basis of recent performance, should be about the money to topple the powerful Calgary Stampeders when the two clubs meet in the playoffs of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Best Form . . .

"Strictly off their performances last weekend — a 9-5 win at Calgary and a 29-11 triumph here—the Roughriders have reached their best form of the year, and if they can retain their present edge, they'll be no worse than an even bet against the Stampeders in the playoffs.

The Roughriders pass defence is the only weak point in their armour, Mackintosh wrote.

"They'll have to tighten up in this department before they go in against the Stampeders in the all-important two-game total-point series. Calgary has cut Keith Spaith tossing the lemon around like Keith Spaith can, that could spell trouble in capital letters"

While George is out on his football limb, Stu (Edmonton Bulletin) Mohey has shinnied out on a limb of his own. Says Stan:

"No matter what you hear to the contrary, Joe Louis is stone hands, accounting for his frequent exhibition appearances. And in the end he'll fight Ezzard Charles for the heavyweight crown he wore for so long with that 'man of

B.C.I. Seniors Skunk Trenton By 39-0 Score

(By Don Rose)

B.C.I. Senior whitewashed Trenton Highschoolers 39-0 in a decision game of Bay of Quinte District COSSA schedule. That victory gives B.C.I. a crack at Peterborough C.I. here in the past taken the COSSA championship consistently. Trenton had Albert College last week but were no match for the locals. The game was staged at Bell Memorial Park under very blowy and snowy conditions.

The Collegiate kicked to Trenton who failed to gain and kicked as they were forced to do many times later for they never once reached centre field with the ball. Galbraith kicked for a single after 4 minutes of play. Later Galbraith plunged 25 yards McMillan 10, and Locke quarter sneaked for a major. Convert failed. B.C.I. 6, Trenton 0.

Walmsley scored a major on a plunge to the 5 yard line, another to the 1, and still another over the touch line. The convert was good by a spot pass from McBride to Massey. Trenton held firm until 3 minutes to half when McBride intercepted a pass and ran for 25 yards. An aerial pass again clicked, McBride to Lazenby. Ketcheson snagged one for the convert. 18-0.

Aerial Attack Clicks . . .

The aerial pass display continued in the third quarter with a major, Ketcheson from McBride. No convert. McBride again came through with a centre kick back for another counter. McMillan was credited with the convert. All this time Trenton was showered good team spirit, but were unable to do anything against the Collegiate. Mother Nature

Commissioner Orders Full Share For Southworth

Versailles, Ky., Oct. 27. —(AP) —There's one assist baseball statisticians won't record this season. It came from Confinalsioner A. B. Chandler.

The commissioner announced here Wednesday he had directed that Southworth receive a full share of the World Series money earned by the fourth-finishing National League Boston club.

Southworth, the commissioner said, was voted only a half share by the Boston players. A full share was worth $331.66 for the Braves.

"Rarely do we find an injustice," said Chandler, "but if we do we correct." He explained there had been other such cases previously.

Southworth apparently was not disturbed about the money split. "Whatever the team decided to do—if they voted me a half share—that's all right with me" he said at his home at Sunbury, Ohio. "After all I was not with the team for the full season and whatever they decided I am heartily in accord with."

2,000-YEAR-OLD BIBLE PARCHMENT

His Grace, the Rev. Athanasius Yeshue Samuel, archbishop and metropolitan of Jerusalem and Trans-Jordan, is shown with a 24-foot roll or parchment containing virtually the entire text of the Book of Exodus from the Old Testament. It is one of three ancient Hebrew scrolls placed on public display in the Library of Congress. The first time they'll be seen by the general public anywhere in the world. They were found in a cave south of Jericho in 1947 by two Arab shepherds when their wayward goat, seeking greener pastures, led them to the secret hideaway. Believed to be over 2,000 years old, they're hailed as the greatest find of biblical documents in history. Archbishop Samuel is lending them to the Library of Congress —Central Press Canadian.

Declares Sunday Day of Worship By Tradition

Toronto, Oct. 27 — (CP) — Most. Rev. Philip Carrington, Anglican Archbishop of Quebec, started discussions among spokesmen of other churches here to-day declaration that Sunday is the day of worship only by tradition.

Nowhere in the Bible is it laid down that worship should be done on Sunday, he said.

What Archbishop Carrington was pointing out was that "the Bible commandment says 'On the seventh day thou shalt rest'."

"That is Saturday."

Essentially Correct

His was speaking at a service in Convocation Hall, University of Toronto, commemorating the 400th anniversary of the Church of England in Canada.

A spokesman for the Roman Catholic Seminary here said "strictly speaking, the archbishop is correct."

"There is no spiritual rule for the observance of Sunday, but the Church has got enough.

"In the Bible there is evidence that Christ established a church to carry out His work. He gave that church authority to carry out God's work on earth. Because the Resurrection occurred on Sunday, and because of the general acceptance today of Sunday as a day of rest, it is fitting now that Sunday should be observed instead of Saturday, as under the old rule."

There is a specific church commandment stating Sunday should be observed, the St. Augustine's Seminary spokesman added.

Changed by Emperor

Rabbi David Monson of Beth Synagogue said the change from Saturday; the seventh day, to Sunday was made because of Emperor Constantine,

"He changed the Christian Sabbath to Sunday," he said. "The original Christians were all Jews. They celebrated the Sabbath on Saturday."

Rev. G. H. Bowker, Anglican pastor of Grace Church-on-the-Hill, said "there is no specific commandment in the New Testament on which day shall be kept holy."

The simple fact is that we keep holy the first day of the week because it was the day of the Resurrection of Christ."

Various items of business came up for discussion. The men of the congregation have completed installing the church and several donations had been made toward the work. Plans for Moira's share of the church circuit supper were discussed and a report of the flower committee, Victory Class and M.B.

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

Dal glanced up once. He realized, in one breathless rush, that the top was 120 feet away— the height of a 10 or 12 story building. But through the steel framework half way up now was the dangling form of a lovable old black mat.

He started climbing. He moved incredibly fast. He closed his eyes because he had a moment of dizziness, or of imaginery dizziness; and anyway the halo-haloo down below was distracting. Step-step-step-step, hand over hand, foot over foot— he opened his eyes as he passed the rope of old snaked oak trees — step-step-step-step — away off yonder was Buford Hill where he and Lillian—he ground his teeth tightly, thought snapped back.

"Oh, Dallas!" he heard Lillian faintly, far below him now. He did not answer. There was too much other shouting anyway.

The gasoline engine was chuffing down there. Up at the derrick was the metal pulley was squealing a bit.

"Hold on, Jason! Hold on! Hold on! He shouted that encouragement at the old man. He doubted if Jason heard. Jason was only a comic array.

Dallas climbed hurriedly past the platform that was two-thirds way up, where on week days oil workers stood to handle the pipe in drilling. He had to go on. Now he could look down on house tops, on most of the town.

Among the spectators on the ground, Mrs. Harriet Grisanti, young fellow dashed up to her "Telephone!" he rasped out in passing and sprang on up the porch to go inside the house. She realized vaguely that it would mean a doctor or police or a fire truck again, and she looked up this unseemly desecration with an air of resignment. She could not fully encompass, yet the extreme danger which Jason faced; she could only gaze up at him, and at young Dallas Tower climbing the precarious ladder.

Lillian had cried out two or three times in sheer frenzy. Thad Monroe reached out to put a protective arm around her but she moved away unseeing. He was quiet in the excitement around them. In truth, he could do nothing to do, no advice to about. He could just gaze up, fascinated, at dangling Jason.

When he turned his head down to Lillian again, she was gone. He couldn't see her in the crowd. He was momentarily frantic. Then he reasoned that she probably had gone to her mother. She was simply engulfed in the milling throng. He began elbowing hastily through, seeking her. The shouting all at once entered in new crescendo but he ignored it. His stretched up on tiptoe looking for her. He caught glimpses of Martin Deale, of Bubbs Hightower, of Harlod Quill Mayfield, and up farther even of Mrs. Mayfield herself, but he did not see Lillian. Then, irresistably, he turned back to the derrick itself, only perhaps 40 feet up was Lillian!

She was climbing not foot over foot in easy rhythm as Dal Tower had done, but by rapidly bringing up her left foot then her right to that same rung, and similarly allowing one hand to trail the other was the way a woman climbs, and a dangerous way.

That could do nothing. He couldn't even run to the foot of the derrick now because a press of human bodies blocked him. He lifted both hands. His hat had had been lost in the crowd, and he just took handfull of his own hair and squeezed in frenzy.

Lillian climbed incredibly fast.

She was half way up when Dal Tower reached the top and climbed over the steel framework up there and then settled on the tiny platform. Dal was like some big bird that had come to rest there unexpectedly.

Through that tiny platform floor crept the steel cable lifting Jason Weems. It would already have had him there and torn its hook out of his clothing but for the frantic scuffling of the negroes at the engine controls below. Unwittingly, they had reversed the gears twice while Dal climbed. In sanity they could easily have lowered and grabbed Jason by the heel. Dal was strong of arm, strong of back.

"Get loose, Jason! Get off the hook!" He commanded in burst of breath.

Jason was utterly helpless, inert now. Then, Dal saw blood. He swung the dangling body, stretched down a bit more at tremendous risk and with his mouth took a firm bite on Jason's trouser leg.

He unhanded. In terror they succeeded only in alternately lifting and lowering him up and down the steel cable and finally in pulling him almost to the hook. He used his other hand to work the hook free. Slowly and then, he began to edge back up, with his burden.

It took inconceivable strength.

For a moment he was panicky in sheer defeat. But only for a moment. Jason was not very heavy, as men go, but Dal himself was in utterly inferior shape that he lacked quite the pull to swing back bodily, Jason and up onto the platform again.

"I can hold here!" Dal breathed frantically. "I can't get up alone, but I can hold him here! Somebody will come to help! To help.

It was almost a prayer, the way he said it.

He was gripping Jason by one leg, the toe hooked behind his own shoulder and both his arms hugging under Jason's arms. Dal's powerful legs were anchored well enough, were not even tiring, he assured himself. To turn loose would mean to drop 120 feet, he knew.

Then for the first time Dal was conscious of the hullabaloo beneath him. He thought he could even distinguish individual voices shouting encouragement and calling him by name.

The little crow's nest platform on top of the derrick was a 6 foot square. Dal's determination forced her to complete her ladder climb, and for a moment she stood there gripping the thin railing to regain her breath. But only for a moment. She had climbed right by Dal after holding Jason, and now she saw Dal's feet and legs were locked in the framework. The shouting and general turmoil far below her ceased out of her consciousness. All she knew was that Dal Tower faced grave danger while trying to save the life of an old man.

She dropped down and hooked her own knee around a part of the steel framework. Then she could lean down and free her hand free as Dal had done. Dal saw her above him.

"My belt!" he said, breathing hard, "Grab—my belt!"

It was within reach of her hand. She grasped belt and trousers top, began desperately to pull.

Dal made a supreme effort then. With all the force he could muster he swung himself and Jason upward, Lillian pulling them at the same time.

Next instant she could grab his shoulder, then crook an arm around Jason's leg. She saw the blood on Jason but ignored that—she and Dal Tower once before had worked together in emergency.

She and he were literally gasping with strain and desperation now, muttering encouragement one to the other, lifting, pulling, straining, working old Jason up through the hole in the platform floor, the same hole through the steel cable stretched. It seemed almost an impossible task. Wind snatched at them; even the steel rods sang with it. And the overtones of shouting and terror rose constantly from the people below.

All at once it was done.

Jason lay stretched on one side of the platform, a mere 18-inch width and hardly as long as he.

Dal was kneeling there, breast heaving, and Lillian was speechless for several seconds. When he did speak Dal was like a man who had made divine revelation. It came deep, throatily, halting but unmistakable. He turned to her on the crowded little eyrie.

"You .... came! Yourself! ... You, Lillian!" He paused to gasp some more, gazing at her closely now. "There's nobody like you! There never has been! I'm a little crazy now but I know what I'm saying ... I love you so furiously that I don't give a hang for anything else in the world! ... You hear me? I don't care what happens ... I've got to say it! I've loved you" from that first night, that moment in the hospital when I kissed you ... You risked your life here. You— Oh, Lillian!"

She could only cling to him frantically, extending one arm around his shoulders and crying her head near his walks they regained breath.

His hair was tousled and blowing in the wind. His clothing was in utter disarray. But he was like a young god again. The same gallant young god she had beheld that first night silhouetted for a theatrical moment when he stood on a crimson rose the blazing oil well. She could not talk for sobbing but it was not necessary that she talk. There was something between them now, a transcendent something which both sensed powerfully and understood.

Dal was longer shaking from the physical and emotional strain. He was unbuttoning Jason's coat and shirt.

"He's unconscious", the young physician said, "but not badly hurt Just fainted, I think. There's some blood. Give me your shirt, Dal, anything for emergency bandage to stop the flow. Help will be coming."

There had been time during that period of drama on and about the oil derrick for amateur photographers in the crowd to take some excellent pictures, and a selection of these appeared in Monday's papers from Houston, Dallas, Shreveport and later all over the nation. The townsfolk were in a continual stir about the whole thing. All that Sunday evening and until Monday people motored by the Mayfield home just to stare, or parked to look at the derrick and talk over the whole thing again. Many cars on Monday had come from towns 40 and 50 miles distant.

Talk on Alcohols and Abusive Use Given at W.C.T.U. Meeting

The WCTU held their October meeting in the YMCA reception room. The opening exercises were conducted by the President Mrs. Farnsworth. A prayer was stressed and the thought developed, "That more things are wrought by prayer than this old world dreams of".

Mrs. Moore had charge of the devotional period. The speaker emphasized the need of Temperance Education in the schools. She cited the fact that $223,000,000 was spent on intoxicants in Ontario in one year. British Columbia leads the Dominion in temperance education.

Study Presented

Mrs. Bennett presented Chapter one of the study book, "What Alcohol Is and What It Does" by Bertha Rachel Palmer.

This dealt with the meaning of "temperance" which is moderation in healthful indulgence while abstinence is shunning all things harmful as the use of intoxicating liquors."

The source of alcohol was then explained which is the decomposition or breaking up of sugar. This would start in the air, harmless until it begins to grow, which it does in sweet juice shut off from the air, in which case it takes the necessary oxygen from the sugar and breaking it up forms alcohol and carbon dioxide gas.

Effects of Alcohol

There are two well-known members of the alcohol family, methyl and ethyl. No one will question that methyl or wood alcohol is poison but many object to hearing ethyl classed as a poison. Methyl alcohol when taken into the blood stream, has a peculiar affinity for the optic nerve, causing blindness if not death, but ethyl alcohol affects the whole nervous system, causing all its functions to be less acute and active.

There seems to be an erroneous impression that the word "poison" applies only to those substances, which when taken, cause quick death. A poison work.

Canada Faced With New Disturbing Shortage -- Women

Toronto, Oct. 27 (CP)—Canada is face-to-fa with a new and disturbing shortage—women.

That is the warning given to Toronto nurses today by Dr. Charlotte Whitton, one of the Dominion's foremost welfare experts.

"What is becoming increasingly and disturbingly evident is that there are simply not enough girls and young women in Canada to go round in all the tasks which the highly organized industrial and urban economy is asking of them.

"There is a disturbing shortage of teachers, of whom over 70 per cent are women. To meet arrears and efficient standards, about 7,500 a year now are required. Social workers are in short supply, as are first rate secretarial, stenographic, and clerical workers, and women for executive and managerial posts in all pursuits."

Explains Position

Canada had only 25,000 girls over 18 years of age going through school or training in any one year, said Dr. Whitton.

From this pool, the Dominion needed 150,000 to 175,000 a year for marriage "to retain anything like our present social balances;" another 20,000 to help in their own homes; 25,000 for household services in hotels, restaurants and other catering establishments; 13,000 for factories; 13,000 for officers; 10,000 for all levels of government work; 10,000 for trade and commerce; 7,500 for teaching; 5,000 for nursing; and 7,500 to 8,000 for other miscellaneous activities.

"All it adds up to is insoluble," said Dr. Whitton. "There just aren't enough women coming on."

Need More Nurses

Canada's nursing force, at the present time, is about 31,000 active nurses on the registers, with another 7,200 still registered but not active. There are 13,375 student nurses in the hospitals and 10,000 auxiliary nursing personnel. With the target of one nurses for 280 of the population, Canada would need 15,000 more nurses in the next 10 years."

Dr. Whitton added:

"What is becoming increasingly and disturbingly evident is that there are simply not enough girls and young women in Canada to go round in all the tasks which the highly organized industrial and urban economy is asking of them.

Tweed, Stirling Meet in COSSA Section Finals

By WALLY MOFFAT

It will be Tweed versus Stirling in the finals of the northern group in the Bay of Quinte section of COSSA. The winners will play either Albert College or Trenton. By beating Tweed, Marmora forced a playoff with Stirling, and were badly outclassed and beaten 15-5.

Last Friday Tweed played in Marmora where a victory would have given them an undefeated schedule, and the right to advance to the Bay of Quinte finals but Marmora pulled an upset by edging Tweed 3-2. Tweed scored first on a pass from Bob Maynes to Auldy Holmes, But Marmora scored a converted goal, to lead 6-5 at half time. Tweed went ahead again on Mickey Meranty 3rd quarter touchdown, but another converted touchdown gave Marmora a 12-10 lead that they held till the end.

Tweed-Stirling was trouncing Madoc 20-12 in the Marmora second game, but this was Stirling's third, while Madoc finished out their schedule with one win in six starts.

The final Standing:

	W	L	F	A	Pts
Tweed	5	1	102	27	10
Stirling	5	1	73	28	10
Marmora	3	3	58	67	6
Madoc	0	6	37	110	0

Stirling 15—Marmora 5

In a sudden death game at O.S.D. football field, Stirling gained the right to play against Tweed by scoring an easy 15-5 victory over a crippled Marmora team. Marmoras was badly outclassed, and only a hard-fighting backfield kept them in the game. Sporting a powerful end run, the Stirling team swept to two first quarter touchdowns by Dobson, and were never headed. A recovery of an on-side kick by Bob Borland led to Marmora's only touchdown. From a fake placement formation, Ray Darrah gained 7 yards to make it 10-5 at half time.

Play was a little more even in the second half, with Stirling adding a clincher touchdown late in the game. Jack Stirling's run was highlighted by the brilliant broken field running of Dobson, who scored two of Stirling's touchdowns. For Marmora, Bob Borland, Ray Darrah and Bob Sweet stood out in a losing cause.

Toronto Marlies Take Two-Point Lead in Race

(By The Canadian Press)

The general pattern is beginning to take shape in the Ontario Hockey Association. Some teams have shown themselves to be consistent winners in the comparatively new season. Others consistently lose.

Wednesday night, Toronto Marlboros took a two-point hop ahead of the other Ontario Senior Hockey Association teams when they defeated the league Hamilton Tigers 4-3 at Toronto. In the junior loop, Toronto St. Michael's Majors clinched the eastern Windsor Spitfires 6-2 and Stratford Kroehlers scored a 4-1 victory over Guelph who share the cellar with Windsor.

Tigers fought gamely in the last frame to overcome the Duke's two-goal lead. Then Bengals cut the lead by one goal near the halfway mark and granked goalie Bruce Gamble for the tieing forwards in that frame while Dukes were a man short, but failed to score.

Johnny McLellan sank two for Marlboros and Al Dohaan and John McCormack each scored once. Goaltending honors went to Comfort and Frank Liscombe were the Hamilton marksmen.

St. Michael's took a one - goal lead in the first frame at Windsor but increased it to two - goal margin in the second period to outscore the Spits 3-1. The Windsorites came back strongly in the final frame and play was evenly divided. Spits outshot the Majors in the third frame, but couldn't overcome the Collegians' lead.

Marshall Scores Three

Willie Marshall faced St. Michael's netminder Ken while Jack Ingoldsby, Jerry Labine, and Con Bonhomme each counted once. Lawrence Spitkoski, Ron Gould and Eddie Stankiewicz, John Bailey and Jim Shaw.

Three fast goals in the last three minutes of play at Stratford gave the Kroehler Furniture Boys a 4-1 victory over Guelph Biltmores. Stoppage in play was held up by goals and good goaltending by both goalies kept the first two periods scoreless. Stratford went ahead at the three - minute mark of the third frame and Guelph tied it up less than three minutes later, but lost out when Kroehlers belted in three goals in less than two minutes in the dying minutes of the game.

Denny Draper, Lorne Pernfuss, Roy Leckie and Steve Brklacich were the Stratford goal - getters while Gerry Theberge sank the only batter goal.

Friday, three games are scheduled in the junior loop. St. Michael's play St. Catharines in the garden city, Oshawa travels to Guelph and Galt plays at Barrie.

In the senior league, Toronto Marlboros play host to Owen Sound.

Teams to Play 20-Minute Period To Finish Game

Toronto, Oct. 27, (CP)— An unfinished Ontario Hockey Association Junior 'A' game between St. Catharines Teepees and Toronto Marlboros at St. Catharines, Oct. 21, will be finished with one 20-minute period when the teams next meet at St. Catharines in their regular schedule, the OHA executive announced Wednesday night.

The period will be run off ahead of the regular game with a 20-minute intermission.

The Oct. 21 contest was called after the second period when fog conditions on the ice made play hazardous. Teepees were leading 6-3 at the time.

With regard to games governed by straight time, the executive approved a suggestion of secretary George Panter that the last minute in the final period be played with time out.

Markham and Stouffville will be recognized as senior 'B' clubs, the executive ruled, and will be allowed to draw players to the boundaries of Toronto, Peterborough, Lindsay and Whitby. The six-players residence rule will be waived, but a rider says the clubs may not use players from any municipality which has a club for which players are eligible.

Sarnia Takes Second Playoff Spot by Victory

(By The Canadian Press)

The eastern Canada grid playoff picture cleared partly Wednesday night with Hamilton Tigers and Sarnia Imperials clinching berths in the championship round of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

League winner is still in doubt but Sarnia took the second playoff spot at home when the Imps defeated Windsor Rockets, 9-1, and dashed the Rockets chances of catching a berth.

The front-running Hamilton Tigers, two points ahead of Sarnia with eight victories in 10 games, had little trouble blanking the last place Toronto Balmy Beaches, 14-0, in the other game Wednesday night, played under floodlights at Toronto.

Playoff berths in the western interprovincial Football League have already been won by Calgary Stampeders and Regina's Saskatchewan Roughriders. That leaves the Interprovincial Union as the only senior league yet to decide its playoff spots and a potential Grey Cup entry.

Toronto Argonauts who face Ottawa Rough Riders in the Big Four this weekend, can force a playoff with Montreal Alouettes for second place, and a playoff position, by winning a touch-and-two and the schedule's windup contest in Montreal. Ottawa has already clinched fourth spot.

It took Tigers a full quarter to get rolling Wednesday night but when the roaring Bengals hit their stride, they stunned the hapless Beaches with a touchdown, two field goals, a convert, a single and a touch-in-goal. Kicking specialist Doug Smith, called in as a running back to replace injured Ted Reynolds, Merle Hapes, ripped off several large gains for the Tigers who dominated play throughout.

Pile up Points Quickly

Beaches' Bob Dunlop was roughed on a kick by Smith for the first Hamilton point with Smith picking up a second point with a touch-in-goal a few minutes later. Capriotti then added the second quarter scoring with a placement from close in.

Jim Caine picked up a major on an end around from the one-yard line, catching the Beach winging by surprise, with Capriotti making the convert from placement. A fourth quarter placement by Capriotti ended the scoring.

At Sarnia it was veteran Gus Scheiers who paced Imperials to their one-sided victory over the Rockets. Jack Bell was credited with the first Sarnia point, on a kick to the deadline, with Scheiers putting the game on ice in the second quarter when he boomed for a touchdown in the early minutes. Lloyd (Dutch) Davey converted.

Scheiers was roughed on Jack Browne's kick for Windsor's lone tally in the third session with Bill Weiss kicking two singles for the Imps in the last quarter.

On the intercollegiate football front, it was learned that star halfback Bruce Cummings of the University of Toronto will be out of the lineup Saturday when Varsity meets first-place University of Western Ontario Mustangs at Toronto. Cummings suffered a knee injury at London, Ont., last week against the Mustangs.

It was previously announced that Queen's Al Lenard and Ross McKelvey will be missing through injuries this week-end when Queen's tangles with McGill University.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Oct. 27 —(AP)— Notre Dame's "four horsemen" have been in town, starting to whoop it up for their 25th anniversary gathering next month .... and seeing those four guys together takes you back, to an October afternoon when you were a sophomore sitting in the cheering section at Princeton's Palmer Stadium .... the "Four Horsemen" tag hadn't been coined then and Notre Dame wasn't as famous as it is now .... the proper Princetonians even tried to give it a French pronunciation as they cheered for "Notruh Dahm" and the Irish followers enough .... compared to today's behemoths, you'd think stubby, on the other side firmly corrected them! "Notur Dayme." ... the Irish, it seems, were right about everything that afternoon.

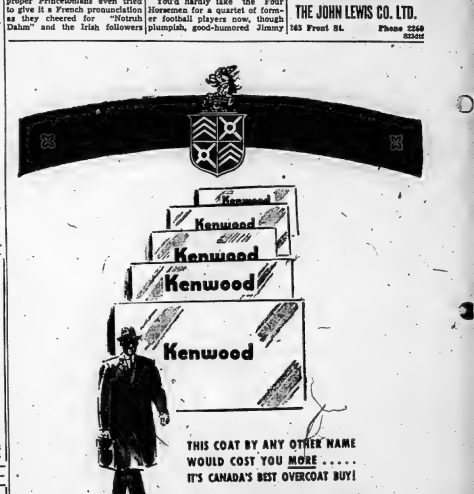
First-View



Football was a little different and a touchdown looked big in those one-platoon days .... It wasn't until the next fall that Knute Rockne conceived the idea of starting his "shock troops" and playing them through the first quarter.

As-of Now

You'd hardly take the Four Horsemen for a quartet of former football players now, though plumpish, good-humored Jimmy Crowley and Don Miller look big halding Stubbtehrer would have been the water boy and Leyden, not much heavier than he was 25 years ago, could pass for a former student manager.

SAME OLD FACES

The dramatis personae of the Kingston Nylons, the upstarts that had the nerve to eliminate our Diesels after the Trenhamen had ridden through the senior "B" schedule with a grey cinch, on the line side of the ledger, seems to be almost the same cast that clustered the hockey stage for the Kingston City team last season. And they made their 1949 debut in the Kingston City League auspiciously. They trotted a 7-3 defeat on the Waterloo when they smothered into a three-goal third period splurge after leading 4-2 at the end of the second period.

And on the Nylons' roster are the old familiar names, with the bespectacled Udy Udall back between the posts; Patterson and Pimm behind the blue line, and Green who is the front line of the attacking divisions. None other than that old "Poison to Diesels" line of Collin Partis and Walt Gerow. Also aiding in the resurgence of Cullen's ha'nts gang was Mike Godfrey, the all rounder, who shone for the Diesels in the Intermediate O.H.A. Farrell, Mortimer and Gray, who wield mighty powerful shootin' shillalaghs and are plenty fleet afoot. They rounded out the Mildred Fivers for a fast-moving exhibition till the other night.

Speaking of the "Fetes" squad, the lesser half of the Perdue family writes:-

"It is hoped the Pete's pucksters will find time this coming season to stay around long enough for OHA fixtures. Bas Phelan informs us the club has four invitational tourneys booked into the same distance from this fair borough. The bids came out from Toledo, Akron, West Allison by Hill, and some from Toledo, Akron, West Allison by Hill, and some from Port Erie. With sharpness, at certain officials are carefully considering them and may make a jaunt or two are being considered. Coach Phelan and Manager Bill Christian are getting the team lined up and expect to log a strong squad shortly.

So it looks from here as though the hockey shoe will be on the other foot this winter, at least as far as Belleville and Peterborough are concerned. Last season, the Fetes travelled high, wide and handsome, to get in position for the preparatory to the OHA Senior "B" opening. They were classed as being more or less easy pickings for the Diesels and the Kingston lassies which had a bang of pre-season loop play under their collective belts. Easy pickings, that is, until they found their stride.

And look what happened. If the Peten teams are as strong as last year, and they appear to be just that on paper, they may already have the benefit of three weeks ice work, which is big is happen this semester! Their Legion surged through the loop last year, sat as the sidelines and smirked impudently while the Kingston Nylons and only stumbling bay absolutely wrecking our Diesels, then deliberately sent the Kingston squad to the wailing wall and went on to win the Senior "B" honors. But on the other hand, history may repeat itself. The Diesel management is keeping strangely silent on its strength this season, and no one seems to know what they will toss out on the ice when the time comes.

K QUANTITY

All this of course is on the presumption that the Senior "B" grouping will be the same as last year. It may be the supposed set-up and from reports from the other centres regarding their hockey strength, the Diesels will need some considerable bolstering, if they expect to win the group title. Last year's squad needed at least two other good defencemen, and a couple or three new goal-scoring forwards would not come amiss. However, as we mentioned, we are not as yet aware of the 1949 Diesels strength, and probably won't know until the squad gets out for its first practice.

KIDS ARE RARIN'

As far as the Junior "B's" are concerned, their potential strength is still more or less of a mystery. But we expect to get a better line on the BHA Junior hearse within the next day or so. With ice expected at the end of the week, the kids are rarin' to go and a practice will be called as soon as the ice situation announces all is ready. It is quite possible that an exhibition game will be arranged with a Toronto team to start the hockey season off on the right foot.

TRENTON OUT

Trenton Town will not be represented in the Belleville District Hockey League this year, Manager Jim MacDonald informed us by telephone today. That means the loop will be a five team affair and a few schedule juggling will be necessary to schedule immediately. Manager MacDonald reported sincerely that he could not enter a team this year. "It was absolutely impossible to secure players," he said, "and besides I am rushed to death with work and business. I am genuinely sorry that it will not be possible for me to enter the team. The player situation is the main reason, but I would not enter with a mediocre outfit. However, I hope to be back with a strong entry next season."

In near-freezing weather but playing in mid-season form, Napanee Athletics won a brilliant game in the O.B.A. intermediate "B" finals against Wallaceburg at Napanee Saturday. Big Ed Hooper was in rare form when he scattered three hits and struck out eight, while Napanee banged Marasse for seven but being able only in the ninth to bunch two for the winning runs. Vic Burtt was the town hero when he pasted a triple after a single and a walk. Marasse helped his own cause with a running triple after two were out but his mates could not get him home. The second baseman of both teams had a field day with 23 chances and with only two miscues. A high wind blew balls all over the lot but the players thought they were in the middle of July the way they handled the pellet. Some 400 fans shivered in the stands to watch one of the best games of the season. The two teams meet again on Saturday in Wallaceburg and is still anybody's series.

Hooper in Rare Form as Napanee Beats Wallaceburg

A towering three-base smash by Vic Burtt in the sixth drove in both runs to give Napanee Athletics a 2-1 win Wednesday over Wallaceburg in the first game of the Intermediate B Ontario Baseball Association finals. Napanee won 2-0 at Wallaceburg Saturday.

Big Ed Hooper was in rare form for Napanee as he held the westerners to three hits, striking out eight and walking five.

W. Asselstine and V. Green, rival second suckers, held the fans breathless on several occasions as they came up with dazzling defensive plays. The pair handled 11 and 12 chances respectively with only one miscue each, in spite of a cold wind that swept the diamond.

Napanee's winning rally started when Bud Green beat out a hit to short and Ken Murphy was passed. Burtt lifted a long ball that almost rolled to the right-field scoring plays.

Thompson of Wallaceburg walked in the seventh, his only time in reach first. He went to second on a wild pitch and scored when Scarlett let Judson's Texas Leaguer get away from him.

About four hundred fans watched the game in spite of the 46 degree weather. Both team dugouts were enclosed with heavy tarpaulin and an oilheater supplied for each one. Together with heavy wool blankets for all the players.

Ches McCance Scoring Leader In Big Four

(By The Canadian Press)

Attention all football pointers:—"The Toe" is sharp as a tack these days.

That is putting it mildly since old man Ches McCance, one-time Winnipeg Blue Bomber ace and now with Montreal Alouettes, is top dog in the Big Four Football League scoring column.

A year ago football fans would have said it couldn't happen, certainly not to a nicer guy and not to a man who claims to be about 33 and is probably older than Jack Benny.

Not so this year. His educated toe has been booting converts one after another until at this writing he leads the league with 57 points in 10 games composed of three touchdowns, three field goals, three singles and 30 points in converts.

Manuel Ortiz, world bantamweight champion, floored Scotsman Jackie Paterson four times at Glasgow, Wednesday to win a 10-round, non-title decision over the former flyweight title-holder. He weighed 118 pounds.

The outdoor bout was fought before 15,000 chilled fans at Hampden Park football grounds.

Bill Veeck, Cleveland Indians' president, Wednesday confirmed reports he will remarry as soon as he receives final divorce papers.

Speaking by telephone from Chicago, he told Cleveland reporters he will be married to Mary Frances Ackerman. Miss Ackerman, a former model, has been public relations representative for the "Ice Capades" for the last six years. She now is in Toronto.

"It all depends upon how soon my divorce goes through," Veeck said, "but we hope to be married within the next few weeks, probably here in Chicago."

Mexico came back with a bang Wednesday to outlast Chile in a spectacular jumping relay event at the Pennsylvania National Horse Show at Harrisburg, Pa.

The team victory for the Mexican contingent took some of the sting out of surprise defeat at the hands of Miss Patricia Lewis of Chile for the individual military championship Tuesday night.

Led by Col. Humberto Mariles, the 1948 Olympic champion Mexican quartet relayed the baton over an eight-obstacle course in three minutes and 15.2 seconds, with only three jumping errors.

The Canadian team comprised Lieut. Thomas Gayford of Chambarro; Lieut. R. W. Ballard on Skip Across; Lieut. Gordon Gayford on Gamain; and Maj. Charles Baker on Dragoon. All are from Toronto.

Two Canadian horses placed in the top 10 of the $2,000 worth-ing Hunter Stakes. Times Square, owned by Cardy Farms, Val David, Que., was fifth and Earl Yellowknife, owned by Yellowknife Stables, Unionville, Ont., was seventh.

Buddy O'Connor and Don Raleigh of New York Rangers moved into a nine-way split for third place in the National Hockey League scoring race Wednesday night when they each chalked up two assists. Ted Lindsay, Detroit, and Paul Ronty, Boston, continue to lead the pack with six points, one ahead of Metro Prystai, Chicago, Sid Smith, Toronto, and John Peirson, Boston.

Buffalo Bisons And Ramblers Share Top Spot

(By The Canadian Press)

Buffalo Bisons and New Haven Ramblers today share top spot in the eastern division of the American Hockey League. The Bisons moved into first place Wednesday night with a 2-1 victory over Cincinnati Mohawks while the Ramblers lost a 6-3 decision to Providence Reds.

Meanwhile in the league's western section, St. Louis Flyers climbed into a second place tie with Indianapolis Capitals by blasting Hershey Bears 7-4. The Caps were idle.

The league-leading Cleveland Barons lost an opportunity to pull further away from their rivals when they were defeated 4-1 by Pittsburgh Hornets. The Barons now lead St. Louis and Indianapolis by only a single point.

The Mohawks first lead at Cincinnati when Ab Demarco netted his own rebound with slightly less than three minutes of play in the first period.

Cincinnati's only goal came at the eight-minute mark of that period with Jimmy Moore the marksman.

Chuck Schems led the Reds in their victory over New Haven with a pair of goals while Johnny Chad, Jack Stoddard, Jackie Hamilton and Harvey Fraser, tallied one apiece.

Sherman White, Wes Trainor and Chick Webster scored for the losers.

Paul Gladu and Norm Austin paced the visitors with a pair of goals apiece. Cliff Simpson, Jimmy Raynok and Billy McComb fired one each. The Hershey Bears' marksmen were Norm Larson, Bert Bradley, Johnny Mahaffy and Silvio Bettio.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Bridge Editor

To Mike is bridge distressing. Oh, listen to his wails. He spends his time finessing and wonders why he fails.

Whenever a finesse is there to try, a solid player takes a look around. He is on a treasure hunt for some play that may enable him to avoid taking the finesse.

The play that most often eliminates the need for a finesse is a strip-and-endplay. Opponent hands are stripped to the fewest possible cards. An opponent is thrown in to lead something.

South was declarer at six no-trump in this tournament deal:

	♥ K J 9 3
	♦ A K Q 5
	♣ 10 8
WEST		EAST
♠ Q J 10 7		♠ 8 5 4
♥ Q 6		♥ 8 7 5 4 2
♦ 6 4 3		♦ 10 9 8
♣ K J 8 4		♣ 9 7
	SOUTH
	♠ K 9 2
	♥ A 10
	♦ J 7 2
	♣ A Q 5 3 2

Opening lead from west was spade queen. The third round of spades is a known loser. It is possible to lose a club trick. What about it?

Without seeing opponent cards, trying the club finesse offers only a 50-50 chance for success. If a safer play can be attempted, the finesse should be considered only as a last resort.

If west could be forced to lead a club, the club loser would be eliminated. It would then make no difference who held club king. Is there a plan that might work to this end?

Notice the lead of spade queen. It is an indicator that west has jack and ten of that suit. If so, west can be forced to take the third spade. If he then has nothing but clubs, hot doggie.

So, declarer took two top spades, four top hearts, four top diamonds. West had to peel down to a good spade and K J of clubs. A spade lead then threw west in. The forced club return from west gave south two club tricks with ace and queen. Thus did declarer eliminate the loss of a club trick by refusing to take a finesse that would have failed.

Good bridge, like the making of dough-bow, results from a series of know-how.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 27 — (AP)—John Garfield, back at work after a serious injury, is making plans for an Americanized "Peer Gynt" on the stage.

Paul Green is writing a new version of the Ibsen play", he reports. "I may do it on the stage next year. If it works out, I'd like to make a picture of it."

Garfield returned to "The Big Fall" this week after a three-week absence. He was in hospital after straining a muscle of his heart in a tennis game. His doctor said the actor may resume normal activities, but no tennis for a year.

After 10 days in the hospital, Garfield grew impatient. "Hand me my clothes", he told the nurse. "I'm getting out of here".

"Now, Mr. Garfield", was the answer, "you're not going with that stuff in the movies, but it's not very convincing in a hospital".

Doms Notes

Joan Crawford has stopped work on her schoolmarm yarn until she finishes "The Victim." She still hopes to make it. Her plans for a musical are up in the air, but she would like to try a comedy, as a change from her steady dramatic diet. She's also like to do another co-starrer with Clark Gable, as what actress wouldn't.

June Allyson had two straight days of love scenes with Dick Powell in "The Reformer and the Redhead." Said she: "We just pick up where we left off at home."

Short Takes

Mrs. Alan Young has made reservations at Glendale Sanitarium for arrival of her first child around Nov. 5. He's the Vancouver film-radio comic...

Robert Cummings does one fast scene in "The Pretty Girl" in which he plays 14 characters, from Frankenstein's monster to Scarlett O'Hara. He plays a pick-change artist, needless to say ...

Nehru Criticizes Soviet System For First Time

Chicago, Oct. 27 — (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India said Wednesday night he believes "individual freedom ceases to exist" when what he called "the Soviet system."

It was the first time since he started his goodwill tour of the United States and Canada two weeks ago that he has criticized Russian methods.

But he tempered his words with a renewed statement that India wants no entanglements in the cold war, and will not be drawn into any.

His country, he said, wants peace and will work for it, and he called on the United States to work for peace, too.

"We may have to have a war," Nehru told a banquet crowd of 1,100 persons, gathered in his honor. "We may be forced into it.

"But if you think war solves a problem, I think you are entirely mistaken," Nehru continued. He said two world wars, with talk of a third heard so soon afterward, have proved his point.

The white countries of the world, while prospering and advancing, have created conditions that "tend to centralize" many of their ways of life, Nehru said.

"An extreme example of this is in the Soviet system," he said. And under it, "individual freedom ceases to exist, whatever other virtues there may be."

It is a system that he considers it is "characterized by regimentation."

His philosophy is that individual freedom should be "circumscribed only to the extent necessary to circumscribe it," he said.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was arranging her desk drawers to make them neater, saying. My goodness look at all the accumulation of practically empty ink bottles. And this bottle of red ink. I'll save that, and for land sakes I've even got green ink here. Why I never knew that in the first place is beyond me, she said.

Maybe you thawt you mite marry another man named Mr. Green some time, so then instead of Mrs. Potts you'd be Mrs. Green, and you could always write your own name in your own color, I said, and ma said, Now does that make sense?

Sure it does, ma, I said. I bet lots of men would marry you, the way you can cook and everything, and how do you know one of them wouldn't be named Green? I said, and ma said, Oh hush. I'm just going to throw out this whole useless collection, she said.

Meening all the old ink, and I said, Aw heck, ma, that would just be waisting it, and you always claim you never waist anything. Give me the bottles, I can make some money with them, I said.

I'd like to know how for land sakes, ma said, and I said, Easy, ma. I'll start a tatto business and tattoo the fellows with toothpicks and different color ink, and cha-e them 5 cents a picture, I said.

Oh goodness, every mother in the zayborhood would be calling up and demanding an explanation, ma said. The men come tomorrow to take away the cans and things, and I'll just make them an extra present of these ink bottles, she said, and I said, Gosh, ma, I hope they notice them so they can use them.

Which I hope they do.

American Phrases Traced To Roots in Negro Tongues

By MEL MOST

Chicago — (AP) — A lore never revealed to white men has been wrested from his people by a painstaking Negro professor.

His search uncovered astonishing survivals of African culture and more than 4,000 African words, names and numbers still spoken among 250,000 Negroes in a corner of the United States.

Dr. Lorenzo Dow Turner, 54-year-old professor of English at Roosevelt College, Chicago, worked 17 years — and learned 33 African languages — to make the discoveries.

They lay bare the probable explanation of some of the oldest and newest Americanisms from "tote" to "juke box." They reveal the identity, civilization and relative influences of the peoples from which most of the 13,000,000 Negroes in the United States descend.

Turner worked in "the black border" — the Rice Islands and the neighboring coast for 265 miles between Georgetown, S.C., and St. Marys, Ga., on the Florida state line.

Some of its natives never have been off-the sea islands or seen a while man from close up. Previous investigators dismissed as only bad English the odd Negro "Gullah" or "Geechee" dialect spoken there.

Turner's first wartime reports roused scholars. The American Council of Learned Societies threw its resources behind him. H. L. Mencken put Turner's first few words into his "supplement two" to wipe out pages of arguments in earlier volumes of Mencken's "The American Language," a masterpiece on the origin of words.

Gullahs Suspicious

At first Turner was treated as an outsider by the Islanders. He says: "My first recordings of the speech of the Gullahs contain fewer African words by far than those made when I was no longer a stranger to them."

The University of Chicago has just published Turner's completed report.

"Africanisms in the Gullah Dialect" is too technical for lay readers. But students of Americana English found Gullah is the missing link between the most usage Americanisms used by people who never dream they're talking African.

For instance, there is "goober" or "pindar" for peanut (called "guba" and "pinda" in Gullah), or "joggle-board" for see-saw (meaning riding-board in Gullah from a Senegalese word "joggal," to rise.)

The list covers many live things like "cooter" for tortoise ("kuta" in Gullah from the French West African tongue), southern "poor Joe" or "po' Joe" for heron ("poo-jo," from the Val language of Liberia), "biddy-biddy" for chick (it means a bird in Kongolese), "jigger" (a bug known as "jiga" in six African tongues).

It may start with the first known Americanism. The word "tote," meaning to carry, has been found in print within 70 years after the first settlement at Jamestown, Va. Turner found it means pick up or carry in Gullah and five West Africa languages. The first Negroes landed at Jamestown a year and a half before the Mayflower landed at Plymouth Rock.

Down to our latest "juke" boxes," the word "juke" is Gullah from a Senegalese term implying a wild time.

Turner studied 23 West African languages, sometimes writing his own lexicons and grammars. He went to London and Paris to learn half of them from actual speakers, including 20 natives and several African-reared members of missionaries' families.

He found that "Gullah" and "Geechee" themselves are the names of two Liberian languages. Among white bodies, South Carolinians call Charlestonians "Geechees."

Find New Ottawa After 40 Years

Ottawa — (CP) — Two cousins who left Ottawa 40 years ago for Chicago returned recently for a reunion with relatives.

But things aren't quite the way they left them.

Charlie Cousineau, 58, looked for his old home at George and Dalhousie streets but it wasn't there.

"It was a log house," Charlie said.

Wilbrod Cousineau, 59, was amazed at the change that had come over the capital. He and cousin Charlie had searched for old landmarks only to find large buildings in their places.

They remembered Eastview, a thriving suburban community, as a handful of houses with a toll gate.

They were delighted to discover the old tree and big flat rock from which they used to dive at their old swimming hole in the Rideau river near what is now the Russian embassy.

Wilbrod today is an employee of the Chicago Transit System. Charlie runs a tavern on the south side of Chicago.

Modern Trends Bring Changes in Poultrydom

Toronto — (CP) Light-grade birds are tops in the poultry world today. This is the conclusion drawn by officials of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair and Federal Department of Agriculture, who are working jointly in an effort to improve Canada's already-high poultry standard.

When the Royal opens November 15, poultry raisers and consumers are expected to flock to the dressed poultry exhibits and the subsequent public auction where prize birds are sold. Classes which will face the judges are young turkeys, geese, ducks, chickens and capons.

Milk-Fed Best Birds

Aristocrat of poultrydom is the lightest grade, special milk-fed chicken, officials agree. Next is the A milk fed. If Canadian raisers "went in" for more A's, there would be a corresponding increase in "specials" which command high prices but are in limited supply. The Royal's prize list this year is aimed at the top grades, and breeders from coast to coast are reported concentrating on them.

"Thirty years ago broilers were found only in hotels and on dining cars," federal experts say. "Today, everybody wants them. In those days, they were turned loose to fend for themselves until killed. Today, they are given perhaps one foot of floor space, with food at every turn, and hence aren't hardened by exercise. It used to take an hour or an hour and a half to cook one. Now they may be cooked in 30 to 40 minutes or even less in a pressure cooker."

Housewives can buy half a chicken or parts of a chicken now, but in almost every case it has to be a small quantity. They are not interested, in these days of small families, in the very large birds. Broilers today run around 2½ to three pounds as a maximum and it seems are in constant short supply, yet they command the highest prices.

So far as turkeys are concerned, a market is developing for the oversize birds even though they won't fit in the average oven. The 32-pound Tom which doesn't end up at a big hotel buffet luncheon is liable to wind up as a turkey-burger, with the development of machines to grind up the flesh for frying. At the Royal there will be exhibits showing just how it is done and also demonstrating the process of cleaning and preparing poultry for oven, frying pan or outdoor grill.

No Interest in Freaks

Freak birds aren't interesting Royal or federal folks at all. They just grin when questioned as to possible classes or exhibits of (a) neckless chickens for boarders' plates; (b) four-drumstick chickens; and (c) wingless chickens.

A buyer for one of Canada's leading packing plants also snorted when asked regarding such possible developments. "Our aim is to raise the poultry standards and interest the consumer, and we're not offering any premium prices for sideshow exhibits. I never saw a four-legged chicken. If such a thing did exist, we'd class it as an animal and the Royal has lots of classes for animals."

BIG FIVE

to operate and manage all atomic facilities in the world from the mines to the finished products. The agency would hold atomic materials in trust for member countries. There would be an international agreement to outlaw the national production and use of atomic weapons.

Russia rejected the majority plan on the grounds that it would give the United States world domination in atomic energy. It leaves the disposal of American atomic weapons until sometime in the indefinite future and it would infringe on Russia's national sovereignty.

The Western Powers denied that these grounds exist.

Outline Main Points

In their analysis, the Western Powers outlined as follows the main points of the Soviet control proposals and their reasons for rejecting them:

1. Russia proposes that countries continue to own explosive atomic materials. The Western Powers believe that this would not be effective protection against surprise atomic attack.

2. Russia proposes that countries continue to own, operate and manage facilities making or using dangerous quantities of atomic materials. The Western Powers believe that under such conditions it would be impossible to detect or prevent diversion of these atomic materials for use in atomic weapons.

3. Russia proposes a system of control depending on periodic inspection of facilities which the national governments concerned report to the international agency supplemented by special investigations on suspicion of treaty violation. The Western Powers believe periodic inspection would not prevent the diversion of dangerous materials and that the special investigations would be insufficient to prevent secret manufacture of atomic weapons.

PRIME MINISTER

Not Opposed to Each Other

Mr. St. Laurent declared his belief that in Canada free enterprise and social security are not opposed to each other. He did not think social security had reached the point yet where it is destroying or weakening incentive or enterprise.

There is in Canada almost unlimited room for adventure and risk-taking in the development of the country's natural resources. He said he believes Canadian businessmen, by and large, still retain the spirit of enterprise.

Earlier in the day chamber delegates, numbering some 800 from coast to coast, heard one of their own members express the ideals of business. Said Harold V. Lush (Toronto industrialist):

"The purpose of business is to serve Canadians at all levels. That means labor just as much as shareholder or consumer." Chamber Sees Policy

The annual meeting also sets its policy for the coming year. It advocated, with opposition from some delegates, the single alternative vote in federal elections, a ballot intended to guard against candidates getting elected by a minority vote. Many delegates felt they didn't know enough about it.

It opposed raising of radio license fees; urged establishment of a separate government body which would promote the fullest possible development and progress of radio and television in Canada; suggested Royal Commission to make recommendations in the interests of government economy and efficiency; and urged establishment of a coast guard service on both coasts and on the Great Lakes: .

The Chamber elected as its president for the coming year Robert A. Bryce of Toronto, and as first vice-president Francis G. Winspear of Edmonton.

Tenants of St. James's Palace Live in Romantic Atmosphere, Harewoods to Occupy Suite

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 27 — (CP)—The Earl of Harewood and his Countess, the former Marion Stein, will live at St. James's Palace after their honeymoon — but they will have to share it with 30 other families.

Most of the palace is divided into suites and apartments and the Harewoods will occupy a large apartment on the second floor.

Some of their neighbors will be private secretaries, comptrollers and other employees of the Royal Family and who have their living quarters in St. James's.

Others are accommodated there in return for long and loyal service in Royal households; many are pensioners of the King who have held high positions.

Lovely Park at Front-Door

Tenants at St. James's are fortunate in having one of the loveliest parks in London at their front door. They also live in an atmosphere of historical romance far exceeding that of Buckingham Palace.

St. James's was started as home for girl lepers. Until well into the 16th Century it was a grim, isolated hospital surrounded by dreary marshland.

But Henry VIII changed all that. Down came the buildings, out went the lepers and up sprang stately St. James's Palace. From that day it has been the court to which all foreign ministers and ambassadors are accredited.

On the first and second floors are magnificent state and banqueting rooms containing valuable antique furniture, priceless silver and pewterware and oil paintings bigger than the side of a house.

King Charles was imprisoned there and took fond farewell of his family in the main hallway before crossing the palace's park to the scaffold.

Last thing at night a uniformed guard still makes his rounds of the palace and the light from his ancient yellow lantern flickering on the tiled floors. And when the coarse challenge in the dark, followed by the dull thud of rifle butts, rings through the silent courtyards, it might be the palace of 400 years ago.

2 CANADIANS AMONG 48 KILLED IN AIR CRASH

Air France Plane Hits Mountain Top On Azores Island

Montreal Editor, Mother, Cerdan The Boxer Victims

Paris, Oct. 28 — (CP) — An Air France transatlantic plane crashed in flames in Sao Miguel Island in the Azores, killing all 48 persons aboard.

The airliner, en route from Paris to New York, had been missing for eight hours when search craft sighted the wreckage on a mountain peak on the Azores Isle. Aboard the plane were a Montreal newspaper man, his mother, and French boxer Marcel Cerdan.

Air France said it received a cable confirming the disaster at 5:10 p.m. (1:10 p.m. EDT).

Rescue parties reached the remote island of Sao Miguel where the plane rammed into a mountain side and found all dead, the company said.

Guy Jahnin, editor-in-chief of the Montreal French-language newspaper Le Canada was aboard with his mother, Mrs. Rachel Jasmin.

First reports from the Azores said some survivors had been sighted, but this was not borne out in an announcement of Air France here.

En Route to New York

The Constellation, on a flight from Paris to New York, also carried the noted French woman violin virtuoso, Ginette Neveu, and Louis Boutet de Monteel, widely-known French painter and illustrator of children's books.

Cerdan had been travelling in Italy and France to gather material for a series of stories in conjunction with the 1950 Holy Year.

Cerdan's manager, Jo Longman and his trainer Paul Jenser, also were aboard. Cerdan, former world middleweight champion, was on his way here for a title bout scheduled Dec. 2 at Madison Square Garden, New York, with Jake Lamotta, to whom he lost the title in Detroit June 18.

Wreckage

The announcement by Air France said:

"At 12:45 French Standard Time (7:45 a.m. EDT) Air France received a message from one of the search planes looking for Flight (code identification of the missing plane) which said it had sighted the wreckage of the plane near Algarvia Park, 1,100 metres (about 3,500 feet) high in the northeast portion of Sao Miguel Island.

"A rescue party immediately left Ponta Delgada to search for possible survivors."

Sao Miguel Island is about 90 miles from the Azores airport at Santa Maria, which is some 1,200 miles west of the European coast.

Weather Bad at Time

Company officials said they had no idea what had happened to prevent the plane from landing in Santa Maria. However, bad weather was bad at the time, they said.

The Constellation was last heard from at 10.50 p.m., EDT, Thursday night when the pilot radioed he was ready to land at Santa Marta in five minutes. Then, for eight hours there was no word. Planes and boats set out to look for the missing craft.

TWO PERSONS INJURED

Alliston, Ont., Oct. 28 (CP) — Two persons were injured near here Thursday night when the automobile in which they were riding turned over on a sharp curve. Injured and in Alliston hospital are Mervin Howard of Shelburne, driver, and Glenn Murray of Huntsville, Ont.

NORONIC REFLOATED

Steam pumps have almost emptied the water in the hulk of the Noronic, once proud queen of the Great Lakes passenger fleet, and salvage operators hope within the next few days to tow the vessel to Hamilton from the Toronto harbor pier where it has rested on the bottom of the harbor since the disastrous Sept. 17 fire. As this photo shows, most of the top decks have already been cut away and only the hull remains to be dismantled. — (CP Photo.)

BRITAIN'S LABOR GOVT. PUSHES AHEAD WITH PLAN

Program Carried After Vote Which Was Largest Ever Brought Against Govt.

London, Oct. 28 (CP)—Mindful of the largest vote yet mustered against it in the House of Commons, Britain's Labor Government today pushed ahead with its economy program. And there were indications that further cuts than those already outlined by Prime Minister Attlee were in store for Britons.

The two-day parliamentary debate on the government's belttightening program reached its climax Thursday night with Labor defeating a Conservative motion to censure the cabinet's economy plans as inadequate.

The vote was 353 to 222.

Some Labor opinion has shared the opposition view that Prime Minister Attlee took only half measures when he ordered an eight-per-cent cut in the country's spending plans.

Backed by Liberals, Liberal Nat'l and most of the 14 Independents, the Conservatives rallied 10 more votes than ever before were cast against the Attlee regime. The result, nevertheless, was a go-ahead for the program.

Opposition Abstains

The Conservatives abstained from a second vote on a government motion confirming that Labor won it 337 to 5.

The London press today generally refrained from commenting on the vote. The Times parliamentary correspondent, however, said "this debate, like that on devaluation last month, developed a strong electioneering atmosphere and the line of battle in the coming appeal to the country is being drawn ever more firmly drawn."

A general election is due sometime before next July, when the Labor Government's term of office expires.

WEATHER SYMPTOMS

Toronto, Oct. 28 (CP)—Symptoms—it looks as though most of Ontario will enjoy pleasant mild weather this week-end. A strong polar air covers the most northern sections of the Mackenzie River and Kirkland Lake regions but this cold mass will be slowly retreating. Safety displaced by warmer air from the west. The central and southern regions of the province will remain in a southwesterly flow of warm air. Maximum temperatures on Saturday should reach near the 60 mark in Southern Ontario dropping off to near 50 in northern regions. Sunny conditions are indicated for Southern Ontario with some cloudy intervals for more northern regions.

Two Men Accused of $100,000 Swindle at Peterborough Warrants Issued For Arrest

Peterborough, Oct. 28—(CP)—Warrants were issued today for two men accused of swindling the Colonial Finance Company of $100,000.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw identified the wanted men as Aubrey S. Hancock of Toronto and Paul Imming of Peterborough. They face charges of forgery and false pretenses.

Mr. Bradshaw said they operated as used car dealers and received loans from the Finance Company on loans they arranged for fictitious persons.

Colonial is a Toronto firm.

Police described the set-up like this:

Using the name Hancock Motors and Imming Ideal Auto Body, the men forged agreements of sale which included applications for loans. The loans were mailed to the "dealer" in cheque form.

Hancock and Imming, police said, saw to it that monthly payments on the loans were made on time. They used money orders, police said.

In many cases, real names were used but the addresses were fictitious. Addresses such as general delivery and nearby villages—Ballsbeton, Millbrook, Bridgenorth, Young's Point and Lakefield—were used.

At least 90 cases make up the $100,000 total, police said.

Hancock and Imming were said to have left Peterborough about three weeks ago. When they left, police said, the company sent out letters asking why payments had not been made.

Persons the post offices were able to find in spite of the incorrect addresses wrote to the company to ask what it was all about.

NEARLY READY TO OPEN

Brampton, Oct. 28. (CP) — Painting and furnishing the new 50-bed wing of the Peel Memorial hospital is still to be done, but W. E. Glenny of the hospital board said Thursday that the wing should be in use sometime in November, if not to date has been set for the formal opening.

Guthrie Says He Will Stay As Guelph Pastor

Toronto, Oct. 28 — (CP)—The board of the Union of Regular Baptist Churches said today it "deplores" the idea of Rev. Thomas Guthrie remaining as Pastor of York Road Baptist Church in Guelph.

Mr. Guthrie recently was alleged to have written a "love letter" to a young married woman in his congregation.

The sub, out of three during the sitting, was taken after Prime Minister St. Laurent defended the government's method of procedure in a speech that brought him one of the biggest ovations he has received this session. Applause lasted about three minutes.

SIX ARE KILLED AS PLANE CRASHES NEAR LONDON

Included in Death List is Sir Hugh Weldon, Provincial Govt. Official

London, Oct. 28 (CP)—Six persons including Sir Hugh Weldon-Singer, British Columbia provincial official, were killed early today when a twin-engine amphibian plane on its way to Rome crashed and burned as it was taking off from London airport.

First reports of the crash erroneously referred to the plane as a Canadian Pacific Airlines craft of Canada.

START TO SELL CROP

St. Thomas, Oct. 28 (CP)—Buying of the record crop of flue-cured tobacco in southwestern Ontario next Tuesday. Average yield is reported to be 1,926 pounds an acre compared with 1,124 pounds an acre last year, but some growers say some crops will run as high as 1,800 pounds to the acre. The graded price is not yet definite, but the minimum average price was set by the Ontario marketing board last week at 42 cents a pound.

Those 'Needlessly Unintelligible' In Using King's English Get Rapped

Kingston, Oct. 28 — (CP) — University professors, ministers and other educationists who are "needlessly unintelligible" when using the King's English have been given a sharp rap on the knuckles by Chancellor Lecturer Dr. W. E. McNeil, Vice-Principle Emeritus of Queen's University.

Pursuing his attack against those who abuse and misuse our language, Dr. McNeil delivered his fourth and last lecture Thursday at the 67th Annual Conference of the Queen's Theological Alumni Association.

"Speech is the maker, preserver and measurer of a civilization," he declared. "Even then, we can maintain it in its former beauty!"

"Know enough good examples and know them so well that they become part of the mental tissue," he advised. "The mind takes its character from that upon which it feeds."

"Literature is the basis of education — let us not abandon it," continued Dr. McNeil. "Give English a more important place in our homes and classrooms by having it read, read aloud and memorized."

COMMONS ADOPTS BILL TO AMEND THE CONSTITUTION

Resolution Must be Passed by Senate

Ottawa, Oct. 28—(CP) — In a short sitting the Commons Thursday adopted a resolution seeking for parliament the power to amend the constitution on matters under federal jurisdiction.

By a vote of 133 to 36, members approved an address to the United Kingdom parliament which now has the power to make amendments to the Canadian constitution. A similar resolution must be passed by the Senate before the legislation will be sent to the United Kingdom parliament.

Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members fought to the last to have passage of the resolution delayed to permit consultation with the provinces and further study by the public.

Two Independents, P. E. Gagnon (Chicoutimi), and Paul Poulin (Beauce), joined the Progressive Conservatives and Social Credit-ers in voting against the resolution.

The C.C.F. and Raymond Brunelle (Ind. L.—Prescott) voted with the government.

The sub, out of three during the sitting, was taken after Prime Minister St. Laurent defended the government's method of procedure in a speech that brought him one of the biggest ovations he has received this session. Applause lasted about three minutes.

Transport Board Empowers C.P.R. To Appeal Boost

Ottawa, Oct. 28 (CP)—Dissatisfied with the size of last month's freight-rate increase, the Canadian Pacific Railway Thursday won the right to carry its case for higher rates before the Supreme Court of Canada.

In a quick decision at the end of a hearing before the Board of Transport Commissioners Thursday, C.P.R. counsel got a point of law in the board's Sept. 20 judgment awarding the railway a 20-per-cent freight general increase.

The C.P.R., which with other railways asked for a 30-per-cent rate boost, wants the high court to rule on whether the board failed in its statutory duty by giving only an interim order and reserving a final settlement until it has completed seven months of hearings of its cases and received the report of the Royal Commission on Transportation.

Fought Appeal

Seven provincial governments — all except Ontario, Quebec and Newfoundland — plus Canadian Pacific's move to have the case re-opened before the Supreme Court.

RESTRICTIONS MAY BE LIFTED FOR CHRISTMAS

Chairman of Hydro Makes Announcement

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 28—(CP)—Robert H. Saunders, chairman of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, says he hopes to be able to ease hydro restrictions in time for Christmas.

Speaking here Thursday to Municipal Electrical Association members from Essex, Kent and Lambton counties, he said:

"Given normal water supply and the continued co-operation of consumers, we are hopeful we can give merchants some easement in time for their Christmas shopping season. They (the merchants) have rendered a distinct public service, particularly during the last four weeks."

He added that "we believe we should be able to carry on without further restrictions than those at present in effect."

The restrictions, in force since Oct. 1, ban outdoor electric signs which use commission power and limit lighting of stores during business hours to one watt a gross floor area. Not more than 10 watts a lineal foot is permitted for lighting store windows.

Theatre marquees are prohibited from using electric space heaters and no electric water heaters may be installed unless they are insulated and equipped with thermostats.

Miss K. Morrell Prize Winner In Essay Contest

This is the second prize winning essay on the subject published by merchants during their "shopping week". Miss Kathleen Morrell, pupil of St. Michael's Academy won second prize.

Why My Parents Enjoy Shopping In The Belleville

Commerce is a magic word, the opening of the door to wonderful adventure. Private enterprise rewarded by personal satisfaction, for merchants of all nations, makes business the lifeblood of civilization. All the material things we own have been bought or sold at one time or another. Take away the business district of a thriving town and the inhabitants are stranded, cut off from the globe-spanning highway of trade.

Belleville is a thriving "town" and mercantile transactions come daily to the counters of many parents, because many factors make it so. Imagine yourself driving your car, or perhaps taking a modern bus right into the business district, for a series noon of shopping. Right away the pleasure begins for, lo and behold, parking space is located in a conveniently located parking space, saving you gas and time and money, and you leave your car confident of even better things to come. The evidence which you tread are clean and tidy and the stores you enter are inviting.

Individually you are shown top-grade nationally advertised merchandise at standard prices in shops where credit plans are flexible, and you have pleasant contacts. Goods are sold on the spot, legally, including any evidence of exchanging unsatisfactory merchandise "blindly" bought and it reaches your cupboard. Our store managers, ever searching to please the consumer, have realized the need of home delivery of many bulky and burdening articles, and you may have almost any purchase delivered at little or no cost.

Of course the neighborhood stores are always handy, especially for personality favorites or suddenly needed articles. But wherever you buy the true "friendly city" you sense a personal satisfaction. You know that your money circulating in the city of your home, benefiting you and your friends, is enabling it to look forward to many prosperous years for Canadian business.

Labor Protests Dismissal of Paper's Editor

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 28 (CP) —Dismissal of Editor P. Barnard Gill of the bi-weekly Western Star at Corner Brook, which has caused a rumpus among west coast trade unionists, is unwarranted on the floor of the Newfoundland Legislature Thursday.

Premier Smallwood read a telegram from five labor union heads protesting Gill's dismissal. The telegram read, "Due to the threats of a prominent businessman here the editor of the Western Star Bernard Gill has been dismissed due to recent editorials regarding the cost of living. This is in our opinion absolute muzzling of the freedom of the press. The labor organizations are loud in their condemnation of such an undemocratic principle."

Mr. Smallwood said "this is a disgusting and intolerable situation. I do not blame the people of Corner Brook, who have been compelled to pay the highest prices in Newfoundland. It could be no worse in Soviet Russia."

The Western Star is owned by the Bowaters Pulp and Paper Mills Ltd. Company officials declined comment.

The Newfoundland government now is in the process of setting up a Royal Commission to investigate the high cost of living in the province.

Labor Council Opposes Phone Toll Increase

Belleville and District Allied Labor Council last night, at their regular monthly meeting, went on record as being opposed to the granting to the Bell Telephone Company the right to increase their toll and service charges and in favor of the telephone service being taken over as a national public utility. In the course of the debate it was brought up that when discussing the issue in the House of Commons in Ottawa it had been mentioned by the leader of the CCF that the Bell Telephone Co. would establish the right to enlarge its capitalization had assured the house that they would not seek any changes in their toll and service charges.

On request from Mayor Storey acting on behalf of the directors of the Board of Trade of Commerce, for a representative on the proposed citizens League, Neville Hamblin was elected to that position.

The councilmen listened to an interesting and enlightening address from Mr. H. H. Reed local office manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission. From his interest shown and the many questions asked it is evident that organized labor in this vicinity is becoming more and more interested in the functioning of the commission.

A delegation, consisting of Bros. Rezz, Spencer and Hambleton was elected to attend the next meeting of the Belleville Building Trades Council.

$6,000 Needed For T. B. Program In Hastings

If the 1949 tuberculosis control program for Hastings County and district is to be successfully carried out, it will be necessary to raise a minimum of $6,000 through the coming Christmas Seal sale, Mayor D. A. Storey, chairman of the Christmas Seal Committee, told the Rotarian Conference this morning.

"Fighting tuberculosis has become more and more a community effort, a citizens' movement, Mayor Storey said. "Funds raised through the sale of Christmas Seals help pay for mass X-ray surveys, health education, nursing services and, in some instances, rehabilitation of the ex-tuberculous into profitable employment and normal living conditions."

"It is the intention of the local tuberculosis association to sponsor mobile units throughout the county—X-ray all food handlers in restaurants and cafes—X-ray all patients admitted to the Belleville General Hospital.

"Two dollars' worth of Christmas Seals will reach every household in Hastings County and district the day the campaign opens if everyone will buy his share the success of the undertaking will be assured," Mayor Storey said.

"I have every confidence that the Hastings County campaign will be a resounding success reflecting our awareness of our responsibility for improving our own health conditions," Mayor Storey stated.

Council, to report on district activities since the spring meeting. Mr. Seldon paid tribute to Mr. George Pauley, who has been at the helm of the local association since its inception. He felt that; Mr. Pauley was largely responsible for the fact that the Quinte district is one of the best organized in the province.

A film "Sell As Your Customers Like It" produced by Johnson and Johnson suite preparations, when used for human use, could be sold only on the prescription of a doctor. The preparations are for veterinary use, however, they may be sold legally by having the purchaser sign for them, and recording the sale. TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Oct. 28—(CP)—Industrials held against an otherwise easier trend on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Profit-taking appeared in mid-session and some early advances were cut.

Western Oils were under the heaviest pressure, continuing Thursday's late declines. Golds and Base Metals slipped quietly.

Volume for the first four hours was 667,000 shares, about 115,000 shares less than Thursday's similar period.

Papers continued climbing in industrials and Cockshutt Plow led agriculturals into higher ground.

Golds opened on a stronger note but selling slowly appeared. Seniors held steady and juniors showed declines ranging up to 10 cents. A few issues went against the trend for strong gains. Sullivan Consolidated, adjoining East Sullivan in Northern Quebec, was in strong demand.

East Sullivan was a standout in base metals, climbing to a new high at $4.53 in brisk trade. Key issues slipped fractions.

Stewart-Warner Sports Field Handed Over to City by Manager

The Stewart-Warner-Alemite Company recreation field at the corner of MacDonald Avenue and Pine Street, was formally handed over to the city in a brief ceremony held in the office of Mr. L. A. Young, manager of the company.

Chairman of the City Parks Board, Harry Rollins, accepted the key to the ground from Mr. Young on behalf of the city. Mayor D. L. Storey was present at the ceremony.

The covenant between the company and city definitely states that the transfer covers the next fifty years, and that the park must be used for no other purpose than recreation for the residents of this city.

Breach of this contract will result in the return of the park to the Stewart-Warner-Alemite Company, which will in turn maintain the park for the purpose for which it was originally intended.

Fine Gesture Says Mayor

"This is an exceptional gesture on the part of the Stewart-Warner Company," Mayor Storey said in a brief address of appreciation. "Sports face as well as other residents of the city will deeply appreciate as I and the city council do, this fine act of public-mindedness on the part of Mr. Young and the company."

The Stewart-Warner Company and Mr. Young have done something that will live long in the hearts of sportsmen, fans and others of the city, Parks Board Chairman Rollins said. "I hope, in accepting this key, that whoever is appointed to the Parks Board, city council next year will work out a program that will benefit all. We definitely need recreational centres in Belleville and with this gift, we can make a good start."

Taken Over in 1941

The park was taken over by the Stewart-Warner Company in 1941, its lighting and other equipment were supplied by the company while volunteers from the personnel of the company assisted in putting the park in usable shape.

Parks Chairman Rollins, intimated that plans might be laid to enclose the park, erect bleachers along baselines and increase the power of the floodlight system.

Druggist in Inland Africa Must be Adaptable in Many Lines of Endeavor

The work of a pharmacist at a colonial outpost in British East Africa among the various native tribes is vastly different from what is expected of a druggist in Canada.

This can be readily vouched for by George W. Stirling formerly of Edinburgh, Scotland who spent well over a decade working as a pharmacist 450 miles inland from the Indian Ocean port of Mombasa. One week ago he commenced as pharmacist at Lattimer's Drug Store in Belleville and at 42 years has more varied experience behind him than many men attain during their entire life.

In Canada the work of a pharmacist falls along general lines the nature of which is familiar to all. But in Africa, in addition to dispensing drugs and patent medicines, he must be expected to be versed in dentistry in pulling the natives' teeth, or then again he may be called upon to assist at births, and on the whole acts as advisor to the natives.

Now expecting to make his home in Ontario, Mr. Stirling considers parts of equatorial Africa are still far from being suited for the white man. In general the natives have become hostile and the white population is on the decline.

Born in Edinburgh

Born in Edinburgh where he graduated as a druggist and chemist at 21 years of age, he studied medicine for three years before deciding to make a brief visit to his uncle in British East Africa. This brief visit turned out to be a lengthy one as for the next one-and-a-half decades Mr. Stirling made Africa his home.

He became associated with a druggist firm and later became director in the firm. He later acquired a coffee plantation which he supervised and which is still in the family. But the last war interrupted his course of life. The war commenced as he was on one of his infrequent visits to the Old Country and he was forced to remain for the duration.

Hot and Dry

Dairy farming, cattle raising, coffee, sisal, sugar and tea are the principal agricultural pursuits of the country, while gold and diamond mining is carried on to some extent. The climate is hot and dry.

However, the seasons vary greatly, being controlled by the rains which normally come twice yearly. When the rains fail or are not normal disease is rampant. During a dry time stock and crops suffer, while too heavy rains cause sickness among the natives.

"Then the natives come down with malaria and complain of chest ailments and the druggist is a very busy man," Mr. Stirling said.

Natives are serious minded and have a deep love for their children for whom they will do anything or go to any expense. There is a tendency to distrust the whites and for this reason psychology is a great asset in dealing with the natives. Of recent years native rioting against the whites has been on the increase.

Followed Profession

During the war Mr. Stirling was in London, where he followed his profession as a pharmacist and also spent long hours on first aid duty during air raids. Of that he wishes to forget.

Following the war he came to Canada on a business trip, took a liking to Ontario and decided to make his home here. He returned to Africa to close out his business interests there, then came to Canada by way of Cape Town and New York.

After twelve trips across the equator Mr. Stirling likes to feel that his travelling days are behind him, but to remind him of summer days in Africa are numerous reels of black and white and color moving picture film which he took himself. His chief hobby is photography.

Mr. Stirling lives on Queen Street where he was able to acquire accommodation for his wife and two children. He is a Freemason and already has associated himself with the local lodge. He has membership in Scotland, England and in Africa.

Most Carry Heavy Stocks

With orders being placed only twice yearly, the East African druggist must carry heavy stocks of European goods, but in addition he must manufacture many products from raw materials to satisfy native demands and also the demands of the agricultural and veterinary trades.

He thinks that in the latter two departments there is a field for Canadian druggists to expand their business.

The population of equatorial Africa is decidedly cosmopolitan and includes European races, Arabs, Hindu, Sikh, Moslems, and a half dozen more native African tribes, some of which are still pagan. As result the druggist who deals with them all must have a smattering of the tongue of each.

Doctors in equatorial Africa are as scarce as the proverbial "hen's teeth" so it naturally falls to the druggist to administer to most of the health needs of the natives. Here Mr. Stirling said he found his training as a doctor stood him in good stead.

Loves Any Medicine

"The native just loves any type of medicine, Mr. Stirling laughed. "And the worse the taste the better the enjoyment."

He said that when natives have faith in their medicine man his name travels faster than any newspaper gossip.

Primarily an agricultural country, progress in equatorial Africa is slow with transportation almost entirely dependent upon the railroad which is owned by the government. Highway construction is neglected as it is felt by the government these would lessen railway profits.

WHAT "THEY" WOULD HAVE WANTED

In her desire to erect a war memorial worthy of her men who died in the two world wars, Queen's University at Kingston, is being complimented on the magnificent new recreation centre, the Students Memorial Union, which has just been completed at a cost of three quarters of a million dollars.

This massive three-storey building will be opened officially by His Excellency, the Governor General, who will travel to Kingston for the dedication ceremonies on October 30. Opening of the Queen's Memorial Union takes on national significance, for this Canadian university established by Royal Charter from Queen Victoria in October, 1841, has drawn its students from every corner of Canada.

The Memorial Union contains a great dining hall where 1,500 student meals are served daily. It has rooms for reading, debates, music, study, games. There is a tuckshop, snack bar and lounges for both men and women students. A special room has been set aside with an altar, a memorial window and a remembrance book containing the names of the Queen's men who died in the wars. Seven large oil paintings representing the men and women in Canada's armed forces hang on its walls.

Financed in part from funds gathered through the Queen's public subscription campaign and from donations of graduates and friends, the Students Memorial Union is not another indication of the spirit, the loyalty and pride which the Canadian people have in Queen's University. And as Remembrance Day approaches, there is the general feeling that this is what "They" would have wanted.

FIRE LOSSES

Fire fatalities in Ontario still are great in number. In the third quarter of this year 27 persons were killed, of whom 15 were men, one a woman and 11 children while the total of injured reached 102, men in the latter group numbering two thirds. There was an increase of fires over last year's same quarter and the fire loss was up $703,665. For the first nine months of this year while the number of fires was down from 14,326 to 12,638 the total loss was almost three million more and the insurance loss nearly two million more.

The quarterly bulletin of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office draws attention to the fine officers' school now in progress at the University of Toronto, which has been designed to give the greatest help in administration of fire departments and training of department personnel.

USEFUL WORDS BEING LOST

How quickly the English language changes was impressed upon us the other day. We had used a word, with which we had been familiar since childhood, and were startled to get a note from the proofreader: "What is this? Not in dictionary."

It was "forby" and it is in Webster's Dictionary, with an alternative spelling of "forbye." One of its meanings is "hard by" or "close to." The more common meaning, however, is "in addition to" or "not taking account of." Such as in "you are none the worse, forbye a scratch or two."

Farmers would use it in this sense: "There are 20 head of cattle on the back 50, forby those in the field by the barn." They weren't using slang, but perfectly good English. Little did they know this handy word was living on borrowed time, soon to become obsolete.

Another kindred expression was "forment" or "forment." When we had to hill, we never thought of leaving a hoe leaning up against the fence, or a fork stood up by the stable wall. The hoe would be "forment" the fence; the fork "forment" the wall. No one had any doubt as to what we meant.

Still another word seems to be slipping into obscurity, though not so far into it yet as those we have mentioned. It is "fetch" and it was expressive of so many things. It meant, variously, to go and get, to achieve, to reach, to deduce, to sell (as to fetch a good price), or to strike.—Windsor Star.

The total land area under irrigation on the Canadian prairies in 1948 amounted to some 656,000 acres.

ABOUT PLEASURE

There's no pleasure that can hold you day by day
In your lifetime through.
You would tire of golf or fishing if that's all you had to do.

It is toil that sweetens pleasure; it is need that gladdens play;
It is living for some purpose
Take the fears and heartaches
And remove the disappointments and the sting of obstacles,
And you'd quickly start in seeking for some worthwhile task to do.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Once more the time of year has come when The Packsack has to remind you of your poor old feet. The season of muck and cold is at hand. Get your feet off dry. And end in deluge. You can pull your hat down around your ears. You can turn up your collar. You can stuff your hands in your pockets.

But how about your poor old feet?

Ten times a day, you comb your hair, wash your hands, rub your teeth with chalk, brush up on your warm radiator. Twenty times a day you blow your nose. You feed your mouth with food three times a day. You pamper your lips with cigarettes. Thirty times a day, You square your shoulders, pull your chest, palm your stomach, slap your knees.

But what about your poor old feet?

Before your eyes are open in the morning, you poke your feet into socks and imprison them in leather. All day long, you hang your weight on them. You slap them, at the rate of something like 1,000 to 2,000 pounds per hour.

And you give them no exercise.

Why, on the pavement as you run for the bus. You kick things out of the way with them. You grind cigarettes down on unpleasant things every foot of the way along the family, and at desk, you hide them out of sight, in the dark. From 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. you never give them a glance.

Then, at bed time, you throw off your shoes, pull off your socks, and before they can even catch their breath, you have shoved from five to six feet deep under the bed clothes. And there, enclosed, they stay, all night.

The kiddies have their hour. How about the feet having, how their ten or fifteen minutes? How about propping them up at bed time every night on a chair and twiddling your toes while you offer them a vote of thanks for another day of faithful service?

If you do, the first thing you know you will be buying them warm socks, good stout leather shoes and generally treating them like a member of the family, instead of like the charlady who comes and goes without anybody noticing her.

FOUND GUILTY OF DANGEROUS DRIVING

Lindsay, Oct. 28 — (CP)—Aylmer Al. Davies of Toronto was found guilty of dangerous driving Thursday in connection with the death June 27 of Ethel Price at a level crossing here. He was remanded until Friday for sentence.

Originally charged with manslaughter, Davies told the court he and Miss Price, a model for his firm, were on their way from Lindsay to Peterborough, when their car was struck by the train.

"I saw the engine coming at a height of about 40 mph," he said. "But I couldn't avoid hitting it."

MANY USES

Gas has more than 2,000 industrial uses.

By Billy Rose

On November 14, Eleanor and I will have been married ten years, and so, the tradition of columnizing husbanda, here's the inevitable piece on the eats, feeding and all-around domestication of the male animal . . .

During the first couple of years, when my misses was displeased with something I did, she used to tell me in so many words. But for a long time now Eleanor has been using a more effective technique—The Withering Heights look — the lingo of the lashes — the two-by-glares. This method of communication, as all husbands know, is strictly a one-way language, more economical than French and more compressed than Chinese, and it bears a striking similarity to the idiom used by human beings in cartoon balloons in "Down, Rover," and "Jump Pitt."

It is Sunday morning and our weekend guests are already at breakfast. I, unshaven, am wearing a floppy wardrobe and a slight growth of five-o'clock shadow. Eleanor, on the other hand, Translated, it means, "Once a Bowery bum, always a Bowery bum. What are you running here, a flophouse with a fringe on top?" I say nothing, but the look says, in "Down, Rover," and "Jump Pitt."

It is Sunday morning and our weekend guests are already at breakfast. I, unshaven, am wearing a floppy wardrobe and a slight growth of five-o'clock shadow. Eleanor, on the other hand, Translated, it means, "Once a Bowery bum, always a Bowery bum. What are you running here, a flophouse with a fringe on top?" I say nothing, but the look says, in effect, "Hold your tongue and horses, Junior. It's my allowance money I'm spending — and what I'm spending it on! Eleanor's clothes anyhow! I've seen the way you dress girls in your shows and anything beyond a G string is bound to strike you as sheer extravagance. Smile pretty at the salesman." And she, being the captain of my soul, I smile pretty.

Or, we get out of a cab in front of a restaurant and I start for the door; Suddenly I feel Eleanor's grip in the nape of my neck. "Easy does it, Buster," they say. "I'm going through that door first if I have to drag you behind me on a leash. Come back and offer your arm before I twist it off." I casually saunter in after my wife, wondering if the leash is showing.

Last week we had several people to dinner, including the Deems Taylors. In came the vichyssoise and into the vichyssoise I went. Eleanor's glare hit me right where I choke. "Where are your manners?" she said. "Don't you know it's dangerous to approach a body of liquid like that without a diving helmet? Besides, where do you get the nerve to make such remarks in front of the female critic like Deems Taylor at the table?"

My decade with Baby has taught me one thing: if you can survive that, you can get away with five as chipper as one; in other words, providing you're housebroken, a spirit-broken, bliss a streetcar named connubial.

Am I putting the whammy on wedlock? Heck, no. If my favorite looker stopped giving me those looks, I'd be as jittery as a canary which escaped from its cage and flew around the room. Hoot mon, I can get looked at again.

Russian soldiers at Helmstedt in the Soviet zone of Germany, for instance, refused to let a truckload of bibles proceed to Berlin.

"That's propaganda material," explained the Red officer in charge.

And of course he was quite right about the "propaganda" part. The Bible is the greatest piece of promotion ever developed.

That is precisely why the Communists, who are battling religion in the Soviet Union, are so anxious to prevent distribution of the world's best-selling book. Communism is a religion and it knows it has a competitor.

Recently this column reported the formation of a Red unit in New York with Madame Chiang Kai-shek as honorary president. Nationalist Generalissimo, We were discussing China's rehabilitation and she said:

"That can be achieved only through moral and spiritual growth."

You believe that moral and spiritual change will come to China?" I asked, and she replied: "Yes. It is coming."

Narcotics Ring Broken up by Jail Sentences

Vancouver, Oct. 28 — (CP) — The doors clanged shut Thursday on one of Vancouver's most profitable — and most Machiavellian — business organizations.

The organization: an illicit narcotics ring; the profits $1,000 a day and the chief of the steel bars of a prison cell where five men were sentenced to spend the next seven years.

The men — Carmen Chilovitti, of Toronto; Dan Gasberini, of Hamilton, Ont.; Mike Kushman, Steve Bohach and John Sestak, of Vancouver — received the maximum sentence plus $20,000 in fines for engaging in what Mr. Justice J. A. Maclean termed "a diabolical traffic that robs individuals of life and health and society of its worth."

Chilovitti was fined $10,000 or an additional three years; Kushman and Smokler $5,000 each or an additional two years.

Inspector of the Dominion-wide ring, whose operatives shuttled between here and various cities with the organization of a business firm, climaxed "the most successful" narcotics drive since the R. C. M. P. to combat illicit narcotics distribution."

SULFA ABUSE

Mrs. W. H. writes: "Could we have your opinion on the widespread use of sulfa drugs? It has been the experience of many of my friends and myself to have the sulfas prescribed for use in a variety of forms—tablets, gum, and now drops—for the any and all disorders. If all the prescriptions were filled that we received, we would have quite a sizable supply of sulfa drugs. It seems that the only treatment offered was the sulfa drug, but, needless to say, we managed to cure our ailments without it.

"We feel that while the drug is miraculous in its results, it is dangerous to use and isn't necessary for illnesses where other cures are available.

The person who wrote this letter is a wise woman. First it was sulfas, then penicillin. Whenever a new drug is discovered and put on the market everyone is anxious to see what it will do. The sulfa drugs in particular have been misused in this manner of drug fad. In medicine too there is a pendulum trend. While drugs were getting shorter, sulfa was the vogue. While sulfas were getting longer, such new antibiotics as sureomycin and streptomycin were being developed and used to great in-betweened.

Penicillin, aureomycin, streptomycin, chloromycetin, and polymyxin are antibiotics, and they are produced from fungus or mold cultures. The sulfa drugs, on the other hand, are chemical compounds which can be synthesized or manufactured chemically. Since penicillin was discovered, we have been using less and less of the sulfas. But there are still some very important indications for the use of the sulfas.

The sulfa drugs, or sulfonamides, are a group of closely related chemical compounds which possess antibacterial action. It is thought that drugs cause a change in the composture of the blood and tissues by the sulfas, the bacteria are unable to survive. But not all bacteria are susceptible to this killing action of the sulfas. Take the bacteria that cause tuberculosis, for example. These tubercle bacilli are totally unaffected by the sulfa drugs.

Penicillin does a much better job with most infections than do the sulfas. The exceptions are certain infections of the intestinal and urinary tracts. One of the reasons for this is that certain of the sulfas (as sulfathalidine and sulfasuccidine) are not absorbed through the walls of the intestines and remain in the intestinal tract to do their work against the bacteria. Penicillin can't do that. Also the sulfas are excreted through the urine and thus are able to reach the urinary bacteria.

The sulfa drugs can be toxic to the body. The most serious complication due to sulfa administration are anemia, destruction of the white blood cells, and kidney damage.

It is absolutely senseless to give a person sulfa for a disease which is not due to a bacteria cause or an infection which is not touched by the sulfa drugs Its use in cri (the "common cold") and asthma, in which case it is useless, is stupid, especially when we know that it is dangerous.

In the hands of a skilled physician, sulfa is a most effective therapeutic tool. But beware of its abuse!

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

No Substitute for Milk

Please advise if there is a substitute one can take who can't digest milk?—Mrs. J. C.

Answer—One who can digest anything can digest milk. It is a whim, obsession— or unpleasant association is stronger than the nutritional value. However, any and all kinds would be the next best food.

The Honey Hokum

Wife, is a great honey eater and insists on it immediately before breakfast every morning. Says me to her that it is a fad and as I have diabetes (H. P. B.)

Answer—You should get it all in writing—you know a man can't testify against his wife. Let her keep the hokum about honey for many years, and, next to nothing, it is the best, and efficacious to say here that in any circumstance honey is virtually identical in effect with so much sugar or syrup.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ADD SOMETHING TO LIFE

Multitudes all about us are continuously trying to add to the last one or two possible out of life without putting anything back. The result, therefore, is nothing but one. Total materialistic human life is never satisfactory.

There is a man in Peoria, Illinois, who runs a big, successful business, known, today, the world. He makes machinery that can even "reproduce" itself. He attributes his magical success to the fact that God "has no place in my scheme." His name is Robert G. Le-Tourneau. His great organization is a Christian unit. He is wealthy, and he being an engineer, is constantly improving his methods of manufacture. Yet this man has time to take his own plane, pay his own expenses, and travel from one end of the country to the other giving religious talks to thousands. It's his way of adding something to life, in part payment for what God has given him. No wonder he is both successful, useful, and happy.

Every time we add something good to life we get something back that we didn't expect! And that something is enrichment of mind and heart. That's the way Mr LeTourneau looks at it.

No matter how much money you may have accumulated and put away, and if you have been driving out without putting something back you'll soon have nothing obvious. But we forget that Life is a bank, and the process works exactly the same. We have to keep adding something to Life if we are going to get what we want Life to treat us well.

That Kentucky hill school teacher—Jesus—was always adding something to the sordid lives of his pupils. Instead of playing cat and dog fight prize students, who looked up to him with pride and confidence. He was always adding some new to their lives and got back in return satisfaction that later brought him fame and fortune as an outstanding American writer.

Every kind and generous act, every bit of encouragement that we give to others, and every hopeful word uttered has its reward. And adding to life and you will get something better than you had before. Every great book is something added to the wealth of the world.

Strength for the Day

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FAILURE OFTEN LEADS TO SUCCESS

Phillips Brooks was the greatest preacher of his generation. For years he held the people of Boston spellbound. He preached in Westminster Abbey on special occasions. When he died, the whole city mourned. He was a genius, and he is looked upon to this day as one of the greatest evangelists the world has ever known.

Yet Phillips Brooks was a disappointed man. The great desire of his heart was to be a preacher, but a teacher. He started out as a teacher of Latin in a boys' school near Boston, and he found he was his failure that the headmaster in dismissing him did so with the encouraging remark that it had been his observation that those who failed in teaching failed in everything else. To the end of his life, while the fame of the whole world filling his ears, Brooks continued to look back upon his failure as a teacher as unforgivable.

Failure often the door through which God leads us to our greatest successes. Patrick Henry's ambition was Randolph's failure as storekeepers forced them into the practice of law, and to Washington's inability to get clients drove him into his study where he wrote his famous Commentaries.

INDUCES FUZZ ON RARE PATES

He can't prove by the evidence here, but Ben Cutler, Moline, Ill., barber, claims he has caused hair to grow on pates as bald as billiard balls. Second Hunter Wounded at Pelee Pheasant Shoot

Pelee Island, Ont., Oct. 28 — (CP) — A second man has been injured at the Pelee Island pheasant shoot.

Joseph Gardiner, 39-year-old resident of this small Lake Erie island five miles offshore from Leamington, was shot in the leg during the first day of the two-day annual classic Thursday. He is bedridden today but his injuries are not serious.

Earlier Thursday Barney Storer, 51, of Cleveland, one of the 1,000 American and Canadian visitors to the island received superficial wounds to the head and upper body from a shotgun blast. He was flown across the lake to hospital in Chatham, O.

At final tally last night more than 8,000 birds were reported on the ground after the first day's shooting. Each hunter may take off the island a total of 10 pheasant cocks and two hens.

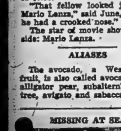
Buried to Neck In Fresh Cement, Worker Rescued

Toronto, Oct. 28 — (CP) — Police and firemen today rescued a workman buried to his neck in fresh cement, at a hydro excavation project in the east end of the city. The workman was in the deep excavation when the concrete fell on top of him.

ST-TALKER MIXES CASHIER AT MOVIE

Toronto, Oct. 28 — (CP)—Perhaps you shouldn't blame movie-conscious June Buttress at all.

The 18-year-old theatre cashier told police a fast-talker offered a $20 bill for a 70-cent ticket, got her all mixed up and cheated her of $9.30.



"The fellow looked just like Mario Lanza," said June, "except he had a crooked nose."

MISSING AT SEA

Stuart Benson, 72, internationally renowned sculptor (above), was reported missing when the Polish liner Sobieski, on which he is a passenger, docked a few days ago in New York. His disappearance was discovered on Oct. 19 when a steward brought a tray to his cabin. Captain Jan Godecki, the Sobieski's master, said "we searched the ship for 24 hours but could find no trace of him. No one saw him go overboard." — Central Press Canadian.

Saving Bonds Sales Called Spectacular

By HAROLD MORRISON

Ottawa, Oct. 28 (CP)—A wave of enthusiasm has swept the Bank of Canada, as sales of Canada Savings Bonds climbed to unprecedented heights.

Donald Gordon, the bank's deputy governor, said in an interview that the spectacular increase in sales was the "success story of the year."

It was the latest proof that Canada was in the midst of an "economic boom".

J. E. Coyne, the bank's executive adviser, said the sales reflected the country's prosperity. Canada was basking in the warm sun of peak income and employment. These conditions currently were the best the country had ever known.

The sales campaign opened Oct. 17 and is expected to run well into 1950. But after reviewing the first week's returns, officials frankly admitted they were "pelted by surprise". General bond sales during the week totalled $27,888,950 worth sold during $32,888,800 in the same period last year. Payroll sales climbed to $39,097,250.

This was more than double the $27,888,950 worth sold during the first week of the 1948 campaign.

If the trend continued, said the officials, Canada this year would crack the record $250,000,000 worth of bonds sold last year with a likely total of $300,000,000. Mr. Gordon said the big hike in sales was particularly gratifying because it showed that people were "making hay while the sun shines".

The bonds, most of which were sold on the payroll plan, were "catching on" as an instrument of thrift. It was "spectacular" in the way the small holder was going in for increased purchases. He gave credit to the employers and employees teams that were volunteering as salesmen and to the small band of investment dealers' salesmen, performing "wonderful jobs" in getting Canadians to buy the bonds.

PENITENT

Creeping on her knees over cobblestones, a penitent pilgrim makes her way slowly toward the shrine of "Our Lady of Fatima" during a special feast period observed in Lisbon, Portugal. Thousands of Catholics from all sections of the world came to the shrine, erected on the site of the alleged appearance of the Virgin to three little girls. — Central Press Canadian.

CANADA - U.S. TREATIES ARE U.N. MODELS

As part of the observance of the fourth birthday of the United Nations, the National archives in Washington put on a special display of treaties and documents of Canada and the U.S. Here Mrs. Charles F. Brannan, wife of the U. S. secretary of agriculture, and chairman of the display exhibits, shows Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong and Mrs. Wrong (right) the "trade agreement with Canada of 1935." This is the only international agreement in the archives signed by the uncrowned Edward VIII of Great Britain. Mr. Wrong helped negotiate the treaty when he served as counsellor. — Central Press Canadian.

Breeders of Blue-Ribbon Cattle Enhance Prestige With Ring Wins

Ottawa, Oct. 28—(CP)—Breeders of blue-ribbon cattle are engaged in a never-ending search for a "dream cow".

The search, and the lucrative financial returns from prize livestock, explains the long hours of painstaking feeding and grooming cattlemen expend in preparing entries for the show ring.

Top show ring victories mean much more to the breeders of championship cattle than the mere collection of a few strands of colored ribbon.

Award-wise fairs such as this week's Ottawa Winter Fair, enhance the reputations and prestige of the breeders. That, in turn, increases the value of the breeders' herds.

Primarily livestock fairs are held to encourage cattlemen to improve breeding strains and to give them an opportunity of comparison with other breeders.

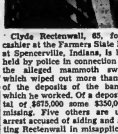
Want Plenty of Milk

Beef cattle aside, aim of breeders is to breed cows to give fabulous quantities of milk. In their breeding, they keep an eye on a standard used in judging competitions.

Although the "standard" is perhaps something of a "dream cow," W. R. Wilson of Kenmore, Ont., chairman of the Cattle Committee, at the 40th Annual Winter Fair, says many cows have come close to the fictitious standard so that it is not something beyond reason.

Theory behind the ideal cow is that given symmetrical build, ideal quality, strength, conformation, among many other points, that cow will give the greatest quantity of milk possible.

Matter of Genetics



But Mr. Wilson explains, it is not just a matter of mating a grand champion bull with a grand champion cow. It doesn't necessarily follow that grand champion sires will come from such a combination.

"It's a matter of genetics," he explains, "theoretically, mating of the best bull and best cow should result in a calf that perhaps will be even better than sire or cow."

But today's cow is an artificial creature differing vastly from the cow originally acquired by Nature and Nature often compensates with a lower - quality calf from blue ribbon parents.

It is when such a situation arises that a farmer stands to risk money on a big investment. A person buying a large herd of good quality cattle will lose heavily if that herd doesn't reproduce quality cattle. Sometimes the milk obtained and sold does not cover capital expenditures.

INVOLVED IN GIANT SWINDLE

Clyde Reetenwall, 65, former cashier at the Farmers State Bank at Spencerville, Indiana, is being held by police in connection with the alleged mammoth swindle which will cost more than half of the deposits of the bank in which he worked. Of a deposit total of $675,000 some $350,000 is missing. Five others are under arrest accused of aiding and abetting Reetenwall in misapplication of bank funds in drawing cheques on inadequate accounts.—Central Press Canadian.

Winnipeg, Oct. 28—(CP)—The Manitoba government got a nomination day bonus of 18 free seats Thursday and the chief opposition spokesman conceded Premier Douglas Campbell's coalition will be returned to office in the Nov. 10 general election.

Two Hospitals For N. Ontario Are Planned

Toronto, Oct. 28 — (CP) — Health Minister Dymond said today that one of the two mental hospitals the Ontario government plans to build in Northern Ontario will be at Fort William or Port Arthur.

No site has been chosen for the second hospital, he told The Canadian Press. It would be located "where it will be most conventient for the people of the rest of the north." A decision likely would be made "inside a month."

Mr. Kelley announced Thursday that the two institutions will be built at a cost of a $3,000,000 construction program to add 4,000 beds to the province's mental-hospital accommodation.

Crazed Pilot Terrorizes Town Then Shoots Self

Clearwater, Fla., Oct. 28 (AP) —A 23-year-old pilot terrorized Clearwater residents for two hours with wild power dives in a stolen plane, then calmly landed and shot himself to death yesterday.

Police Chief George McClamma identified the youth as Samuel W. Watkins.

Watkins telephoned a girl friend Wednesday night about 11:30 and told her he had decided to kill himself. Then he hung up.

Thirty minutes later frantic residents from virtually every section of town called police headquarters to report that a plane, flying without lights, was buzzing rooftops.

Watkins made a series of dives at homes. Again and again the aircraft hurtled earthward, only to zoom back into the sky. The landing gear scraped fronds off palm trees on several dives.

Finally Watkins flew back to the airport. Its runways lighted by the headlamps of police cruisers. Flying low, the pilot opened the cockpit window and shouted "Get the hell off the field."

Then he made a perfect landing and shot himself as police raced up.

Kiwanis Ladies Auxiliary Holds Colorful Autumn Tea and Bazaar at Centre

Cloudless skies and Autumn sunshine lured many friends and members to the lovely tea and bazaar held at the Kiwanis Centre under the auspices of the Ladies' Kiwanis Auxiliary, on Thursday afternoon.

Receiving at the door, were Mrs. C. Savagar, and Mrs. N. Edwards, and close by the treasurer, Mrs. E. Fairman collecting the dues and offerings from each as they passed in. Beyond, the eye was met with a riot of blended Autumn colors by means of leaves, and tissue garlands which decorated the various booths, and ran along one side, across the end, and down the other side.

On the right was the candy booth, dainty as a garden of daffodils with its pale green and yellow ruffles and its vases of pale green and pink tinted mossy flowers, between which were displayed all kinds of handmade candy; pink and white creams, boxes of peanuts, sheer little green banded cups overflowing with fudge and maple cream; boxes of divinity fudge, some pink and some white; little baskets filled with pink mints and boxes of cherry-centered fondant. Over this place of sweetness was Mrs. H. Brownlee with her co-convener, Mrs. G. Wallbridge, with their assistants, Mrs. S. Eaton, Mrs. H. Brown and Mrs. T. Carruthers.

Artistic Ability shown at Sewing Booth

Next in line came the knit goods and sewing booth conveyed by Mrs. M. Vanzer with her co-convener, Mrs. W. A. R. McCreary, assisted by Mrs. E. Logan, Mrs. Charles Hyde and Mrs. W. Wonnacott. This booth was a picture of artistic ability, both in its decorations of red and white valances with garlands of red cedar. Displayed here were flowered laundry bags, dainty handkerchiefs, some with blue tatted edges, others with pale pink, and more with lovely white tatted borders. A dainty apron, a cute little doll all dressed up in a wo- knitted dress with bonnet to match, and bootees edged in blue. She was made of ribbon, and when last we saw her over would cry protestingly. On the far end was the new Scotch laddie all decked out in his highland tartan with red cape. There were also knitted towels, bath towels with crocheted borders; little baby sweaters, and one pair men's fine hand-knit green socks in cable stitch, a wonderful pair of socks, and many lovely items too numerous to mention.

Miniature Bakeshop

At right angles to this was the home-cooking booth in colors of yellow, bronze and white, miniature bakeshop. Here in evidence art, rich, brown date loaves; lemon meringues, cherry pies, dripping goodness, apple pies with pretty designs on the crust, mince pies, tea biscuits, chocolate Hallowe'en cakes, vanilla cookies, raisin topped, luscious fruit jellied cocktails, potato salad, macaroni salad, parker house rolls, and home-cooked ham with the most tempting aroma. Here convened Mrs. Don Stanton, and her co-convener, Mrs. L. Reid; assisted by Mrs. R. Wotten, Mrs. C. Mott, Mrs. W. Cook, Mrs. R. Slone and Mrs. S. Congelly.

Along the other side came next the apron booth with its green, yellow and bronze trim, and looking like a veritable flower garden with its array of pretty aprons of every design, and of nearly every material. There were work aprons, large and roomy, dainty afternoon tea aprons, nice, cheery breakfast aprons, some in green with white strips with wide white border; others in shades of green trimmed with maurave; aprons with tiny flowers like grandmother used to wear; and one pretty necktie apron. Here, busy arranging and tying, were, Mrs. H. Cross, Mrs. S. Joss, and their assistants, Mrs. L. Foxard, Mrs. G. Forhan, Mrs. F. R. Harback, Mrs. C. Whiteman, and Mrs. S. McKenna.

Colorful Novelty Booth

The novelty booth was next, and this was exceedingly colorful with deep pink, brown and yellow ruffles, and garlands of Fingerlike Autumn leaves. For sale were all manner of pretty odds and ends; a lovely white vase with handles in Grecian lines; pretty wax roses, some yellow, some pink, for dresser scarves; a walnut pipe-holder depicting the head of a Swiss heimsman with wheel; bronze colored book ends; a cream colored china plant sprinkler; Autumn tea-pot sale ing brass tiger, and a peaceful chicken dog and side by side, quietly ignoring each other; an amber-colored rose bowl, and several pretty vases for dresser scarves; a cactus, and other little plants. This booth was conveyed by Mrs. D. La France, and Mrs. Cliffe Argue, with their assistants, Mrs. W. Bowerman, Mrs. A. Hunter, Mrs. J. V. White, and Mrs. T. Franklin.

Upstairs was the tea-room with its festoons of red, orange, yellow, green and gold, running down from the chandelier above to be centered in a wreath of Autumn oak leaves. Round about the centre tangle were the little quartet tables, each with its white cloth centered with a vase of pale French marigolds, and at the head of the quartet, the long tea table, with its dainty Chinese lace cloth. On either end were the beautiful Hallowe'en cake and in the center the silver epergne with its golden and ruby ruby rums. Those presiding from 2.30 to 4.30 were Mrs. R. E. Smith and Mrs. A. Thomas from the west end, Mrs. J. E. Marsh and Mrs. T. Golding.

A Pink Gem

On a table, in lonely state, was an angel cake in mounds of pale pink icing, each half peak dotted with a silver ball. Pink candles waiting for the lucky one to draw its number. Those who watched over this pink gem were Mrs. H. Craig, and Mrs. E. Kunz, while Mrs. A. Cooper received the tickets to the tea room, which was presided over by Mrs. Vic White, and Mrs. H. Fox.

Those who convened the refreshments were: Mrs. E. Finkle, and Mrs. F. Domenico, with their assistants, Mrs. A. Lloyd, Mrs. A. Duffy, Mrs. K. Graham, Mrs. Vermilyea, and Mrs. R. Rollins. Those who served from 3 to 4.30 were: Mrs. R. M. Anderson. Mrs. J. H. Cowan, Mrs. E. Black; Mrs. G. M. Davidson, Mrs. W. B. Latimer, Mrs. W. Powers, and Mrs. J. Thornbury. From 4.30 to 6 p. m., Mrs. G. W. Dies, Mrs. W. J. Doyle, Mrs. W. E. Jones, Mrs. George S. McIntosh, Mrs. R. Pryke, Mrs. K. Ross, Mrs. W. H. Stovin, Mrs. J. Walton, and replenishing from 6.30 to 8 were Mrs. D. L. Storey, and Mrs. J. M. Wood. Replenishing from 3 to 4.30 were Mrs. R. Flynn, Mrs. W. Laporte, and Mrs. J. A. McIntosh. The convener over all was Mrs. R. G. Clapp, assisted by her co-convener, Mrs. R. E. Smith.

A truly lovely bazaar in keeping with the lovely day outside, and a tribute to all who assisted in bringing it to such a perfect completion.

The winner of the cake, Mrs. F. R. Wotten; the winner of the doll, Mrs. W. G. Black.

Hallowe'en Candy

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 28 — (CP) —Shell out, all you kindly neighbors — it's Hallowe'en again. The hobgoblin at your door, the witch on a broomstick are just little Mary and Jimmy from next door, in search of a treat.

Be sure to have a plate of candy nearby. Popcorn balls are easy to make and the youngsters will enjoy them.

Ingredients: one cup honey; one cup sugar; one-half cup water; one teaspoon salt; one teaspoon vanilla extract.

Combine honey, sugar, water and salt in saucepan. Place over low heat, stirring until mixture begins to boil. Cook to firm ball stage (250 degrees Farenheit). Remove from heat. Add vanilla and stir until well blended.

Pour slowly over three quarts of popped corn in large bowl. Grease the hands lightly or rinse them in cold water and press corn into balls. Wrap in waxed paper. Yield: eight medium popcorn balls.

Honey - Almond Balls — Ingredients: four ounces (four squares) unsweetened chocolate; one-half cup liquid honey; one-quarter teaspoon cinnamon; one-eighth teaspoon salt; one-half cup finely chopped blanched almonds.

Melt chocolate over hot water, add honey, cinnamon and salt. Beat well, add almonds. Chill until firm enough to handle. Form into small balls about one inch in diameter. Roll balls in icing sugar or finely desiccated coconut. Yield: 30 balls.

Fudge—Ingredients: one tablespoon butter; three cups sugar; three-quarters cup white corn syrup; one-quarter cup water; one small can condensed milk; one-half teaspoon vanilla; pinch of salt.

Warm butter in pan until light brown, then add sugar, syrup, water, milk and salt, and cook until it forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Set aside and let cool for 20 to 30 minutes. Beat until creamy, adding vanilla. Chopped nuts may be added while beating. Spread on buttered plate and cut into squares.

Helpful Hints

Grease the lip of the milk pitcher with butter to prevent the drip.

When brushing a carpet, dip the broom in cold salted water. This not only will keep down the dust, but will also freshen the carpet.

Keep a bag of fine sand handy if there is a coal oil stove in the home. Should an explosion or fire occur, sand thrown over the flames will quickly extinguish them.

LUCKY EVA

Eleven-year-old Eva Smith proudly points out the new car she is going to buy with the $15,000 she won Wednesday in the Irish Sweepstakes on the Cambridgeshire. Not only is she going to buy "a car 'n lole of things," Eva is also going to help her father, almost blind, to pay for a new home. Eva held a ticket on Meyserr Hampton, which placed third. — (CP Photo.)

Women Lose Weight Scheme Loses Cash

London. (CP)—Portly British matrons are taking off those extra pounds at government expense.

"Doctor, I'm putting on weight", is a frequently-heard opening remark when madam enters the consulting room.

As often as not, the physician writes out a prescription for a fat-reducing drug. National Health Service foots the bills.

"Don't blame the doctor," said a Harley street specialist. "If he refused to treat these cases the patients would go to someone else."

The ministry of health explained that overweight can be a health hazard and a bad thing for a woman's psychology. The ministry would leave the matter to the doctor's judgment.

"If some women are being slimmed for frivolous reasons, it is always because there is always a small percentage of people prepared to exploit anything of this kind to the full," said a ministry official.

SCENE STEALER

This small, black spaniel, "Chota," stole the show at a reception given by the Indian High Commissioner to Canada, K. R. Kirpalani in Ottawa this week. She wagged her tail and sat as nice as you please when India's Prime Minister Nehru patted her head and recalled the occasion in New Delhi two years ago when he named her Chota, which in English means "little one." Mrs. J. T. Brooks of Ottawa, owner of the dog is shown holding Chota as Her Excellency Vijaya Lashmi Pandit, Indian ambassador to the U. S., and Prime Nehru admire the animal. — (CP Photo.)

Those who served were: Mrs. J. Clarke, Mrs. A. Denyer, Mrs. J. S. Maslin, Mrs. J. R. Carnmins, Mrs. A. Lewis, Mrs. R. Gibson, Mrs. A. Sketcher, Mrs. Oscar Clark, Mrs. W. D. Saunders was treasurer for the afternoon.

George Eliot's Mill Gets Flood Shelter

Lincoln, England, (Reuters)—Work has started in Lincolnshire on a flood wall which will prevent the River Trent from destroying the old flour mill immortally believed to be the original of George Eliot's "Mill on the Floss". George Eliot was the pen-name of novelist Marian Evans.

The aim of the wall is to safeguard the village of Morton—part of a large scheme to prevent a repetition of the disastrous 1947 floods.

Operations have started within a few yards of the mill, which stands at the southern end of the village and is only a stone's throw from Morton Hall. There George Eliot was a frequent gathering material for her famous novels.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BECKMAN

"Introducing Rosemary"

Dear Mrs. Beckman:

Our son, who is an officer in the navy, is coming home about Thanksgiving-time, and is bringing his wife. They have been married for two years, but this is the first time it has been possible for them to come to visit us here. I wish you would suggest a proper form for me to use to introduce her to our relatives and friends here where we have always lived. I do not like to say "my daughter-in-law" because I dislike that name "in-law" (I always try to avoid saying it), and I don't particularly like to use "my son's wife". Through letters, both Herb and my son's, my husband and I have come to love and admire this fine girl our son married. After name is Rosemary.

J. W.

A. "This is our Rosemary" is a warm-hearted introduction-form that will charmingly indicate the close and affectionate relationship of your husband's wife with your son's wife. I am sure she will be happy and proud when she hears you say these gentle words in your introductions particularly when you look at her lovingly as you say them. And when you introduce her to anyone who needs a future explanation, you might say, "Mrs. Smith, this is our Rosemary . . . Bob's wife."

Announcing an elopement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me, what type of wedding announcements are usually sent out after a couple are married secretly!

I. C.

If formal announcements are sent out after an elopement they are the customary form of marriage announcement . . . like all marriage announcements, they must include the date of the marriage and the city and state. Best form is, if possible, for the parents of the bride to make the announcement.

If the marriage has been kept a secret for a long time, it is generally considered in best taste not to send formal announcements when the marriage is to be divulged. . . the couple tell their friends informally, if they can avoid saying it), and I don't particularly like to use "my son's wife". Through letters, both Herb and my son's, my husband and I have come to love and admire this fine girl our son married. After name is Rosemary.

Bride and her parents talk over wedding plans with groom's parents

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is is proper to have two flower girls?

2. Does the groom choose the organist at his wedding, or does the bride?

3. Do the parents of the groom have anything to do with the wedding plans?

A. B. C.

1. Yes. . . this is very often the plan, particularly if the girls are of approximately the same age and height. And if there are two, the plan usually is that they are dressed alike, and walk together.

2. Customarily the bride-to-be chooses the organist, and customarily it is the organist of the church in which the ceremony is to be performed. Since the family of the bride pay the expenses of the wedding, they pay the organist his or her professional fee.

3. It is the parents of the bride-to-be who make the plans for the wedding. . . but always, always the bride-to-be and her parents (for the sake of courtesy) graciously talk over with the groom's parents (or write about) the plans as they are made and develop. Obviously this is the courteous thing to do . . . and it is this kind of gracious social interchange that firmly establishes that-so-important relationship between the two families.

Smart Black

Accessories with an elegant look

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

THERE IS plenty of color about, some of it very bright and vibrant. But with it all, black goes on its quietly spectacular way whether in clothes or clothes complements. Here are some dark accessories that are very new and smart. Black velour is used for a little toque that looks for all the world like a jester's cap. It has a draped, turned-back section that terminates in a little point. Two wired antennae-like stick-ups that are feathery tipped tops. A suave boxy bag of black suede has a pyramid lid that contains a large mirror in its back and a rigid oval button-like clasp. Black suede is the material of the pump that is a mere shell with satin interlaced straps over the instep.

2. Customarily the bride-to-be chooses the organist, and customarily it is the organist of the church in which the ceremony is to be performed. Since the family of the bride pay the expenses of the wedding, they pay the organist his or her professional fee.

3. It is the parents of the bride-to-be who make the plans for the wedding. . . but always, always the bride-to-be and her parents (for the sake of courtesy) graciously talk over with the groom's parents (or write about) the plans as they are made and develop. Obviously this is the courteous thing to do . . . and it is this kind of gracious social interchange that firmly establishes that-so-important relationship between the two families.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

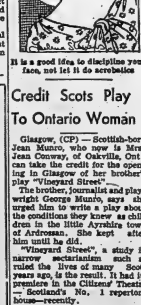
Mum's quick! You'll get wider tracks

Laughing wrinkles they call them! Ha! To one who has them they are no laughing matter. They lines scarred, by how human agony when a young woman is in her twenties. Some of our demon sun worshippers who failed to wear dark glasses during the past season may be aware of this goodlooks tyranny. When sunlight is strong and brilliant the lids draw together to protect that wonderful lens known as the eye. This protective curtain and its puts furrows in the flesh. In the course of time they can become permanent fixtures.

The tissues around the eyes are thin and delicate. The underlying fibres are small, without much substance. Place your finger under your eye. You will notice that there is no padding of fat between the skin and the bone. It is the perfect stamping ground for tiny crowsfeet that mar what the rest of the facial areas are fairly large muscles. As long as they keep strong and full, the skin surface will be tight and smooth; wrinkles will not appear.

To enjoy this condition through the years it is necessary to have a regard for the laws of health. Get plenty of sleep. Get out of doors every day for a walk. Take air and exercise. Maintain good eating habits. A woman of 40 may as well anyway for the sake of well-being and cheerful spirits.

It is a good idea to discipline your face, not let it do any acrobatics, like lifting the eyebrows, pulling down the lip corners, drawing the eyebrows together so that frowns appear. These habits are destructive to the delicate tissues and eventually will leave unpleasant marks.



Smile with your lips and let the eyes agree with animation but, for goodness' sake, don't pull your eyelids together so that the flesh crinkles, fan-fashion.

When massaging wrinkles, no matter where they are found with the facial premises, treat them as you would a crease in a fine piece of fabric that you press with an iron. Rub crosswise.

It is not to be expected that the self-trusting supplicant for rejuvenation can go deeply into the subject of facial anatomy, know the location of muscles and all that, but there are a few simple rules that will direct one.

Use a heavy cream after the nightly face-washing. Start on the neck, sweeping up and down; work upward over the jaw line and cheeks with flattened fingers.

Place the first finger on the inner corner of the eyelid, sweep out to the temple, do several circles, then come back under the eye to the starting point. Tap lightly or slap briskly over the neck, cheeks and forehead. While the cream remains on, friction with an ice cube. Say prayers and go to bed.

It is a good idea to discipline your face, not let it do acrobatics

Credit Scots Play To Ontario Woman

Glasgow, (CP) — Scottish-born Jean Munro, who now lives in Mrs. Jean Conway, of Oakville, Ont., can take the credit for the opening in Glasgow of the author's play "Vineyard Street".

The former journalist and playwright George Munro, says she urged him to write a play about the conditions they knew as children in the little Ayrshire town of Ardrossan. She kept after him until he did.

"Vineyard Street", a study in narrow sectarianism such as ruled the lives of many Scots years ago, is the result. It had its premiere in the Glasgow Citizens — Scotland's No. 1 repertory house.

"For Jean's sake I hope it is a success," said author Munro. It looks as if he has nothing to worry about. Critics gave it good reviews.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

There is help to be had in the drinking problem

From time to time I have asked readers of this column not to make the request that I print merely an answer to their letters and not the letter themselves. I have explained that it is not fair to other readers to print something which would make sense to only one, as would be the case if I were merely to write an answer that would leave others in the dark as to what the question had been.

Because a letter I have just received containing such a request, however, concerns a type of situation with which thousands of people are confronted, I am going to summarize the problem briefly and then try to make suggestions which will apply to any in similar distress.

The facts of the matter—and it might be the story of many a woman who reads this—are that the husband of the wife who writes the letter is a heavy drinker who stays away from home until all hours of the night; who is abusive to his wife and children when he is haphazard, undependable wage-earner and whose conduct has become so intolerable that not only his wife but all six of his children are in a highly nervous condition because, as the wife writes, "The fear is always there. If there were only someone I could talk to who could come here and see things as they are"! she says desperately.

Now up until a comparatively few years ago, there was practically nothing a wife in such a situation could do but put up with it as best she could. Today, however, there are people who make it their business to try and help others who have this type of problem to deal with, and this wife, as well as any others in similar circumstances, might take the first step by getting in touch with some of them. She can do this by writing a letter to Post Office Box 459, Grand Central Annex, New York 17, New York, and state exactly what the problem is, asking for suggestion as to what she can do at this point.

This is the mailing address of a nation-wide organization which has become almost universally known under the name of Alcoholics Anonymous. The membership is made up of men and women who have been unable to control their drinking and who have banded together to find, in companionship with others who have the same problem, the moral support they need to help them stop drinking entirely. A natural outgrowth of this movement has been that help is also offered to wives and husbands of drinkers who want to save their marriages broken up by the complications that result when one or the other marital partner becomes a confirmed alcoholic.

The distinguishing and immensely heartening thing about this whole organization is that everyone connected with it is eager to help others, so that I know anyone who writes to the address I have suggested will be sure to get an answer.

There is one other thing I would like to suggest to this woman, which is that she also consult a social welfare agency in the vicinity where she lives.

Women's Institute

IVANHOE W.I.

Ivanhoe —The October meeting of Ivanhoe Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Elmer Wood with an attendance of twenty members and visitors.

The meeting was opened by the President, Mrs. C. Wright, in the usual manner, after which community singing followed. Roll Call was answered by members giving a "staple product and its use".

Minutes were read and approved.

Business and correspondence followed.

A letter was read concerning Farm Forum but owing to the members being so scattered it was decided not to try it. A letter inviting members to attend the Young Writers' Day was also read.

The short course "understanding your Teen-ager" is to be held in the Ivanhoe Township Hall on Nov. 8, 9, 10, and 11. Plans were made for it.

Plans were also made for the Hallowe'en concert to be held on Monday night Oct. 31, in Ivanhoe Hall.

Mrs. C. Mitts, Agriculture and Canadian Industries convener, then took charge of the remainder of the program.

Mrs. Harry Lovibond gave a splendid address on the motto—"Today is the harvest of yesterday and seed time of tomorrow."

A duet selection was rendered by Mrs. Milton Shaw followed by a humorous reading by Mrs. Charles Stevenson. Mrs. W. Shaw told about her trip to Manitoba to see the Farm Improvements' Day at work. This talk was very interesting to the members.

Mrs. Morley Haggerty gave the Current Events.

The next W.I. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. Wright on Nov. 8, this will be an evening meeting due to the short course being held in the afternoon.

Mrs. W. Shaw thanked the hostess for opening her home.

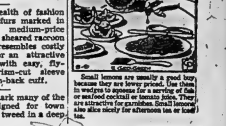
After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and assistants.

Fashion Flashes

VERY FEW bouffant ball gowns, except for debutante wear, appear in the new collections. Black and white silk satin is used for a ball gown cut on molded body lines that extends into low, flared fullness. A petal collar frames the low, heart-shaped decolletage.

TWO MATERIALS are better than one in many of the new hats. A smart beanet combines a brim of Oriental red velours with a peaked crown in gold metallic braid. A matching gold strap, ending in large gold tassels, wraps around the chin and drapes over the head to the opposite side.

An extension of the fur-lined cloth coat theme is noted in many Paris collections and imports purchased for copy here. For instance, Jean Desses showed a round-shouldered redingote of heavily ribbed black silk lined with dime marten, while Schiaparelli showed a straight coat with rounded shoulders, of brindled satin, the fur lining attached by half a dozen big buttons passing through giant buttonholes at the front of the silk coat.



THERE'S A wealth of fashion in many of the furs marked in the budget and medium-price bracket. Natural sheared raccoon that so closely resembles costly muriis, is used for an attractive 30-inch topper, with easy, flyaway back. Prism-cut velvet gives it a turn-back cuff.

SLIM LINES mark many of the fabric coats designed for town wear. Rich, soft tweed in a deep amethyst purple is fashioned into a handsome coat on softly fitted lines with no collar, pocket flap piping and buttons of velvet in a slightly deeper tone.

IT ISN'T EASY to pick a quit from the huge variety available. But sure to find a quick purchaser is a handsome suit that has a thousand and hooked jacket of flannel in a plaid of three shades of gray and white. The jacket closes high to a small collar of plain medium gray flannel to pick up the gray flannel skirt.

DRESS UP your handbag with pretty accessories. Black velvet is used for a pretty cigarette trunk and matching compact, combined with gold plated metal. Comes in other colors too, such as blue, shocking and green.

SHAGGY TOPS is what gives in the millinery world this season. Velours, beaver felts and hatter's plush are favorite materials rather than the smooth for felts.

Small lemons are usually a good buy because they are low; priced. But those in wedges to squeeze for a serving of fish or seafood cocktail are lemons, too, that are attractive for garnishes. Small lemons are also nicely for afternoon tea or lunch tea.

Airline Provides Appetizing Menus For Wild Patrons

BY NORMAN CRIBBENS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London — (CP) — Anthropoid apes need company when travelling by plane. If other apes are not available, human beings will keep them happy.

That is the experience of British Overseas Aircraft Corporation, which arranges the safe transportation of hundreds of animals every week. Air transport of animals for zoos has now become big business.

To assist their staff, the corporation has issued a booklet of instructions for ensuring comfortable, humane travel for animal cargo. It is based largely on the experience of attendants on cargo planes.

For instance: apes should be given a gunny bag or blankets in which to wrap themselves during the journey. Zebras, antelopes, and deer require boxes with walls padded to a depth of 12 inches, and koala, newts and salamanders must be kept damp to enable them to breathe through their skins.

Crocodiles do not require food on journeys of up to six days, but should be watered daily with a hose.

Friendly Monkeys

"Few things," says the booklet, "lend more to make a wild animal tame and friendly than the manner in which it is watered. Several types of monkey can easily be trained to drink from the spout of a water-can or a bottle. The attendant should place the spout of a water-can or a box, while the monkeys form a queue . . .

"This gives the attendant a good opportunity of getting to know the monkeys individually and their particular needs."

Timetables are given for the feeding of different kinds of animals and suitable "menus" are suggested.

Orang outangs, gorillas and chimpanzees should have three meals a day of bread and butter with jam or honey, fruit and greens. Between feeding hours they should have lumps of sugar and pieces of cake.

Lions, tigers and panthers need one meal a day — preferably in the later afternoon when their appetites are so keen that human beings should keep a respectful distance. They need 1½ kilos (3¼ pounds) of raw meat for every kilo of live weight.

Polecats, stoats and weasels enjoy an afternoon meal of raw meat and fish, garnished with hard-boiled eggs and lettuce.

And, says the booklet, they may also clamor for a fish snack last thing at night.

A MATTER FOR SILENCE

Durban, South Africa — (CP) — South Africa's atomic energy board complained to headquarters of the South African Society of Journalists here recently that reference has been made in articles to atomic research work being undertaken in South Africa. The board says these are prescribed materials and should not be mentioned, except in official statements.

Washington Spotlight

'Daily Prayer for Peace' Movement Spreads Over U.S.

Washington, Oct. 28 — (CP) — A "daily prayer for peace" movement, started by a state department official whose parents came from Quebec province, is spreading across the United States.

It began less than a year ago when a group of war veterans at Manchester, N.H., resolved to stop whatever they were doing for one minute at noon each day to pray silently for Divine help in obtaining "an equitable and binding peace."

Since then, more than 600 other organizations have embraced the movement and adopted similar resolutions. It has won support from a number of members of Congress and inquiries have begun to come in from interested organizations in Canada and other countries.

The movement originated with kindly, chubby-cheeked Herve J. L'Heureux, 50, veteran United States foreign service officer and now chief of the state department's visa division here.

Wounded Veteran

A wounded veteran of the First World War and one of the founders of the American Legion, L'Heureux is no pacifist. Like many Americans, he believes the United States must be prepared to fight if necessary to preserve liberty. But, he says, he hates war and believes prayer will help to establish a just peace.

He explained his philosophy to fellow members of the American Legion post at Manchester, his home town, and suggested the resolution which the club adopted to start the movement.

Movement Non-Sectarian

Though L'Heureux himself is a devout Roman Catholic, his movement is non-sectarian. Those who have endorsed it include Protestant, Jewish, and Catholic church leaders and laymen.

L'Heureux has spent most of his spare time sending information about the plan to groups and business firms. But this is not, he says, "something you can ram down the throats of people."

"All I am trying to do is to get the idea before as many people as possible. To be effective, it must be adopted spontaneously."

And it has been spontaneous. There is no "master" organization, no offices, no financial assistance. L'Heureux has refused offers of financial contribution. His name has not been mentioned in any of the 5,400 circulars he has sent over the country.

Govt. Will Add 4,000 Beds to Mental Hospital

Toronto, Oct. 28 (CP)—A $35,000,000 construction program, to add 4,000 beds to mental hospital accommodation in Ontario during the next five years, was announced Thursday by Premier Frost and Health Minister Kelley.

Two new mental institutions will be located in Northern Ontario with approximately 1,000-bed capacity. Patients from Northern Ontario, now at suburban New Toronto hospital, will be transferred to the new hospitals when completed.

Mr. Kelley said approximately 2,000 beds would be added in the Toronto-Hamilton area to provide for patients from the central part of the province.

Patients from east-central and eastern parts of Ontario would be accommodated by an additional 1,000 beds to be provided in the Kingston-Brockville area.

Mr. Frost described the plan as "the greatest program for the improvement of our mental hospitals and mental facilities which has ever been undertaken in this province or in any part of Canada."

Sobriety Knows No Competitor

By ROY L. SMITH.

When all the emotionalism has been expended and when all the statistics have been quoted, one fact stands out crystal clear; soberly known no competitor. The person with alcohol in his blood-stream is always at a disadvantage.

It Is An Old Problem

The sermons of Isaiah, the Hebrew prophet of the eighth century before Christ, which have been preserved for us in the Old Testament, make it perfectly plain that all the problems with which we have to deal in connection with alcohol were present-ing problems exception of those that result from the economic organization of the liquor traffic.

It should be remembered, however, that the drunkenness to which reference is made in the Old Testament, was always that which resulted from the use of fermented wines. The process of distillation, by which alcoholic beverages containing more than about fourteen percent of alcohol are obtained, was not developed until relatively recent times.

The Witnesses for the Prosecution

Anyone interested in attending the trial of John Barleycorn cannot fail to be impressed by the character of the witnesses summoned by the prosecution. Every social worker testifies that alcohol is found in connection with a large percentage of the cases she is called upon to solve. Medical testimony indicates that the use of alcohol is contributory to a long list of disturbances. The psychologist says that even a small amount of alcohol in the bloodstream has an effect upon the nervous system which makes it impossible for the drinker to accurately evaluate or judge his own actions. The psychiatrist says that alcohol becomes a crutch for the individual who is seeking an escape from reality. The insurance men say they could insure tectotalers for a fraction of the cost involved in insuring drinkers. The ambulance corps say that alcohol is present when a large percentage of the accidents occur, and the highway commission reports that John Barleycorn is a leader offender on the roads of the nation.

In all the testimony relative to alcohol even including that offered by the witnesses for the defense, it is evident that the consumer of alcohol is travelling a one-way street. Whatever difference alcohol makes in the behavior of the individual is a loss.

The drinker loses accuracy when he drinks while tending a machine, his reactions are slowed up if he drinks and then sits behind the steering wheel of an automobile, his capacity for self-criticism is decreased the moment that alcohol enters his blood stream and finds its way to the nerve centres. The athlete fails short of his best performance when under the influence of alcohol, even in small doses, and because of the effect upon his perceptive powers is unable to recognize the fact that he has lost his usual skills and championship abilities.

This Competitive Are

It seldom happens that there is any great difference between champions and runners up. No more than three inches are needed to win hundred yard dashes, providing those three inches are out in front.

The whole human race has entered upon a highly competitive age. Nuclear science is making it plain that destinies are resident in atoms.

The sober nation need never fear the competition of a drinking people.

This was the truth which Isaiah undertook to impress on the Hebrews of the eighth century. The drunkenness which he saw on every hand he recognized as the symptom of disaster which was just around the corner for the nation.

BRITAIN'S

A warning of further cuts to come came from Herbert Morrison, Deputy Prime Minister, who after duelling with Winston Churchill for an hour turned on the government's critics and said:

"Don't assume that economy begins and ends with the Prime Minister's statement. Other cuts will be made in the light of reviews now proceeding. We have simply served notice that we mean business about economy."

Morrison's words acted as a cold wind on a crowded Commons which earlier in the day had worked itself into a genial mood over bantering exchanges between Churchill and the Deputy Prime Minister. But though the protagonists displayed sunny humor, there were serious undertones that later reached a crescendo.

Warming to the attack, Churchill charged that the country had been led through "four years of unprecedented and unparalleled expenditure, of ceaseless interference with every form of private enterprise and activity in taxation unparalleled in times of peace and unequalled throughout the world today."

The government's brief motion of confidence asked for approval of the economy program which calls for savings of £250,000,000 in the year's £3,300,000,000 budget. Attlee announced Monday the cuts in capital expenditure, current expenditure and defence.

RAWDON

Bethel United Church Observes 75th Year In Colorful Service

Rawdon.—On Sunday last Bethel United Church, on Rawdon circuit, celebrated their 75th anniversary, with a large assembly of worshippers in attendance from their own community and nearby points.

Beautiful flowers adorned the altar and included two baskets of chrysanthemums placed there in memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. Milton Green, and the late Roy Welbourn, all former members of the church, who have been called to their reward.

In the centre was the beautifully decorated three-tier 75th anniversary cake.

Guest Speaker

The guest minister was the Rev. Gordon Whitehorn, B.A., B.D., of Seymour circuit, who brought two splendid messages.

In the morning he spoke on the theme of "75 Years of Service", and paid tribute to the pioneers who had built the church and carried on its activities, giving a vision to the young folks of what they could do to hold high the torch in future generations.

Visiting Clergy

At the morning service the Rev. Dr. James Watson, of Winnipeg, who is visiting Rawdon relatives, graced the platform and gave a brief message.

At the evening service, the Rev. Nathaniel Cole, of Hastings, former pastor of Rawdon charge, spoke briefly and extended greetings.

Mrs. Harold Elliott presided at the piano and the full choir rendered four anthems. They were assisted by a former choir member, Mrs. Thomas Earles of Mount Pleasant.

Mrs. Walter Warren, of Bethel and her sister, Mrs. Harry Morrow, of River Valley, contributed a lovely duet at the evening service and at the morning service Mrs. A. Davidson of Huff's Island, rendered a vocal solo.

Church Supper

On Tuesday evening last the ladies of Bethel W.A., catered to over three hundred people in the church hall, where a delicious full course dinner was served.

The program in the church, was presided over by the pastor, the Rev. H. C. Yacisvik.

The Cobourg trio sang a large selection of sacred hymns and a few of the songs of yesterday.

Candlelight Service

A beautiful candlelighting service was held when Mr. B. C. Tucker, Mrs. Turner Sine, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sine, Mr. and Mrs. James Warren, Mr. John Scott and Mrs. Charles Dracup, were called to the platform as they were the oldest worshippers of Bethel United Church. Each held a lighted candle.

Children Receive the Torch

Mrs. S. Hoover read an appropriate poem and eight children of the congregation received the lighted candles and passed down the church aisle. This was to show how the older folk had been carrying the church responsibilities and now it was passed on to the younger generation to follow in their footsteps.

Mr. B. C. Tucker gave a splendid account of the church history during their 75 years.

The anniversary cake was cut and shared with all who were in attendance at this very special event in the history of Bethel United Church.

Among the guests were a former pastor and his wife, the Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Townsend, and their grandson, of Deseronto.

LABOR MINISTER HINTS PROVINCE MAY STEP IN

Will Not Allow Oshawa Strike to be Prolonged

Toronto, Oct. 28. —(CP) —The Ontario Labor Department may step into the Automotive Workers' Strike at Oshawa if the work stoppage is prolonged.

This was indicated by Labor Minister Daley at a conference he and members of his department held late Thursday with representatives of the striking United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.). There was no indication that the discussions had brought the end of the strike, called by the union Wednesday, one step nearer.

Union representatives asked Mr. Daley to bring General Motors management and union men together for talks. Mr. Daley replied that he had no plans at the moment to bring company officials into the discussions. He said the company and union should get together by themselves.

Spokesmen for the union aired a series of labor grievances, including a company speed-up on the production line.

250 Pickets on Patrol

The strike of 2,200 workers was called in protest against dismissal of four union officers last Tuesday. The company said three of the men were discharged for refusing to work and the fourth for encouraging others not to work.

Approximately pickets are patrolling the 19 acres of the Oshawa plant, denying entrance to non-strikers but letting fire protection men, boiler - room crews and plant police through the lines. Wives of union-members have been distributing coffee and sandwiches on the picket lines.

The company says the strike violates a collective agreement intended to run until June 11, 1950. A company statement said: "This strike is a direct violation on the terms of the collective agreement and the law, as all situations now put forward by the union as reasons for strike action are covered in the union under grievance procedure set out in the agreement."

BRIDGES DARES C.I.O. TO THROW HIS UNION OUT

Admits Longshoremen Left-Wing Branch

Cleveland, Oct. 28 — (AP) — Harry Bridges, leader of 65,000 longshoremen, said today the only way his union would leave the C.I.O. would be if we're booted out."

The west coast leader — who takes pride in calling his union a left-wing organization—admitted he though next week's annual convention would be "rough as hell."

That is because right-wing forces are determined to have a showdown with the 11 or 12 union under left leaders. But Bridges and a committee of about a dozen representatives of key locals in the longshoremen's union will meet with C.I.O. President Philip Murray.

Murray also agreed Thursday to meet a delegation of the United Electrical Workers, biggest of the left-wing groups, on Sunday.

To Hold Back Payments

The U. E. group served a six-point ultimatum on Murray after the U. E. convention here in September. The union said it would hold back its per capita means of eight cents a month for approximately 375,000 members, unless Murray met U. E.'s terms.

Bridges told a press conference that his delegation wanted to discuss two major points with Murray:

One was the longshoremen's continued participation in the Soviet-dominated world federation of trade unions, despite the C.I.O.'s withdrawal last spring. The other was what Bridges terms the "autonomy" of his union, meaning he wants to be able to put to a referendum vote any policy questions raised by the C.I.O. over which the longshoremen might be ousted from the C.I.O.

Bridges refused to go along on three major C.I.O. policy lines in the last two years. Most important was his refusal to support President Truman for re-election. He backed Henry A. Wallace instead. The others were support of the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact.

Worry Makes Some People Fat, Say U.K. Doctors

London, Oct. 28 (AP)— Worry makes some people fat, two British doctors say.

Writing in the current British Medical Journal, two members of St. Thomas Hospital in London cited cases which they said upset the popular notion that trouble keeps you thin.

Doctors H. J. Shorvon and John Richardson told of several women who gained weight rapidly after severe shocks or worry.

The doctors said they were treating these patients to "relieve their mental distress" and not to cut their weight. They added they could not explain the reaction and suggested the subject needs further study.

Say He Stole Suit Of Cop From Cleaners, Sent it Back to Press

South Pasadena, Calif., Oct. 28 — (AP) — The police said that 29-year-old William R. Livingstone made two mistakes:

(1) By burglarizing a cleaning establishment and taking, among other things, a suit of clothes belonging to Police Capt. Robert Blakely and

(2) Sending the suit to the victimized cleaning plant to be pressed.

Capt. Blakely gave the case his personal attention.

Truman Decides Not to Intervene In Two Strikes

National Emergency Long Way Off Says President

Washington, Oct. 28 — (AP)— President Truman's decision not to intervene now in the big steel-coal strikes was expected today to bring redoubled efforts toward voluntary settlement of the two disputes.

Truman said the 28-day steel and 37-day coal strikes have not hurt the United States enough to call the situation a national emergency. That time, he told a press conference Thursday, is still a long way off.

There must be such an emergency before strike-halting court injunctions can be sought under the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

Senator Robert Taft (Rep Ohio), one of the Law's authors said Thursday night in Ohio that he too believes the time has yet to come for using Taft-Hartley emergency powers.

"I quite agree with the labor position that the injuctive process should never be used except in great emergency," Taft added.

The President's statement left the strike situation in the hands of 73-year-old Cyrus S. Ching.

As director of the Federal Mediation Service, Ching has been busy for weeks trying to prod steel and coal labor and management men into peace moves.

For eight out of the last 11 days he has been meeting in New York with officials of the United States Steel Corporation, the country's top producer. He's been in touch with officials of Philip Murray's striking C.I.O. steelworkers, too.

Murray said in New York speech Thursday night that he wasn't yielding. He said the steel companies "with all their wealth and power are not big enough to defeat us." He said workers would take a pay cut in effect if they are required to pay part of pension-insurance costs.

In accepting the presidential board's welfare benefit recommendation for workers, Murray waived his demand for a fourth-round wage boost.

As for the coal strike, there was nothing stirring in the way of negotiations. Talks between John L. Lewis's Miners Union and northern operators were in recess until next Tuesday.

BIDAULT VOTED IN AS NEW FRENCH PREMIER

Selection Ends Longest Government Crisis in Fifty Years

Paris, Oct. 28. (AP)—France's longest political crisis in 50 years ended early today with the confirmation of Georges Bidault, as premier.

Bidault had formed his cabinet line-up before the National Assembly approved him 367 to 183.

For the 50-year-old leader of the predominantly Roman Catholic Mouvement Republican Populaire today's coming to power was a full circle of the political wheel. Head of the wartime resistance in France, Bidault was his country's provisional president and premier from June to December, 1946, and her foreign minister from 1945 until July 1946.

Soon after his confirmation Bidault presented his cabinet to president Vincent Auriol. He had secured party agreement to the cabinet line-up before the assembly vote, overcoming in advance the opposition when two previous choices for premier foundered.

Bidault's new government was based on the same coalition of middle-of-the-road parties which have been governing France for more than two years. His program was almost identical with that proposed by Socialist Jules Moch and Radical Socialist Rene Mayer, who had failed in forming governments.

Cost-of-Living Bonus

Like them, Bidault promised a cost-of-living bonus for the lowest paid workers. Disagreement over the wages issue had forced the resignation of Premier Henri Queuille's government Oct. 6.

France had not been so long without a government, historians said since 1899, when Rene Wal Deck Rousseau formed a cabinet after the country had been without one for a month.

Approving Bidault as premier, the National Assembly gave him the biggest majority for a premier at his start in office since November, 1947, when Robert Schuman received 412 votes. Bidault needed only 310 votes.

The new Bidault government was much similar to the Queuille government. Ten of the 18 ministers were retained in their old jobs. Queuille himself was back as vice-premier and minister without portfolio.

Bidault retained Schuman as foreign minister. Also back in their old jobs were Interior Minister Jules Moch, Socialist, and Finance Minister Maurice Petsche Independent.

Half of 343,000 Immigrants Of Br. Extraction

Montreal, Oct. 28. —(CP)—Approximately one half of the 343,000 immigrants who have entered Canada since the end of the Second World War are of British extraction, H. C. Cresswell told a meeting of the Montreal branch of the Royal Empire Society Thursday night.

Mr. Cresswell is the chief commissioner for the immigration and colonization department of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

He said, however, that British immigration has declined recently because "the amount of capital immigrants are allowed to bring with them has been reduced."

He also noted declines in immigration from other parts of Europe due chiefly "to currency restrictions imposed by continental countries."

'Bologna Bandit' Caught on Liquor Store 'Job'

Washington, Oct. 28 — (AP) — Police Thursday night caught the man they said had become known as "the bologna bandit" but said his downfall was a liquor store job.

Two police officials spotted the man as they sped to the liquor store. He gave his name as Samuel Henderson, 22, a Negro. A detective said the $180 reported taken in the liquor store holdup was found in Henderson's pocket, and that the Negro had obtained $800 in 10 robberies in the last 10 days.

The Negro got his nickname "Bologna bandit" because in several instances he went into business houses and asked for: (1) Bologna, (2) strawberry soda, (3) cigarettes and (4) greens before he staged his robbery.

REV. J. TAILLEFER GETS TWO YEARS AND $3,000 FINE

Has Option of Additional Year in Lieu of Fine

Father Taillefer, a vicar at Ste. Madeleine D'Outremont Church in greater Montreal, pleaded guilty three weeks ago. Sentence was pronounced today by Chief Judge Edouard Archambault.

There were five charges in all —two of conspiring to sell and distribute and three of selling.

The sentence was two years on each charge, a total sentence of 10 years but all are to run concurrently.

The $3,000 fine, with the option of another year, was in addition.

Barrage of Oratory In By-Election For Leeds Riding

Brockville, Oct. 28. (CP) — The Leeds provincial by-election is entering its final phases, with barrages of oratory coming from the camps of the Liberal and the Progressive Conservative candidates.

Hugh Reynolds, Progressive candidate, in a broadcast appealed to the voters on the record of the government. He said the government extended rural hydro lines by "hundreds of miles" in Leeds. It was restocking the Lakes and streams of the county and building a fish hatchery at Westport.

Farquhar Oliver, Liberal leader in the Ontario Legislature, said it was "just a myth" to say that Leeds should have a Progressive Conservative member because a Progressive Conservative government is in power. He spoke in support of Ernest Miller, the Liberal candidate, at a meeting in Mallorytown.

Mr. Miller, at the Mallorytown meeting, criticized removal of cheese and hog subsidies. He said it would have been better for farmers to have had that money which had been spent on cold storage and curing plants.

W. L. Houck, Liberal member of the legislature for Niagara Falls, said the Ontario Government, while under the leadership of George Drew, "set Hydro back 100 years" by refusal to proceed with the Des Joachims Ottawa River power project started by the Liberals in 1943.

Black Boom

By Paul David Preston

As for Jason Weems — that gentleman of dark skin had come into his own. What he and everybody else had fully expected to be his hour of glory, had turned out to be a sort of parades on earth.

"He had a bad shock", Dr. Tower admitted on Monday, forward out of his wits. But then who wasn't? The wound was superficial. He'll be fit in a week or two. Right now he is basking in the adulation of his friends— because the newspapers carried two-column pictures of him! But that's okay too; we're all proud of Jason."

Dal did not leave Lillian's side for more than a few minutes all that Monday, and she in turn clung near him with almost worshipful air. Monday evening, in the quiet gathering in Mrs. Mayfield's living room, Thad Monroe insisted that at the moment of respectful but genuinely welcome let-down, at last the tension which was release from the strain they had all felt. One would have thought—and for the selfish—to look in his eyes—that Thad Monroe was the happy, spirited young fellow he had been before all evil days.

Now the time has come, it seems to me, for us to talk about another matter", he began. "Unless I'm blind and stupid Dal, you're likely to be a married man pretty soon Monday!" Thad was suddenly smiling.

Dal brightened, and Lillian turned to him in sudden alarm. Thad went on.

"Tell you the truth, Tower, you just naturally took Lillian away from all us home town yokels. Now you've got her — I was engaged to her myself, you know, Professor; I told you so that first night."

Dal grinned. "I remember. So did Mr. J. Parker and Martin Deale. I believed it when the first one spoke. But how did you know Lillian and I——"

"Ha! Plain as a billboard! I been kiddin' about you two weeks, matter of fact. Pretending I was still engaged to her. We ——"

——we kidded each other a lot about it, Dal. I even helped Mrs. Mayfield ribbed up. Trying to pretend I'd make a perfect son-in-law!"

He paused to laugh a bit at himself. Dal was still smiling.

"But it didn't work." Thad resumed. "I've been the razz boy too long. No woman ever takes me seriously, confound it! I've got to study your system Tower. How about a little lesson in technique?"

"It's not technique, Thad. Just blind luck. I don't deserve mine. When you folks really do know that—that Lillian and I are genuinely love each other, and want to——"

Mrs. Mayfield had been acutely distressed by all of this conversation, and had until simply listened wide-eyed. Mrs. Halton, neighbor and close friend who had clung near Millicent Mayfield all this trying weekend, was audibly moaning at them, although.

"Why Doctor Tower, the townsfolk have all said that I'm and Lillian were a perfect match!" Mrs. Halton declar. "Dr. Watkins frankly admits he planned it, the old reprobate!" She laughed happily with them. "Have you fancied people didn't know? Or that——"

"It's what I was saying." Thad interrupted. "They're a natural. Congratulations Tower, damn it! And I hereby release you from any and all claims I had on you, Lillian—if any, I mean!"

He said it with an emphatic spirit of fun—but he looked straight and meaningfully at Lillian as he spoke. She was in the crook of Dal's arm now, her eyes were misty when she finally answered Thad.

"I'll always remember this, Thad. Always! And I'll tell you what I've told you before — you've the nicest, most considerate friend I ever had. I do love Dal. I could help it, I just naturally do! and you've liked him; you said so from the first. You've always been a fine, fun but ——I know how deep you are too!"

They both glanced quickly at Dal, then back at each other in deep understanding, satisfied. "Great gosh, such talk!" Thad grinned elaborately. "You'd think I really was a jilted suitor, to hear the girl on this way!"

The wedding was held just two weeks later.

It was a quiet affair in the Methodist church with only the immediate and the intimate friends of the Mayfield family and a few of Dal's relatives there. Dal's had come down from the north. Lillian did not even have a bridal attendant. She didn't want it. She preferred to be married in a simple suit also she could slip hurriedly away among those present," the local newspaper subsequently printed, "except several colored people, including Jason Weems, of recent prominence, who has lived with the Mayfield family for many years."

The happy bride and groom departed in Thad Monroe's airplane. He loaned it, with a pilot, to fly them to Dallas, where they could catch a transcontinental air liner and fly to New York for a honeymoon. They would come back via the Atlantic and the gulf, a cruise sea voyage back to Charleston, Houston and home again in about a month.

A hundred or more friends saw them off at the local airport. When the gaieties were over and the two were being lifted, Dal leaned close to his bride to speak above the plane's roar.

"Even Martin was there," he said. "Martin Deale, Mrs. Polly Doll, Look——she's holding his arm, and they're both waving."

She snuggled closer to him and did not speak.

"Your powder, sweetheart, Mr. Buford Hill——remember? And still further on is Buford's Pond. You can see it. When we come back I shall build us a home there in the oak and hickory trees."

"Oh, Dally."

"Our bank The town and country authorities have set aside that region——never any oil wells in sight, only residential development. And we'll build a place with a broad east porch for friends and fun! Civic myrtle and honeysuckles and mock orange as he grown in a few months. Lordy but you're beautiful, little girl!"

Fur Royalties Will be Down And Wages Lower

Winnipeg, Oct. 28 — (CP) — The trapp are all set for another of Manitoba's fur-catching winters.

Trappers are out in force but they will meet a different situation than in the past. This year royalties from the government will be less and wages will likely be lower.

George Malaher, director of the Manitoba Game and Fisheries branch, said they'll also be avoiding long-haired animals such as the fox. Fox fur has dropped so much in price it is practically valueless to the trapper.

The present fashion trend away from long-haired pelts is the reason — milady doesn't want to wear fox any more.

The decline is followed in the new rate of royalties released by Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Silver fox fell 40 cents to an average of 35 cents per pelt for the trapper, while black decreased 25 cents to $1.

Boomed in War Years

The war years boomed the fur trade. In 1940, the average muskrat price was $1.32. It increased every year until it reached $2.98 in 1945. It fell in 1946 to $1.36. It jumped back to $2.85 in 1948, and moved upward to $1.38 again this spring.

Mr. Malaher said a good muskrat crop is 50 cents; mink, 50 cents; fox, 50; silver fox, 35; cross fox, 30; red fox, 20; weasels, 10; and squirrels and jack rabbits one cent each.

Manitoba, with its 10,000 trappers was the first province to introduce a system of registered trapping which was adopted later by other provinces. It is designed to eliminate destructive competition by introducing planned for harvesting—a system which stops random hunting.

service in 1947. He had been secretary to the Indian Government External Affairs Department and served in Assam, Baluchistan, the Persian Gulf and Delhi.

Another Briton, W. J. Horne, and four Americans were among the dead. Sir Hugh and Horne were on their way to the Middle East on a joint mission for the Central Mining Investment Company.

Only One Survivor

There was one survivor, an American member of the crew. Two of the four dead Americans were officials of the Superior Oil Company of Los Angeles, Calif.

The American dead were: Robert Allen, 43, Vice-President in charge of Superior's foreign operations; James Lewis, 60 one of the firm; Cmdr. Joseph Conlon, the plane's pilot; and Andrew Cole, wireless operator. All were residents of California.

The surviving co-pilot, Earl Oscar Sivage, was hurled 50 feet from the plane. He suffered extensive burns on his face and legs.

Taken to Middlesex hospital, Sivage later told reporters:

"We were going down the runway when all at once the plane started swerving to the left. I found myself, standing on my head with my safety belt still fastened. It happened so quickly.

Hair on Fire

"My clothes and my hair were on fire when I let myself out of my safety belt. There was nothing I could do after I left the plane, as it was all in flames.

"I had my head down watching the instruments for the take-off. They were all O.K.

"I think the cockpit must have busted open, because I felt the pilot come over me.

"As soon as I let my safety belt off, I plunged forward and fell clear of the aircraft, but I fell into fire. I put out the flames on me by rolling in rainwater puddles. . . .

"The plane was on fire immediately after the crash. After I got clear, I picked myself up and went round to see if I could do anything for the pilot, but he was engulfed in flames.

"My pants were burned off.

"I am anxious to get in touch with an official of my company because I haven't any clothes."

Used on Shuttle Run

The plane was used on a shuttle run between London and the Near East. It was owned by the oil company. Royal Dutch Air Lines acted as agents for the aircraft, an American Grumman Mallard.

One eyewitness said: "The plane seemed to get into some sort of trouble but the pilot appeared to be trying to land her. Then she bumped and burst into flames."

Airport officials believed an engine cut out before the plane could gain height. The plane burned itself in mud at the edge of the airport and burst into flames which were so intense that firemen and rescue workers could not immediately approach the craft.

An emergency call brought fire and police from several nearby Middlesex towns. As soon as the wreckage cooled, the bodies were pulled clear.

SIGHT SURVIVORS

Search Airliner

Eight planes and two boats set out searching for the airliner. It left Orly Airport here at 9 p. m. (4 P. M. EDT Thursday) and was due in New York at noon EDT today.

In the message received just before the plane was due in the Azores, the pilot said he had "accomplished first part of trip normally."

At the time the plane last radioed it was going to land, it had enough reserve for four more hours flying, airline officials said.

Also among the 37 passengers was the famed young French woman violinist, Ginette Neveu, and Cerdan's manager, Joe Longman.

Cerdan was exceedingly gay when he took the plane at Orly Airfield Thursday, headed for his bout with Lamotta.

"With all my strength I want to get back that title that I so stupidly lost," he told friends on the way to the airport.

Not Touched by Ace

"For those who say I'm washed up," Cerdan said, "I can say that despite my 33 years and my 110 fights, I feel myself at my peak, not a bit touched by age or the wear and tear of the game."

Also on the passenger list were a Mr. Kay Kamen and Mrs. Kate Kane, described as commercial managers of the Walt Disney Film Company.

Air France said that Jean De La Noue, 37-year-old captain of the plane crew, was "one of the best pilots of the North Atlantic line."

"He had 88 flights over the ocean to his record, representing 8,700 hours of flight," the company said.

Also aboard was Louis Boutet De Monivel, well - known French painter and illustrator of children's books.

COMMONS ADOPTS

Majority Support

He said he believes that a majority of the Canadian people support the way the government is obtaining for parliament the power to amend the constitution. Everyone agreed that the power should be in the hands of Canadians, but opposition members were saying that there should be prior consultation with the provinces.

The Liberal party did not subscribe to the doctrine that the provinces should be consulted on constitutional changes involving matters within federal jurisdiction. «If felt it would be a very grave error to give control over federal matters to men elected to provincial legislatures.

A Dominion-Provincial conference will be held, he said, but it would deal only with ways of amending the constitution on matters outside complete federal jurisdiction.

Progressive Conservative spokesmen agreed that Canada should have the power to amend the Constitution, but they held that the provinces should be consulted on procedure.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver-Quadra), accused the government of trying to soften the provinces for negotiations to take place shortly on renewal of tax agreements. The government, he said, was attempting to attain enough power by constitutional amendment so that the provinces will be continually on the defensive at any conference with the Dominion.

Extended to Two-Thirds

One of the votes was on a combined government-C.C.F. amendment. Early in the debate, Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) moved that parliament not take into its hands the power to extend its own life beyond five years or to change the provision calling for a parliamentary session at least once a year.

Mr. St. Laurent accepted the principle of the amendment, but changed it so parliament's life could be extended in wartime by a two-thirds majority vote of the commons.

The amendment, with that provision, was adopted by a vote of 147 to 37. It was opposed only by the Progressive Conservatives. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, had announced earlier that he would oppose the amendment because he did not agree with the whole constitutional proposal.

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) moved a second amendment asking that the United Kingdom parliament give Canada the power to amend the constitution only if the provinces agreed to it. The amendment was defeated 136 to 38, with Social Credit members supporting the Progressive Conservatives.

Several Theories Advanced

Senator W. E. Euler (L-Ontario), expressed the hope that the legislation will establish final elimination of appeals to the "courts of another country".

In completing the nine-day constitutional debate in the Commons, Mr. St. Laurent said there are several theories about the British North America Act. One theory was that it was a contract which could not be changed except by agreement of the original parties —namely the provincial governments.

A second was that parliament could obtain amendment on any matter in the B.N.A. Act without consulting anyone.

The Liberal party did not accept either theory. It believes that one part of the B.N.A. Act was given to federal jurisdiction. A second was comparatively within jurisdiction of the provinces. A third covered subjects of joint Dominion-Provincial interest.

Mr. St. Laurent said the position of the government is that the elected federal representatives of the people have full right to change the constitution on purely federal matters without asking the permission of the provinces or anyone outside parliament.

Chided Opposition

He said he had never given any undertaking that the provinces would be consulted on proposed amendments to the constitution on federal matters. He believed it would be a grave error to give control over federal matters to men elected to provincial legislatures.

He chided the opposition for the stand it was taking. In recent years, he said, the Progressive Conservatives agreed that government legislation was good, but they disagreed with the method in bringing it into force.

Referring to the general election last June when the government was returned with a large majority, Mr. St. Laurent said the Canadian people had had an opportunity to decide whether the government was going about things in the right way. He believed the majority of them supported the government's method of obtaining for parliament the power to amend the constitution.

Mr. Fleming said at least five of the 10 provincial premiers have expressed disapproval of the government's plans to seek constitutional changes without consulting the provinces. The request for consultation was reasonable and disregard of such a request would do nothing but invite disharmony.

TRANSPORT BOARD

However, at the end of the day's hearing Chief Commissioner M. B. Archibald—an Exchequer Court judge himself — said the commission felt it would like to have a Supreme Court opinion on the point of law at issue.

The high court cannot reverse the board's decision. Neither can it order the board to change that decision. All it will be asked to do is give its interpretation of whether the board was justified under the Railway Act in handing down the type of decision it did.

If the court should rule the commissioners failed in their duty, as the C.P.R. claims, presumably the board would give new consideration to the case.

Get Quick Answer

However, it could make the eight-per-cent award stick simply by making a declaration that it is a final or interim decision, without bringing in the royal commission or its own investigations.

Following the granting of leave to appeal today, Canadian Pacific lawyers said they would go to the court as soon as possible—probably tomorrow — to make arrangements for a hearing. This may take several weeks.

Counsel for the seven opposing provinces had not decided late today whether they would fight the case in court. They said they would have to confer with their governments before reaching a decision.

Maple Leafs Defeat Canadiens, Detroit Wings Beat Hawks To Tighten N.H.L. Marathon

By JIM BASTABLE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

The still-young National Hockey League race has tightened up considerably. Things are getting jagged.

The six clubs have just started hiking into a 70-game schedule and already there's a miniature war for the lead — two teams are tied for first place and three more for second place—one point behind.

Thursday night, Detroit Red Wings moved into a first - place tie with Montreal Canadiens with a 3-1 victory over the winless Black Hawks at Chicago and Toronto Maple Leafs gave defender Turk Broda his first shutout in five games by beating the Canadiens 3-0 at Montreal.

Victory for the Leafs gave them six points — with two victories and two ties — and a second - place deadlock with the idle Boston Bruins and New York Rangers.

The situation may be unravelled Saturday when all six clubs move into action. The Bruins meet the Leafs at Toronto, the Red Wings clash with the Canadiens at Montreal and the Black Hawks will be gunning for their first victory in six starts when they meet the Rangers at New York.

At Chicago, 12,819 fans, one of the smallest crowds in several years, saw Detroit netminder Harry Lumley robbed of a shutout midway through the final period on a goal by Doug Bentley. Lumley had 29 saves to 25 for opposing goalie Frankie Brimsek.

Durnan Held Babe Up

The Red Wings went ahead before the second period was a minute old when Al Dewsbury plunked the puck past Brimsek on a rebound from Gord Howe. At 10:31 Howe made it 2-0 when he streaked in from mid-ice on a solo dash and beat Brimsek cleanly.

Detroit made it 3-0 at 2:24 of the final period. Sid Abel picked up a loose puck and passed to Ted Lindsay who scored.

At Montreal, big Bill Durnan in the Montreal nets held up the whole Canadien team for 58 minutes before he gave way to the hard-pressing Leafs.

The break came at 12:13 of the last period after Ken Mosdell of Montreal drew a major penalty for high-sticking Bill Juzda and drawing blood.

Fleming Mackell studied the puck past Durnan on a close-in shot when he picked up the loose disc from well-inside the Montreal blue line.

Still shorthanded, the Canadiens pulled Durnan and sent five forwards into the battle. But Harry Watson got the puck in his own defence area, skated over the blue line and sent a long shot into the empty Montreal cage.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Turk Broda of Toronto Maple Leafs who scored his first shutout of the National Hockey League season by blanking the Montreal Canadiens.

Toronto's Fleming Mackell who ended the scoreless tie with an unassisted goal late in the 3rd period.

Gordie Howe of Detroit who scored the winning goal as Red Wings downed Chicago Black Hawks 3-1 and climbed into a first-place tie with Montreal.

BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Detroit's Ted Lindsay pushed ahead in the National Hockey League scoring race Thursday night by adding another goal to his six-point total. With four goals and three assists for seven points, he has a slight one-point edge over Paul Ronty of Boston who amassed three goals and three assists. Another point behind, in third place, are Fleming Mackell, Toronto, Metro Prystal, Chicago, Sid Smith, Toronto, Gordie Howe, Detroit and John Peirson, Boston.

Senior Hockey Taking Back Seat in Montreal

By VIC MORRIS, JR.
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal, Oct. 28 — (CP) — Senior amateur hockey in this metropolis is taking a back seat to the juniors these days. The secret is that the juniors are giving the customers more for their money.

The juniors, who received a shot in the arm last season when Montreal Royals brought home the first Memorial Cup in Quebec's history, report increased attendance in the seven-team circuit. But the main senior circuit —the Quebec Senior Hockey League — is reluctant to release any attendance figures although League President George Slater admits "they are well below last year's."

The Junior Amateur Hockey Association, the oldest league in organized hockey, wallowed deep in disorganization for many years until Frank Selke, general manager of the Montreal Forum and Montreal Canadiens, decided to do a face-lifting job.

He brought three of the loop's clubs directly into the Canadien farm system and subsidized other weak teams by sending them top-calibre players.

Fans Like Brand

All this had a remarkable effect on junior hockey.

When the junior Royals advanced to the Memorial Cup finals against Brandon Wheat Kings and subsequently beat them out in an eight-game final series, many of the Montreal fans took a closer look and decided they liked the brand of hockey the smooth-faced kids dished out.

As for the kids their ambitions today are to jump direct from junior to the National Hockey League rather than from senior ranks.

Dickie Moore, a member of the last year's Memorial Cup team and now playing for junior Canadiens, sums it all up this way:

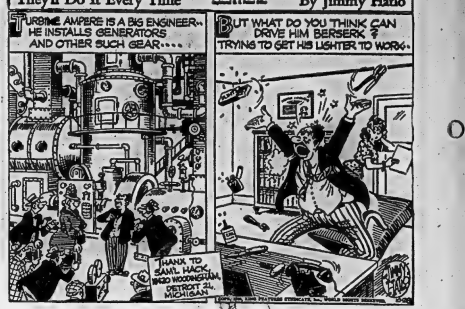
"The senior teams have too many former pros who have slowed down and only stay in hockey because of their experience. We juniors want to keep our speed and our 'razzle-dazzle' brand of hockey and we figure the N.H.L. is the fastest thing we can come up against."

A's are Willing To Pay $200,000 For Roy Seivers

Philadelphia, Oct. 28 — (AP) — Philadelphia Athletics are willing to pay $200,000 for Roy Sievers but St. Louis Browns say that isn't enough for their star outfielder.

Arthur Ehlers, director of the Athletics farm system, said yesterday the Browns turned thumbs down on the $200,000 offer during his recent conference with Bill and Charles DeWitt, owners of the Browns.

"We want some of their players and they want some of ours" Ehlers said, "but we didn't agree on anything."



Ehlers indicated the Browns want players rather than cash for Sievers — selected by Sporting News as the American League's rookie of the year.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

GIBBARD MEMORIAL PARK, NAPANEE:- We saw two rose-cheeked kids here yesterday. One had a gleaming smile, His eyes were alight with the fire of victory. The other, shoulder-drooped, also smiled. On his cheeks were things that looked suspiciously like tears. His eyes, while they gleamed brightly, were misted. One was sixteen-year-old Ernie Garvie, of the Shallow Lake Junior "B" champions, the other the stout-hearted Keith Wrose, of the defeated Napanee Lions.

* * *

There was, perhaps, a touch of drama when these two gallant kids, one the victor, the other the vanquished, met and like the grand sportsmen they are, shook hands after Shallow Lake had won the provincial Junior "B" title from Napanee.

Upwards of 600 shivering fans saw the third and decisive game between these teams of kid champions. And champions they were. For they had brushed aside by sheer fierce of ability all opposition, and then met in the final clash for titular honors.

It was perhaps a touch of heartbreak on the part of Napanee's sterling young junior, Keith Wrose. For Ernie Garvie's brother, Carvie, tall rightwinger for Shallow Lake, it was a double triumph. Not only did this slim youngster pitch his mates to victory as the Ontario champs in the Junior "B" division, but he brought to the Grey County village its first provincial baseball title.

* *

And he had every reason to be proud. Eye-misted coach Percy Cowlishaw, veteran baseball manager, shook visibly from his perch atop the shoulders of jubilant players as he was paraded around the park infield.

For this was the crowning moment for not only this team of grand fighting baseball youngsters, but the small village of 300 souls whose name they here proudly on sweat-streaked uniforms. For this was the first championship, as was mentioned, ever years of baseball trial and tribulation that has come to this fine little Grey County community.

Yup, the Shallow Lake "Bridesmaids" finally became a bride, as baseball parlance has it, after many unsuccessful nuptials than did their finals opponents, the Napanee Lions.

It was heart-warming, to say the least, to see these erstwhile bitter feudists for the Junior "B" title, drop their gloves, as has been the trend around non amateur baseball, slapping, handshaking, head-pounding and committing other congratulatory gestures, in the post-game orgy of victory and defeat.

* *

For, as we stood on the sidelines and watched, we saw two grand teams of youngsters, one in the momentary glory of victory, the other under the cloud of defeat disappointment, mingling, one with the other in the glory of the moment. It was heart-warming, too, to realize that these 20 or 30 youngsters of Napanee and Shallow Lake, one finaling with victory, the other, crowding back through smiles, the tears of defeat, peaking, peaking, smiling, shouting in post-game hysteria, were doing something for baseball, for their communities and for Canada in a whole in their spirit of victory and defeat for we believe that Grantland Rice knew whereof he wrote when he penned:

"And when the last great score is made, ...

And placed against your name

It matters not, if you win or lost

But how you played the game."

So that as it may. From a reportorial point of view, we have no yen for brushing icicles off what the little woman calls an excuse for supper lip adornment, while covering a baseball game. Baseball, we were told, and so we believe is a summer pastime. It calls for blistering sunshine, shirt-sleeved fans, peanuts, popcorn and cold drinks. We, in our reportorial post, have perspired under baseball suns. And we would have no other. It's natural.

But yesterday, for the first time in our nearly two decades of newspaper life, we sat in a baseball dugout, huddled over a coal-oil stove, nursing red-hot coffee and occasionally, peeking through our parka to see what the batter was doing.

Yup, it wasn't funny. The only guy properly dressed for the occasion was bean umpire Don Thompson. The rest of us shivered in our boot tops, and that includes 599 paying fans. There were 600 present, Ernie Gibbard tells me.

Kudos to the Napanee Lion's dugout, thanks to Manager Doug. Fraser and thanks to the Napanee Lions Club, (those big-hearted bimbos,) we drank gallons of scalding coffee, ate thatic cookies and sandwiches, and most of all, absorbed the welcome warmth from oil-burning heaters which those fine farsighted chalmen had placed in both dugouts.

While we, like any other sports fan enjoy baseball, we think there is a time and place for everything. Sub-zero weather is not conducive to good baseball. It is not fair to players. Certainly, pitchers, or fans.

And the Ontario Baseball Association, if it can stop its clashing of dates during the winter months, Ontario baseball interests, would be well advised to arrange its playdowns so that champions in all groups are declared before the boys are called upon to exchange baseball spikes for skates.

ROCKEY'S HERE!

Still a-shiver (set it shiver, Mr. compositor) we hear, agrad, that hockey is on its way. Here it is, according to Stanley Rock, of the Belleville Rockets Juniors, the Tweezle Marlboro's Junior "B" squad will debut the Belleville hockey season a week from tonight. That's it, kiddies. Come next Friday, the Belleville Hockey Association Junior grade will parade its wares, before, what is hoped a sell-out crowd of Belleville hockey fans. More about this later, but in the meantime, plan to attend Belleville's hockey curtain-raiser next Friday night. Imagine, Marlboro's Junior B's. . . . .Remember!

Pimlico Special Will Decide Turf Laurels

Baltimore, Oct. 28. (AP)—The showdown in 1949 horse racing is all set today in the Pimlico Special.

At stake for the taking by Coaltown or Capot are the year's major laurels of the American turf. Everything has been thrown into the pot for this one race.

Both trainers, John Gaver of Capot, and Jimmy Jones of Coaltown, said it probably will be the last start of the year for their colts.

So the special is it, a final meeting head to head with the track be thousands between the leading contenders for the championship.

Calumet Farm agreed to make it all or nothing in honors as well as the $15,000 special purse which goes entirely to the winner. They had a pat hand in Ponder and Coaltown but consented under pressure by the Maryland Jockey Club to break it up and let Capot in.

Gayer told the club that if both the Calumet eligibles started he would have Capot sit it out. Calumet was informed after the Greentree Stable's stand and grudgingly passed up the third walkout in the special which it has won five out of 13 times.

All signs point to a toe-to-toe race for the entire 1 3-16-mile special. Both thoroughbreds are record breakers.

Capot set the Pimlico track mark of 1:58 for the special distance in the Preakness last Spring. Coaltown never has raced. at Pimlico before, but he holds the world's record for the mile and has equaled the world's record for the mile and has equaled the world standard for two other distances.

The two will go to the post at 2:15 p.m. EST with Jockey Steve Brooks on Coaltown and Toronto-born Ted Atkinson on Capot. Coaltown will carry 126 pounds and Capot has been assigned 120.

(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Oct. 28 — (CP) — Since Pittsburgh Hornet goalie Baz Bastien lost an eye during a practice session last month, the question of some kind of protection for goalkeepers has received renewed interest.

The Toronto Maple Leaf farm club netminder was shut off in the middle of a fine hockey career when his eye was removed in hospital after a puck smashed into his face in his first practice this season.

However, most goaltenders don't want to wear anything that might interfere with their vision and, as yet, no protective device has been made which will effectively protect the eye and at the same time permit unrestricted vision.

Say Not Needed

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick writes that some people think "it would be . . . tougher for the goalies trying to manage the awkward device. In the end it will be the goalies who will probably decide and, as dangerous as their jobs are, you aren't apt to find many favoring the idea.

"Those opposed to the idea seem to be of the opinion that serious accidents aren't frequent enough to warrant the added protection."

Oh? Ask Bastien . . .

Darn Good Seat

Laurie (Galt Reporters) Brain, skipping through an edition of Hockey News, writes that he came across an article saying "They're still doing all they can in Cincinnati, O., to counteract such lack of hockey knowledge as that of people who write in requesting tickets on the 50-yard line."

Lazy Days

Ted Murdock, Kirkland Lake northern daily newspaper, tells this anecdote which is supposed to have happened while a baseball team was on a barnstorming tour.

"One youngster, off on his first such trip, played a lazy and haphazard game. 'We're barnstorming, ain't we? When I was on the farm, whenever we stormed a barn, we stalled around."

Shallow Lake Ranchers Win Junior B Crown

Napanee, Oct. 28. (CP)—The Shallow Lake Ranchers won the Ontario Baseball Association Junior "B" championship here Thursday when they defeated Napanee Lions 4-1 in the third and deciding game of the playoffs.

As the final out was made, Shallow Lake supporters led by a three-piece pipe band surged on the infield in celebration.

The victory marked the first baseball championship to go to Bruce Peninsula after competing in the playoff series for ten years. Perc Noble did a fine job coaching the club and their victory was a high tribute to the calibre of minor ball in the province.

Irv Garvie hailed as a new pitching star, held the Lions to five hits and was backed up flawlessly by his mates, the whole infield playing in sparkling fashion without a single misplay. Napanee got away to a bad start when three errors allowed the winners a pair of runs in the first without a hit.

A hit batsman and three hits accounted for the other pair in the eighth. In this inning Krueger fell victim to the hidden ball trick at second base.

Keith Wrese had 11 strike-outs and Garvie seven.

Krueger and McNeil for the winners and Harten and Wrese for the Lions each had two hits.

The game, played under a clear Fall sky and in 50-degree temperature, was watched by about 600 spectators.

Munro scored Napanee's lone tally in the ninth when Harten's hit dropped safely back of second.

The University of Georgia Publicity dept. gives credit to a bottle of rubbing liniment for the speed with which halfback Billy Mixon scored the winning touchdown against Louisiana State. . . Billy left the game with an injured shoulder and trainer Claude Bond, Jr., saturated the injury with liniment . . . Some of the stuff rolled down Mixon's back into the seat of his pants . . . Billy jumped to his feet and shouted: "Put me in quick, coach. I'm ready." . . . In a couple of plays Mixon galloped across the goal line like a guy trying to escape a hot-foot.

The bidding went thus:

South	North
1 D	1 H
2 C	2 S
2 NT	3 NT

Opening lead from west was the spade deuce that dummy took with the queen. The smallest dummy club was led back. South played the jack for a finesse that he hoped would lose.

Sure enough, west held the club queen. At most tables west won this trick with the queen. Spade ace was laid down and killed the dummy king. Spade jack and spade nine took the next two tricks.

Thus did opponents take four tricks and no more. The diamond return from west went to the south ace. Heart ace took a trick. The smallest south club entered with the ten.

Four dummy hearts came home and the south top diamond with two top clubs made the needed nine tricks. Many of the players took it for granted that three notrump could not be defeated.

At two tables, however, the three no-trump contract was shot. West had the situation analyzed and made the killing defence. He refused to win the club jack with the queen.

AT THE CAPITOL — Gene Autry and co-star Barbara Britton discover that loaded pistols can create trouble in Columbia's "Loaded Pistols," now at the Capitol Theatre, Belleville. Featured with the same program, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans in "Dakota Way," in Trucolor. Both hits are first run showings. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

West suspected that he might lose the queen later. And he did when south knocked it off with ace and king. But the sacrifice was worth it when declarer was unable to reach dummy.

Because of this, declarer had to give up three spade tricks to west and two diamond tricks to east. At these two tables, south claims he was robbed. Bring in the crying towel.

Hollywood, Oct. 28 — (AP) — The scandal woven in the words says Ella Rains after a tour of Europe and Africa, are in the United States.

The actress spent a year abroad with her husband, Mayor Robbie Olds. Back to star with Vaughn Monroe in "Singing Guns," she told her observations of the foreign women.

Contrary to the average United States male's opinion, she declared, "French women don't emphasize sex in their dress. They look at the idea of sex differently: they don't try to dramatize it or hide it; they just accept sex as sex.

"English women are badly undernourished as far as sex goes. They aren't exactly the conservative dressers or reserved women most people think they are. Those that can afford sexy clothes, buy and wear them.

No Falsies

"Nowhere in Europe do you see the wide use of falsies and other devices to play up sex, devices you find in wide use here in the United States. Lots of European women don't even wear brassieres."

The French bathing suit — which Ella herself likes and wears — is worn in Italy as well as France, she reported. She said the suit exemplifies the French woman's attitude toward sex.

"They either have it or they don't."

English women wear the American type of suit, she said. But Ella finds the Bikini (French) beach garb often just as much comfort and social security.

"There's nothing indecent about it. I think American women object because it shows their stomachs. Of course, the suit does require a good figure."

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was dusting the living room and she looked out the front window, saying, Oh dear, I'm sure that that good looking young fellow is soliciting magazine subscriptions.

Meaning a big boy with no hat and curly hair ringing doorbells on the other side of the street, and I said, Well, G, ma, if he rings our bell, why dont you just tell him you dont want any?

That's what I always vow and determine to do, and then my weaker nature prevails, and sometimes the magazines turn up and sometimes they dont, ma said. I'm just not even going to talk to him if he comes here.

Tell him I'm busy, and goodness knows it's the truth, I've got a hundred and one things to do, and the most important thing is not to talk to that boy, she said.

G, he's coming over now, I said.

Which he was, and he rang the bell and I opened the door, and he said I want to see your mother, Buddy.

She's busy, I said, and the boy said, Oh, is she really? and he started to talk loud so ma could hear him, saying, I know how busy she is, she's just busy enough to have an easy excuse not to give one little minute to a boy who never did her any harm and who is quite willing to go respectfully away as soon as he finds she is not intrested. But I dont mind, I wish her the best of luck and I hope she sleeps well tonite with a clear conscience, he said.

While just then ma came out of the living room, saying, Young man, you have no rite to talk that way, I really was busy and I'm just stepping out here a moment to prove it by showing you my dust cloth, and now goodbye, she said.

The result being it only took him about 5 minutes to sell her a subscription to The Fastidious Feminine Magazine.

Montreal Makes Strong Bid for 1950 Cup Final

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Grey Cup talk is filling the autumn air, but the fellows are getting ahead of themselves. It's the 1950 edition of the football classic they're talking about.

Myer Insky, president of the Quebec metropolis would make a strong bid to take next year's Dominion final out of Toronto. He is stalking his chances on the availability of McGill University's Molson Stadium which plans to increase its present 14,570 accommodation to 19,000.

Myers may have a clue, but at this distance it appears feasible. First, he must bring about a change in the Canadian Rugby Union constitution which stipulates all Grey Cup games must be played in Toronto.

That probably could be hurdled but it would take a much larger stadium to convince western and Eastern Canada C.R.U. representatives to agree to the switch. In these inflationary football times, the idea naturally is to stage the spectacle before the biggest possible crowd under the best playing conditions — and Montreal certainly can't meet the first requisite with the Molson Bowl.

Before this time next year it is likely Toronto will have two stadiums and each will outseat Molson by at least 10,000. In cash, that means around $25,000 and who is going to pass that up?

Varsity Stadium, traditional home of the Grey Cup final with a 20,000 capacity, likely will be expanded to nearly 30,000. The university has plans to build a new grandstand and put up concrete bleachers.

This has been mooted for a year or so and one university official told The Canadian Press it is hoped to start work next summer and have it ready by September—just in time for the football season.

The other is the Canadian National Exhibition Sports Field which has a seating capacity of slightly more than 22,000 but with wide open spaces that could be filled with temporary — or permanent bleachers to accommodate at least 35,000.

The Varsity agreement covers only 1949 and the C.R.U. executive will have plenty of time to shop around (in Toronto) for the 1950 site. One additional factor is that Varsity Stadium Field is north-south and the sports field east-west. If it's a sunny Grey Cup afternoon and the Sports Field is chosen, it is conceivable that high kicks may be misjudged in the sun which, conceivably could lose the ball game.

How About O.R.F.U.?

Myer has another idea. As an alternative to Montreal as scene of the Grey Cup, he would recommend the 1950 final be held on the home grounds of the Big Four champion.

That's okay, Meyer, but what if an Ontario Rugby Football Union club wins the Eastern title? It's far fetched as things are now, but maybe Myer has some inside information about this four-team circuit.

There have been whisperings, for instance, that Toronto Balmy Beach of the O.R.F.U. would like to make the Big Four the "Big Five" next year. Or, perhaps, Hamilton's O.R.F.U. Tigers and Hamilton's Big Four Wildcats may join forces for one entry — in the Big Four.

If these came about, it would leave Toronto Windsor and Sarnia in the O.R.F.U.

H. Martin Tops Scorers in Major A League

Herb Martin of Central Cigar with a triple of 817 including a 334 single was top bowler in the Major "A" League at the Bowl-O-Drome on Thursday night. This, however, was not enough to stop the Belleville Golfers who took all seven points from the "Stogies" and a firmer grip on first place.

Moore's Chiclets bettered their position, taking four points also with a 7-0 win over Electronics.

Tobe's Country Gardens is second and Central Electric is third place held their positions by taking Lawn Bowlers and Callaghan Ice respectively by five to two counts.

Bettering the 700-mark were J. Legault 780 (222), L. Hopkins 717 (293), D. Tobe 709 (314), and J. Kirkwood 701 (258).

Others good games were turned in by A. Stewart 698 (291), H. Ridley 687 (288), J. Bennett 681 (251), J. Wardington 680 (247), T. Caton 671 (234), A. Holway 658 (265), W. Moore 656 (233), C. Gardiner of Electronics also had a single of 301.

GENERAL MOTORS PRODUCTION STOPPED AT OSHAWA

Picket lines at the General Motors plants in Oshawa, Ont., have been set up and will be maintained 24 hours a day. Strikers left work because three union stewards were fired Monday for refusing to obey orders to increase production on the Chevrolet assembly line. The strike is the first since 1937 during the C.I.O. organizing period. — Central Press Canadian.

Two Challenges Issued Against Bruce's Throne

(By The Canadian Press)

Bruce Woodcock, Empire heavyweight champion, announced he will want to accept any challenges for his crown until after his "world title" bout against Lee Savold at London next spring. But Harry Levene, Bruce's bruising fight manager, refused to take no for an answer.

Levene has posted two challenges to Woodcock to meet behalf of two Toronto pugilistic figures — Earl Walls, 21-year-old fighter with a streak of Cherokee blood in his veins, and Verne Escoe, National champion over-the-plenty of experience in United States rings.

Levene has offered a £1,000 ($3,100) even-money wager on behalf of Escoe and a £1,000-£500 bet to back Walls. Woodcock and his manager, Tom Hurst just aren't interested. With an eye on bigger money, say the Empire heavyweight champ will not fight until the Savold contest — "then we shall be prepared to receive offers."

That sort of talk makes Levene hopping mad.

"I will force Woodcock to meet one of my boys, or I will ask the British Boxing Board of Control to void his title. The rules only allow a champion six months between title defences. He has had four months now since he beat Freddie Mills. He's got to quit making excuses and fight or lose the title."

The power - house plunging of football's golden boy, Tony Golab, may thrill football fans once again before the gridiron season closes this year.

Golab, side - lined by a leg injury for three weeks, limped in to Ottawa's Lansdowne Park field Thursday night and took part in a light calisthenics drill although his left leg still is in a cast.

"I'm hoping to be ready just in case I can play once the cast is removed," Golab said.

The 31-year-old fullback with Ottawa Rough Riders said x-rays have been taken of his injured left knee and that the cast is due to be removed next week. He said the x-rays showed marked improvement in the ailing knee.

Only last week Golab said the knee injury probably meant he had played his last game. He said he wanted to play just one more, but intended to retire at the end of the season.

St. Louis Browns of the American Baseball League announced Thursday that all of their players over 28 years old including Gerry Priddy and Bob Dillinger —are up for sale or trade.

At the same time, Bill Dewitt, president of the Browns, announced a reshuffling in the club's farm system. Nine clubs are being dropped and three new ones are to be added—leaving the Browns with a total of 14 farm clubs.

Bill Dewitt and his brother Charlie, Browns vice president, said they are interested in getting "good ball players" but especially need a shortstop, then a pitcher.

At Philadelphia, the State Athletic Commission Thursday ruled women wrestlers out of rings in Pennsylvania.

"We feel," said Commissioner George D. Jones, Jr., in a statement, "that women have no place in the wrestling ring."

Jones said also:

"While the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission does not recognize wrestling matches as contests, but only as exhibitions, we feel that too much clowning is injurious to the sport."

At Calgary, Tom Brook, president of the Calgary Stampeders announced Thursday that the first game of the home-and-home series with Saskatchewan Roughriders in the Western International football playoff will be in Regina Nov. 5. Second game will be at Calgary Nov. 11.

U. S. ASKS RUSSIA RELEASE OFFICIALS

The U. S. State Department called on Russia to arrange for the prompt return of Marshall Plan officials Alfred T. Meschler, shown here, of Kinderhook, N.Y., and Albert Willis, of Brooklyn, and also for the return of an U.S. vessel which disappeared recently in North Korean waters. The two men had been aboard the ship Kimball R. Smith, which is on loan to the Korean government. In a note presented to the Russian foreign office, the U.S. government declared it views with "grave seriousness" the disappearance of the two officials, both of whom carried diplomatic passports. — Central Press Canadian.

St. Louis Flyers, Capitals Share Loop's Top Rung

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Louis Flyers and Indianapolis Capitals share the top rung in the western division of the American Hockey League today as the result of victories over the two leading clubs of the league's eastern section last night.

The Caps downed Buffalo Bisons 2-1 while St. Louis edged New Haven Ramblers 5-4. The victories enabled both Indianapolis and the Flyers to take a one-point lead over the idle Cleveland Barons. New Haven and Buffalo remain deadlocked in the east.

The Bisons tallied first early in the second period when defenceman Goggin Davidson fired a long shot past Terry Sawchuck in the Indianapolis cage. Gerry Reid tied the score with 17 seconds remaining in that period.

Rookie Lyle Wiseman notched the winning counter at the five-minute mark of the third period with Ab Demarco of the Bisons in the penalty box.

Meanwhile at New Haven, Ernie Trigg and Cliff Simpson sparked the St. Louis attack with a pair of goals each. The Flyers' fifth marker was scored by Vic Grilf.

Freddie Brown, Jean Pauldenis, Jack Lancien and Denis tallied once each for the Ramblers.

There are no games scheduled for tonight.

Dolly Varden Trout Hooked, Weighed 32 lbs.

Sandpoint, Idaho, Oct. 28 (AP) — A 32-pound trout was hooked in Lake Pend Oreille Thursday and was claimed as a world-record catch.

Nelson L. Higgins, a Pullman, Wash., drug store owner, took the Dolly Varden trout after a 20-minute struggle. It has a length of 50½ inches and a girth of 29½ inches.

A 30¾ - pound Dolly is listed as the world's record for the species. It was caught in Lake Pend Oreille June 10, 1947, by R. C. Horst of Hayden Lake, Idaho.

Higgins used a salmon plug, 100 yards of wire line and a large trolling reel to make his catch.

Workers' Strike At General Motors Is Stalemated

Hope of Settlement Talks May Rest With Minister

Oshawa, Ont., Oct. 29—(CP)—The strike of 5,200 General Motors workers over claims of an assembly line speedup is stalemated.

Hopes of bringing the Union and company together for settlement talks appear to rest with Labor Minister Daley of Ontario. Such a conference was suggested by the United Auto Workers (C.I.O.), which called the strike Wednesday.

The strike is causing anxiety to 28,000 residents of this city 30 miles east of Toronto. Oshawa's business and industrial life is centred on General Motors, the main industry, which employs the couples from smaller plants in this area.

Loss in production of automobiles exceeds 300 a day and the total since the strike started is more than 1,000, company spokesmen say.

Strike Is Felt

The strike also is being felt at St. Catharines, where McKinnon Industries Ltd., a General Motors parts supplier, went on a "day-to-day" employment schedule Thursday. It has employed 1,200. The St. Catharines plant produces automobile parts.

The delegates as heads of the International Union, the company and the Union signed the pact in 1950. The company said all situations put forward by the Union in seasons of the strike are "not able of solution under grievance procedure set out in the agreement."

The strike was called following dismissal Tuesday of four General Motors employees. The company said three of them were discharged for refusing to work and the fourth for encouraging others not to work.

Union Claim

The union said the situation arose after the production line had been speeded up 20 cars an hour from 40.

The union demanded the reinstatement of the four men. The company offered to submit the issue to arbitration, supported the union rejected.

The strike claims that the line cannot handle more than 40 cars an hour and that the addition of extra men is designed to increased production crowds the workers. This allegation was denied by the company, which holds that the line can take care of the extra production without taxing any of the workers.

The strikers are maintaining picket lines day and night at 14 gates of the plant. Tents have been erected to give them shelter from rest and warmth for the picketers.

Oshawa residents are comparing the industrial tieup with the 16-day strike involving General Motors workers in April, 1937. Settlement terms provided for a 44-hour week, wage increases, and recognition of Local 222 of the United Automobile Workers as the union local which called the present strike.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Toronto, Oct. 29 (CP)—Synoptic: Rain has begun in Manitoba and Southern Manitoba this morning will move eastward into the Lakes and Ohio Valley region tonight. Cloudy conditions and occasional rain will spread over northern regions during the day in advance of this storm centre. In the wake of this storm cold polar air will enter Northwestern Ontario tonight and continue its southeastward track to reach the lower lakes late Sunday.

Child Imprisoned Three Hours In Eight-Inch Cistern Pipe

Austin, Tex., Oct. 29 (AP) — Slight scratches on the face and side were the only physical reminders today that Bobby Andrew Gow, a tiny three-year-old, was imprisoned three hours and a day deep in an eight-inch cistern pipe.

Bobby, whose 26-pound body dropped from view at 2:45 p.m. CST, just 50 feet from his back doorstep, was reported in good condition in hospital where he spent the night under observation.

Rescuers who lured his life to quick safety in hundreds of hours by grunting sick axes and shovels. A steam shovel went into

P.C. EXECUTIVE TO STUDY PARTY ORGANIZATION

Discussions Will be Held at Ottawa

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 29 (CP) — First meeting of the hierarchy of the Progressive Conservative party since the general election of June 27 will be held here Monday and Tuesday.

The sessions will bring together the executive of the Progressive Conservative Association of Canada, a group largely responsible for the party's organization and, to some extent, for policy.

The discussions will be held in camera. Only 125 of the delegates have disclosed that one of the main items of business will be the question of party organization.

Lower Representation

In the general election, Progressive Conservative representation dropped from 69 to 41 members while that of the Liberals climbed from 125 to 193. In effect by-elections Oct. 24, the Progressive Conservatives retained Toronto Greenwood. Four of the other seats went to the Liberals.

Remaining three seats to members elassed themselves as Liberal-Progressive, Labor and on the ballot papers as independent Liberal or independent.

Two members, Toronto Greenwood was J. M. MacDonnell, president of the Progressive Conservative Association and the party's financial critic in the last Commons, and Toronto Trinity was defeated in the general election in Ontario's constituency of Parry Sound.

Macdonnell to Preside

He will preside at the sessions of the executive. Scheduled to be addressed by George Drew of Progressive Conservative leader Reports will be presented by Miss Hilda Hesson, National Director of the party's organization, and E. D. Fulton, member of the Commons for the British Columbia constituency of Kamloops and President of the Young Progressive Conservatives.

The association annually adopts a number of resolutions that, with executive approval, usually set forth the party's platform. The resolutions are framed in one year's meeting confidence in the leader of the party.

Party sources are confident that Mr. Drew will be given a unanimous vote of confidence despite the party's showing in the general election, the first he fought in the federal field.

N.W. May Get 'Margarine' of All Colors

Ottawa, Oct. 29 (CP)—Residents of the Northwest Territories may be in for a surprising variety of kinds and colors of margarine if a request by Eskimos for the white substitute.

The Northwest Territories council, which administers the vast area north of the 60th parallel, Thursday came to grips with the question of margarine and how it will apply to the Territories' residents.

Usually the council bases legislation on that used by the majority of provinces. However, most provinces feel differently about margarine.

The council decided on the principle that margarine which meets the requirements of any province is good enough for the territories.

Duplessis Wants Conference Date as Early as Possible; Opposes Divorce Legislation

Quebec, Oct. 29. (CP) — Premier Duplessis said on Friday that he had asked Prime Minister St. Laurent to decide "within the shortest possible delay" date and venue of the proposed Federal-Provincial conference on constitutional matters.

The Premier said at his weekly press conference this was "necessary" because of the start of the next session of the provincial legislature early in January. The request was made in a letter to Prime Minister St. Laurent.

It was indicated in Ottawa Tuesday that the conference will be held early in January).

The Premier's letter answered a previous one by the Prime Minister in which Mr. St. Laurent was quoted as saying the position of the Dominion and Quebec governments was clear on the constitutional problem and further correspondence was unnecessary.

Premier Duplessis reaffirmed his government's stand on the proposed legislation which would transfer power to amend the British North American Act to Federal matters from the British Parliament to the Canadian Parliament.

"The Federal-Provincial conference is scheduled to decide what matters are strictly of federal jurisdiction and which are of provincial jurisdiction.

Quotes Prime Minister

Mr. Duplessis said that Mr. St. Laurent "wrote the provincial legislatures had the right to amend the Canadian constitution except in matters pertaining to the jurisdiction of governors, but that the Federal Government did not have that right."

"It is therefore evident," the Premier said, "that the authors of confederation clearly and undeniably decided that the Canadian constitution does not give that right to the federal authority."

The provinces would therefore be consulted if such a change is to be made, the Premier added.

Mr. Duplessis described as "evil legislation" a private member's bill in the House of Commons, which would call for Quebec divorce cases to be brought to the Canadian Exchequer Court.

He said the legislation, (sponsored by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg Centre) would give the Exchequer Court additional approbation to divorce to those who favor it."

Premier Comment

Mr. Duplessis also mentioned his proposed provincial state lottery and said he had "often communicated with federal authorities on the question." He declined to say what the federal authorities said.

It is expected that a bill will be introduced at the next session of the provincial legislature if possible for the province to hold a lottery to assist in the Boys' Home, Jean Nesmy, and help hospitals to care for the tuberculous.

Premier Duplessis announced that one fifth of the projected $60,000,000 Shipshaw No. 2 hydro-elec plant at Besuharnois, Que., now under construction, would be completed soon. He said the $60,000,000 project would be finished within a short time.

The Premier also said Hydro-Quebec had floated a $25,000,000 loan in New York and that a dam would be built at Rapide Un Que., in Abitibi district.

Two Escaped Men Believed Involved In Cafe Holdup

Philadelphia, Oct. 29—(AP)—A manhunt for three gun-toting convicts still at large from a Delaware prison turned to Philadelphia today after a cafe holdup which police said was pulled by two of them.

The two gunmen forced 15 patrons at a cafe to stand with their hands up while they took $85 out of the cash register and fled.

Police said victims of the tap-room holdup were shown newspaper photographs of the escaped convicts and identified two bandits as Willie Edwards, 28, and Joseph A. Lasher, 22, two of the three convicts who escaped from Castle County Workhouse near Wilmington, Del.

The 28 year eight prisoners who broke out Wednesday night have been taken into custody and are in solitary confinement at the prison.

Bryson surrendered without a struggle.

Some hours later another convict, Edward Ernst, 25, Wilmington, walked into Penny Hill state police station about two miles north of Wilmington and told Sgt. Harry S. Shew: "I know you're looking for me. I want to surrender."

COAST MEMBERS HAD FIELD DAY IN PARLIAMENT

Want Closer Inspection Of All Fish Products

Ottawa, Oct. 29. (CP)—Members from the Atlantic and Pacific coasts had their day in the Commons Friday.

They had the floor practically to themselves as they debated legislation providing for closer inspection of fish products and discussed the need for life-saving services for Canada's shipping lanes.

"Second reading —approval in principle—was given to the fish inspection bill and it was referred to the standing committee on marine and fisheries Fisheries Minister Mayhew suggested that the first meeting of the committee be postponed until Nov. 7 to give representatives of the east and west coasts fishing industries time to come here and make representations.

The legislation would tighten and clarify the government's powers to inspect fish for export at all stages. Mr. Mayhew said it may be a year before the bill, the first ever sponsored by him, becomes effective.

The Minister said he believes the legislation will improve the quality of Canadian fish put on the market. If quality could be obtained there would be no difficulty in disposing of the fish.

The legislation met general support from members, but

A. Wesley Stuart (L-Charlotte), a former fisherman, said he could believe Canadian fish exports. He believed the bill gave too many powers to inspectors, meaning to them young and inexperienced.

Earlier, with transport department officials present, members several members urged that Canada have her own coast-guard service. Transport Minister Chevrier said the problem of co-ordinating the life-saving services on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts and the Great Lakes is under study by an inter-departmental committee.

Drew Criticizes Program of Federal Govt.

Ottawa, Oct. 29 (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, Friday night declared that the federal government is "tearing the constitution down the middle" by disregarding the voice of the provinces.

The government's desire to obtain power to amend the constitution is a clear exposure of the federal government that "it should be controlled but from th Ottawa," Mr. Drew said in a speech at the annual meeting of the Ottawa Young Progressive Conservative Association.

"The premier of Quebec Laurent had told the Commons that the changes in the constitution affect federal matters are of no concern to the provincial governments," Mr. Drew continued. But here wasn't so.

"The Canadian constitution was one constitution. And if the constitution was to be amended, the provinces must be a meeting of all governments having a common interest in those amendments.

He referred to the fact that the government has obtained authority from the Commons to approve with a request to the United Kingdom government for power to amend the constitution on federal matters.

Israel Refuses To Continue Talks With Arab States

Little Prospect Arabs Will Agree to Confer With Israelis

Lake Success, N.Y., Oct. 29—(CP)—Israel has kicked the props from under the United Nations Palestine Conciliation Committee by refusing to take part in any more go-between talks with her four Arab neighbors—Hashemite Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Egypt.

United Nations sources said there was little immediate prospect that the Arabs would consent to face-to-face negotiations with the Israelis.

Israel Friday night notified the commission, composed of representatives of the United States, France and Turkey, of its withdrawal from the indirect peace talks. An Israeli spokesman said Israel is willing to deal directly on all outstanding political and territorial problems.

Arabs' Attitude

The Arabs have refused since the commission was established by the 1948 general assembly in May to deal with Israel in the same table with Israeli representatives. The Arabs have demanded that would constitute recognition of Israel as a state. The commission has been shuttling between Israeli and Arabs for months in Lausanne, Switzerland, and recently moved to New York.

The Israeli note replied to a letter from the commission asking all five countries concerned to renounce their territorial claims. The Arab replies have not been made public.

The Israeli representative would not divulge the exact terms of the government's reply but he outlined it to reporters.

The statement said indirect talks were considered useless by Israel and "can even make the situation more difficult."

There was no indication from either side that armistice arrangements negotiated by mediator Ralph J. Bunche were in danger.

The conciliation commission has submitted to the general assembly a report for an international regime in Jerusalem. This has been opposed by the Israeli government, which insists on retaining control over all the territory it holds in the city except for holy places.

Libyan Independence

On the future of the Italian colonies, a special subcommittee of the general Friday night on the recommendations.

The assembly group agreed that Libya should be independent by Jan. 1, 1952; that Italian Somaliland be put under independence by 1959, with interim rule by Italian-UN trusteeship administration, and that a five-power commission go to Eritrea and Libya next year on the situation there.

Company officials could not be reached for comment.

275-Pound Pig is Parlor Guest, Should Join Circus, Owners Think

Arlington, Ia., Oct. 29 (AP)—A 275-pound pig, name of Gus, is a frequent and welcome guest in the parlor of the Pete Bachtell family home near here.

Gus developed a penchant for life indoors when the Bachtell family reared him behind the kitchen range.

Gus was abandoned at birth by his mother.

Although Gus now has permanent quarters under the barnyard, he frequently follows the Bachtells indoors.

On these occasions Gus immediately heads for the scatter rug in front of the radio and reclines contentedly.

Mrs. Bachtell says she doesn't protest too much. She is housebroken and his manners are above reproach.

There's a big question mark about Gus' future. He is now at a weight when most pigs are lively performers in the conversion from bacon and roast pork.

Mrs. Bachtell's dislike to think about such a possibility. They say Gus ought to be in a circus.

Each drug the pharmacist uses was produced by a responsible pharmaceutical or chemical company in which he has confidence. He would use no drug which hadn't been so tested.

Even with this knowledge, however, the pharmacist fills every prescription with a deep sense of personal responsibility. He checks and rechecks every ingredient he uses and every step in his compounding technic. He examines the contents of each bottle carefully as he takes it from the shelf. He looks at it critically, he may take the stopper out and smell it, he may even taste a bit of it. He fills every prescription with the utmost care—as if each member of his own family were for a member of his own family.

The drugs he uses are old friends to your pharmacist. He met them first in his early days at college and he has worked with them ever since. Their color, texture, odor, and taste are closely associated in his mind with their actions and their uses.

It is second nature for the pharmacist to check drugs by sight, by taste, and by smell. His knowledge and training are as much a part of the prescription he fills as are any of its ingredients.—Reprinted from a copyrighted advertisement published by Parke, Davis & Company.

IN MEMORIAM

TURNER — In loving memory of Mrs. Harriet Turner, who passed away five years ago October 30, 1944.

We think of you always, we talk of you still,
You have a place in our hearts that no one can fill.
For the days we do not think of you
Are the days we do not live.
If in this world were ours to give,
We'd give you back again.

Sadly missed and ever remembered by daughter Daisy, Rose and family. C22

TURNER — In loving memory of my dear wife, Mrs. Harriet Annie Turner, who passed away on October 30th, 1944.

Upright and just to the end of her days.

Sincere and true, in her heart and mind.

Beautiful memories she left behind.

Ever remembered by daughter Dora McTaggart and family. C22

GREEN — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away on October 21, 1948.

Could I have but lived so dear,
Silent lushe voice we loved to hear;

Could I have but heard,
And with a hand absent, is just as dear.

Ever remembered by the family. C22

BRICKMAN — In loving memory of a dear dad, George Clinton Brickman, who passed away Saturday, October 29th, 1938.

Poets Pay Tribute to Late Colin C. Stewart, His Gift of Poetry and His Deep Faith

Canadian Countryman for October contains an article by Wallace Havelock Robb formerly of Belleville now of Abbot Dawn near Kingston, in which he makes a feeling reference to an old and highly esteemed former citizen of Belleville, Colin C. Stewart, who passed away on the tenth of August last ripe in years and honored by all who knew him. The article tells of the meeting of the young poet Charles Andrew Tupper with Mr. Stewart when the latter had gone to live in Foxboro. It is an affecting story of the kindship of spirit of those of the poetic mind and it reveals the devoutness of the older man, still giving expression in the word and music of verse of his highest religious feelings.

Mr. Robb's reference to Mr. Stewart and to the meeting of Mr. Tupper with Mr. Stewart is told in simple words of deep feeling. Mr. Robb says:

For many years on the old Grand Trunk Railway there was a poet working and his name was Colin C. Stewart. Nobody knew he had a flare for verse. Yet, he penned the odd poem, chiefly after he retired to Foxboro. Charles Andrew Tupper went to live in Foxboro. It didn't take Tupper long — he found Stewart in his eighty-ninth year and up on deck with a lovely radiance called Omniscience. The old bard was almost blind, had to heavily rule the paper so that he could see where he wrote. Tupper sent the poem down to me, and I asked the privilege of using it here.

My Father, God, how great Thou art.
The Ruler of the countless spheres,
And yet Thou hoverest o'er my bed
And calmest all my fears.

Thy Greatness overawes my soul,
Thy gentleness is Balm Divine;
Sweet touch of healing from above,
Oh let Thy rays upon me shine.

Thou comest in the morning hours,
Refreshing dew from Heaven above,
And when the sun sets in the West,
I feel my Father's shielding love.

Thy Blessing raised the Widow's Son,
Made lame to walk, op'd eyes of blind,
Oh touch me with Thy Gracious Hand,
In Thee alone our health we find.

As knelt the lepers at Thy feet,
We kneel, confess we plead Thy Word,
Our faith is strong, though weak our frame,
Thy powers the same Almighty Lord.

If strong Thy Hand to raise the fallen
To keep the mighty worlds in course,
Say but the word, Thy will is done,
Our hearts obey Thy Sovereign course.

Mr. Stewart showed this poem to Mr. Tupper, and Tupper offered to take it home and type it. "It is beautiful thing and deserves the light", Well, when Mr. Tupper had it neatly done, he took it back, but the older bard couldn't see, so Mr. Tupper read it to him, and, quoting Tupper, "When I came to the verse, '. . . When the sun sets in the West,' some unaccountable emotion laid strong hold of me momentarily . I told him how I admired and liked the poem and he seemed very pleased indeed . . ." Three weeks after that, Colin C. Stewart died! Surely God must have sent Tupper! Anyway, Charles Andrew Tupper was so deeply moved by the whole thing, that he was stunned, and those uncanny forces which control the Muse took hold on him. And, lo! a poem:

IN THE MORNING HOURS
by Charles Andrew Tupper

"Say but the Word, Thy will is done,"
And a call came over the hill
With the golden mist of the morning sun,
And the birds of dawn rejoiced for one
Who heard, obeyed, and was still!

"Thou comest in the morning hours,"
To claim Thy own O Lord of Love,
Hours is he in heavenly bowers
Beyond our knowledge and human ken
But home in Heaven above!

"And when the sun sets in the West,"
His earthly sun is set and gone,
But spiritual things he loved the best,
Those Beauty Flowers in life he prest,
In psalm-like lines will still live on.

Course for women on investing money is carried on in Toronto with Miss Helen Cleveland as teacher. Groups of the wives of law lectures given by Toronto women lawyers and sponsored by the Local Council of Women.

What women know about the law, about real estate, about stocks and bonds, is sometimes shockingly slight. There is no doubt but that Miss Cleveland, who has been an expert investment writer for a large firm for 20 years, gives the women sound advice and coaching.

Strange how some women will slave to save paying for a laundry bill, when at the same time they refuse to take a few minutes each day to study the financial page, and so neglect to save the family treasury in some instances over a hundred dollars.

Now true it is that those who pinch on the pennies often toss the dollars out the window. Somebody once said, you can never make a fortune on a salary It's the selection and timing of investments, that pays off.

Once when Stephen Leacock wanted to know what he could-be considered the essentials of a university he wrote: "If I were founding a university, I would found first a dormitory; then after that, or more probably with it, a decent reading room and a library.

At the Marie Dressler homestead in Cobourg, Mr. Fred Field, the proprietor of the famed eating place, can serve you up a thick, tasty slice of hot Virginia ham, baked with spiced oranges . . . a dish fit for a king. When we were there recently, Mr. Field showed us many of the Dressler family's antiques and curios, and told us about the old days when Marie knew only Cobourg as her home. Her father, incidentally, was the local band master.

Unusual piece of silver in the Marie Dressler house china cabinet, is a Russian lemon squeezer.' While it is larger, it resembles a pepper mill. The Russians take their tea with lemon, instead of cream. They pass around the silver lemon squeezer which squirts a few drops of fresh, pulped lemon juice into your cup . . . One of the old door knockers is a brass spider about to catch a fly.

And then Mr. Field had us come into the old fashioned dining room where he proudly wound up the old music box. The tinkle of crystal prisms, blocks of music boxes—these are rivals only of Pauline Johnson's "Song My Paddle Sings!"

Mr. Field had some modern ceramic pieces, the work of Zavi who came to Canada after World War II to develop his talents in Canada's Land of Canoe Song subjects. We first met up with the artistic Czech four years ago in a ceramic studio in Greenwich Ville, Toronto. At that time, Zavi's baby daughter was to ride around on the potter's wheel. The kiln was in the tiny kitchen. Since then Zavi has moved to Cobourg and set up business there.

"After that, if I still had more money that I couldn't use, I would hire a professor and get some text books." Thus, Leacock put talk and thought first, student life next, then organized instruction.

Uncle Frontenac says he sent his cotton trunks actually belonged to his 10 months old baby two doors down. He said he was certainly relieved to find this out.

25 to 30 Million Population Said To be Desirable

Montreal, Oct. 29 — (CP)—Canada could afford to support a population of between 25,000,000 and 30,000,000 persons. Howard T. Mitchell of Vancouver, publisher of the Western Business and Industry magazine, said Thursday night. In an address to the young men's section of the Montreal Board of Trade, Mr. Mitchell said an increased population was desirable from both economical and millitary point of view.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

SPARROW HAWK

Dwellers in southern Ontario may see the gay-colored little Sparrow Hawk any day of the year; but the rest of us Canadians are not liable to find one after the end of December—that is not until March, when our snow is disappearing. Distinctly marked, this tiny member of the Falcon group is comparatively easy to identify by the combination of a white face with black moustachial stripes, red back and tail, small size (barely larger than a robin), and the habit of hovering over a field on rapidly beating wings. Both sexes are handsome, particularly the male, whose beautiful blue-grey wings replace his mate's red wings barred with black.

A characteristic manner of flying near the ear attendant by a few rapid wing beats, then a short sail, alternately. When in flight, the wings are seen to be narrow, sharply pointed, and slightly back-bent. A long, straight tail shows a wide black band near the end, and as the bird first alights this is "pumped" up and down.

The tallest available dead trees are always chosen for observation points. There the little Sparrow Hawk sits erect and looks down upon its hunting grounds—open fields, or land where timber has been cut or burnt. In spite of the name, it prefers grasshoppers to Sparrows. Also crickets, caterpillars, beetles and spiders come on the summer diet list. In late fall and winter it becomes a proficient mouse trap. And so this is really a beneficial Hawk.

Years when grasshoppers are at their peak the nesting of Sparrow Hawks should be very successful. They build in holes that have been gouged out by Flickers. The home is nearly always in the top of a high stump, but on the prairies a telegraph pole may be used instead, and they have been known to nest in rock cavities, holes in banks, and even in crannies of outbuildings or artificial nesting boxes. The eggs are deposited on the bare wood, and are not at all similarly colored or marked. It is especially at the season when the young family is being fed that they are alarmed by the high rapid call of the parents, "killy-killy-killy-killy-killy," or "klee, klee, klee."

Some people prefer the name "Kestrel" to Sparrow Hawk, but certainly the term "windhover," though not scientific, is the most suitable.

WILL ENLARGE STADIUM

Toronto, Oct. 29 — (CP) Capacity of Varsity Stadium will be enlarged to 23,500 for next season, and there is a possibility enough work may be done to permit accommodation of 30,000 spectators, Warren Stevens, University of Toronto athletic director said today.

Tenders will be called next spring for building 5,000 seats in three of the four stadium corners.

DUTCH IRIS GOLDEN HARVEST

These are true bulbous members of the great iris family. The flowers and roots differ from the rhizomatous types such as the bearded iris. Also, included in this group are Spanish Iris. They are all interesting and easy to grow, extending the iris season into July. They all should have a light mulch before the ground freezes. Some of the most striking varieties are Wedgewood, a soft blue, and the White Superior. Above is illustrated a fine yellow iris, Golden Harvest.

Plant four to five inches deep in early October. Give them a sunny and well-drained location. Plant in groups of a dozen or more, and mass individual varieties together.

All bulbs thrive in a soil which is rich in humus. Do not burn your leaves this fall. Make a compost pile mixed with sand and manure, then next year, you will have a source of fertile loam to dig into your ground.

MAJOR ADVANCES IN CANCER TREATMENT

Two major advances at least have been witnessed in the past ten years in the methods of treatment of cancer, says Dr. O. H. Warwick, executive of the Canadian Cancer Society in an article in Health, published by the Health League of Canada.

Improvements in the technique of anathaesia and in our understanding of the pre-operative and post-operative care of seriously ill cancer patients have enabled surgeons to reduce materially the risk of major surgery. They have also enabled the surgeon to perform operations which were before considered not practicable.

The other advance has to do with the discovery of the fact that certain compounds, when given to cancer patients, will inhibit and even cause regression of tumor growths for periods of a few weeks to several years.

Within the years ago even the most optimistic of cancer research workers despaired of the possibility of ever finding such substances. At least six of these now have taken a place in the treatment of cancer research patients for months and even years. It is the investigations of the method of action of these compounds which hold so much for the future, says Dr. Warwick. At least six Canadian university laboratories are now pursuing research.

The scientist says that one unfortunate thing about cancer today is, that although many forms of cancer can be cured yet many patients with these forms of disease do not report unusual symptoms to their doctors soon enough. "It is not uncommon," he said, to discover patients have had symptoms for months and even years before doing anything about it. Forms of the disease most common, that of the skin, breast, uterus, stomach, mouth and bowel, are with the exception of the stomach, those which can be most effectively treated.

THE OLD ATTIC

For many people these days there can be no such thing as an attic because of low roofs and the effort to use every square inch of space in modern construction and even in older houses. Modern architecture invades those once spacious empty parts of some homes and makes of them places which play a part in the complete use of the entire house.

How many people look often in their attics? And yet what large amounts of discarded articles can be found in these extended under-the-roof parts of dwellings erected in another age.

A writer in the Sudbury Star remarks that "husbands may well mourn the passing of attics as modern architecture tends towards low roofs. Wives who have lived in attic-equipped houses and suffered the agonies of housecleaning, shed not a tear. The flashing gear, discarded golf equipment, broken furniture and old trunks find their way into the basement of the modern house.

"Yet attics have had their place in the sun, whether they were reached by narrow stairs or a ladder through a small opening in the ceiling. Many adults have childish recollections of boring holes in the floor, impromptu 'treasure hunts' and a hide away from parental wrath."

There was a much later time when the recreation room came into being.

Attics have some good points to their credit. Many an article of some account has been discovered. In literature there are stories of attics of old which held treasures of great interest for the young and later generations. There the imagination of the young poet and novelist was developed as he or she was able to use the element of the curiosity and mystery which an attic used to create in their minds. A whole romance could be built up out of an attic and what it has meant to the developing mind of children. Unfortunately even of old too many attics were preserves closed to the young by doors and locks or by reason of the difficulty of getting into that top floor of the house.

Attics have indeed preserved articles of older generations. Time has passed them by and has not replaced them for the basement can never substitute for the roomy attic where imagination reigned, fed by the unknown antique possessions there piled and hidden under dust.

MIRACLE WORKER

For years we had to tell him that he hadn't brushed his hair.
Now he looks into the mirror
with a penetrating stare.
That guy razzle-he is wearing was a birthday gift to me.
It's a miracle that's happened,
There's a girl he's going to see.

Time was we had to tell him
that's a boy should wear his best—
Not a sweat shirt for a party, and his trousers should be pressed.

Now he's looking over creases at the elbow and the knee,
And there is no doubt about it, there's a girl he's going to see.

I chuckle as I watch him getting ready for his date.
But I'm sorry to behold him that his mother couldn't wait.

For I know this very minute she would chuckle if she knew
That a girl has just accomplished what we both could never do.

FOOD FOR STRIKERS' FAMILIES

"Soup kitchens," the familiar signs of a prolonged strike, have already appeared in the steel-making areas of the U.S. Here, in Pittsburgh, Mrs. J. Rogers and her three children, whose breadwinner is rendered unemployed by the strike, stop at the union cafe for milk and cake. — Central Press Canadian.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BY-GONE YEARS

LOOKING BACKWARDS

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 29th., 1929

The two upper floors in the John Lewis Company block on Front Street have been made into living apartments by the owner Mr. M. R. Doyle. The apartments are modern and very comfortable.

The Kiwanis Club in this city is undertaking to sponsor a boys band. It will be under the direction of Kiwanian Ross Hunter.

Members of St. Thomas' A.Y.P.A. and their friends, numbering close to one hundred, enjoyed a Hallowe'en party in St. Thomas' Parish House last evening. The auditorium was beautifully decorated. The orchestra composed of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hunter, who played the violin and piano respectively, "Nobby" Jones, the trumpet, Ted Mead, clarinet, Willis and Allan Shire the traps, furnished excellent music for dancing. A vote of thanks was moved by Tom Lazier to all who had made the evening so enjoyable.

30 YEARS AGO

Oct. 29th., 1919.

The Royal Bank of Canada will open an office here on Nov. 1st., under the management of Mr. W. A. Parker.

Mr. E. J. Finch of this city has opened a branch of his electrical contracting business in Tweed under the management of Mr. Arthur Lloyd.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rogers, Queen Street, have returned home from Welland.

Mrs. Charles Hess has left to spend some time in Toronto and visit New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mills of Brockville are visiting friends here.

The Rev. Canon Bedford-Jones of Brockville addressed large congregations in the city yesterday; in the morning he was at St. Thomas' Church and in the evening at Christ Church.

40 YEARS AGO

Oct. 29th., 1909.

A pleasant evening was passed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delong, Coleman Street, when a number of young men gathered to bid farewell to Mr. Percy Gifford, late of the local Y.M.C.A., who will leave shortly to assume the position of Physical director at the Trenton Y.M.C.A. Mr. Gifford was popular with the boys at the Y.M.C.A. here and many friends regret his departure from the city. During the evening refreshments were served and present appreciated very much the kind hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Delong and their son Ora.

Jefferson Academy Clarifies Acceptance of Vast Fund

Natchez, Miss., Oct. 28. —(AP) —Three trustees of Jefferson Military College issued a statement Thursday night in an effort to clarify the school's acceptance of an endowment valued potentially at $30,000,000.

"Considerable confusion and misunderstanding" had arisen, said the trustees, regarding the endowment offered by 84-year-old George Armistead Trotter, Texas and Mississippi oil man-capitalist.

The 660-word statement was signed by S. N. Murphy, chairman of the board of trustees, Gerard Brandon and Joseph Brown. They said they were speaking for the 13-man board.

Two Changes

The gift was conditioned upon the acceptance of two changes at the 147-year-old prep school at nearby Washington, Miss. One would be a chartered change providing that the school should be primarily for white Christians. No African or Asiatic or person of African or Asiatic descent would be admitted as a student or in the faculty.

On this point the statement said:

"The college has even been maintained and operated exclusively for students of the white race. The trustees of Jefferson College know that the admission of members of the colored races to the college would be inimical to the interests of the students, the college and to the people of both races.

"The college will continue to be maintained and operated exclusively for members of the white race. Any other policy would be unthinkable."

Brandon said that Armstrong had only proposed the teaching of white supremacy or the exclusion of non-Christians. The co-executor-administrator of the endowment made Monday night by Alfred Leo Duncan, general manager of the school and a son of the donor, said the school would "teach the superiority of the Anglo-Saxon and Latin American races."

Racial Superiority Never Taught

On this point the statement said:

"The superiority of one race over another has never been taught in Jefferson College. No such course of study is anticipated. No such course of study should ever be found necessary or desirable.

"The college is non-denominational and no person shall be denied admission because of not being a Christian. The college has heretofore been conducted primarily for white Christians and this policy will be continued."

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

A FAVORITE WORD

I like this word of ours—Unity. It is so full of meaning. It has a joyous cast. It is the key to a multitude of things, especially success in the larger sense, and to what we all so much search for—happiness.

The Creator meant that there should be unity throughout the universe. This universe, which would be turned into a universal state, lorded over by selected few. He created scores of nationalities, with their own characteristics and dreams, and way of living, and He meant that all should be together in their separate units, contributing their share to the sum total of contentment and happiness throughout the world.

There was a reason for creating so many races and colors of human beings and placing them in localities where they could do best thrive. But as time went on many of these people got restless and venturesome, and new lands were discovered and developed. That's where the trouble started in so many instances. Various nationalities took these newly discovered places as their own. Then nations began to fight among themselves. History is spotted with wars and nations have been long buried from them we have not learned their futility—only their horror.

If only nations would live in unity—each happily minding its own business, with no desire to rule the world—how much better it would be! Each nation upon this earth has something valuable that it can contribute to the nations for what it needs or can use. If we but had unity of thought and purpose all over this earth, all nations would be prosperous and happy. So would the individuals.

"Unity of the same mind with another," once wrote Stevenson "is to see all things in the same perspective." We don't have to think the same things as others do, but to see the same purpose. Therein is to be discovered the germ of tolerance and the road to perfect understanding, which results in unity of mind whenever and wherever applied.

HURRICANES AND TERMITES

A hurricane can quickly destroy a house; and so can termites. Little by little these insidious insects can eat the substance out of a dwelling until at last the beams become as ashes and the house falls in ruins. But people are destroyed by hurricane of events only about as often as houses are destroyed by the kind hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Delong and their son Ora.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

There is a fairly large body of opinion holding the view that the Canada goose and not the beaver should be Canada's national symbol. The beaver has many admirable traits—he is industrious, ingenious, patient and only death can put an end to his construction activities. But he is a homely, buck-toothed character, to say the least. Not so a dacon with a bush-saw.

The Canada goose has all the qualities of gallantry. He is purely and almost wholly Canadian. His habitat is here; and when he goes south, he goes only as far as he has to. Vast numbers of them winter in Nova Scotia and at other points barely over the border. Before the fog goes out, in February, even, they are homing again.

They are bold, brave, cunning, shrewd. They have an extraordinary community spirit. They are devoted parents. Goose one mate: and if it dies they mate no more. He will fight like fury to protect his mate and her nest. They are beautiful. They are mighty. They have a warm, wing-spread of 5 to 6½ feet.

They migrate from the Atlantic to the Pacific and to the Arctic circle.

And any night now, you may hear them passing over. The call they make is described as honking; but to my ear, it is barking. And they sound like a pack of heavily hounds streaming across the sky. Sometimes you are fortunate enough to see them in daylight. Then you hear them long before you see them. Then, with your eyes view high and far, they are often in a V formation; but sometimes in a long, single oblique line, and occasionally in Indian file.

As their slow, powerful wingbeat is not in unison, the line seems to undulate and wave with an eerie, mystical motion in the sky with the wild, weird music that starts and fades, rises and falls as they call past.

The speed they go at effortless, full of conversation, is 45 miles an hour, geared by propellors from the ground; and 90 miles an hour when danger threatens.

TONSIL SURGERY FIFTY PER CENT UNWARRANTED

In a belated attempt to revive the tonsillectomy business a Canadian "clinic" managed to get some fine newspaper publicity free of charge, of course, by persuading a father and mother to pose for a picture which showed them conducting their seven children to the "clinic"—leading them to the slaughter, I was tempted to say—for removal of their tonsils.

Not long afterward a similar advertising stunt was pulled off by another "clinic" or perhaps an ethical quack who practices under his own name. A newspaper picture showing a uniformed nurse coach posing receives the wishful skill of a trained nurse holding straws for four brothers to draw to decide which should go to the operating room first, for the old Spanish treatment.

Far be it from me to decide the possibility of almost any occurrence these days—but in the wonderful mouse's nest in the cat's ear—but, by George, I can't believe that all of the children in those two families really needed removal of tonsils.

These ads are reminiscent of the hey day of wholesale tonsillectomy—when the enthusiastic social workers, nurses and other workers, had their imaginations unbounded the children up, loaded them on a bus and herded them into the clinic where the white coated butchers stood ready to put the children through it without asking the reason why.

As a piker general practitioner attending only a small settlement one day I asked the operator why one youngster had to have his tonsils removed—they were neither enlarged nor infected. "Season sez," said the operator. "He came in with the rest of them on the bus from ——— and I suppose some one wanted his tonsils out." Maybe the boy came along for the ride, since it was free. Of course that was an exceptional instance but it shows well enough how slightly and overready operators regard the major operation, tonsillectomy.

Canadian Importers Can Help Unite Western World--Abbott

Toronto, Oct. 28 — (CP) — Canada's duty to help unite the Western World, Finance Minister Abbott said today.

It was in "Canada's interest" to buy more from Europe to earn sterling area and less from the United States, he said in Toronto as prepared for delivery before the Canadian Importers and Traders Association.

But it was "easier to prepare blueprints than to put it into effect and easier to plan than to act." There were "obvious limits to what the government can do."

Translate Policies Into Action

In a democracy, governments can lead the way, but "it rests with the people to translate policies into action," Mr. Abbott said.

It would be up to the importers — "in their day-to-day decisions" — to help determine whether Canada could increase its common purpose set out at the recent tripartite talks in Washington.

"Your efforts will contribute in no small degree not only to the economic welfare of Canada but also to the unity and political security of the free world."

While Canada had to step up purchases from the United Kingdom and Europe, Mr. Abbott said it could not be expected to do so much at the United States.

Canada's trading surplus this year is estimated at only "a modest amount," Mr. Abbott said.

"The Canadian position differs greatly from that of the U.S. where there is a very large current account surplus running into billions.

"The U. S. is in a position to buy more from us than our sterling amounts from all sources and at the same time to make heavy investments."

Canada could not do this in the same proportion, he said, as Canada's interests to buy more from Europe and the sterling areas to help these areas solve their economic troubles and to help the United Kingdom.

Before the last war, said Mr. Abbott, Canada sent nearly 40 per cent of her imports from the U.K. This compares with the current figure of 15 per cent.

One-Half of Pre-War Ratio

"The proportion of our imports which cover the Marshall Plan countries of Europe is only one-half of the pre-war level. If we could at least restore the pre-war proportion of the total cost of our imports we would have gone a considerable distance in achieving a better structure in our trade."

He grips with an economic crisis, the U.K. already had taken steps to increase exports to the dollar area and to devalue sharply the pound by 30½ per cent.

It was up to Canadian importers to help the British earn dollars so that they could buy more from Canada.

B.C.I. Graduates Told to Keep Feet on Ground at Annual Commencement Exercises

H. H. Kerr, Director of Technical Institutes for Ontario, guest speaker at the annual commencement exercises at the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, which shared in the Collegiate Auditorium last night, stated that nearly 85 per cent of those who lost their jobs did so because of social maladjustment while only 15 per cent were because of lack of knowledge.

Continuing, Mr. Kerr said that he would enlarge on a few of the unwritten laws which he hoped would help the graduation class as they started on the more mature pathways of life.

"Keep your feet on the ground and look at things from a realistic point of view," he stated. He explained that this meant that one shouldn't expect too much when starting. To illustrate he told the story of a high school student who expected to make $150 a week the first year out of school with high increases the second and third year. He pointed out that students should look at life from a more realistic view-point.

"However trivial your first assignment is, give it your best," he declared. He also cited that the future of a position often hinges on that first assignment.

De Job Quickly

As the third law he said "When assigned a job do it quickly." He pointed out that procrastination was the downfall of many young employees.

"Be careful of the accuracy of your statements," he warned as his fourth law while "You're working for the boss" was the fifth.

"Next," he said that the ability to get along with all kinds of people was of the greatest importance. He pointed out that the graduates certainly had the opportunity to learn this by mixing along with all types of people in attending a school with over a thousand students.

He declared that personal integrity whether also of the utmost importance.

"Finally," he stated, "Do your duty in all things."

Appreciation Expressed

Mr. Kerr was introduced by Mr. W. J. Musgrove while the appreciation was expressed by Mr. Norman Smith.

The quartet consisting of John Shindell, Sylvia Motely, James McKay and Ronald Elmy, offered some appreciable diversion midway in the program. Their songs, "Come to the Fair," "How Gently Sweet Afton" and "Dickory Dickory Dock", were very well done and they received a great ovation from the large audience.

Following the quartet, Davey Brandwell displayed his talent on the cornet with two lovely pieces which earned him a well deserved round of applause. He played "Variations from Silver Threads Among the Gold" and "A Polka" by Cook.

Janette Ashbury, who collected a large share of the prizes and who is now attending Queen's University, gave the valedictory address. She pointed out that while her task was an honored one, it also was a sad one. She said that the years at B. C. I. would not soon be forgotten by the graduates and that many would look back and describe them as "the best days of my life".

Pays Tribute to Staff

In her address she paid tribute to the staff for making high school days so happy while at the same time preparing them through example as well as teaching for years that life ahead.

She pointed out that high school was merely a stepping stone on the road of life and, since, "at B. C. I. we were ensured of a sound foundation on that stone, the remaining milestones of life will present no great problem to us."

In closing Miss Ashbury quoted the following lines:

"Look to this day
For yesterday is but a dream
And tomorrow is only a vision
But today well lived
Makes every yesterday a dream of happiness
And every tomorrow a vision of hope.
Look well therefore to this day."

Scattered Over Lawns

Both fire pumpers owned by the department and also the aerial ladder were pressed into service in bringing the flames under control.

Household effects carried out by tenants and volunteers were scattered over nearby lawns, while hundreds of residents from a various point across the street watched firemen fight the fire. Local police assisted in controlling the crowd and directing traffic.

With several streams of water pouring into the fire, it appeared as though firemen would control the flames before extensive damage was done to the dwelling but fire fighters were unable to get at the flames in the attic. It was then but a matter of minutes when the roof caved in.

Flames Leap High

With the collapse of the roof flames leaped high into the air but these were quickly quenched by water from several lines of hose. The water tower on the aerial ladder was used effectively at the fire to get at the flames from above.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance was out of the city at the time of the fire attending a fire fighters' officers' training course at Toronto. In his absence the fire fighting was directed by Captain Frank Orr, senior captain with the department.

Arranging Suitable Date

At the House opening, Prime Minister St. Laurent said the date for a Dominion - Provincial Constitutional Conference will not be fixed by the Federal government alone. Correspondence now is being exchanged with the provinces on the question of a suitable date. Some sources close to the government believe the conference will start in early January.

Members decided to devote future Wednesdays to government business instead of private members' resolutions. Members will be focused on division — without a formal vote — a motion by Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre) that would have given members one more Wednesday and allowed continuation of a debate on a resolution calling for federal aid to education.

Debate Over Bill

The first hour of the night sitting was devoted to a debate on a bill that would incorporate the Alberta Natural Gas Company. Ralph Maybank, Parliamentary assistant to Health Minister Martin, said the measure was similar to bills passed at previous sessions and incorporating five other companies wanting to construct pipe lines from Alberta.

Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East) said the line should run through Canadian territory but J. L. MacDougall (L-Vancouver-Burrard) said it is would be cheaper to transport gas to Vancouver in lines built partly through the U.S.

The bill now goes to the bottom of the list of private members' legislation.

In the fisheries debate, Donald Smith (L—Queens-Shelburne) suggested that the department exercise greater care in the selection of its fish inspectors. The industry was prepared to submit to inspection providing there was no delay that would cause a deterioration of quality and defeat the purpose of the legislation under study.

James Sinclair (L—Coast-Capilano) said Canadian could consume the entire Atlantic and Pacific coast catches if they ate nearly as much fish as some European countries.

Want Insurance Scheme

C. F. Higgins (PC-St. John's East) suggested the government establish for fishermen an insurance scheme similar to the present farm assistance act for farmers.

In the earlier discussion on life-saving services, Mr. Chevrier said one of the main objects was to set up central authority to direct life-saving services. He added:

"Consideration is being given to the further co-ordination of their services, perhaps by the Department of National Defence, perhaps by the Department of Transport.

"I do not know which of the two departments is better qualified. But in view of the seriousness of the problem a committee has been established in the government. This committee is composed of members of departments which are affected, such as mines and Resources, fisheries, RCMP, transport and the three services of national defence."

The committee would consider the maximum and minimum solutions to the problem along with a "middle position which would lay the stress on the co-ordination of the services under one head.

Mr. Chevrier said Canada already is looking after most of her ships which become casualties on either coast.

Under Defence Department

Mr. Higgins said it was humiliating to Canadians to have to rely on the United States Coast Guard for life-saving services along the coasts. He referred to a Coast Guard cutter going to the assistance of the liner Parthia after a plea was sent for aid for a passenger suffering from infantile paralysis.

Mr. Chevrier said the cutter formed part of the North Atlantic patrol to which Canada contributed under international agreement.

J. L. Gibson (Ind. — Comox-Alberni) said the Coast Guard should be established under the defence department. It would provide a good opportunity for training seamen under actual conditions.

Frank Lennard (PC — Wentworth) said that on the Great Lakes harbor patrol services could be expanded as the nucleus of a comprehensive life - saving service. It would involve no great expense.

Scout and Guide Activities

Come and join the Brownies do" has been taken very seriously this year in Belleville, for ever since enrolment day, Sept. 20th., the 1st. Belleville, (and so with the other packs) have been swamped with new eager little Tweenies, all bursting to become Brownies. Some, not having attained the age for entry have gone sadly away, to wait the necessary long or short months, and we know that they will be back. At the last meeting our Fairy Ring was so enormous, 35 to the exact, with two absentees, that Tawny Owl and I feel we just cannot take any more prospective Brownies until next year.

Although some few days distant from Hallowe'en, our meeting on Tuesday Oct. 25th., most certainly had the "Hallowe'en Touch". Several Brownies sent to us, and recited little poems, and we played amongst other games "Biling the Apple on the Stick". This afforded lots of fun, and produced two eminently clever little mouths at getting their prizes. The Brownies then sat in their Fairy Ring, thoroughly enjoying their well-earned apples, while Brown Owl told a Bret Rabbit story. All too soon the evening was over, and with the singing of "Tap" the meeting closed.

2nd Belleville Brownie Pack

Plans are well underway for the 2nd Belleville Brownie pack to open 1949-50, under the leadership of Brown Owl, Mrs. M. Samuels and Tawny Owl Mrs. J. Coles, with 18 Brownies and 11 Tweenies to date. There are 3 Brownies working for the Golden Bar, 2 Brownies for the Golden Hand, with Brownies working on Proficiency Badges. There are several 7 year old girls who showed keen interest in joining Brownies—who will be seeing them after the first of the year. Brown Owl and Tawny Owl have planned a wonderful Hallowe'en surprise for next meeting and are looking forward to seeing all the Brownies there.

3rd Belleville Brownie Pack

The 3rd Belleville Brownies meet each Monday at the Kingsway Centre, under the leadership of Brown Owl Mrs. M. Ryan and Acting Tawny Owl Mrs. Wm. Wilson. Recently four girls have registered in this pack, several of these are Tweenies, eleven Brownies will be working for their Golden Hand and six Brownies will earn proficiency badges. On October 3rd the Brownies held a program and party welcoming the Tweenies into the Pack. At a presentation ceremony on Oct. 17th, the following Brownies received Golden Bars—Barbara Bird, Mary Jo Farnsworth, Marlene Smith, Deanna Smith, Irene Samuels, Patricia Moreau, Suzanne Embury, Yvonne Carr, Elaine Powell, Wynne Gibson and Phyllis Keegan. The Brownies are looking forward to a very happy and successful year.

Co. 2 Girl Guides

Company 2 Girl Guides are starting the new season with a new meeting place, the St. John Ambulance rooms, 203½ Front Street, every Thursday at 6.45 p.m. Plans have been made for a wiener roast next Thursday Nov. 3rd, and all Co. 2 Guides are reminded to come and enjoy the fun. There will be a home-cooking sale on the market in the near future so watch for the date. There is ready, on Saturday morning Oct. 15th, two Guides who have their second class, Judy Wilcox and Jessie Seames, each took two other Guides on a hike. This is one of the things that must be done in order to earn the first class badge. The Guides arrived at Belle's Creek about 10.30, and started to gather wood for a fire over which to cook dinner for the guests. Soon the smell of frying bacon and eggs, arose; which with spaghetti, bread and butter, milk, bananas and roasted apples completed the meal. The meeting was over all waste paper and other garbage was burnt and the fire very carefully put out—this being another way of being a good Guide. Nature then came to the fore and during a walk in the woods many interesting things such as a snake, different kind of insects and animals, wild flowers and trees. The guests

At 4.30 the Guides started for home. The guests thanked their hostesses for a very pleasant day.

Co. 7 Girl Guides

Company 7 is now well under way for what should be a very successful year. The meetings are held this year in the Armouries, on Monday at 7.30 p.m. There is a registration of 40 enthusiastic Guides 2 Company leaders,+2 lieutenants and the captain. On October 24th the company was honored by a visit from the Commissioner, Mrs. J. Watson, who took the inspection. During the inspection Mrs. Watson complimented the company on the way the ceremonies were carried out and gave the Guides, for the benefit of all new recruits, a short talk on the uniform. Monday, October 31st. the lecture room at the Armouries will be haunted by ghosts, ghouls and goblins when Company 7 holds the annual Hallowe'en party—come on Guides, on with your costumes and join the fun.

WEST HUNTINGDON

Stapley Clan Gathers To Honor Mrs. Leslie Dodds, Mrs. K. Thomas

The evening passed with getting acquainted, visiting and a short program of songs, music, and a reading. Refreshments were served at the close.

Mrs. Dodds and Mrs. Thomas left for their home on Friday.

Too Much Sectionalism in Canada Women's Canadian Club Told

Last evening in the assembly room of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Mr. Willard Ireland, noted author, archivist, and editor of the British Columbia Quarterly, to the capacity audience of the Women's Canadian Club, the reasons leading to the formation of British Columbia, its struggle for self government, and the parallelism between it and the eastern provinces.

"There is a common background to all of Canada's history" said Mr. Ireland, "but the trouble is, Canadians do not have a national consciousness; they become rooted in one spot, forgetting that part is but a section of the whole. If moved from their particular place of sojourn, and transplanted 500 or 1,000 miles away, they forget the locality mer as if they were in a distant land, it is the small loyalties that keep the provinces negative, er...in former times loyalty meant something to them; they were willing to surrender all for ser loyalty for the greater. Now there appears to be a tendency on the part of Canadians as such a small majority vote.

War Established Friendships

The event was produced an effect that should not be permitted to pass away, that of the friendships that were established, mixing up the Canadian people, and causing them to know more about Canada as a whole. This fact must be capitalized on, that of the upsurgence of the people to other parts, the bonds of friendship, and this will help Canada together. Distance does not mean anything now; means of travel has improved, and much territory will be covered in short time. Once it took four and one-half months to walk from the Red River district to British Columbia, now it can be accomplished in a little more two hours. Hence no reason not to know our fellow citizens in different parts of the province.

There are two civilized countries in the world, said the speaker Ireland, that are without a nadian and Siam. Canadians are very exclusive, forgetting that it is the intangible things that bind Canada together. Sectionalism is a false background; the Maritimes, at the eastern section of the province, Quebec in the central, and Ontario are all isolated the one from the other, as British Columbia is by the mountains, but this difference or isolation is only geographically, or should be. The highest common factor which binds the whole of Canada together is the common friendship underlying the whole.

Curiosity and Discovery

Speaking of the discovery of the new world, the speaker pointed out that it was curiosity which was the underlying factor; not the desire to open up a new country. Columbus wanted a shorter route to the Indies; Henry Hudson tried the same thing, curiosity. The British came through the North by way of James and Hudson Bay, Canada's funnel. The French followed the Great Lakes to the interior, so the French drive was Canadian. The Hudson Bay Company were interested in furs, not colonization. To most of the Canadian people what the land had to offer in the shape of coal fish; spars for their ships and the only water for the Pacific took the furs of the sea otter from the Orient to Canton for fabulous prices. On the coast it was the same. In 1878 Canada had a network of spars.

There have been transitions in Canadian thought. Over 80 years ago the fear of the United States with the consequent fear that they wielded the four sections of British Columbia together, as it did in the eastern provinces. The Trans-continental railroads were established, and the British Columbia colonies were established all along the border, and the four provinces were parts, below the 49th parallel there were Canada together. Distance passes through the mountains were later at the South, and because of this the people swept through to the north.

Gold Rush Helped

The Gold Rush of 1852 saw a great influx of Americans into the lands west of the Rockies. In the Spring of 1858 there were 30,000 people in the area of the Fraser, but by the fall there were 10,000. Governor Seid down the British law and order to the wild and woolly westerners who had come to the country. Instead the four places which made up British Columbia were welded into one, and as a direct result of the fear of the encroaching Americans. The largest of the four was Barkerville, larger in those days than Chicago or Toronto, but now only a ghost hamlet, a reminder of those far-off days.

In 1866 there was the Civil War in the States between the North and the South, with England favoring the South, and fear again caused the confederation of Eastern provinces, just as it had caused the confederation of British Columbia. In 25 years the history of British Columbia was compacted from colony to confederation, which took one hundred years in the eastern section. All parts of Canada are now on a common foundation.

Bogey of Communism

Speaking of the bogey of communism, Mr. Ireland suggested "we should not give communism up to our people, to show what it is; against it we have our Canadian way of life, and the comparison should be made clear and distinct. There must be some guiding factor which made Canada what it is, surely we can look to the future as well as to the past, with the same confidence. If we hold up what has been done, with what can be done, there should be no worry. If we have the Rocky Mountains in our backbones; the vision of the prairies in our hearts and less of the watery of the Great Lakes in our heads, we will do it" were the challenging words which demanded united attention.

Mrs. William Doyle, president of the Woman's Canadian Club, presided, introducing the speaker also extended to Mr. Ireland, on behalf of the club, sincere appreciation of the interesting and intropsective address.

Highlights of this year's Christmas Cards

Do You Know:

That: The majority of Christmas cards this year, in all price ranges, really look like Christmas cards! They are bright, friendly, radiant, have a "come hither" personality. They pay honest tribute to the cherished traditions of Christmas. There is, praise be, a minimum of "ultra" cards that give the impression of straining after some "modern" or too-too-original or bizarre effect that doesn't have much to do with the idea of Christmas or with the spirit of a Christmas message. And very heart-satisfying and spirit-satisfying is this welcome return to the inspiring traditions of Christmas, to the endearing symbols of Christmas, to the warm friendliness of the greetings of this high-hearted season.

That: This year religious Christmas cards are first in demand! Never has there been such a wide variety of impressive religious cards — this year when our hearts and spirits need so much the religious comfort and inspiration. There are nearly 200,000,000 Christmas cards with designs that reproduce the star-lit splendor of The Nativity, the gentle Madonna, the tender Child, adoring angels, a youthful shepherd watching his flock by night, the Three Wise Men with their earnest, searching faces. And there are 100,000,000 cards with other religious symbols—church steeples, church bells, worshippers entering a church for the Christmas service, carollers, stained glass windows of a church. You will find many reproductions of great paintings of famous Madonnas. Many of the religious cards carry Biblical quotations, and are printed manuscript-style with elaborately illustrated initial letters. And on many of these cards the great and much-needed message: "Glory to God in the Highest. And on Earth, Peace, Good-Will toward men."

That: The 1949 cards honor the symbols of Christmas by . . . charming and straightforward simplicity of design and by a rich use of color—bright Christmas reds and greens as well as delicate pastel shades? Again this year there is the excellent trend toward using one symbol alone in all its glory. One wonderful candle-lit Christmas wreath. One beautiful Christmas tree, brilliantly lighted, in red or blue or white. One vivid Christmas bell, ringing the great message: A Christmas angel, all white-and-gold. One spray of holly, the berries bright, bright red . . . or one flaming poinsettia . . . or a branch of sentimental mistletoe. And such dramatic designs made with Christmas tree ornaments in . . . one glistening ornament in a myriad of designs, or sometimes a group of tree-ornaments forming the word Christmas or "Noel" . . . and designs with the sparkling Christmas candy canes, so gay, so merry.

That: Santa Claus, good old Santa Claus, kindly, jolly, greets us delightfully and delightfully from many, many of the cards this year? He's dramatized, pictured sketched in all possible engaging and alluring ways Bless his heart, he's the glamor boy of 1949!

That: If you are a music lover, you can choose lovely, lively cards that reflect your interest in melody? Beautifully traditional cards with a group of carollers or choristers. Cards showing family groups singing their welcome to Christmas. On some cards musical motifs are patterned in the designs . . . on others a carol-singing Santa. Forever-and, forever-new is that 'glorious song' of Christmas!

Fur-Lined Overcoat

Warm sports topper

By VERA WINSTON

CLOTH OUTSIDE, fur inside, or a reversal of the plot—that's the interesting story of this reversible coat that should have a useful and busy season. Brown dyed rabbit fur makes the most of the collar and cuffs and is used for the lining. Pockets are worked into the decorative seaming of this well detailed topper.

Handsome Fabric Gloves

By ALICE ALDEN

EVERY DAY in every way, they are getting better and better —those handsome fabric gloves that our American manufacturers do so superbly. Dawnelle combines the pretty and the practical in the charming glove which comes in all sorts of attractive colors. This one is a casual shortie done with important detail such as the hand tucked pattern that lends interest to the back, and the scrolly scalloped cuff. It teams up nicely with a tucked pouch bag fashioned from the same double-woven cotton as the gloves.

Velvet and Wool Combine

By PRUNELLA WOOD

A FROCK that will do double duty for both daytime and after dark activities is a very important item in the winter wardrobe.

There are so many times when it is either impossible or impractical to rush home for a change of clothes and when a dress of this type is a real joy.

Velvet and wool are used in reverse on the bodice and skirt of a truly distinguished black model. It has a natural shoulder line and three-quarter velvet cuffed sleeves.

Provide Comfort For Young Woman Ill With Cancer

Toronto, Oct. 27 (CP)—Three veterans' organizations this week interceded successfully with the government to provide comfort for a young woman doomed to a lingering death from cancer.

The girl served three years in the women's division of the R.C.A.F., but because her service was in Canada she was ineligible for treatment at a veterans' hospital.

She contracted cancer after the war, After treatment at a hospital in an Ontario city, veterans' family finances were inadequate for luxurious accommodation — the war only a home for incurables.

Then the Canadian Corps petitioned the Department of Veterans' Affairs Minister Gregg dealt with the case personally. The Air Force Benevolent Fund and the Ontario Canteen Fund offered to pay $9.75 a day for her comfort, and she now is in Sunnybrook Hospital.)

Fashion Flashes

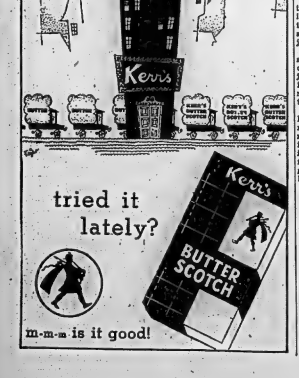
GAINING FAST in popularity is Alaska sealskin. A beauty, in black or brown, is a greatcoat with a triple set of double buttons. Collar is deep-set, pocket flaps curve, and a three-quarter belt in back is the sides puffs for fur out in a soft, bloused effect, with the front fitted.

THERE'S COLOR a-plenty in the new hats, with much bide, brilliant orange and rust and coral shades. Vibrant coral red velvet is used for a small rolled brim shape, the brim bordered with sweeping vulture feathers in a slightly deeper red.

PLENTY OF WEAR for a furtrimmed tailored suit, especially for country girls and suburbanites. Black and blue mixture tweed is used for a suit with a slim skirt and swinging box jacket. This has a little club collar of black Persian lamb and is closed with big fur buttons.

INTRICATE designs feature many of the new after-dark gala dresses. Black silk ottoman is used for an ankle-length dress. The fabric creases the skirt-front and wings into a flaring triangular tunic over the tubular skirt. The collar rises in folds on either side of the plunging neckline.

THERE'S ALWAYS A DEMAND for the overblouse, and this season there are some very pretty ones. Nylon lace is used for a new model with a ruffled peplum that curves to the back. High-closing collar is also ruffled over abyral tail button fastening. Sleeves are long and slim.



JUST A TOUCH of leopard fur accessories adds an expensive and different look to simple wool dresses and untrimmed coats and suits. One house shows a pillbox tam of leopard paired up with a belt or a handbag of the fur, making for a most attractive ensemble.

Journalism Career Appeals to Girls

London, (Reuters) —Most of the 1,000 British girls who daily inquired at a schoolgirls' exhibition here about careers were attracted by "outdoor" work and journalism.

Mrs. Margaret Fuge, who spends her time helping to solve career problems, said: "After journalism, a new interest is being shown in the less usual medical work such as occupational therapy."

But teachers were blamed for lack of imagination shown by many of the girls. Experts say too many schools still regard nursing, the civil service and teaching as the only careers suitable for young women. Not one of the girls at the exhibition wanted to be a civil servant.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Making money at home

Two young housewives tied down with children have written to ask if I know of any work that can be done at home which would bring them in a little extra money.

Since this is something in which many other women are interested, I would like to talk a little about a new book called "How to Make Money at Home".

Polly Webster, who wrote it, is the wife of a college professor and the mother of two children, and besides being a busy homemaker she has found time at various periods of her life to run several successful part-time businesses. The book lists nearly 100 ideas for small business ventures that she personally knows have been successfully undertaken by individuals working at home.

In the front of the book is a list of occupations with group ideas according to special skills and abilities so that anyone can quickly pick out the field in which she feels her own particular skill might have some bearing on her. These questions are:

Are you a specialty handicappeft? Do you like to work with people? Are you clever with your hands? Are you a good cook? Do you like animals? Can you use a typewriter? Do you live in the city? Do you live in the country? Do you like to sell? Are you bedridden? Are you elderly? Are you a teen ager? Do you wish to write?

After each question the author tells where in the book ideas can be found which cover the particular set of circumstances suggested by the question.

As an example of what some homemakers have actually done, Mrs. Webster tells of a woman in Milwaukee who charges $10 a year for eight one-pound boxes of candy which she sends at various times throughout the year to children. On special occasions such as holidays, she suits the package to the day, sending a green box full of candy for St. Patrick's day, a pumpkin-shaped box for Thanksgiving, etc.

A woman on Long Island supported herself and her teen-age daughter for several years by selling gingerbread cookies through women's exchanges and gift and department stores. She used individual cookie cutters of her own designing, which she also sold to people who wished to make cookies at home. Another woman earns money at home by washing sweaters. Still another set herself up in business at a curtain-laundering specialist.

A New York City woman put up box lunches in her own apartment for workers in nearby office buildings. Starting with a capital of $15 she eventually made from $60 to $70 a week.

In a small terrorized village, a victim of infantile paralysis, who retained the use of her fingers, supports herself entirely by making miniature wood carvings of Alice in Wonderland characters. And a Massachusetts woman, specializing in her cellar, designs and makes unusual candles which are sold all over the country in exclusive gift shops.

This gives you an idea of some of the things other women have done to earn money in their own homes. There is nothing in the world to prevent any woman with energy and initiative from setting herself up in business in a small way right within her four walls.

Besides giving all these specific suggestions, Mrs. Webster's book explains how to go about such necessary things as packaging a product, publicizing it, selling it and so forth. She has included in formation about where to buy supplies, laws governing the sale of homemade food products and other important information.

Please do not write and ask me to send you a copy of this book, for I have none to give away. If you want a copy, you will have to borrow it at your public library or buy it for yourself at your local book store for three dollars. If your book seller does not have it on hand, ask him to order a copy from the publisher.

Wife Preservers

If you are going to hard-cook eggs, take them out of the refrigerator for a time—say 15 or 20 minutes—before boiling. If you are planning to cook them immediately, put them in cold water first.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

In defense of artifice

Make-up, like the face lift, became respectable years ago. There was time when it wasn't, as your grannie will tell you. A touch of rouge on the alabaster cheek of a woman was supposed to look like sin. Other women lowered their eyes, held back their skirts when they passed her. Were those the good old days? No!

It was a period when many people were just too nasty-nice, it seems to your reporter.

Let's haul out the make-up question and give it a good shaking, because there are still a lot of long-nosed, cold-eyed critics who feel that cosmetics are a menace. They pipe up now and then and it is worth your life to listen to them creak and harp. We would like to ask: "Is there virtue in a shining nose? Is homeliness more respectable than an attractive appearance? If so, why, for goodness sake?"

We allow that some of the speedy girls overdo facial decorating. Too much of the foundation cosmetic, so the feminine hotrods have a mask-like appearance. Factory blushes a bit too pronounced and not blended with delicacy. Lipstick too bright. Lipstick too bright and too thick. These things just haven't learned how to manipulate their beauty props, that's all.

The old-timers had their beauty frenzies

An overload of synthetic complexion coloring makes the face look brittle and hard, is a definite mistake. But, anyhow, one looks alive, which can't be said of the drab femme whose lips are colorless, skin gray, looking as if it had never had the nice attentions to which any complexion is entitled. Properly applied, and with restraint, powder and a bit of "sallow-limiting" pigment gives the face the kind of groomingit needs.

Those critics who lift their hands in horror because of our modern beautifying methods would do well to fall into line. A little artifice wouldn't do them any harm. It would make them feel that they belong in the modern spectacle. This applies especially to some fireside sitters, living solely in the past, disliking everything that seems to have to do with the present.

Consider eyebrows, patterned according to the old school of thought! Women applied hair tonic to them to make them grow thicker. Must have looked like Captain Kidd, seeing them. Now ours are —neatly weeded along the borders, have delicacy of design and are arched according to grace and becomingness. It is silly to fancy that one cannot, now and then, improve upon nature.

The old timers had their beauty frenzies, among them corsets like bird cages, bobble skirts, bowed collars, pounds of false hair upon their noble brows, face bleaching treatments that put them in retirement for weeks. They should talk!

Swap Police Suits For Wedding Gowns

London (CP)—Two of London's policewomen are to be brides soon.

They are Detective Sergeant Christine MacArthur, 36-year-old chief of a division of women detectives in northwest London, and dark-haired 26-year-old Margaret Cottle, a constable in East London.

Sgt. MacArthur was commended by Scotland Yard for her part in the search leading to conviction of Donald George Thomas after a policeman had been shot down on his beat in February, 1948.

She leaves for Tanganyika this fall to marry 40-year-old Norman MacIlattie, a fellow Highlander, who has been a forester in East Africa for the last 10 years. His job is a roving one and his bride will travel with him.

Policewoman Cottle will marry police constable Geoffrey Dessett in St. Mary's Church, Blackheath. Theirs is a police force romance. They met on duty about a year ago, and became better acquainted at a policemen's ball.

Pageboy Delivers Five Papers To Every Member Each Day

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Oct. 29—(CP) — All alone in the great chamber, a pageboy moved from desk to desk one day this week in the quiet hours before the daily assembly of the Commons.

He was about a perenpial chore, or part of it—the distribution of the daily papers of parliament.

There are five of them that come streaming from the government printing office five days of every week parliament sits of these only one—the so-called Hansard or official report of Commons debates—is well known to the general public.

The others include its Senate counterpart bearing the title "Official Report of Debates," the "Votes and Proceedings" and the "Routine Proceedings and Orders of the Day" of the Commons and the Senate's "Minutes of Proceedings."

These have a large basic importance, particularly for backbench members. A few of them say they often have to wait for the newspapers or Hansard to find out what has been said in the front rows, it's that hard to hear.

Records

The papers are the chart and record of daily proceedings. The ready indication of what has happened and what is coming up.

The two official reports of debates are just that, printed versions of shorthand notes taken the day before as members and senators unfolded their views. Commons' Hansard has a fair circulation around the country at a rate of $5 a year and is closely studied daily by such people as high civil servants who watch for comment on their departments.

Common's "votes and proceedings" contains a bare, busy account of what happened the day before outside the debates themselves—the Bills passed, the divorce bills submitted, questions answered with tabled replies by the cabinet, the movements in procedure—and the question being put on the said motion, it was agreed to."

Looking Ahead

The "Routine Proceedings and Orders of the Day" is a handbook of business ahead, including the motions transferred from "Votes and Proceedings" after one day. It keeps a chart of that business before members until they take care of it one way or another—questions asked the government, notices of bills, motions, the order of precedence in the daily activities.

Only One Point Separates Five of Six Teams Before Six-Game N.H.L. Weekend

By JIM BASTABLE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

If they finish the way they've started, there's going to be an awful jam in the National Hockey League play-offs.

Only one point separates the first five teams — the sixth and last, Chicago Black Hawks, are five points below the top.

The six games carded this week end are highlighted by the two-game clash between Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings, currently tied for first place. It's the first meeting this season for the two clubs, at Montreal Saturday and Detroit Sunday.

Here's the lineup:

Saturday — Detroit at Montreal's; Boston Bruins at Toronto Maple Leafs; Chicago Black Hawks at New York Rangers.

Sunday — Montreal at Detroit; Toronto at New York; Boston at Chicago.

Any one of five teams can take over the lead by Monday.

If the Canadiens and Red Wings split their two games a double victory for either Toronto, New York or Chicago would tied for second place — could produce a new leader.

At Montreal, it'll be a real test for Bill Durnan. The big, athletic-looking goalie has been supplying most of the spark for the Montrealers. He has chalked up two shutouts in six games he's grove it. Only six pucks have got past him.

Wings at Full Strength

Two of those goals came last Thursday when the Leafs blanked the Canadiens 2-0. But the six-foot, 185-pound star toiled for 58 minutes before he gave way.

The Red Wings will be at full strength — including 23-year-old Harry Lumley in the cage. Lumley has also turned in some stellar performances. He has allowed 11 pucks to get past him in five games.

It will also be the first meeting between the Bruins and the Leafs.

The Leafs arrived home yesterday from their 2-0 win over the Canadiens. They were put through a brisk workout and Coach Hap Day says his charges will be at full strength for the game.

Bill Juzda, who sparked the Leafs with a terrific performance Thursday later counted the stitches he has accumulated on his face — all 19 of them. The burly Winnipeg - born defenceman went unscathed last season but the previous year he picked up 35 stitches while playing with the Rangers.

The Black Hawks will be gunning for their first victory in seven starts when they meet the Rangers tonight. In their only previous meeting the Rangers gained a 2-1 victory.

The Rangers announced last night that rookie left winger Bill McDonagh was released to the New Haven Blockers of the American League. The 21-year-old left winger played with Detroit Goodyears in the International Amateur Hockey League last season and was promoted to the Rangers at start of the season because of his good showing in pre-season workouts.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By MICHAEL O'MARA
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Oct. 28. (CP)— Get-rich-quick greyhound owners are destroying their dogs callously when a little care would save their lives, says Keith Robinson, secretary of Our Dumb Friends League.

The owners, who operate at unlicensed or "flapping" tracks outside London, send their dogs to be destroyed just because they have developed some minor ailment—a strained leg muscle, or a sore toe, for instance— which temporarily prevents them from racing, Robinson charges.

Dozens of such dogs are killed every week, he says. Sometimes the owners don't even bother to take the dogs to the league—they just turn them out into the street.

These conditions do not apply to dogs at the licensed tracks, where competent kennel staffs care for them and a dog frequently is housed for months while recovering from sickness or injury.

When Winston Churchill's first racehorse, Colonist II, won his first race in England, the war-time premier was recovering from a chill, and didn't see the race.

A London newspaper telephoned him to get his reaction, and quoted him as saying:

"It's bucked me no end."

Collectors of Churchill quotations shook their heads. Cold, not cute, that just didn't sound like the authentic prose of the great man.

But when the grey colt won his third race in a row, Churchill was there to see it, and made a much more characteristic and credible comment.

As Colonist II romped home by a handy eight lengths, Winnie put down his race-glasses, turned to a friend and quoted from "The Ingoldsby Legendary" "Now speed—now speed, my dapple-grey steed

"Thou ever my dapple wert good at need!"

Numbered shirts for cricketers? It sounds like sacrilege to some authorities but it's a possibility.

On a cloudy day or when a strange team is playing, even the most expert cricket fans sometimes get confused. Numbering was tried in a match at Bolton, Lancashire, and the fans liked it.

BBC commentator Raymond Glendenning is talking up the idea—it would make broadcasting cricket a lot easier—and authorities have discussed it informally.

It takes a long time for cricket customs to change, but numbered shirts in county matches may now be only a few seasons away.

Battling Mercs Defeat Marlies By 5-3 Count

(By The Canadian Press)

The battling Owen Sound Mercurys have hit a winning streak that could carry them to the Ontario Hockey Association senior leadership.

The Mercurys, showing improved form with every turnout since they dropped their first two games made it four in a row last night as they defeated the leading Toronto Marlboros 5-3 at Toronto. Victory gave the Mercurys eight points—one behind the Dukes.

In the junior circuit Galt Black Hawks moved into a second-place tie with a 3-2 win over Barrie Flyers, St. Catharines Teepees swamped Toronto St. Michael's College Majors 16-3 and Guelph Biltmores won their first game in six starts by defeating Oshawa Generals 7-1.

At Toronto, only one penalty was meted out as the Mercurys, backed up by a brilliant performance by netminder Bobby Gibson, defeated the Marlies for the second point counted for the well-earned victory.

Bruno Favero paced the Mercurys with two goals. Singles were scored by Bob Beaudry, Doug Gillespie and Fred Smith.

Ike Rope, Scotty Mair and John McCormack scored for the Dukes.

At Barrie, the Black Hawks checked-Flyers to a standstill.

George Ford sent the Black Hawks into the lead with the only goal of the first period. Ford got his second goal early in the second period before Galt added on a pass from Ken Green. Rick Hogg put Flyers in the game when he scored at 17:56.

Get Quick Lead

The Black Hawks took a two-goal advantage before the third period was three minutes old and Ward Brandow got the final goal for Barrie minutes later.

At St. Catharines, the Teepees ran up their second double-figure victory of the season as they overpowered the Majors.

The Teepees were paced by Jack McIntyre, Frank Sullivan and Norm Corcoran, who each tallied two goals. Singles went to Con Switzer, Obie O'Brien, Bill Martin and Brown. Paul Alain tallied two goals for the losers while Ingoldsby scored one.

At Guelph it was the fourth consecutive loss for the Generals. The Biltmores led their first two games and then dropped three in a row before their victory last night.

The Biltmores went into the lead in the first period on a goal by Andy Bathgate and then into a 3-0 lead in the second on markers by Ron Hamm and Joe Bonk. Ted O'Connor fired the only goal for the Generals in the final period.

One game is scheduled in the senior loop tonight—the last-place Hamilton Tigers battling with the third-place Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen at Waterloo.

In the junior loop four games are slated. In a Toronto doubleheader the Marlies meets St. Michael's and Windsor Spitfires meet the league-leading Toronto Marlboros. Guelph plays a return engagement with the Generals and Barrie meets Galt.

The Mourning Dove - - Another Vanishing American?

During World War I, I had the good fortune to be stationed at Pensacola, Florida, for nearly two years. During that time I became acquainted with that excellent game bird, the mourning dove. Later, in 1925, I returned to Florida and lived in Orlando until the late fall of 1927. There I had the chance to renew my relations with the mourning dove

My first organized dove shoot will live in my memory always. I was invited to shoot on "opening day" with five native Floridians.

The limit then was twenty-five birds—a generous one when viewed in the light of present restrictions. Our party was retired legally to one hundred and fifty dove.

That was my first experience with organized dove shoots. I haven't attended one for many years and, frankly, first hand, what goes on now. In the "good old days" I want to tell you that those shoots were sheer murder.

Got Limit Early

That first morning I had my legal limit by eleven o'clock. The remainder of my day was spent in retrieving cripples. Each one of those boys had brought with him a case of shells. They stood in baited fields and shot until their guns were too hot to touch.

Birds that fell inside the fence were picked up, but hard-hit birds that managed to flutter outside the enclosure were forgotten immediately. I appointed myself a one-man game warden and birds that were hard-hit were tracked down and dispatched purely as a humane gesture. I know that my companions felt that I was a dumb Yankee who probably was a little off-center, when the crippled birds Shucks, there's plenty of 'em! goes to shoot at. Why bother with cripples!

How many birds those men killed I'm not prepared to say. They fed the town. At evening the assembled kill was piled near cars. Now, with their feathers on, are allthery things. Try to pin them and they slide off. Yet that pile was over three feet high.

Anybody who is familiar with Federal regulations knows that it is illegal to shoot dove in a baited field. Also, they know that legal limits are just that. Those boys cared no more for laws or the rules of sportsmanship than I care for the feelings of a rattlesnake who has just struck at me and missed.

Needless to say, I did not shoot with these men again. Maybe I showed my displeasure. Anyway, I wasn't invited and I wouldn't have gone if I had been. I don't enjoy wanton slaughter.

At that shoot, as at others I have attended, I couldn't help but wonder how long any species could withstand such a program of planned extermination. Now the answer comes in a press release from the Wildlife Management Institute.

Serious Situation

The regional director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service reports that Georgia morning doves now face the most critical season in the State's history.

This release goes on as follows:

"Further restrictions on the open season appear inevitable. Lax and inadequate law enforcement and flagrant violations of federal and state laws are cited as the primary reasons for the rapid decline. Many state wardens sit back and permit illegal slaughter over baited fields, unmindful of the dove's high importance to the hunters of the state, while the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is handicapped by lack of enforcement personnel. The general lack of interest in the future of the sport on the part of the average Georgia hunter and the tendency of farmers to wink at open violations is taking a serious toll."

"Many Georgia hunters have been resentful of what they have considered unfair federal regulations although Georgia has been given seasons and bag limits equal to those received by all other states where state laws permit dove shooting. Unless the real sportsmen of the country to see to it that such a catastrophe can not happen in another of our splendid game birds.

Georgia isn't the only state where the situation is critical. All of us who have shot dove know what sport these speedsters can afford the gunner. Let's see if we can't preserve this sport for future generations.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Cobourg scribe is apparently still suffering from the abdominal battering he received in the Napanee-Cobourg baseball playoff protest which to the merry ole brave-he by the Ontario Baseball Association. Listen to the story:

STORY BEHIND NAPANEE DEAL IS TOLD AT MEETING 'N PORT HOPE

Thursday night's baseball meeting found a few angles on the Napanee farce here in a rainstorm being disclosed.

It seems that a Mr. Smith in Napanee was the club secretary and conveyor down there went beyond his powers in issuing umpires for the Cobourg game here. He, according to secretary Jim Crumble or the Lakeshore League, should have left the naming of them to the Lakeshore carrythem. Crumble had the right to name a base umpire and did so which was why there were three umpires here that rainy day. Wheeley of Peterborough, convenor and member of the O.B.A. named one and Smith named Thomas who was the arch villain of the piece. Moreover, Smith ordered the game played when he had no right to, since the onus for playing that game was entirely with the Cobourg club, Mr. Smith, it seems, is a very smart gentleman when it comes to solving a baseball problem especially so when it needs to be thrown Napanee's way.

And he rees further afield into something of which he apparently knows very little about, here 'tis:

Secretary Crumble also told of some early doings with the O.B.A. which started in Trenton on April 4. He says three teams in Trenton in the spring and one in Nainwa. The Trenton teams pooled their gate receipts and split between the local players and the best ones went to other teams, some to the R.C.A.F. some to Belleville and three of them to Napanee. It appears that all of the players had to have releases from Trenton! The R.C.A.F. team promptly fleeted this, so did Belleville and Napanee but there the catch came, Snyder, O.B.A. Secretary, didn't appear to bother with any team but 4 R.D., who were playing patently bother with any team but 4 R.D., who were playing patently bother with any team but 4 R.D., who were playing the Belleville-Napanee deal who had already lost five games at that time. Snyder ordered Crumble to suspend the three players and when said Crumble refused, Snyder, the Lakeshore League couldn't abide by his (Snyder's) rulings they could get out of the O.B.A. as they were not going to be playing on either but those words are close enough. Crumble still refused and said the Secretary that only part of the three had made some sort of a delegation who had wanted to get out of the O.B.A. and they were not any too pleased; even so, Crumble, the O.B.A. brows calmer down and said he would call later. He didn't call but later on in the week a letter arrived saying that Trenton team had dropped out and the players were OK. There was more head shaking and sarcastic laughter by the League heads as they heard this one minus a piece of evidence. The O.B.A. rules disregard of this district, a disregard that may some day lead the entire set up away from that so called parental body of Ontario Baseball.

Regarding the above, Scribe Gordon and this Crumble should know that in this district the O.B.A. rules state that players semi play with the nearest O.B.A. team. These were the facts regarding the Trenton case, Napanee and Cobourg are in the Lakeshore area of the Belleville and District Leagues and the Central Ontario League should have suspended the players in question instead of the baseball child. The players on the Batawa and RCAF roster involved were suspended and did not take part in any further games. Their names have been dropped out of the Belleville District Loop. The Trenton team was asked to withdraw, due to certain reasons, but team was asked by the Belleville loop executive. Had such not been the case, and Trenton remained in the league, the players here last night would have been ruled out of the OBA. After all, the rules are there and should be enforced. The OBA did not disregard its ruling. It merely suspended the players we involved after it had been informed by the Belleville executive that the Trenton team had disbanded. And if the Lakeshore league drops out of the OBA, we don't imagine that august body will shed too many crocodile tears.

Rocky Graziano May Get Shot At Lamotta

New York, Oct. 29 (AP)—The death of Karoel Cerdan may mean that Rocky Graziano will get a June outdoor shot at Jake Lamotta's middleweight title.

The tumultuous Rocky, former ruler of the division, would seem to have the inside track over other leading contenders—welterweight champion Ray (Sugar) Robinson and France's Laurent Dauthuille.

All three hold claims to a crack at Lamotta's crown.

Graziano, who has had almost as much trouble with the boxing powers as he has with his actual ring opponents, is a warm friend of the champion but it seems unlikely he would let that interfere with a chance at the title and a big pot. He and Jake might draw $500,000 in a place like Yankee Stadium.

Robinson has beaten Lamotta four times in their five fights. Another meeting between them, champion Lamotta complain, couldn't miss attracting a big gate—if the two could be brought together.

Dauthuille won a unanimous 10-round decision over Jake in Montreal last February. The blond Frenchman, a rugged counter-puncher gave the Bronx Bill plenty to remember on that occasion.

Cerdan's death removed the No. 1 challenger for the crown. The stocky, smiling Frenchman, acclaimed the best and most popular French athlete since pre-war days, had won the title from Tony Zale in September, 1948, but lost it to Lamotta last June in Detroit.

GOVERNOR TAKES HAND

Detroit, Oct. 29. (AP)—Governor G. Mennen of Michigan took official notice Friday of the squabble over the Kid Gavilan-Lester Felton "prize fight decision.

Williams acted on request of State Boxing Commissioner Floyd Stevens. The governor instructed state police commissioner Donald S. Leonard to aid in the investigation of the disputed decision.

"We want to determine if the decision was wrong as a matter of carelessness or whether there was outside influence," the governor said. "If there is anything wrong we will take action. If, not, the people involved will be cleared."

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By TREVOR ICETON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Oct. 29 — (CP)—Andy Lytle, who leaves his job as sports editor of the Toronto Star this weekend to return to the Vancouver Sun after 18 years, lets his readers in on some of the stories behind the story in one of his last columns here.

Andy skips back to his early assignments here — covering the National Hockey League games at Maple Leaf Gardens.

"Not liking the remoteness of the press box, I used to stand in the aisles to be nearer the scenes of action on the ice and around the benches," he relates.

"Finding me a nuisance there, Smythe (Conn Smythe, Leafs boss) locked me away in a box occupied, among others, by E. W. Bickle and W. H. MacBrien, who were on the board of directors of the Gardens."

Didn't Stay Long

"I was not long there," writes Andy. "In those times, it was customary to hurl directorial invective and voiced disapproval at the referees. Overnight I was removed from that vicinity and shifted down the red box line to seats from which it was fair run along the carpets to bench brawls. Though I wasn't too slow in action, I was always half a dozen breathless jumps behind Smythe."

Satisfying Job

Andy lists his assignment to cover the second Louis - Schmeling fight as his most satisfying and tells why.

"In the latter camp, Schmeling was surrounded by beefy, arrogant Germans . . . and if ever in life a Jew showed patience and forebearance under calculated, cruel persecution, Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's fight manager . . . did," writes Andy.

"I didn't see Jacobs after Schmeling was so swiftly dispatched a few nights later, but I'm convinced the little man could only have been gratified by the extremely fine manner in which Louis disposed of an adversary who had, some time earlier, humiliated him before thousands."

Flyers Leading Eastern Canada Hockey Loop

Ottawa, Oct. 29 — (CP) — RCAF Flyers, coming up with scoring bursts in the proper places, Friday night downed North Bay Black Hawks 6-4, to move well out in front of the Eastern Canada Senior Hockey League standings.

In the second game of a twin-bill played before 1,800 fans, Norman Chiarelli scored off a dazzling Army rally to eke out an 8-7 victory.

Ab Renaud paced Flyers with a brace of goals, while singletons were added by Bob Gravelle, George Scott, Ted Hibberd and Bill Watson. North Bay marksmen were Bill Meloche, Bill Dwyer, Bob Fero and Ralph Ortlando.

Eddie Emerton drove home a tallies for Cornwall, while Pete Long notched two. Yves Surra-Mourinett, Rheal Savard and Bert Tully got the others. For Army, Ray Limoges and Maynie Darch accounted for two apiece with Archie Creighton, Art Foster and Jack Brunning adding the others.

Capot Scores Smashing Win Over Coaltown

Baltimore, Oct. 29. —(AP) — Capot just about had "horse of the year" honors wrapped up on Greentree Stable today, wresting them from Calumet Farm in one stunning race.

Capot forged ahead as the 1948 champion of the American turf by beating the horse with the most formidable record of the year, Coaltown, in Friday's Pimlico Special.

It may be that Capot beat a horse which became lame sometime during the 1-3-16 mile race.

Trainer Jimmy Jones and other horsemen who gathered around to watch Coaltown during his cooling out period noticed the Calumet star favored his right hind leg.

He wouldn't put his heel down when running shoes on the tip of his hoof. Calumet experts began an immediate check to see what the trouble was, but no cure seemed to have the answer.

The way Capot—owned by a smashing 13 lengths—came like a bolt out of the overcast sky.

The special evidently ended the year's contention for division honors, as "horse of the year" and best three-year-old colt. Capot figures to take both, the latter from Calumet's Ponder.

The two thoroughbreds ran as figured for the first quarter of a mile, head and head down the stretch. That was the only time Jockey Ted Atkinson and he was worried.

After that, Capot pulled out and jockey Steve Brooks on Coaltown later confessed "I knew we were beaten" at the three-quarter pole.

Capot was being eased up through the stretch, else he might have equalled his track record of 1:46 for the 1 3-16 mile. As it was, the time was four fifths slower.

Capot took the whole $15,-000 special pot and Capot nibbled on the floral wreath in the winner's circle. Capot's backers get $5 for two. Coaltown went off the 3-to-10 favorite.

Leo Dandurand Endorses Plan About Playoffs

(By The Canadian Press)

Leo Dandurand, president of the Big Four Montreal Alouettes, Friday endorsed a proposal plan to amend the Canadian Rugby Union constitution to allow a more flexible arrangement of east-west championship football games each fall.

He gave official support to Myer Insky, president of the Quebec Rugby Football Union and second vice-president of the C.R.U., who suggested that the 1950 classic be on the home grounds of the Big Four champions.

"I'm sure the idea of staging the east-west final on the home grounds of the Big Four champion will meet with the solid support of Hamilton and Ottawa. Perhaps even Argonauts."

Under the present C. R. U. constitution, Toronto must be host site for the Grey Cup classic, on alternate grounds selected by the C. R. U.

Ivan Irwin, rugged Sherbrooke Saints defenceman, left here Friday for Cincinnati Mohawks of the AHL to play three games with the Cincinnati Mohawks of the American Hockey League in order to maintain professional lend-lease basis.

Under the rules the Hockey League player is allowed to play three games in professional company without losing his amateur status.

Hank Selke, Cincinnati's general manager, has been trying for the last two weeks to get Irwin to sign a professional contract. Irwin refused but now has agreed to the Blue Shirts terms with the lend-lease basis. Manager Ivan Dugre of the Saints said Irwin will return to Sherbrooke Nov. 6.

New York, Oct. 29—(CP)—A Toronto man from Finland turned up at Madison Square Garden the other night to see Helsinki's boy Pentti Lund of New York Rangers receive the Calder Trophy as last year's most valuable player in the National Hockey League. . . . One sport writer remarked: "It's the first time most of the guys around here knew a Finn wasn't always a liar."

Burt Shotton is due to visit Brooklyn next week presumably to receive the official word that he'll manage the Dodgers in 1950 and Branch Rickey will make a "coincidence" that when he visited Boys Beach nearby, Shotton turned up there to do some fishing. Fred Perry, the tennis star, will try but time tournament golf for the first time in the months and south open at Hollywood next week. . . . Fred says he never was bothered by butterflies until he can't even tighten up like a duffer and blow a two-foot putt. . . . The veteran lightweight boxing champ, Billy Conn, who now calls himself Bill, is going to have another went an operation to have the dents likely out of his nose.

Michigan's footballers have averaged 72.5 plays a game in big ten conference games this season. . . . Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson seem so many successful defensive setups he will that he now means: "Some day an opponent is going to use an orthodox defence against us and pile our ears down."

Hollywood, Oct. 29. —(AP)— What Hollywood needs, says Robert Young, without cracking a smile, is more Errol Flynns.

This may cause turmoil among Hollywood's public relations worriers, but Young has a point to make.

"I think a lot of excitement has gone out of the town," he said. "Movie stars have become social workers, political thinkers and family people. Of course, that's good for the community. But it makes Hollywood lose some of its glamor.

"What we need is more Errol Flynns to raise some calm now and then."

This makes Young, virtually speak against himself. He is a pillar of local society. Father of four fine girls, he is as normal a citizen as you will find in Hollywood.

$80,000 Breakage

He still yearns for the wild days of Hollywood's gast.

"When I was a kid, back around 1920, I used to get jobs at Mack Sennett's old lot. (His major career began in January, 1931.) I used to do acting jobs at $3 a day. If there weren't any, I'd sweep out the place or do anything.

"Sennett would send a company off on location for six weeks to some place like Balboa. They'd be like a bunch of kids on a picnic. And Sennett would get a bill for $80,000 for breakage at the hotel where they stayed.

"I remember once when Norman Kerry walked out of a door at the end of a Sennett picture. They wanted to shoot the scene again, but they couldn't find Kerry. He had walked through the door and met Jack Pickford, who was going on location to San Francisco. So Kerry went along.

"Ah, those were the days."

Bobby's body first lodged about 14 feet down in the pipe. The pattern had never been used by the Gows. They did not know whether there was water at the bottom.

Bobby continued to slide downward as the work progressed. He was standing on the dry bottom when rescuers reached him at a depth of 18 feet.

CHILD IMPRISONED

action less than half an hour after Bobby disappeared from sight. Two more shovels and compressed air hammers joined the scooping-out operation which allowed the workers to get to the base of the pipe.

An oxygen line dangled in the pipe near Bobby's head and kept pumping until rescuers with cold chisels and tin snippers cut through to the lad at 9:43 p.m.

Master Mechanic R. J. Miller of the fire department held Bobby's hand to comfort him as the section of pipe was removed. Miller then lifted the youngster out.

Bobby was kicking. He hollered "Daddy". The cry was almost lost in the roar of some 2,000 spectators who had remained silent until those pressing against police ropes saw the child move.

"They've got him . . . he's alive," the front-line onlookers cried out.

"Oh, Lord, just to see that boy . . ." Gow said tenderly when asked how he felt when he saw Bobby released.

Workers dropped a small rope down the pipe and succeeded in working it on to Bobby's wrist. They did not attempt to pull him up. They feared the rope might slip off or Bobby might be injured by any upward movement in the narrow confines of the pipe.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The gang was having a field day with a series of deals that came out screwy. The cards are funny that way. They start running in freak directions and keep it up for a spell before returning to normal.

Came the deal you see here:

SOUTH

South was the dealer and preened himself for what he knew was coming. If ever a bunch of pasteboards looked like grand slam, the hand he held was it. Nor could he be blamed for thinking so.

He was in no hurry, however. He could play with this thing like a cat with a mouse. So, he opened with two clubs, a forcing to game signal that would assure him later chances to bid again.

To be correct, his opening bid should have been two hearts. With two suits of the same length, first bid the higher rank. That will finally tell partner the length of your suits.

North gave him the encouraging response of two diamonds. This told of a sure trick somewhere in the north hand. It could be only the spade ace of K.O. of spades.

Neither of these seemed important to south at the moment. What he was most concerned about was to make the final trump suit. He was looking for some suit support from north.

The entire bidding went like this:

South	North
2 C	2 NT
3 H	4 C
4 NT	5 D
7 C	Pass

There is no doubt that they should be in some kind of a grand slam. Everything points toward it being there. But you can see how opponents scuttled the seven club bid.

Tale of a Pet:

Leader of Duck Brigade No Longer Heads Her Flock

By A. Henderson

"Of all sad words
Of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these—
It might have been.'

So it is. Bridget has gone. Bridget, who was the arbiter of every quarrel; the councillor of the young; the leader in every worm hunt; the generalissimo over all. Bridget, with the snow-white feathers, her golden feet, and her great mother-love is gone. The winding creek will know her never more; again will she lead the long, white cue across the alfalfa field, down the hillside, and into the smooth part of the turbulent creek, and all because, one night, the barnyard gate was left open.

Bridget was hatched in the township of Ameliasburg, in the neighborhood of Redneyville and with four other little golden balls of animation, came to live, about ten years ago, in the township of Sidney, in the neighborhood of Bayside. Almost at once, Bridget showed her superiority of intellect and her executive ability.

Was Never Wrong

It was Bridget who called out at sundry hours of the night and early morn the dreaded warning, "Skunk;" and never once was she wrong! Even Davy the lordly drake, adhered to her wisdom. Now, though surrounded with numerous off-spring, he looks, and looks, head up, for the comely Bridget, while form which does not materialize. Whether ducks, especially giant white Pekins, are monogamous-like the gray goose, or polygamous, is not too certain. But this is certain, there is an empty space in the duck yard, and around the duck tub.

For years she brought forth families of downy yellow ducklings, and lended them with all the vigilance of royalty. At an early age she taught them the way to the creek. It was a pleasant sight to see her leading the way with ten, eleven, or twelve little toddlers waddling along in single file behind her. As long as she lived she headed the procession each spring to the creek.

The out thing Bridget disliked was daylight saving time; to her, Eastern Standard was quite sufficient. Always as the last glow of the setting sun faded behind the apple trees, you would see her, with her trail of ducks floating down with the current to the landing place opposite the barn. Sometimes the writer forgot about daylight saving, and, wondering why the ducks were not home, would don long rubber boots—relics of the last war—wriggle through the wire fence, and plod across the field, skirting the creek for the stragglers. Then rounding the bend, they would be found, having joyous time, ducking and diving.

Made Strong Protest

How Bridget would protest to her unique way at being turned from the stream, on to the yard, with bobbing head, and scolding chatter, trying to tell that there yet remained one hour to home-going time, was precisely at 8.15 p.m. that the long, white line would be seen wending its way along the curving stream to dock at the usual landing place. Bridget never mistook the hour, though her owner often did.

For the last few years Bridget had lived a retired life, the duty of raising a family had been turned over to her young daughters, but she was still the queen mother, and a permanent fixture.

With all the other denizens of the barnyard she lived in perfect equanimity, except with Peter, the Plymouth Rock rooster. With him there appeared to be a never ending feud. What he had done to earn her undying animosity is hard to know, but she never forgave him. Whenever the opportunity offered, she took advantage of it, with outstretched neck, and flashing eyes, she would strike a lightning like blow with her beak at Peter's "Achilles' heel", resulting in a startled squawk, a rocket-like leap to the woodpile, whence, with the flap of disdainful wings, he would sound forth his daring crow of discretion, as well as of derision.

Death a Mystery

How Bridget met her Waterloo, is still a matter of conjecture; whether by prowling fox, either on two or four legs, or by the thing she most feared, the odorous skunk, or in self sacrifice, one cannot definitely say. But knowing Bridget, it is more likely the last; for the ducks were her ducks, the barnyard her home, her lasting possession, and her kingdom.

There are other lovely ducks, pure and white, but none have endeared themselves like Bridget, with the exception of Davy. Neither have they her astute aggressiveness, nor her discrimination ways. She was an old pet, and the place left vacant will be hard to fill.

MAY GET CHANCE TO RETURN

Frankfurt, Oct. 28.— (AP) United States soldiers who have left illegitimate children in Germany may get a chance to return temporarily to marry the mothers. The U. S. army in Europe has no objection to the return of military personnel on leave for this purpose, officials said Thursday.

ALASKA ROAD GETS "GO" SIGN

Minister Denies Charge of Catering To Communists

Toronto, Oct. 28 — (CP)—Rev. Gordon Domm, replying to Controller David A. Balfour's charges that Bloor Street United Church Forum is "catering to the reds," said today that four known communists have shared the platform with premiers, senators, cabinet ministers and business men.

"The forum is an attempt to present under religious auspices all significant viewpoints," he said.

"So long as the government feels that the communist party is legal and free to air its views, the Forum will continue to hold the same opinion.

Five Reds Speakers

"Out of some 250 speakers in the almost six years the Forum has been conducted, I know of four definite and a possible fifth communist who have spoken here."

Mr. Domm said that about eight or nine months ago Mr. Balfour "got a rough reception" at the Forum.

"But he asked for it. The whole Board of Control spoke at that time and Mr. Balfour was the only one who got other than a good reception. He made his listeners restless by his methods. They didn't want to know what he was against so much as what he was for."

"Misleading" Citizens

Controller Balfour also has charged that Mr. Domm is "misleading" the prominent citizens backing the Saltburn Community Club. Aim of the club is to curb juvenile delinquency, particularly among members of the notorious Beanery Gang.

The citizens' committee of the Community Club said today in a statement:

"... We feel that the controller should substantiate a charge before implying it. (We) are fully conversant with the work of the club and have complete confidence in Mr. Domm. The charge has no foundation in fact and is thoroughly irresponsible."

Threat of Blindness Cause of Suicide

London, Oct. 28. (AP)—The Hon. Peter Beatty, 39-year-old son of the famed British Admiral, Earl Beatty, killed himself rather than face the world as a blind man, a coroner's court ruled today.

The handsome young bachelor jumped to his death from the sixth floor of the Ritz Hotel on Wednesday.

He was losing his sight.

"He took his own life while the balance of his mind was disturbed by ill health," the court said.

Westminster Coroner H Neville Stiffor daid he was convinced that Beatty, wealthy and fortunate in a spectacular career as a race horse owner, owner, life empty after several operations to restore his sight only partly succeeded.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

Just as Martin Heil got outembankment of the little promenade. One or two landing stages rocked at their chain-moorings and the wind that came from the western shore far away and scarcely discernible through the drifting mists passed like a moist hand through Martin's light blond hair, for Martin always went bareheaded, partly on principle, partly because he had no hat. He laughed without knowing why. The joy of the water tingled in his veins and ran through his limbs with an intoxicated freshness.

"Aren't there any boats out?" he asked in surprise.

"The weather's too bad. Nobody would chance it," the boy replied. "The lake's so treacherous. One moment you think it's all right, the next there's a squall and you can't row the boat. Last week there were some people nearly drowned. The lake takes some knowing. It's real treacherous.

Martin gave a whistle.

"I suppose they aren't too nervous to bathe, anyway?" he asked looking down, tall and blond, on this small retainer who had entered his service as a matter of course and trotted at his heels like a dog.

"Bathe? Where d'you think they'd bathe?" came the answer from below, "It's far too cold."

The next moment Martin was lying on his stomach with half his body over the edge of the embankment, stretching one hand down to the water. The chill of it slipped his finger-tips. He was a stranger to these waters fed by glacier streams, but, all the same, water was his native element and Martin clenched his teeth, which were like a Negro's, broad and gleaming white. We'll soon have them bathing he determined.

While he was still lying on his stomach like a tortoise beneath the embankment, some people came along the deserted promenade. Two pairs of feet made a detour round the prostrate Martin, a man's feet and a girl's feet, and both had good ankles and were shod in stout country boots, with woollen socks rolled over their tops. Martin twisted his head back, and the attitude he was in enabled him to see no more than a pair of girl's legs with shapely knees swallowed abruptly in the shadow of a tweed skirt. He jumped up with a flush showing beneath the tan of his fair skin. He could still hear what the girl was saying.

"The bitter kind tastes best," she said in a deep voice, like a boy's.

Heaven only knows why this remark should sound so odd to Martin. He continued to puzzle over it as he went on, followed by his retainer, in the opposite direction to that taken by the other two.

"That's one of them," the boy remarked comprehensively pointing over his shoulder with a dirty thumb.

Martin turned round and saw that the other two had also turned round and were standing still to have a look at him. A motorboat was popping along noisily on the lake. Through the clean, cool air of the afternoon the voices of the other two were distinctly heard.

"That's a good-looking fellow" said the man.

"Yes, we'll get him to play in the tennis tournaments," answered the girl.

Martin strode on resentfully. He had had quite enough of being a good-looking fellow, and he had no wish to be sized up by strangers in young men in striped pull-overs, as if he were an entrancement on show. Moreover, he had lost all pleasure in his expensive new shoes during these few moments. Apparently here in Fraunesee it was not the thing to go about in brown box-calf. You had to wear stout country boots, or climbing boots, or perhaps in fine weather white buckskin shoes, and a light probably pale-yellow leather pumps, Right. So he, Martin, was wearing something betwixt and between, a pair of equivocal ambiguities that might possibly do for every occasion but were correct for none. Indeed his whole wardrobe was composed of single specimens. In the cardboard box there was a white shirt, a blue suit, in the rucksack a colored shirt, his bathing shirt, his bathing suit, and his eight-pound punching ball. He was wearing his flannel shirt, sweater and knicker bocker. And that was all he had. He had once had a dinner jacket, but moths were now devouring it in a pawnbroker's shop far away in Vienna. All the same, one needn't lose caste for that. Martin whistled and took comfort.

A blue streak of rain was blowing from windward. At first it was over the hills sloping to the western shore, then it pricked out little beads of white on the surface of the lake, and next with a flurry of wind and rain it was stinging Martin's lips and falling on his raincoat. The seats along the promenade were deserted, as the few summer visitors beneath the restaurant verandas looked bitterly cold in spite of their woollen garments and mackintoshes Twenty boats dipped were prows in the water below a great black bulging cloud, and already the rain was sweeping over the town and rippling up the gorge of the valley and over the mountains, of which only the densely wooded slopes were visible. Then suddenly a patch of genian blue appear in the sky and was reflected in the middle of the lake.

It was at this moment, just as the clouds broke into a smile, that Martin became conscious somewhere inside him of two brown eyes opened wide to look at him. The consciousness of this dismayed and also enchanted him It seemed to him that these brown eyes were within him, within his own gray ones, and yet at the same time looking at him from outside. Nothing like this had ever occurred to Martin before although he was nearly 28; and it vexed him, in spite of the new and sweet sensation that pleased as well as troubled him. Where he had seen those eyes or whether they had any real existence outside his eyelids, he could not tell. But there as he raised one of his own fair eyebrows and looked at his forehead in perplexity, a voice attached itself to the eyes. "The bitter kind tastes best," it said.

Martin waived a salo-wet hand in the air, and laughed as he remembered. His mouth suddenly watered, and this experience was not so new and surprising as the other. He had no difficulty in thinking of bitter things that tasted good—of bitter chocolate, very strong coffee, coffee with plenty of milk and a piece of sugar-candy, of smoked bacon. Yes, he thought very intensely of bacon, and he lingered awhile over the enjoyment of this thought, for the fine aroma of wood-smoke mingled imaginary odors of food, or perhaps they were savory odors, real odors wafted from all these hotels and pensions. For the promenade had now reached the little town with its houses and people, I'm devilish hungry, Martin said to himself, as he mentally put a full stop to an imaginary collection of roast pork with cabbage and dumplings.

CAR SKIDS INTO CREEK, TWO DROWN

Snow on the highway sent two hunters to their deaths when car skidded off a wooden highway bridge into Benson's creek, near Kirkland Lake. A third man managed to escape by rolling down window after kicks failed to open door. Rescue workers are shown bringing death car out of the water, when they found one hunter, Bill Schaffner, had struggled to within six inches of the surface and safety. — Central Press Canadian.

Two Shots Fired After Alleged 'Peeping Tom'

London, Ont., Oct. 28. (CP) —Two shots were fired by a city policeman in a chase Thursday night after an alleged "peeping Tom" who police say has been terrorizing a large area in the southeasterly section of London for the past three weeks. The man escaped, however, and police are keeping a lookout for him.

Constable Wallace Blanshard said he was called to an Eastmount Avenue address to answer a complaint that a window peeper was in the vicinity. After scouring the area he came upon the man looking into a house bedroom window....

Constable Blanshard shone his flashlight on the man, described as being about six feet tall, thin, about 25 and wearing working clothes, but before the policeman could jump a backyard fence the man bolted over another fence.

After jumping three fences Constable Blanshard said he fired a warning shot in the air but the man kept on going.

WOUNDING CHARGE LAID AGAINST TRENTON MAN

One in Hospital With a Shattered Knee Caused by Shotgun Blast

Aftermath of an argument which Saturday evening took place in the home of John Blakely, Cedar Street, Trenton, 37-year-old William Lambert of Murray township, is in Belleville hospital, his left leg shattered by a shotgun blast.

Trenton police said the blast had been fired by Blakely, age 67, after he had ordered Lambert out of the house.

Blakely, who later complained of pains in his stomach is under guard at Belleville hospital where he, was taken for observation. Police stated he would be charged with wounding.

Cause of the argument which is said to have taken place at the Blakely home about 8 o'clock Saturday evening, was not stated by police. It is said the men went out into a scuffle outside Blakely home, the argument later being continued inside the house when Lambert was ordered to leave.

Declined to Leave

When Lambert declined to leave the house, Blakely is said to have gone upstairs and brought down his 12-gauge shotgun. From the porch Blakely is said to have fired through the kitchen door, the blast striking Lambert in the legs, Lambert then tumbled to the floor and mugged to crawl to the sidewalk where he collapsed.

A woman and one other man were believed to have been present at the Blakely home when the argument flared into two men started. Their names were not given and they were said to have left before the shooting occurred.

Police Chief Jack Taylor of Trenton said Blakely would be questioned. Blakely is a widower, while Lambert is married.

Alexander Opens Queen's Memorial Union Building

Kingston, Oct. 31. (CP)—The Governor-General, Viscount Alexander, officially opened Queen's University's $850,000 Memorial Union Building, Sunday at ceremonies during which another $850,000 dining and recreation hall was dedicated to the memory of the students who died.

Referring to the 362 Queen's men and women killed in the First and Second World Wars, Viscount Alexander said:

"While each gallant record, no one can say that Queen's has failed in its duty.

This building dedicated to the memory of great ideals, will, it is hoped, mean very much in the real education of successive generations of students. They will play together, they will talk together. "And they must fail to realize, in a building dedicated to a great purpose, that the privileges they enjoy entail responsibilities as well. Our country gives us much; it may demand much in return."

The opening of the Memorial Union was a high point of a weekend which saw Queen's confer an honorary degree on Harry Warren on Rt. Hon. Philip Noel-Baker, British secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations, and the University's football team bounce McGill students 15-1.

Prior to the luncheon in the dining hall in celebration of the official opening of the building the Governor-General unveiled seven large oil paintings by Marion Long, of Toronto, depicting typical men and women of the Canadian armed forces. The paintings hang in a memorial room in the Students' Union.

London, Oct. 31.— (Reuters) — Britain will withdraw her troops in Greece in the near future, it was officially announced today in parliament.

The announcement was made by Christopher Mayhew, Foreign Undersecretary. Mayhew said the Greek government had been informed of the British decision.

Mayhew said although the threat to Greek independence cannot be said to have passed, the Greek army has brought about an important change in the situation.

"The withdrawal of our troops in no way affects the position of the British naval, military and police missions in Greece," he said.

"Neither does it indicate any lessening of interest in the security and well being of the Greek people which will continue to be matters of greatest concern to the British government."

Press for Quick Action

Lake Success, Oct. 31. (CP)— Britain and the United States pressed for quick action today to protect United Nations observers in the troubled Balkans.

They announced urgency in the eyes of the western powers because of reports that observers for the U.N. Special Committee on the Balkans had been fired on from Albania as recently as Oct. 25.

Interrupting general debate on the Balkan question in the Balkans, Britain's Hector McNeil, Saturday asked for immediate consideration of a resolution on the situation. He was backed by Benjamin V. Cohen of the United States.

Both bowed to Russian insistence on a postponement, however, when the Soviet spokesmen insisted they had not had sufficient time to study the British proposal.

The Russian are expected to stall action again—this time contending that all proposals on the Balkan question be taken up at the same time—at the end of general debate.

The general debate, which has been both heated and prolonged, is expected to continue for some time.

Breaking into the Balkan debate in recent days has been the sharp animosity between Russia and the Chinese Nationalists. The Chinese have been making comparisons between the Balkan situation and that in China, charging Red imperialism is at the root of both.

China's charges that the Russians violated a 1945 friendship treaty by aiding the Chinese Communists are on the agenda for this afternoon session and the debate is expected to be the bitterest of the year in the U.N.

Negro, Last Survivor of Doomed Town Cursed by Minister, Dies at 105

By BEN PRICE

Oliver, Ga., Oct. 31 — (AP)— The lone survivor of Jacksonboro — the accursed town that was—is dead.

Out of that once and damned, now-desolate region on Beaver Creek came word that Richard Tyrell, 105-year-old Negro, a slave, had died Friday night.

He was the only person alive who saw the terrible curse of a little lunchbucket tinnerun minister, Hasting Bridge and bade him never return.

Scornfully, Dow paused on the span, removed his hat and shook the dust of Jacksonboro from his feet.

He turned and swore that God would send swift vengeance, the same that rained fire on Sodom and Gomorrah. The townsfolk laughed at him.

But then, unaccountably, fires broke out, rotted storms tore off roofs, the placid creek through the middle of the town became wild and unruly, sweeping away homes in flash floods.

The remaining settlers finally gave up, and moved their country seat to Sylvania. Time removed Jacksonboro from the town but the Goodall place which still stands, boisterous way. Then in 1930 Dow drifted down and called upon its citizens to repent. People laughed. They pelted him with eggs. And they would not let him preach.

The tormented little minister with the burning eyes turned this way and that until a powerful north wind, Goodall, gave him sanctuary in his home.

When the purposeful Dow strode for the last time down the main street the following day, a mob drove him to Hasting Bridge and bade him never return.

Scornfully, Dow paused on the span, removed his hat and shook the dust of Jacksonboro from his feet.

He turned and swore that God would send swift vengeance, the same that rained fire on Sodom and Gomorrah. The townsfolk laughed at him.

But then, unaccountably, fires broke out, rotted storms tore off roofs, the placid creek through the middle of the town became wild and unruly, sweeping away homes in flash floods.

The remaining settlers finally gave up, and moved their country seat to Sylvania. Time removed Jacksonboro from the town but the Goodall place which still stands, along burned.

SECRET R.N. PLANE HITS TWO HOUSES IN SOMERSET

Pilot, Woman and Child Are Killed in Crash

Yeovil, Somerset, England, Oct. 31—(AP)—A new, secret Royal Navy fighter smacked into a pair of connecting houses today and exploded. The pilot, a child and a woman were killed.

The blast of the plunging plane demolished one house, killing its occupant, Mrs. W. Brown. Police hunted through the debris for Mrs. Brown's sister, believed missing.

Two children, six, were killed as she pedalled her cycle in the street in front of the house.

The pilot was Michael Graves, 28, assistant chief test pilot for Westland Aircraft Limited, making the plane, the Wyvern TF-2 turbo-jet fighter. He was the son of Sir Cyril Graves former director-general of the BBC.

Police reported another woman was seriously burned in the blaze which followed the explosion.

An official said the plane had been in the air about 20 minutes on a routine test flight. It dived into the house a short distance from the company's air field. The plane is powered by one of the most powerful new airborne propelling engines in the world.

Two Vacancies To be Filled By By-Elections

Regina, Oct. 31—(CP) — The Saskatchewan C.C.F. government will try to keep its seat and gain another in the Nov. 10 by-elections in two provincial constituencies.

The vacancy at Gull Lake, in the drought-stricken southwest corner of the province, occurred with the death of Alvin C. Murray, C.C.F. member since 1944.

The other vacancy, which is in Cannington, where W. J. Patterson, Liberal member since 1921, resigned on appointment to the Board of Transport Commissioners, Mr. Patterson was leader of the five-man Liberal opposition which the C.C.F. swept from power in the 1944 landslide.

The by-election in Cannington rode on E. G. McCullough, a 40-year-old farmer. His Liberal opponent is Reeve Ross Hall of Carthy, also a farmer.

T. J. Bentley, C.C.F. former member of parliament for Swift Current, C.C.F. candidate in Gull Lake, Premier T. C. Douglas has announced that if Mr. Bentley is elected he will be given provincial health portfolio.

Mr. Bentley's Liberal opponent is 38-year-old Harold Haney, a farmer. Charles Howlet, Orkney district farmer, is the candidate of Conservative Party's candidate.

The Saskatchewan Conservatives are not contesting the by-election in Cannington.

The 52-seat legislature now has 30 C.C.F. members, 19 Liberals and one Liberal-Progressive Conservative.

Trade Minister Claims Alberta Gas Discoveries Will Make Province the Equal of Texas

Montreal, Oct. 31.—(CP)—New discoveries of petroleum and natural gas in Alberta, promise to make that province the equal of Texas as a source for these products, Trade Minister Howe told the American Society of Tool Engineers Saturday night.

In reviewing Canada's "prosperous, well-balanced and booming economy," he mentioned the titanium discovery in Northern Quebec.

He said "an all important source of high grade iron ore has been opened upon the boundary between Quebec and Labrador, which rivals in magnitude the Mesabi Deposits in Minnesota."

"By the end of the 1949 season more than 100,000,000 gross tons of iron ore had been proved, with many known outcrops still to be drilled."

The trade minister said the development of the iron deposit is closely linked with the St. Lawrence seaway, which, when built, will provide low cost water transportation from the mines to the steel industry on the great lakes.

The Labrador ore possibilities may well turn the balance in favor of the rapid development of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Mr. Howe said 1949 capital investment in Canada will reach a record $3,200,000,000 this year, representing "the highest rate of new investment in proportion to income in any country of which we have a record."

Total U.S. investments in Canada were $3,000,000,000. They are paying a bigger cash return to American investors than all other American investments put together.

The minister said he was not able to get alarmed about rumors that Canadian brains are being "drained off" to more wealthy countries." Only one of every 10 graduate engineers from large Canadian universities of late is now working outside Canada and this is more than counterbalanced for by the American and British talent we import.

Approximately two of every 10 of Canada's technical personnel had been recruited from abroad.

Discovery Two Hormones Make Cancer Shrink May be Greatest Since Pasteur's Day

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (Associated Press Science Editor)

New York, Oct. 31 — (AP)—A new field in cancer fighting opened here with a report to the American Association for Cancer Research that two new hormones shrink certain cancers.

The hormones are acth and cortisone. This pair earlier this year caused dramatic relief of pain in arthritis, gout and rheumatic fever.

Their effects on cancer were much the same. The patients felt and looked better, cancers shrank, only to enlarge after the medicine was stopped. To date, two cancers have responded—liver for 10 weeks, with no sign of swelling since.

Why Doctors Used Hormones

The doctors said they gave these hormones for cancer not because they expected cures, but because they had a theory that the five-man Liberal opposition which the C.C.F. swept from power in the 1944 landslide.

The vacancy at Gull Lake, in the drought-stricken southwest corner of the province, occurred with the death of Alvin C. Murray, C.C.F. member since 1944.

The other vacancy, which is in Cannington, where W. J. Patterson, Liberal member since 1921, resigned on appointment to the Board of Transport Commissioners, Mr. Patterson was leader of the five-man Liberal opposition which the C.C.F. swept from power in the 1944 landslide.

The by-election in Cannington rode on E. G. McCullough, a 40-year-old farmer. His Liberal opponent is Reeve Ross Hall of Carthy, also a farmer.

T. J. Bentley, C.C.F. former member of parliament for Swift Current, C.C.F. candidate in Gull Lake, Premier T. C. Douglas has announced that if Mr. Bentley is elected he will be given provincial health portfolio.

Mr. Bentley's Liberal opponent is 38-year-old Harold Haney, a farmer. Charles Howlet, Orkney district farmer, is the candidate of Conservative Party's candidate.

The Saskatchewan Conservatives are not contesting the by-election in Cannington.

The 52-seat legislature now has 30 C.C.F. members, 19 Liberals and one Liberal-Progressive Conservative.

Why Hormones Are Rich and Famous

Both hormones are rich and famous. Acth is made by the pituitary gland, a pea-sized structure at the base of the brain. Cortisone is made by the adrenal glands in the back. These glands and make cortisone and probably more than a dozen other still unknown hormones. Acth governs the hormone production of these glands.

The cancer study was reported by doctors C. H. Pearson, L. P. Gage, Mary Ann Ferguson, Konrad Dobriner and C. P. Rhoads of the Sloan - Kettering Institute and Memorial Hospital, Cornell U. Medical Center Center, New York.

They found that the hormones to eight persons. Two of the tests were flat failures. One of these was a lung cancer of the oat cell, late gland, the other cancer of the liver. Both of these six cancers all were incurable cancers of the family known as Lymphatic, and in the last a smaller amount of swelling.

These lymphatic cancers were one lymphosarcoma, one Hodgkins Disease and four chronic leukemias, all of the myelogenous type. One of the four died of pneumonia during the course of treatment. The other five are alive and well, but they weren't so sick when the hormones started a few months ago.

Neither of these hormones can be used on more than a few dozen persons because there isn't enough of either. Many pharmaceutical houses are working to produce them faster.

Either hormone when given for more than a month is likely to cause a serious disease known as Cushing's Syndrome.

Police Request Co-operation of All On Hallowe'en

Co-operation of the local teenagers and others in keeping the forthcoming Hallowe'en free from any destructive activities was requested today by Police Chief Hubert Dobson who warned that on property damage of any nature would be tolerated.

"Entire police staff be on duty Monday evening to assist in patrolling the city and guard against celebrants indulging in activities that may be destructive to property," stated the police chief.

Chief Probert added that the police department would endeavor to attempt to distract from any fun to be had by persons celebrating Hallowe'en but he pointed out that there was plenty of fun to be had without engaging in property damage.

Numerous local public and private parties are scheduled for Monday evening when according to tradition, goblins and witches abound. These Hallowe'en parties will attract many of the local celebrators, but undoubtedly local younger children will take advantage of the occasion to knock on doors collecting candy and apples from householders in the residential districts.

Timmins, Oct. 31—(CP)—Tom Thomas, 74, caretaker of Wingfield Mines in Jamesy Virginia township, was burned to death today when his shack and adjoining tool-shed burned.

John C. Maracle Falls From CPR Bridge, Drowns

Efforts of three young Albert College students to rescue the rescue failed Saturday afternoon to save John C. Maracle, 24 St. Ann's Island, Ontario, when he fell from the C. P. R. bridge into the Moira River.

Maracle fell into the water less than ten minutes but efforts to revive him were unsuccessful. He, who was separated from his wife, was about 45 years of age.

Credit for the attempted rescue of Maracle's body goes principally to 24-year-old Donald Rennie, Albert College student from Port Credit, who jumped into the water and held Maracle's head out of the water while the alarm was given and a boat came to the rescue.

Tries to Affect Rescue

Heston, with two other Albert students, Ken Cooper, 19, of Hamilton, Bermuda, and Tony Graham, 18 of St. Mary's, Ont., were walking on the bridge when they heard a splash. Heston fled into one of his cloaks and jumped in after Maracle only to find the water was over his head. He lightly found a large rock on the river bottom and was able to stand and hold Maracle's head above the water.

Maracle is believed to have been with a man and woman companion when he left them to walk on the railway bridge. The names of his two companions were not learned.

An inquest looking into Maracle's death has been ordered for Monday afternoon.

OFFICIALS HINT GOVT. MAY TAKE HAND IN STRIKE

Report Settlement Both Strikes Imminent Of Attaches at Prague

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)— Steel industry sources said today a strike-ending agreement has been reached between Bethelehem Steel Corporation and the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.).

These sources said an announcement of the agreement will be made at Cleveland this afternoon by Philip Murray, head of the C.I.O. and its striking Steelworkers Union.

They said a major feature of the agreement calls for expansion of the corporation's existing pension plan, with the employer still paying the entire cost of pensions.

(In Bethlehem, Pa., officials of Bethlehem Steel Corp. declined to confirm or deny reports that they had reached agreement with the Steelworkers Union.)

There were also rumors of a settlement in the offing on coal, but nothing to indicate that they were more than rumors.

A usually well-informed government official said Saturday that announcement of Murray's settlement was being held up to allow simultaneous announcement of signals in steel and John L. Lewis's all-day coal strike.

Time Is Near

Well-placed Washington officials said they believed the time is near for settlement of both the off-again-on-again coal talks to Washington.

The White House two weeks the government has centered all its peacemaking efforts on steel. Cyrus S. Ching, top federal mediator, has spent most of that time talking with officials of United States Steel Corporation, biggest steel producer, and its subsidiaries.

Ching, it was learned, still believes that any settlement of the two strikes in basic industries must start in steel, since many of the issues in coal have been eliminated by steel firms.

However, the coal talks have hit bottom. Negotiations in West Virginia between John L. Lewis' striking Miners Union and northern and western operators have broken down. Lewis has asked the operators, Talks between Lewis' and Appalachian operators have accomplished nothing.

Want Pension Plan

The miners' present terms are a pension-insurance plan , costing up to 10-cents per hour for each worker, financed wholly by the employer as recommended by a presidential board. The steel industry is demanding that workers contribute to the pension plan, instead of contributing to the pension-insurance plan.

Observers here have expected little to happen in coal until steel is settled. They have said that Lewis already is getting employer-paid welfare benefits and is in a greater pension and more pay. It is argued that if Lewis is given a bigger pension fund he would only bolster Murray's argument for a free pension-insurance plan.

SHOT IN EYE

Pompion Plains, N.J., Oct. 31. (AP)—A 14-year-old boy, making Hallowe'en face outside a closed hardware store, was shot in the eye Sunday night by a clerk, Warren Hedden, 45. Police said Hedden was using blank cartridges, police said, when he fired it as accident and did not hold the gun. The injured youngster, David Worden, was taken to the hospital where his condition is listed, as serious.

Community Parties are Planned To Divert Hallowe'en Pranksters

(By the Canadian Press)

It's Hallowe'en, when boys and girls in costume go "trick or treating" from house to house, and the legend's shrouded evil spirits fill the air.

This year, however, a Canadian theme surrounds the observance in communities in Canada are planning parties to divert the mischievous aspects of the celebration by staking parties or protential pranksters all the night. It is promised police will keep a wary eye open for marauding youngsters.

Vancouver Service Clubs plan to hold Hallowe'en parties, helped by $2,000 from the city council. A public dance for an estimated 1,000 Hallowe'en revellers is along with 18 bonfires.

In Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Hamilton and Montreal, the celebrations are expected to follow much the same pattern, with carnival street parades and "ghoulouts" in which citizens buy special tickets which are collected by children on collection rounds. Proceeds go to community enterprises, and youngsters are promised the most tickets get prizes.

The Lions Club Hallowe'en Ball, Oshawa, Ont., will stage a party for 500 children with a pipe band parade and prizes for the children dressed in costumes of handmade.

The night promises to be gay and noisy, but little damage is expected, says police. Halifax will have 20 extra men on duty.

A total of $4,000 has been collected among London, Ont., service clubs to entertain 15,000 school children, and at Saint John, N.B., children will make Hallowe'en collections while the cry, "help the poor."

Recall of Two Czech Officials Demanded by U.S.

Reprisal for Ousting Of Attaches at Prague

Washington, Oct. 31 — (AP) — The United States demanded today that Communist Czechoslovakia recalled immediately two Czech officials now in the United States.

They are Dr. Erwin Mnink, Consul-General at New York, and Jan Norvath, housekeeper of the Czech embassy in the capital.

The action was in apparent reprisal for the recent ousting of two United States attaches from the embassy in Prague. However, in announcing the order, the State Department declined to give any explanation except that the two are both "persons non grata."

That means they are personally unacceptable to the United States government.

Youth of City Will Have Fling This Evening

Tonight is Hallowe'en.

Tonight the ghosts and the goblins, the witches and the wahoos, the tigers and the bugaboos will parade after the dark of the night sets in.

Weird noises will sound from strange places. Dark mysterious figures will flit from tree to tree. Grotesque costumes will be seen in parade through streets and darkened byways.

And an army of youthful goblins and witches, all sorts of hablement from Negro mammies to clowns will descend on the city populace demanding toll of candies and fruit.

Windows will rattle and doors will be shaken as ghostly hands demand entrance and payment. For youthful Belleville will be out in force in masquerade.

Oldsters, too, will take part in the mysterious goings on. Several private parties have been planned as well as public affairs. The Sweet Brothers are holding forth at a gay party at Tobe's County Corners.

Rural youth will likely have its Hallowe'en fling, too, in the old days the evening was the cue for strange disappearance of implements and buildings, but much of the practical joking has disappeared.

POLICE ACTIVITIES COMPARATIVELY QUIET DURING WEEKEND

Local police, both city and provincial, reported a comparatively quiet weekend with but routine matters requiring their attention.

Provincial police reported the arrest of two young Indians, Albert Moses and Clifford Brant, who are alleged to have stolen two chickens from the hen house of Jerry Brant, on the Reservation. The two chickens were recovered and the young men were allowed bail and will answer to the charge in magistrate's court.

An alleged police peeper was brought to the attention of police by a Victoria Street girl who caught the offender on his property. He was brought to the police station where he paid a fine for disorderly conduct and was permitted to go.

Phone Calls For Fire Location Delay Firemen

The once familiar habit or custom of persons following the fire reels in the event of the fire has its counterpart in the city which allows the interested residents to follow along the fire at their leisure.

It is the habit of residents calling the fire station after they hear the fire reels in order to learn the location of the fire.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance today asked the public to discontinue this practice as some time it may mean that even firemen might not get to the fire as soon as they would otherwise. Just this occasion Friday afternoon during the second alarm fire on George Street.

When the second alarm was called in it was necessary to bring in "off-duty" firemen from the fire station switchboard was so cluttered up with incoming calls from inquiring residents that it was some time before all firemen were notified.

"It isn't that we do not wish to answer the calls from residents but coming as soon after the alarm it is sometimes difficult to notify off-duty men," said the Chief.

Canadians Urged To Mail Parcels Early as Possible

With gift parcels of foodstuffs and comforts just as welcome as ever at Christmas, but with prices still living under "austerity" conditions, the Canadian post office again urges the Canadian public to mail their parcels as early as possible.

Closing late for letters and parcels designated for the continent is November 15th, for food parcels 15th, the closing date for parcels being sent to the United Kingdom, while November 29th is the closing date for letters being sent to the Old Country.

Gift parcels if bona fide and unsolicited, may be mailed up to 30 pounds in weight to individuals in the United Kingdom, but must be plainly marked "gift parcel". Parcels containing food cannot be insured. Parcels for persons living in the United Kingdom or other countries without an export permit must not exceed $25.

To expedite the delivery of gift parcels containing food, the discarded wearing apparel or soap, if any, under Sec. 61, should be attached. These are obtainable at the post office. The customs' postal declaration Form 91B fully completed, must be affixed to all parcels addressed abroad. Parcels should be taken to see that non-adhesive wide-mouth declaration form (15B) and despatch note (16B) are completed and forwarded where necessary.

Mailers are urged to pack all parcels firmly and securely in strong corrugated containers, wrapped tightly in several folds of thick wrapping paper, and securely tied with strong twine.

Reviewed by Medical Science At Meeting of Y's Men's Club

In the second consecutive week almost one hundred per cent attendance was recorded at the weekly meeting of the Y's Men's Club of the Y.M.C.A. when the members gathered to hear a talk by Dr. G. H. Stobie. Referring to the theme which offset the tragedy and human destruction so rampant in the world, Dr. Stobie reviewed some of the advances in medical science. Discoveries of the past 25 years will save more human lives than 500 years of war have destroyed, he stated. "In the last 25 years", he added, "there has been more advance in medical science than in the previous 2,500 years."

The present life expectancy was now 59 years as compared with 22 years 100 years ago, credit for which should be given to modern science and sanitation, he stated. As proof of this statement, he pointed out that the life expectancy in countries where modern science and sanitation had not gained ground was still 21 years. He pointed out that these countries, notably China and India were on the march but added that unfortunately malnutrition still prevailed in many places. Even in Britain, he did not find sufficient to develop a healthy nation.

Production Diminishing

In spite of a rapidly increasing population amounting to 200,000 a month in the United States and 400,000 annually, the food production was rapidly diminishing, causing alarm. Dr. Stobie warned arable land was being classified through soil erosion and the difficulties of producing arable land made this a calamity, he stated. Young people were leaving the farm for the city so that fewer people to till less productive soil reduced the potential food production.

When people are hungry they become warlike as an animal, Dr. Stobie stated. The effect of diminishing food supplies would therefore result in an unsettled rather than a peaceful world. The production of food to the peace of the world was well illustrated in the awarding of the Nobel Peace prize to Lord Orr of Scotland for his place on World food supply.

Continuing his address, Dr. Stobie pointed out some of the great moves in medicine and scientific discoveries' which had come. The medical advisory section had practically eliminated smallpox, he stated. The microscope, X-ray and electrical instrument had greatly assisted medicine and surgery. Wonder drugs were now playing their part in reducing the scourge of many illnesses and disease. Pre-operative and post-operative preparation had greatly aided in increasing the number of successful operations.

Aid in Settling Bones

A new non-corrosive metal which is received in the body rather than repelled as such metals as silver has greatly aided in the setting of bones particularly the broken limbs, Dr. Stobie pointed out had seen some medical advance chiefly of necessity. When the supply of quinine, the chief drug attacking malaria, was cut off from Germany, D.D.T., was discovered and it is now within possibility to eradicate malaria in a few years. By another discovery of scientists who penetrated parts of North Africa were sleeping sickness made life almost impossible for animals as well as man a vaccine has been produced which will cure and prevent the disease, sickness and thus add a large portion of this vast continent to productive use.

Dr. Stobie deplored the depths to which some members of the medical profession in Germany had gone in following the dictation of the mania the Hitler regime. Corruption was possible under state controlled medicine, he warned, wherever it was practised.

Referring to the diminishing influence of the home, the increase of divorce and juvenile delinquency, Dr. Stobie suggested that the war of life was brought about an increase in mental illness particularly among young people. He gave praise to such programs as the hobby classes and other Y.M.C.A. activities which gave the young people wholesome activity. Service Clubs were deserving of praise and encouragement in supporting such work which helped somewhat to offset the lack of interest in the continuation of the home fireside.

Canvass Nearly Complete

Dr. Stobie was introduced by Don Williams and thanked by Leslie Reid. The chairman Gerald Ryde announced Leslie the Red Feather Community Chest canvass by the Y's Men's Club was now almost complete and urged every member to finish the job he had accepted for this important effort.

With over two weeks remaining before Radio Auction goes on the air on November 15th, Frank Nichols, Program Director and Don Davis in their various reviews indicated that the project was nearly complete and that merchants had accepted the unique advertising offer as not only a worthy community venture but an outstanding opportunity for increasing their public relations.

B.C.I. Key Club Sponsors Clean up Week

A new type of competition featured the activities of the past week at the Collegiate by the Key Club. Several groups and forms accepted small projects in and around the school. By the end of the week the competition gave a "new look" to the grounds, included in the project list were bush planting, raking leaves and pruning shrubs. One form G 12 A, under Peter Green as group leader, cam near the memorial arch and the result was most pleasant. G 10 A, G 10 B and U 9 C under took the tulip planting, while G 8 B, G 8 C, G 12 A, G 10, G 10 E, T 9 A, C 10 B, G 10 C, U 9 C, U 9 B, C 11 A, G 11 B, competed by raking leaves, and pruning shrubs.

Prize Winners and Honorable Mention

A few forms accepted projects but were unable to complete them, and a few others did not participate, but the final result was that a large number of the student body volunteered their efforts to improve the tidiness and appearance of their school. B.C.I.V.S. offers the best and best facilities available in this part of Ontario and it is gratifying to realize that many of the students appreciate them and are willing and ready to compete in a competition to maintain their school appearance.

Key Club and Prize

Key Club is awarding the prizes. While this year's effort was pleasing, Key Club members felt that another year bigger and better results can be obtained.

The support company came from Belleville and was under command of Major Burtt with Captains Davis and Loucks.

Troops Transported

The naval craft which transported the regiment from Picton, Trenton and Belleville was headed by the tiny harbor craft ML 121 under the command of Lieut. Roy Windover, R.C.N. and Lieut. Boyd, together with Staff Engineer (E) Lieut. E. Phippen-Wiley.

The City of Hamilton squadron of the reserve force of the Royal Canadian Air Force flew over the naval craft as they docked at Northport to cover them from enemy fire. The planes flew over in the single and flight formation several times before they turned and disappeared in the western sky.

The representatives of the collegiate cadet corps were under the command of Lieut. J. R. Field and Cadet Lieut. Col. Roy MacDonald. The cadets took part in the operations with the troops of the regiment.

Landed Under Smoke Screen

The regiment landed on the beach west of the Northport dock under dense smoke screens placed by advance patrols. The enemy positions were high on a ridge to the south east of the village. Very pistols flashed high arching signals at intervals after contact had been made while the crackle of rifle fire sounded all afternoon.

A "blue" party held the enemy engaged on a frontal operation during the greater part of the afternoon. Suddenly the troops concies under cover of heavy smoke dashed on the enemy positions in a flanking movement, capturing the black-alitted foemen after a brief struggle.

The troops were given a lunch of assorted sandwiches, pie, apples and cake at noon in a spacious naval craft with the Navy supplying hot cocoa. Incidentally the referees was former Lieut. Col. A. B. Hunt, of the Northern Electric Company now commanding a squads unit during the war

Satisfaction Expressed

Lieut.-Col. Perrill expressed his satisfaction with the success of the operation during the return journey, "There were a few mistakes" he said, "But I feel the operation on the whole was a success. The troops found it interesting and it gave them some fine training along battle lines."

The combined operation was known as "Operation Pontypool."

Trim Naval Craft Object of Interest To 'Hasty Pees'

The trim naval craft "ML 121" which transported, with other units, the Hastings and Prince Edward regiment to Northport on a combined operational scheme on Sunday was a source of great interest to the soldiers.

Built by Vermeulen, Nova Scotia the ship is a converted "Fairmile" 112 overall length and is being used for naval duty purposes in this part of Ontario. During the period from 1939 the ship was converted to a training vessel in May, 1949, at Halifax. Her gasoline engines were removed and replaced by Diesels with Hercules supercharges.

Commanded by Commander H. K. Hill, the craft sailed from Halifax to Kingston where it is being used chiefly as a training medium for HMCS Cataraqui. In continuat use to this date, the craft has been running between Kingston, Brockville, Gananoque, Picton, Napanee and Belleville. It was present at the Picton and Brockville regattas and the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto.

Red Feather Campaign Still Needs Nearly $8,000 to Complete Objective

Campaigning for the Red Feather Community Chests took a spurt over the weekend and a total of 1,140 subscriptions amounting to $8,338 has been reported. Officials point out, however, that on a percentage basis this is below the standing of the Toronto drive and they issue a warning unless a generous response on the part of the citizens is forthcoming in the next few days the campaign may not attain its objective of $10,000. This can only mean one thing, a curtailment of services of the participating agencies which can only be financed by the funds made available through this appeal.

Each of the agencies, the YMCA, the Children's Aid Society and the Victorian Order of Nurses, derive a large part of their revenue from service and membership fees but the deficit which each incurs through excess of expenditures over receipts must be cleared by the donations in this campaign or much needed services will have to be withdrawn.

Officials feel that no citizen would permit this situation to arise if he fully appreciated it and so they urge that workers redouble their efforts to complete the canvass and at the same time make a last minute plea to all citizens to do their utmost to insure the success of the campaign. Those who have already subscribed may feel they should like to make a further donation, having seen the critical situation. All are urged not to wait on the call of all ready over-worked volunteer canvassers but to send their contribution direct to the Red Feather headquarters in the Y.M.C.A. building.

35,000 Workers Will be Thrown Out of Work

Detroit, Oct. 31 — (AP)—The automobile industry's first major shutdown resulting from the steel strike is set for Friday, when Chrysler Corporation plans to close three divisions indefinitely.

The move will throw a majority of 35,000 Detroit area Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler plant employees out of work.

Chrysler officials said they hoped to maintain production of Dodge trucks until Nov. 11, and to keep assembly lines moving at the Plymouth plant "as close to Nov. 25 as possible."

The Ford Motor Company, also running short of steel, expects to start closing down its big Rouge plants Nov. 11.

"By Nov. 15, when the assembly lines there stop," reported Ford vice - president Ernest R. Breech, "we'll have 115,000 off the payroll."

General Motors Corporation, third member of the automobile industry's Big Three, already has closed a few of its plants temporarily for reallocation of steel supplies.

G. M. is expected to put some of its factories on a four - day week starting today.

Among other auto producers, Nash Motors announced Saturday it would suspend assembly of cars at its main plants in Wisconsin about the middle of November because of the steel and coal stoppages.

About 12,000 workers will be left idle.

Oshawa Strike Still Unchanged

Oshawa, Oct. 31—(CP)— The strike of the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) at the General Motors plant here showed no sign of a break today.

Entrances were picketed—without disorder—for the fifth straight day.

Some 5,300 workers are striking in protest against the dismissal of 23 car employees — three Union stewards and a committee man. The company says they were fired for refusing to work.

The Union is also protesting an alleged company attempt to speed up production on one assembly line.

ODDITIES FOUND

London, Ont., Oct. 31 (CP)— The farm of Andrew Carroll at nearby Elginfield is starting to yield oddities, in the last few days Mr. Carroll has unearthed in a corner of a barn what is believed to be part of a meteor. In a field he found a 18th-century muzzle-loading pistol.

Owen Sound, Oct. 31 — (CP)— Lyle MacBain, 19, a transient apple-picker from New Glasgow, N. S., is lying in hospital here with severe head and arm injuries suffered when his own car hit him after a collision near Meaford Saturday night. Hospital authorities said today his condition was "satisfactory."

MacBain and a companion, Duncan Globain, 18, also of New Glasgow, were pushing MacBain's car along the highway after it had stalled near the western outskirts of Meaford, when an approaching car, which police said was driven by Donald Challis, 32, of Meaford, crashed from the rear.

Triple Drowning Included Among 11 Violent Deaths

(By The Canadian Press)

A triple drowning in which two Indians and a white man lost their lives in the St. Clair river was reported among the 11 violent deaths that occurred in Ontario during the weekend.

A Canadian Press compilation today showed that the fatality list for Eastern Canada was 17 with 11 violent deaths in Ontario and six in Quebec amounting for the total.

Automobile accidents were responsible for 11 deaths; four persons were drowned; one man was electrocuted and a 14-year-old boy died in a cave-in while he was digging in a play fort.

The three men who drowned in the St. Clair River were on their way to the Walpole Island Indian Reservation with two Indian girls when their rowboat struck a rock and sank.

Dead are Thomas Partridge Nahdee, 24, and Tony James, 27, both from the reservation and Orville Taylor, believed to be from Ohio —were thrown into deep water, but the two girls managed to struggle to the rocks and were rescued by another Indian who heard their cries for help. Walpole Island is part of the Delta formed where the St. Clair empties into Lake St. Clair, 15 miles northeast of Chatham.

Body Found Floating

In Ontario's fourth drowning, Mrs. Hilton Porter, 60, who had been in ill health for several months, was found floating in Owen Sound Harbor. An inquest is to be held.

Thain Barker, 47, of Hastings, killed when his truck and an automobile collided near Peterborough, was one of five people killed in traffic accidents in Ontario. The driver of the car was uninjured.

Delbert Bradley, 33, of Ottawa was killed when his automobile left the road four miles north of the city and struck a tree.

A young married woman, Mrs. Jean Cochrane, 28, formerly of Upper Onslow, N.S., was killed in Hamilton when she was struck by an automobile.

Jacqueline Ratcliffe, 18 months, was killed in front of her home near Guelph when she was run over by a truck. The truck driver was not aware of the accident until a friend telephoned him at his home.

Douglas Hong, 24, of Windsor was killed near Amherstburg in his motorcycle crashed head-on into a truck.

Man Electrocuted

Checking electric wiring for fan motors at Creighton Mine, Bernard Tourigny, 26, of Sudbury was electrocuted. Je was found lying beside no 500-volt switch box.

Douglas Burnett, 14, of Toronto's suburban East York, was buried inside a seven-foot tunnel he was digging as a play fort on a golf course. He was dead when dug out. Two companions, who had been carrying earth away, were outside the excavation.

Zepherin Levesque, 69, of Pont Viau, a Montreal suburb, and Nicolla Normand, eight, of Montreal were killed at Lavaltrie, 50 miles northeast of Montreal, in an accident which injured five other members of the family. Police say the car, driven by the dead man swerved to avoid a truck and crashed into a tree.

A second quebec double fatality was reported at St. Hyacinthe when Lucien Allard and his wife of St. Hyacinthe were killed when their motorcycle smashed into an automobile eight miles west of the city.

SIDEWALK SNOW-REMOVAL PROBLEM

Probably one of the most vexatious problems facing Canadian cities every winter is the one of snow removal. Every snow storm is a potential trouble maker, often of great magnitude and yet the public clamors for a service quickly and efficiently performed. Added to the problem of municipal officials is the fact that opinion is divided on how the job can be done best. Another difficulty is that there seems to be no standard equipment which has proven its worth over the years.

The problem in Belleville of clearing sidewalks of snow has been given attention recently by the council with the result a bare majority favored discontinuing the service which was instituted two or three years ago. The factors leading to this decision were inadequacy of equipment, and reports of service poorly rendered. Opposed to this action by the council is a very large body of public opinion which would like to see the work continued.

We feel that the council, with an eye on the tax rate, has perhaps been influenced by a reluctance to purchase extra equipment of a fairly costly nature. Coupled with this, too, may be the fear they would be throwing good money after bad. Most people will agree with this thought, of caution and economy.

However, thrift can be carried too far sometimes, and trying to make some machinery do something for which it was not wholly designed can prove fairly costly and expensive. It is reported that the jeeps used last year were unsatisfactory and were not heavy enough for the work. In their defence we offer the thought that, perhaps, these vehicles were used throughout the year for other jobs and did not receive the proper attention before the winter began. And when heavy, wet snow gets partly frozen or packed down through foot traffic the chance of heavy equipment will do the job satisfactorily. The jeeps have their place in public works departments, but like everything else, they have their limitations, and are not to be condemned for that.

Speaking from a layman's point of view, we would like to see consideration given to a caterpillar type of vehicle with a centre-point plow if it is available and has been used successfully elsewhere. Another suggestion which may be superfluous is that the city be divided into zones with a fairly equal division of the mileage, with one piece of machinery assigned to each section, and an extra unit of equipment held in reserve for emergencies. Finally, let the plowing begin promptly after a certain fall of snow has been recorded, be it day or night. Failure to observe this, we feel, has been one of the main sources of our trouble in the past.

This question of snow removal is no small one but the convenience of our citizens who pay taxes and rent is deserving of every consideration in the matter. The challenge offered for its successful solution is one that should spur the council to action. Returning to snow shovelling by hand is a retrograde move which would prove most unpopular.

HALLOWE'EN AND ITS PLEASURES

Hallowe'en is a relic of long past times and is a source of pleasure and touchstone of imagination today. It presents childhood in this age with many things of make-believe in the mind of the young delighting even if it knows that such events as are supposed to take place are only in the imagination.

There was a time when many things now strange than anything that is accepted on Hallowe'en as imaginary were believed to be real. Time has come to popular imagination and tradition. Wisely progress and modernism have not destroyed these relics entirely and retain their form and at this time even young and old can take part in the functions and the enjoyments of this time without accepting ancient traditions as foundation in fact. At the same time the tradition of Hallowe'en presents a very real body of fact and truth. Besides they have enriched life through the cultivation of the imagination of young and old.

Such times as Hallowe'en are full of a wealth of human experience and happy ideas. Imagination sets the inventor, the scientist and the poet on their courses. What is not owed to this precious instinct of the human heart and mind! The imagination is always at work in young and old, in this age as well as thousands of years ago.

So let's delight in the fun of this Hallowe'en occasion. No adult and no child would spoil the rich development of the ages as expressed in Hallowe'en by making it matter of fact. Imagination is a great human need, an elemental fact in life and progress.

JUST FOLKS

HALLOWE'EN

Opening the door tonight
I shall jump away in fright,
And if what is wrong I'm asked,
I shall say: "A pirate masked
Shouted, as once pirates did;
'Where've you got the booty hid?'"

Hallowe'en! The time that brings terror when the doorbell rings.
Ghosts and goblins, robed in sheets,
Little beggars, sad to see,
Holding baskets out to me,
Pleading: "Help the poor!" I'll note!
"Comin'!" I'll say. "Come in and eat!
Here is welcome warm and true,
We have cookies made for you."
Still it's fun when you've grown old
Entertaining pirates bold.
Lucky he, who plays the host
To a little lady ghost.
Old! That isn't what I mean.
No one's old on Hallowe'en.

Like the wind at night
All grandmas will dismay,
If my hair is gray.

PITCHING HORSESHOES

By Billy Rose

A week from today, New Yorkers will go to the polls to elect a mayor, and one of the issues will be the efficiency, or lack of same, of Mr. O'Dwyer's police department.

I, of course, don't want to get involved in this political ruckus, but I can't go along with the talk about the inefficiency of the average N.Y.P.D. cop. In a thousand and one weeks on Broadway, I've gotten to know a lot of the badge-wearers and I can rattle off dozens of stories which prove that they have a bright policeman," is not necessarily a contradiction in terms. As for instance . . .

On election night, 1947, I was standing at the corner of Broadway and 46th Street with a detective named Jimmy Broderick, since retired, it was the "whiching hour"—the hour when everybody is wondering which movie to see or which saloon to get potted in.

As Broderick and I stood there casing the crowd, a couple came out of the Astor Hotel.

How's for killing an hour in a newsreel first?" I heard the man say.

"I told Miriam we'd be early," said the girl.

"Early is when you get there."

"I promised Miriam we'd get there by 8:30. It's after 9 now."

"I suppose it-ain't never been 8 before," said the man, sticking his palms out as if he were Jolson.

"Miriam's the best friend I've got," said the girl, "and she ain't going to miss her birthday party for no lousy newsreel."

"Don't make no difference," said the man. "I said I'd go, didn't I? We can get there an hour late at the Astor bar," said the girl, "I wouldn't go blowing any candles. The sensation'd break windows for miles."

"That wasn't milk of magnesia you were drinking, Ed," I quipped. "For two cents I'd—"

Detective Broderick stepped out of the crowd which had collected around the couple. "Beat it, Bud," he said to the man.

The man took a fast look at Johnny, bristled, and walked up Broadway. The girl hurried after him.

A bobbysoxer in the crowd laughed, "Guess she still loves him after all," she said.

"Too bad I couldn't spot their hook man," said Broderick, "or I'd have run them in."

"Their what man?" I asked.

"Their hook man," said the detective. "Those two were pickpockets and their spiel was to hold the crowd while the hook man was going through their pockets. I'd like to spot him, but couldn't. Maybe he spotted me first."

"How did you know the couple were crooks?" I asked.

"Oh, crash about the guy having a couple of drinks gave them away," said Broderick. "It isn't 8:30 yet, on election night, in case you've forgotten, you can't buy a drink in New York until after 8:30."

ULCERATED TOOTH

The alveolus or alveolar ridge is the raised thickened area of the upper or lower jaw containing the tooth sockets.

Ulcer means the disintegration or breaking down of the tissue in the surface skin or mucous membrane, attended usually with more or less irritation, inflammation, suppuration or "running"—a "running sore." Cankers are a typical ulcer in the mouth; varicose ulcer on the leg is familiar.

Abscess is a circumscribed or localized formation or gathering of pus ("matter") anywhere in the body, due to infection by such ubiquitous germs as Staphylococcus, Streptococcus, pneumococcus.

Abscesses about the roots of the teeth occurred in prehistoric times. Paleopathologists have found evidence of their bone destructive action in the jaws of ancient Egyptian mummies and the earliest Peruvian skeletons.

Alveolar abscess, the proper name for what most people call "pulled tooth" (usually there is no breaking down of surface tissues), occurs when a cavity (caries, decay) is neglected until the decay penetrates the tooth structure deeply enough to reach the pulp (nerve tissue and blood vessels). When germs reach and infect the pulp chamber the victim, who perhaps has been brushing his teeth like mad, may suddenly feel the latest and most penetrating demonstration of his dentist's toothbrush, gets a message: Jumping toothache.

The poor geek with jumping toothache somehow reminds me of the one who was born with a child—seldom more than one, for reasons we shall consider in a later article—suddenly develops sickness, accident and life insurance. If we, in our infancy, are born with jumping toothache suffers for his own negligence—for his failure to go to the dentist for treatment when the cavity was small and the pain painless treatment. In the case of the man without insurance it is the wife and child who must suffer for the fellow's negligence—for his failure to get adequate insurance to protect his family. In some states the law requires automobile owners to carry at least some insurance to cover damage they may do to other people of their property. There ought to be a law prohibiting the purchase or ownership of a pleasure vehicle or the use of one for pleasure by a man who is not insured against these risks for his family.

After a few days and nights of excruciating pain the dentist lifts the putrefies and the putrefaction produces a wee bit of gas—it takes precious little gas under pressure in the pulp chamber to cause the raised thickened area over the upper or lower jaw containing the tooth sockets.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THOSE EARLY INTERESTS

The mind is never so plastic as in early youth, and especially in childhood, when the faculty of imitation is alive and on fire. The mind then is susceptible to endless and endless early interests. A thousand twigs may be bent at this period of life.

Those early interests are the most golden of anything that later appear. Everything is fresh and new and miraculous as the unfolding of the blossom, and nature being suddenly given the world as a gift! How many times we in our mature years look back to those early days, wondering why we have not kept alive the early interests, from so many pleasures, and from so many thrills.

Many of us have started our initiative and which give to us our incentive to invent, imagine and dream. They are our inheritance. No one should interfere with them. We should not say anyone to take from us that which creation alone gave to us—the power of choice is inherent. A student does not "skip" classes that are made interesting to him.

Many of us carry our earliest interests, or many of them, at least, with us throughout life. In turn, we thrilled at the joy and enthusiasm of the men and women at baseball and football games I can think of no more exhilarating sport than the outing of more interest as life goes on.

People with plenty of interests are not the ones who are always or complain, and such people never grow old. Rather they are they welcomed on every hand. Interests may not keep the heart young, but they do help. They will keep the mind from rusting, and give greater cheer in the aging heart than anything that I know about!

We should say to parents and school teachers: Let the interests of those under your charge "run wild!" Let them grow. Give them its full steam. Leave the brakes in the engine whose interests may occasionally need them. The seeds of genius grow and thrive in the field of interests.

Mackenzie's Column
French Crisis May Precipitate General Election

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press News Analyst)

France again has a cabinet after her longest political crisis in history.

Premier Queuille has survived, but the fundamentals which produced the crisis remain to harrass him. His position is shaky and his tenure of life a matter of doubt.

Consequently he is highly inexitable and this is likely to precipitate a general election. This can be the only effect of the new cabinet based on the imposing figure of Premier Henri Queuille, who has been impatiently advocating such a show-down. This was the view of the Paris press corrtol of Parliament.

The "what" there are many who charge that De Gaulle aims at dictatorship, which he emphatically denies. However, he does project a new constitution which would greatly increase the executive greater powers. Naturally he would be the chief executive.

Bidault's Position Shaky

The new cabinet has been formed by the internationally-known Georgi Bidault. He is the 51-year-old leader of the Christian Republican Movement, better known as the MRP. Bidault was head of the wartime resistance in France and was provincial president premier from June to December, 1946. He also served a long time as foreign minister.

Bidault's cabinet, as those of his predecessors were, is a coalition affair built from the multi-party parties. There is in France a multiplicity of political parties, and therein lies the weakness of Bidault's cabinet.

Moreover, Bidault's program is cmy when he was only 14.

virtually the same as that offered by Socialist Jules Moch and Radical Socialist Edouard Herriot. Rene Mayer, both of whom failed to form a government prior to Bidault's advent.

The new premier as were, Moch and Mayer, is pledged to provide a cost-of-living bonus for the lowest-paid workers. It was a dispute over this that caused the wages which caused the down-fall of the Queuille government.

Outstanding Statesman

So taking it all in all, while Bidault is one of France's outstanding statesmen and political experts, he is not in a position to give the country the kind of stable government France to be an effective factor in world affairs. In fact, it will be surprising if it isn't.

And Gen. De Gaulle is living for the day when he will be called on it will fail. As previously indicated, he is preparing for—rally of his opponents is "dictatorship."

Apropos of this, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in the current installment of her wartime memoirs in Ladies' Home Journal, gives the late president's appraisal of De Gaulle. She quotes F.D.R. thus:

"Gen. De Gaulle is a soldier—patriotic, yes, devoted to his country, yes—but on the other hand he is a politician and a fanatic, and there are in him, I think, almost the making of a dictator."

FRIEND OF VICTIM OF CRASH FOUND DEAD

Vienna, Oct. 31 — (Reuters) — Fifty-eight-year-old Mme. Marcelle Fromel of Vienna was a friend of Gisela Vessely, the French violinist who died in the Azores air disaster last week.

Today she was found dead with the gas pipe of her kitchen stove in her mouth.

A signed photograph of Miss Neveau stood on the table beside her and a pencilled not began: "I am so sad."

ARTISTIC YOUTH

Samuel Palmer, a famous English water color artist, showed three pictures at the Royal Academy when he was only 14.

Plan Charges Against Hunters

Milton, Ont., Oct. 31 — (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police said Sunday they plan charges against four hunters as a result of an incident Saturday in, which a district youth was shot and wounded on a Chinguacousy farm 12 miles northwest of here.

Alan Brooks, 17, of Brookdale, is in Guelph General Hospital with a bullet wound in his right shoulder. Hospital officials describe his condition as "fair."

Brooks told police that, riding on a hay-rack wagon with his sister Alice and a friend, he had gone about 200 yards past a group of hunters beside a parked automobile when he heard a shot and felt a pain in his back.

THE PACKSACK

OF GREGORY CLARK

Nearly all of us have had somebody in the family, at one time or another. This shocking discovery comes when you have old snapshots of which each family has one, who keeps the family album.

And there you find your father or your grandfather or your uncle or your uncle decked out in almost the identical finery that instantly distinguishes the zoot suiter.

Peg-top pants, wide in the seat, narrow and draped at the ankle; long, flaring suit coats; outrageously shirts and collars; and hats . . .

Curl-brimmed bowlers, wide-brimmed straw boaters, gaudy-looking fedoras tastefully tilted on the back of the head so as to show the upsweep curl on the brow. The darndest looking hats.

As you pore, guffawing, amidst the documentary photographs of an era we supposedly had grown the conviction grows upon you that our modern zoot suiters are merely little boys who have somehow got hold of their old sunday family album. One of the surprising characteristics of youth is its unoriginality. Sometimes it takes the form of Indians or cowboys; sometimes knights in armor. Zoot suits probably come of exploring the family album.

In all family albums are three or four photographs that are so terrible, you keep them away to them, time after time, as if to reassure your own eyes. You study the faces of your parents anxiously, in the hope of detecting a mischievous or humorous glint in their eyes which will apologize for the awful clothes they are wearing. You beg them to tell you, across the half century, that they are only fooling, masquerading . . .

But, no; their calm, proud look tells you that they did just as smug about how they looked as we feel about ourselves at this minute. Time is a great joker. But in the eyes of time, we all look alike.

Expectant Father Delivers Child To Mechanic's Wife

New York, Oct. 31 — (AP) — Dr. Harold Elder's head as an expectant father who had been pacing the hospital corridor for 4½ hours stopped outside for a breath of air.

As he stood on the sidewalk, a police car screeched to a stop.

"Quick, get a doctor," said a frantic police precinct as he jumped out. "We're going to have a baby in the car."

Dr. Elder identified himself and hopped into the car.

In the rear seat, kneeling, 14-ounce son to Mrs. Helen Baliney, 25-year-old mother, was waiting.

Then he went back into the hospital where he was told that, five minutes earlier, he had become the father of a five-pound, five-ounce daughter.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE CHRISTIAN FORMULA

The Christian religion is unique in a particular which is sometimes passed over unnoticed. The original claim of Christianity is that if we will master the forces of our inner lives, we will find ourselves able to master the power of outer circumstances.

In other words, religion, according to Christian teaching is not primarily a matter of believing certain creeds or of observing certain pious customs. It is primarily a matter of getting control of our own inner powers of heart, soul, and mind; so that we are no longer devastated by our doubts, wrecked by our passions, or consumed by the subtle sins of ambition, envy and greed.

It was to this mastery of the inner life that Jesus addressed His whole effort. He extended and enlarged upon the teaching of Jewish faith of the prophets and law is written not upon tablets of stone but upon the fleshy tablets of the heart. All real religion is heart religion. All sound spirituality consists in the control of the inner powers of heart, mind, and soul, which we all possess.

Master the inner life, said Jesus Christ, and you will be in a position to master all outer circumstances.

Looking Ahead in Ottawa:

Four-to-Six Man Cabinet Delegation Led by St. Laurent Will Attend the Conference

By the Ottawa Staff of The Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 31 —(CP)— Prime Minister St. Laurent will head a four-to-six man Cabinet delegation into the Dominion - Provincial conference in Ottawa early in January, according to present indications.

It will include Justice Minister Garson, his chief aide in getting through the Commons those provisions of the conference which involve abolition of appeals to the Privy Council and transfer from London to Ottawa of power to amend funeral agreements of constitution.

Others likely to be Defence Minister Claxton, State Secretary Bradley and Solicitor General Lapointe.

The proposed agenda now is under consideration for a parley that will seek a method to amend in Canada those parts of the constitution affecting federal jurisdiction.

Federal sources say the conference should be over before parliament reconvenes by late January or early February. They feel it will be obvious by then whether "we are going anywhere."

Deputy-Governor

Directors of the Bank of Canada are expected to meet here Nov. 28 to decide who will succeed Donald Gordon as deputy-governor of the bank. Mr. Gordon has been appointed president of the Canada National Railways, effective Jan. 1.

Speculation ranges among a half-dozen men.

They include D. G. Marble, Western Canada bank executive now the bank of Canada's secretary; J. E. Coyne, securities advisor since 1946; and Louis Rasminsky, alternate chairman of the Foreign-Exchange Control Board.

The bank directors may pick from among these three or among former bank officials, now holding executive positions of their own in government departments. These include Mac MacKenzie, Deputy Minister of Trade; John Deutsch, Director of International Economics in the Finance Department; and David Mansur, President of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Trade

Officials of the trade and agricultural departments will come in for some close questioning before Parliament prorogues from tradeconscious Senators in the Banking and Commerce Committee.

This Senate committee is scheduled to study a government bill which would extend controls over certain imports and exports for another two years after next March 31.

The bill hasn't reached the Commons, but it threw the Senate into a lively debate on free trade when it was introduced in the Upper Chamber last week. Most Senators showed interest in eliminating these controls, brought down in November, 1947.

Originally controls were imposed on a list of some 500 exports and 97 imports. Since then, the list has dwindled to 127 exports and four imports still controlled by the government under the act.

RAWDON

Combined Missionary Groups Hold Excellent Meeting

Rawdon.—Mrs. Roy Thrasher was hostess for the October meeting of Mount Pleasant Rawdon Woman's Missionary Society, which was held one week later than usual. There was an attendance of 15 members, four visitors and three Baby Band children.

Mrs. Kenneth Weaver played quiet music and she also arranged the program on Thanksgiving.

The president, Mrs. John Holmes, gave the call to worship on "Giving Thanks Always", and all sang "Give Praise and Thanks unto the Lord", followed by a psalm and prayer of general Thanksgiving. An invitation to visit Salem in November was accepted.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, November 8th, at the home of Mrs. George Weaver. Roll call was answered with keyword "Thanksgiving".

Mrs. Blake Sharpe gathered the offering of over $9.

The treasurer reported $40 for Autumn Thank-offering to date.

The stewardship secretary told a story of "Mary and Martha". The Temperance secretary repeated her rally message.

Mrs. Ross Jeffs gave a detailed report of the sectional rally held at Grace Church, Trenton, and Mrs. Will Potts extended thanks.

Heritage of the Church

Mrs. H. C. Vaclavik snopsized the first chapter of "Growing With the Years" by Kenneth J. Beaton. It began with the historic sessions which brought into being the World Council of Churches at Amsterdam, the great heritage of the three united churches, and there are 1,243 pastoral charges and over 3,000 preaching appointments with representatives of over seventy racial strains found in the ranks of the United Church of Canada. The dreams and hopes of June 10, 1925, are still unfulfilled but the church is growing and God's highways shall be lifted up in real fulfillment of the Master's prayer.

Interesting Program

Mrs. K. Weaver read an appropriate poem "Do We Thank Our Father?"; Mrs. Erle Summers sang a vocal selection; Mrs. Percy MacMullen was in charge of the devotional and based her talk on "This History of Thanksgiving and Jesus healing the ten lepers and only one remained to say thanks." Several old hymn books had been procured and all sang "Count Your Many Blessings, Name them one by one, and it will surprise you what the Lord has done."

Isaak Walton has said "Blessings we enjoy daily, and for most of them, because they be so common, most forget to pay their praises.

Mrs. Frank Smith read the scripture passages and Mrs. John Mulheron offered a prayer of Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Arthur Phillips asked the ladies to be prepared to renew their subscriptions in November for 'Monthly and World Friends'.

The hostess served homemade candy and was thanked for her hospitality.

Two Show Centres May Share Honors As Video-Makers

By WAYNE OLIVER

New York — (AP) — Hollywood and New York seem likely to share honors as twin television capitals of the United States.

You can find wide ranges of opinion among telecasters, producers and actors. Some emphatically predict New York will be the video mecca. Others hold out as staunchly for Hollywood.

If you are averaging the extremes and mix in the middle ground opinion, it comes out this way:

Because of the wealth of stage and night club talent in New York, it will continue to be a major television production center, particularly for dramatic shows.

Hollywood, with its movie-colony and cinematic film production facilities, will originate possibly as many as half the network television shows. As well, substantial numbers of programs probably will come from Chicago, Washington and other talent and news centres.

The situation may well parallel that in radio.

The lack of a network connection with the Pacific coast and an early concentration of stations and acts in the eastern half of the country has made New York the established television capital so far.

Broadway Helped

Likewise, Broadway's theatrical colony has made a far greater contribution to television's progress than Hollywood. It provided an accessible source of talent readily adaptable to television's requirements for memorizing scripts and giving sustained performances — with no re-takes.

To take part in network television, Hollywood's actors would have to move to New York or spend much of their time there. That would eliminate or seriously interfere with their film activities. Yet a few have done that, including William Gargan, Philip Reed, Neil Hamilton and Conrad Nagel.

However, Hollywood's contributions have been by no means negligible. It has produced a number of films especially for television, and released to video many old pictures no longer having theatre box office value. Many of television's best known performers from the stage also are movie veterans.

Hollywood's full weight probably will not be felt until completion of a television network connection to the coast — still two or more years away by all indications.

Kinescoping — or film recording — is being held out now as a means of making Hollywood's talent available to the rest of the country. On a live telecast in Hollywood, a camera would be turned on the screen of a receiving set and a film made of the program. This film then would be flown east for later showing on the eastern networks.

Meanwhile, television's growth continues by leaps and bounds. There are 83 U. S. stations on the air in 48 cities, compared with 30 stations in 30 cities at the start of the year and 17 stations in 10 cities at the beginning of 1948.

The total of sets in use has risen to about 2,250,000 compared with 1,000,000 last Jan. 1 and 200,000 at the start of 1948.

Pigeons to Aid Fight Against Cattle Disease

Johannesburg—(CP)— Pigeons are to be used in the Transvaal in the fight against sterility diseases in cows.

The threat from epivaginitis which has been creeping down towards the Union from Kenya and has already attacked South African cattle, will be reduced by the immediate introduction of a great co-operative scheme of artificial insemination.

The Transvaal Artificial Insemination Co-operative Limited was formed recently. There are already 150 farmer members from all parts of the Transvaal.

Preliminary research work has been carried out and plans have been made to set up a stud of about a dozen of the finest bulls.

Semen will be flown from the stud centre in Johannesburg by carrier pigeons to sub-centres throughout the province. No other method of transportation would be economically possible, it is stated.

Important Scheme

The introduction of this scheme will play a big part in reducing the danger of epivaginitis, contagious abortion and other sterility diseases. It will also mean the availability of a stud of the best breeds to farmers who wish to step up the quality of their cattle.

It is expected that other provinces will shortly follow Transvaal's example. The scheme, it is stated, will cost the farmer less than the maintenance of an ordinary grade bull and he will have the advantage of the best blood in the country.

The pigeons, to be lent by the Transvaal Homing Pigeon Association, and the Union Defence Force Signals Corps, are considered more reliable, faster and cheaper than any method of mechanical transport. And, more important, by the refrigerating action of flying through the air, they will keep the semen fresh. In recent tests, the semen was carried in dental syringe cartridges and small glass phials.

It has been decided that a pigeon will do a regular trip, perhaps once a day, to the big sub-centres carrying enough semen to inoculate all available cows in the district.

THOMASBURG

Four Appointments Hold Congregational Supper

Thomasburg.—The four different appointments of the Thomasburg United Church charge, Moira, Eggleton, West Huntingdon and Thomasburg held a congregational supper in the Oddfellows' Hall on Tuesday evening. More than 200 people, representing these places sat down to a delicious pot luck supper.

Following the supper, an enjoyable program was presented in the auditorium of the church. Miss Helen Sulman of Belleville, delighted both old and young with her readings. Solos and duets by Mrs. Fred Houston and Mrs. Bill Burgoyne and piano and banjo numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Dorland Houston and Mrs. Fred Houston, also of Belleville.

The Rev. Morley Clarke is the minister in charge. The proceeds from the supper were gratifying and everyone felt that an enjoyable evening had been spent.

Thomasburg — On Tuesday evening Messrs. Cecil Geen and William Geen represented Christ Church, Thomasburg, congregation at the annual Prince Edward Deanery Laymens' Banquet at Christ Church Parish Hall in Belleville. They accompanied the Rev. H. F. Fletcher and Messrs. Everett Geen, Earl Grey and Sammie Stirk of Roslin. The Roslin parish is included in the Hastings Deanery which was holding its banquet the following evening at Bancroft, but, owing to distance these laymen were invited to the Prince Edward Deanery Laymens' Banquet.

Among those from Thomasburg who attended the funeral of the late Mr. Charles Knight at the Stone United Church, Fourth of Sidney, on Wednesday were Mrs. John Clarke, Miss Phoebe Kerr and Mr. Robert Kerr; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Coulter; Mrs. Ross Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Melburne Adams. Sympathy of this community goes to Mrs. Knight and family in their bereavement. The late Mr. Knight had many friends in this vicinity.

Some from here attended the annual Warden's Banquet at St. Carthagh's Hall in Tweed, on Wednesday evening with the ladies of the Eastern Star catering.

Surveyors are busy surveying the new roadbed which the new highway will take. It will be east of Thomasburg village.

The Hungerford township road men are busy this week laying new cement sidewalks in the village. Some time ago the employees of the Department of Highways re-built the stone wall which l... given way from constant wear and water washing.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Jones received word that their eldest son, Roy, of Tweed, had met with a painful accident while at work at the Rumi Veneer plant when he had the misfortune to have his jaw fractured and chest injuries. He was taken to Belleville hospital for X-rays to determine the extent of his injuries.

Feeney Dismissed From Jesuit Order

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 29 (AP) — Rev. Leonard J. Feeney, S. J. central figure of a six-month public dispute with Catholic Archbishop Richard J. Cushing, was dismissed Friday night from the Jesuit Order.

Father Feeney himself announced the dismissal and said it was "for disobedience."

The noted Jesuit author, poet and lecturer — deprived of his priestly functions by Archbishop Cushing since Jan. 1—summoned reporters to St. Benedict's Centre to tell the latest development in his argument with the hierarchy.

He said that at 6 P.M. he received a registered letter from Rev. John J. McEleney, S.J., New England Provincial of the Society of Jesus, enclosing a decree from Very Rev. Jean Baptiste Janssens, General of the Order at Rome.

Father Feeney said the letter, in Latin, concluded with this sentence:

"By reason of a letter received Oct. 21, 1949, written by the Very Rev. Jean Baptiste Janssens, General of the Society of Jesus, your dismissal from the Society of Jesus has been approved."

The Catholic Chancery had no comment on the announcement. This was in line with its rule of silence throughout the controversy.

The dispute arose over the contention of a group led by Father Feeney that there is no salvation for persons outside the Catholic Church. Late in July the Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office in Rome declared that this view was "far from being genuine Catholic teaching."

33 Marriage Laws Unknown by Brides

London — (CP) — Every day hundreds of starry-eyed girls are married — but, says the Married Women's Association, their starry eyes don't look closely at their legal positions as married ,women.

So the association has asked the government to publish a cheap booklet giving newly-weds a summary of Britain's marriage laws.

"There are 33 marriage laws," said Lady Eileen Nutting, chairman of the association, "and most boys and girls marry without the slightest knowledge of them.

"They show that a wife does not legally own a two-penny-halfpenny stamp to put on a letter to write to her mother. Nothing in the home is legally hers — unless she can prove she bought it or that it was given to her.

"That isn't right. The wife contributes as much to the home as the husband, only here is in kind instead of money. If there is no wife, there is no home."

Kullman Displays Exceptional Talent in Recital Given Here

(By Eugena Lang)

On Saturday evening the Collegiate auditorium was filled with music lovers from the city and district as the opening concert of the 1949-50 series of the Community Concert Association got under way, the artist of the evening being Charles Kullman, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Association and the San Francisco Opera Association.

An American by birth, Mr. Kullman became widely known in Europe after winning a scholarship from the Juilliard School of Music in New York, where he studied for three years. His operatic debut after studying in France was at the Kroll Opera in Berlin in 1931, after winning a great favorite in Berlin, Vienna and London, not to mention the famous yearly Salzburg Festival, he came back to America as the leading male soloist at the Metropolitan in 1935 in the title role of Faust. He has since sung in the leading opera houses of both North and South America, besides appearing on the screen and in concert, in which capacity he appeared in Belleville in his initial recital Saturday evening. He has sung practically all of the major 36 lyric roles of the standard operatic repertoire.

Contrasting Numbers

His opening group consisted of four numbers of varying vocal artistry from 17th and 18th century sources. Two early Italian operatic excerpts, "Invocation of Orfeo" from the music-drama "Euridice" of Peri, and the seldom heard "Nel cor piu non mi sento" from Paisiello's "Il Barbiere di Seviglia" were given a touching eloquence in Mr. Kullman's interpretation of these songs of great charm. The ever popular "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" and the boisterous drinking song "When Dull Care," examples of Irish and English folk music of coach and post-horn times were also sung in traditional style by Mr. Kullman.

The second group of the recital consisted of German Lieder from the pen of Schubert, Schumann, Franz, and Richard Strauss. The songs included in this portion of the program may not have been as familiar to the audience as the two encores given at their conclusion. Hemy is the song typified vein ("Ich Liebe Dich" of Grieg and "Standchen" of Schubert), but nevertheless very rendered in a most appealing and understanding manner. Now worthy of the Art Song (another name for German Lieder) of the 19th nineteenth century is music of the very highest vocal character demanding a concentrated insight into the very essence of the music, the words and the poetic idea that is the result of the combination of these two factors, and only a singer of gifted talents can put this across in a readily receivable manner to his listeners. All emotions must be felt deeply by the artist, whether it be the ecstatic loveliness of Schumann's "Widmung" (dedication) or the forceful implications found in Strauss's "Heimliche Aufforderung", and in all these numbers Mr. Kullman excelled beyond reproach and expectation.

The familiar aria "E lucevan le stelle" from Puccini's "La Tosca" was sung in a touching and moving style that fully exhibited the fine qualities of Mr. Kullman's marvellous voice.

Appealing Members

Following the intermission songs and arias of varying types were given top notch performances by the artist, running the vocal gauntlet from the peaceful intonation of the aria "Le Reve" from Massenet's "Manon" through Spanish flavorings of the rhythmic "Guitare et Mandoline" by Saint-Saens down to the whimsical satirical humor of "Old Mother Hubbard" by the modern English composer, Hutchison Written in the delightful Handelian idiom, reminiscent of some of the latter master's best tenor excerpts from his oratorios.

The final group of selections sung by Mr. Kullman consisted of songs by living composers, some well known, and other less frequently heard. All of these compositions including among others the "Harbor Night" of Sidney Russell, a restful yet impressionistic song; "The Irish Man" of Richard Hageman, a quaint ditty with a surprise like ending; and John Masefield's immortal poem "Sea Fever" set to music descriptively by John Adams Loud, were sung with definite characteristic feelings by this distinguished tenor.

To the warm and continued applause of the large audience Mr. Kullman responded graciously throughout the recital by giving a total of ten encores, among them being, to name only a few, the "Ave Maria" of Schubert, "Do Not Go My Love" by Richard Hageman, "Sylvia" by Oley Speaks, and the waltz selection from the "Gypsy Baron" of Johann Strauss. To the mind of this writer Mr. Kullman responded more generously than was actually necessary, five to seven numbers being sufficient for encores. However, all the songs used as encores were vocalized in a most pleasing manner, and left the audience well pleased and satisfied with the fine menu that had been given them.

Three Piano Numbers

Mr. Constantine Callinicos, the well known pianist of the Toronto Conservatory, played three solo piano works as his contribution to the evening's entertainment. His featured composition was the extremely difficult and vivacious "Polonaise in Minor" Op. 20 of Chopin, a number to which he responded with the utmost agility and facility, but not losing sight of the tonal splendors that abound in this work. For encores Mr. Callinicos played two of his own compositions, "Greek Dance No. 1", unusual in its tonality and revelatory rhythms spiced with fire and fury as it rushed to its close.

As a second encore, Chopin was again represented by the familiar Waltz, Op. Etude in G. Flat Major, Op. 10, No. 5, well manipulated by this young man whose accompaniments to Mr. Kullman were most sensitive and true to the spirit of each vocal selection of the recital.

Finally it must be mentioned that Mr. Callinicos has a charming stage personality, one that seemed to give the audience a feeling of more informality, thus resulting in more artistic and finished numbers that might be unfamiliar to some present, this being a decided asset to the artist's recital that is only acquired through a thorough knowledge of how to give the audience at ease with both the artist and themselves.

Aussie Housewife Sea-Shell Expert

Sydney, Australia — (CP) — An Australian housewife, who leads a double life as the Australian Museum's expert on sea-shells, is writing and illustrating a book which will introduce Australia to the colorful undersea life surrounding the continent.

She is Mrs. H. W. Kirkpatrick, known by scientists as conchologist, and her book, describing more than 1,000 species of shells, will be the first "popular" book of its kind.

Her 12 color drawings and 500 ink sketches will deal especially with the beautiful coloured specimens in the Great Barrier Reef off the coast of northern Queensland.

She writes under the pen-name of Joyce Allan. She began studying shells as a child hobby and gained her specialized knowledge as a cadet scientist at the museum.

A handsome brunette with a charming smile, Mrs. Kirkpatrick finds time to join her husband in a game of golf while writing her book.

"It's fascinating work," she says. "I have never been bored in my life."

For Taste Treat Tea is Slurped

Montreal — (CP) — Slurping is a "must" for anyone wanting to get the real taste of tea, Joseph Gilmore, head tea tester for one of Canada's largest tea companies said recently.

"The cup quality is the prime consideration in tea drinking," he said. "Good tea is an amber or rich orange color. But aroma and especially taste are also considered."

In tasting, the loud noise with which the tea is slipped was necessary to distribute the liquid over the entire palate.

Watch Those Eyes— Beware of Green

Regina — (CP) — It's all in the color of a woman's eyes, says a browning city police detective.

If she has green eyes, look out! Hiding behind a cute and sunny smile, the detective warned recently that green-eyed females are bad business.

"I've seen more men running away from green-eyed girls than all others put together," he said.

"Some of them seem to be more than the boys can handle.

"They drive men to drink and all kinds of other excesses. However, many cases they seem to be too possessive and emotional."

Aged Couple Takes Three-Year Junket

Ottawa — (CP) — Forty-two years of automobile travel is a record of sorts for Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hover of Fess a Grifin, near St. Petersburg Florida.

In Ottawa for a two-day visit, they told of more than 1,000,000 miles covered by auto and of the 50,000 miles ahead of them before they returned home.

Their current journey is a three-year effort, but Mr. Hover, an engineer, contractor and real estate man, is planning a holding of it. "Why, the last trip we took lasted six years," he said.

Travel by automobile is somewhat different today from what it was in 1907 when the tousle-loving couple bought their first car — a Maxwell two-cylinder job.

They — Herbert, 81, and his wife, Maia, 72—recall a trip they made one year later from Tijuana, Mexico, to New York. Mr. Hover smilingly recollects that they packed the Maxwell, with 300 feet of rope, double block and tackle, a shovel, crowbar, axe, saw, compass, 20 extra spark plugs, 10 tires, 30 inner tubes, canvas and an emergency supply of gasoline. Emergency equipment in their present 1948 sedan is a car jack in case of a flat tire.

Last summer they passed through several states, the Maritimes and central Canada. They're continuing across Canada to Alaska, then back through the U.S. to the West Indies, Central and South America.

They are looking forward to "rounding Cape Horn in a car." Their South American schedule calls for a drive down the west and up the east coasts.

He and his wife said they were most impressed by the "rugged beauty" of Canada.

Montreal, Oct. 31.—(CP)—Eight ounce gloves, instead of the customary six, will get a real test tonight when Gaby Ferland and Bernard Doucette trade punches.

The Montreal Athletic Commission recently ordered that half-pound gloves be used by all boxers over the lightweight class.

Elmer (Honcho Herald) Ferguson says undoubtedly the change in legislation is well meant, and may reduce the number of cuts inflicted by lighter gloves. But whether it will mitigate against head injuries, the real objective of the idea, is something else again, he says.

"It is the jolting force behind the blow, not the size of the gloves, which does the damage. Wearing gloves of any reasonable weight, fighters with heavily padded hands have no fear of breaking metacarpal bones."

Fergy says this jolting has hurt many boxers and has been responsible for punch-drunk fighters.

"When comparing gloved hands with bare fists," says Fergy, "the bandaged and gloved hand offers a combination that increases the striking power of the pugilist and carries with it a bludgeon-like impact that the bare fist lacked.

"The bare knuckles cut and slashed, but didn't stun because the same power couldn't be thrown behind them over long periods."

Costly Victory For the Flyers

North Bay, Oct. 31. (CP)—A puck-weary North Bay Black Hawk team just didn't have the speed and polish to cope with the classy Ottawa R.C.A.F. Flyers and dropped a 5-3 argument in Eastern Canada Hockey League game here Saturday night.

It was North Bay's fourth game in as many nights and the gruelling pace clearly showed on the Bay Braves. The loss was the second in a row at the hands of the leading airmen, who whipped them 6-4 Friday.

It was a costly victory for Flyers, however, as they lost the services of defenceman George Pumple. Pumple was cut seriously by by Frank Ringler's skate in a freak collision. The skate cut through and severed an artery in Pumple's thigh.

He bled profusely and could not be removed to the hospital until he received medical aid on the ice surface. It was feared he might bleed to death but an immediate operation, to pull the artery back together again, by Dr. L. L. Crowe of North Bay saved his life.

The accident caused R.C.A.F. officials with the team to summon several surgeons from Ottawa. They were flown in but by the time they had arrived Dr. Crowe had pulled the artery back again.

Hugh Campbell starred for the air force with two goals while Patsy Guzzo, Ted Hibbard and Robinson each notched one. Dave Morland and Jack Leckie collected the North Bay markers.

Rule Changes Willbe Forwarded To Executive

Hamilton, Oct. 31 — (CP) — Members of the rules committee of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association Sunday drafted a set of recommendations to be forwarded to the executive committee of the O. A. S. A.

Present at the meeting, which lasted most of the day, were President Jack Ellis of Hamilton; George Campbell, Oshawa; secretary, Frank Fever, Hamilton; Charlie Lewis, Toronto; Jack Garrett, Simcoe, and John Brewe, London.

One of the suggestions forwarded to the executive is that the quick return pitch not be allowed in future and time out is to be called if such a pitch is made. A change in the no lead rule has been suggested to clarify the ruling to prevent a runner juggling or hesitating. Another ruling that was clarified is that if a base runner on base is hit with the ball he is out regardless of the infield fly rule.

Arrangements are to be made for a Dominion softball final in 1950. It was decided that the first such final will be in Toronto in conjunction with the Canadian National Exhibition.

SAINTS BACK IN TIE

(By The Associated Press)

Goals by Bill Ramsden and Gino Ronzini within 23 seconds late in the game gave St. Paul a 4-3 victory over Tulsa Sunday night and put the Saints back in a tie with Minneapolis for first place in the United States Hockey League.

St. Paul has won four games and lost one by a single goal in its six starts this season. It was the third defeat in a week for Tulsa's Oilers, who lost to Minneapolis Saturday, 9-2.

Kansas City Mohawks clicked well against Omaha last night, defeating the Knights 6-1 on superior all-around play.

Tuesday night St. Paul will play at Tulsa and Kansas City at Louisville.

Rough Riders and Alouettes Will Meet in Two-Game Series To Decide Title of Big Four

(By The Canadian Press)

Everything's ready for the play-off joustings in Canada's three Grey Cup football leagues — except for the formality of playing out the schedules—but the champion of the East's colorful Intercollegiate Union still is anybody's guess.

Ottawa Rough Riders virtually booted Toronto Argonauts out of the Big Four playoffs Saturday with a hard-fought 30-24 triumph. Montreal planted the final kick Sunday when they whipped Hamilton Wildcats 39-18 to clinch the second playoff position, mathematically.

The Riders, defending Eastern Canada champions, thus will meet Alouettes in a two - game total - point series to decide which plays the Ontario Rugby Football Union winner for the right to meet the west.

The other two leagues had previously declared playoff opponents. In the O. H. F. "C" Intermediate Tigers against Sarnia Imperials. In the Western Canada League, Regina's Saskatchewan Roughriders will try to dethrone the Dominion champion Calgary Stampeders in a two-game total-point series opening at Regina Nov. 5.

The Big Four title series opens at Montreal Nov. 9 after the league disposes of its two windup games next Saturday. The O. R. F. U. also starts its home-and-home playoff with a mid-week game Nov. 9 but the venue is undecided because Sarnia still has a slim chance of tying Hamilton for first place.

Sarnia Keeps Pace

Sarnia kept two points behind Tigers by defeating Bishop Beach 18-10 at Toronto Saturday night after Tigers drubbed Windsor Rockets 29-5 at Hamilton. If the tail - end Beaches upset Hamilton next Saturday while Sarnia beats Windsor, Hamilton and Sarnia will finish tied for first.

The East's intercollegiate circuit, which does not challenge for the Dominion title, was thrown into confusion Saturday by twin upsets. University of Toronto upset Western Mustangs 7-0, handing Mustangs their first defeat in four starts in a game that packed Varsity Stadium's 20,157 seats. Queen's Golden Gaels surprised even more by blanking McGill Redmen 15-0 at Kingston.

Those results left the leading Mustangs two points ahead of McGill and Varsity Blues at 4-2 and with two victories each against two losses. Under intercollegiate rules that call for a sudden - death playoff only if the second - place team has defeated or played two ties with the leader during the season, Varsity appears to have the best chance of forcing a playoff with Western.

But McGill could do it by beating Varsity in Toronto next Saturday and going on to defeat Western in the Redmen's windup. Queen's is Toronto's final opponent after McGill.

Varsity's opening - quarter touchdown by Tony Cmuti, plunging half from Sudbury, playing his first senior game, was enough to beat Western. Bruce Cummings, triple-threat from Ottawa—while it safe by punting 50 into half singles.

First Shutout Since 1938

It was the first time Johnny Metras' Mustangs were shut out since McGill did it in 1938 and a post-season playoff in 1939 and only the third time they were beaten since then. Jack Masterson's Blues handed Mustangs their two previous defeats last season to end their championship reign.

Queen's triumph was even more startling because their two injured stars — Ross McKivoy and Al Lenard—were scouting at Varsity Stadium. End Tip Logan carried the mail for Frank Tyndall's Tricolor, scoring a touchdown and kicking two converts and a single.

Dave Bryan, a Hamilton product, filled in for Lenard and set up two Queen's touchdowns on passes tossed to Ends Bill Eagles, Jack Sisson, a Peterborough boy, scored the other Queen's major.

In the west, Lee Lear's Stampeders showed they are sharp for their title defence by blanking Edmonton Eskimos 27-0 at Calgary before a crowd of 2,000. Some 3,500 watched Saskatchewan whip the last-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers 15-1. The Western League's schedule winds up tonight when Calgary meets Edmonton in a single game.

Armstrong Starts On Another Good Hockey Season

(By The Canadian Press)

Black - haired, 19-year-old George Armstrong has started on another good hockey year.

The husky centre from Skead, Ont., started off the Ontario Hockey Association junior series quietly but Saturday rattled in four goals to pace his Toronto Marlboros to a 5-3 decision over the last-place Windsor Spitfires. The victory left the Dukes in a second-place tie with Barrie Flyers.

Armstrong, who sparked the Dukes last year, got three of his goals when they counted most. Tommy Mounsey of Windsor had opened the scoring at 8:28 of the second period but Jack Armstrong got two goals within a minute before the period ended. He started off the third period with the third one.

In senior games during the weekend, a three-goal splurge by Earl Chevrefils paced Barrie Flyers to a 4-3 victory over Galt Black Hawks at Galt, Guelph Biltmores moved into three-way tie for fifth place by trimming Oshawa Generals 4-2 and St. Catharines Teepees remained atop the league with a 5-1 victory over Toronto St. Michael's College Majors.

Dutchmen Down Tigers

In the only senior game the third-place Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen downed the last-place Hamilton Tigers 4-2.

At Toronto, the Dutchmen rode down the Dukes' 3-1 lead at the halfway mark of the third period when Erwin Grosse scored. Grosse got his second goal shortly after Lorne Ike tallied for the Dukes and then Armstrong finished off the scoring.

At Galt, it was a penalty to Jack Hill that contributed to the Hawks' defeat. Hawks, Hill was serving a two-minute sentence Chevrefils counted two goals to the delight of the fans. Goal scorers for Galt were George Cord, Jack Green and Pete Conacher.

Biltmores Take Command

At Oshawa some 2,800 fans saw the Biltmores take command from the opening whistle and hold it throughout. They got the only goal of the first period when Vic Dimarco fired a long shot through a maze of players' legs just after Louie Jankowski returned from the penalty box.

Then Don Bellringer scored two quick goals in the second period and Thomas added one up with a single to put the Biltmores ahead 4-0. Tom Gerrais returned in the final frame with Marcel Clements scoring two quick goals.

The Teepees capitalized on Toronto's defence lapses as they went ahead 2-0 in the first period, added three unanswered markers in the second and then split two goals in the final period.

Red Sullivan, Jim White, Con Switzer, Jack McIntyre, Bill Alstott and Bud Boone each scored for the Teepees. Bill Dineen was the only Toronto scorer.

Capacity Crowd

The Dutchmen, playing before a capacity crowd of 2,700 fans, tallied two goals in the first period which lasted almost until the midway mark of the third session, when the Bengals broke loose for two markers to tie the game.

The Dutchmen took advantage of a penalty to Bush to score their first and winning goal. Bill Flick connecting from the right side. Jack Sherbuck finished off the scoring on a three-man attack. Other Dutchmen marksmen were Mike Dmitro and Don Bauer while Bush and Bill Dinning tallied for the losers.

No games are scheduled for tonight. Tomorrow two senior games and three junior tilts are slated.

The Dutchmen meet Owen Sound Mercurys at Owen Sound and Toronto Marlboros move to Hamilton for a game with the Tigers. The junior schedule: Galt at St. Michael's; Oshawa at Marlboros and Guelph at St. Catharines.

Toronto Leafs Move to Top Of N.H.L. by Winning Two Games During the Weekend

By HARRY ECCLES
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

There was drama in the nets Sunday night when Chicago Black Hawks plastered a 10-4 defeat on the Boston Bruins.

In the Boston goal there was rookie Jack Gelineau, thinking to himself that the old spot as Sugar Gilly's goalie in the Intercollegiate Union never was as tough as the National Hockey League racket. And in the Chicago net there was Frankie Brimsek, who made his name as "Mr. Zero" in brilliant seasons for the same Bruins. That shower of Chicago rubber must have made Frankie wince, even though it was on his behalf.

The Bruins were beaten 8-1 at Toronto Saturday night, making a total of 18 counters past Gelineau in two nights. At that the rookie put up a valiant battle. He had 36 saves Sunday night to 29 for Brimsek. At Toronto Saturday he had to handle 40 shots and goal while the Bruins had only 20 chances.

The results of the full weekend of NHL games knotted up the standings. Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago each won two games, and today the Leafs are in front by a point over Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens tied for second. Boston, New York Rangers and Chicago are all tied for fourth place, another three points back.

On Saturday Detroit edged Montreal 1-0 and Chicago blanked New York 2-0. Sunday, the Leafs vaulted into first place by beating New York 4-3 and Montreal avenged themselves with a 4-1 victory over the Wings at Detroit.

Seven Hawks Figure

Seven Hawks figured in the Sunday scoring at Chicago. Rookie Bert Olmstead, Gaye Stewart and Bill Mosienko each got two goals, and Gadsby, Prystai, Doug Bentley and Roy Conacher got the others. Bill Quackenbush, Ed Harrison, Zellio Toppazzini and Paul Ronty scored for Boston.

At New York the Leafs had to come from behind a 2-0 deficit. Ranking Bill Barilko scored two Toronto goals, Sid Smith and Fleming Mackell getting the others, while Pat Egan and Alex Kaleta did the honors for Rangers.

The other Sunday game ended the goal - scarcity for Canadiens. When Billy Reay scored at 1:35 of the opening period. It was the first goal in 225 minutes of play for the Montrealers, shut out in the three previous games. Leo Gravelle scored two and Maurice Richard got the other. Lee Fogolin scored the Detroit goal.

Two Wings Hurt

Two Red Wings were hurt. Gordie Howe injured an ankle injury and a slight head injury when he missed a body check and crashed into the boards. Ted Lindsay was taken off with a groin injury but returned to play part of the final period.

At Toronto Saturday night big Harry Watson scored three times in the onslaught against Bruins, thereby winning a television set from team-mate Bill Barilko. Barilko and his brother Alex are partners in a Toronto radio store, and Bill has offered a set to each Leaf scoring three goals in a single game.

Max Bentley scored two goals and Garth Boesch, Howie Meeker and Joe Klukay got the others. Cal Gardner had four assists. The only Boston scorer was Paul Ronty, whose goal made it a 1-1 tie early in the second period.

Rookie Steve Black's first-period goal was the only one at Montreal Saturday. Canadiens had 28 shots against 21 for Detroit.

Scores Prystai and Bill Mosienko were the scorers as Chicago blanked the Rangers at New York Saturday. Both counters came in the first period while New York was shorthanded.

TORONTO METEORS WIN

Lindsay, Ont. (CP)—Bill Gallagher fired four goals in a losing cause as Georgetown Raiders dropped a fast, free-scoring exhibition game to the Senior 'B' Toronto Meteors by a 10-7 count here Saturday night. Dutch Dalrast, Bill Sprague and Doug Brooks paced the Meteor marksman with two goals each. Bobby Dean starred in the winners nets by kicking out 55 shots.

Napanee Loses 6-4 on Sunday To Even Series

Wallaceburg, Oct. 31—(CP) — Napanee and Wallaceburg remained deadlocked in the Ontario Baseball Association Intermediate "B" final after Wallaceburg won 6-4 Sunday to bring the best-of-three provincial final at a game apiece.

Napanee was the first game at Napanee last Wednesday 2-1 and the second game played here Saturday ended in a 4-4 tie in the 11th inning.

Sunday's game before a crowd of 3,000 was to have been the first of a doubleheader but the visitors, who had tired out their two-man pitching staff, refused to play because of an alleged infringment of a deal concerning expenses.

Joe Killoran, business manager of the Napanee team, said the third and deciding game will be played on neutral grounds.

The course of true bridge never runs smooth. You can bid right. You can play perfectly. You can reach the correct contract. And you can be defeated through no fault of your own.

A deal that came to a bad end was this:

♦ J 10 9 8 7
♣ 7 5 4 3

WEST	EAST
♠ Q 10 8	♠ K J 9
♥ 9 4 3 2	♥ 7 6
♦ None	♦ 10 9 8
♣ 6 5 4	♣ 7 3 2
2 2	♠ None
♣ 9	♣ 6 2

SOUTH
♠ None
♥ A K Q 6 5
♦ A K Q
♣ A K Q J 10

There is no doubt that the contract should go to a grand slam in something. Such a bid should be a laydown by all calculations of sound bidding. But it blew a fuse somewhere.

South had a final choice of ending at seven no-trump or seven diamonds or seven clubs. The north bidding had revealed the spade ace. So, it was known that no-trump would stand up.

But south chose to make it seven clubs. Probably because he saw the additional revenue to be had from his royal flush of honors. Anyway, seven clubs it was.

Up jumped the devil when west led a diamond. This was ruffed by east who came back a heart. West ruffed this heart and returned a diamond that east ruffed for down three.

North hopped all over his partner for not bidding seven diamonds. He mingled his complaint with something about partners who think they have to play all the hands for the partnership.

It was pointed out to north that the lead would then be in east if diamonds were trumps. A heart lead from there would have defeated the diamond grand slam. Which, of course, was true.

North was going to come back with the fact that they would be down only one instead of three. But he discovered a better one. He blamed south for not bidding seven no-trump. He had something there.

Having heard club support from north, it sounded like the best trump suit. But it was getting late. And this was no time to prove it.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Oct. 31 — (AP) — The latest thing on the exploitation front in Hollywood is "beefcake," the exposure of famous male frames. And what do the glamor girls think of it?

This male counterpart of cheesecake has been much in the movie news lately. Bare-chested pictures of Alan Ladd, Richard Conte, Victor Mature, Kirk Douglas, Robert Ryan, Lex Barker and others have been widely circulated to help advertise films.

The question: Are the female stars concerned about the men muscling in on their territory? To determine this I asked a number of actresses how they feel about beefcake. The replies:

Ava Gardner—"It's sensational. Imagine if they showed Montgomery Clift that way! Really, though, I don't think it will replace cheesecake. Women like men's minds."

Eleanor Parker — "I guess it's all right to show a man's chest when the situation in a picture calls for it. But I don't think it will have the appeal of cheesecake."

Mind Over Matter

Jeanne Crain — "Frankly, I think it's what's in a man's mind that makes him attractive."

Pat Neal — "It's lovely."

Virginia Mayo — "I guess it's okay for those men who have builds good enough to expose. But men can't wear falsies."

Janet Leigh — "I can do without it. The male form is usually better hidden."

Denise Darcel — "Zut! It's wonderful. I love it."

Shelley Winters — "I'm all for the men showing their handsome torsos. Let's have more of it."

Joan Caulfield — "Going to a musical show where the chorus girls are unclad is about as thrilling for a girl as a visit to a YWCA gym. I think it's about time the fellows showed their biceps."

Mrs. C.S. Hadley To Wed Vice-Pres. Of United States

St. Louis, Oct. 31—(AP)—Mrs. Carleton S. Hadley announced Sunday night that she and vice-president Alben W. Barkley of the United States will be married Nov. 18. The place will be announced later. The 71-year-old widow made the announcement in her apartment as the 71-year-old vice-president and former Kentucky Democratic Senator stood by her side. Barkley's first wife, Dorothy Brower Barkley, whom he married in 1903, died in 1947.

Only a few close friends of the couple and reporters and photographers were present when Mrs. Hadley made the announcement.

Mrs. Hadley, a trim brunette, met Barkley in Washington last summer through a mutual friend, Clark Clifford, of President Truman's White House staff.

The vice-president later made several trips to St. Louis to see Mrs. Hadley.

Barkley's married daughter, Mrs. Max Truitt, has served as his official hostess.

Mrs. Hadley's husband, a prominent railroad counsel, died in 1945 at the age of 52. She has two daughters, Anne, 17, and Jane, 14.

Mrs. Hadley is known among her friends as a Republican and during the 1940 presidential campaign worked at Wendell Willkie's St. Louis headquarters.

Royal Copeland Proved Fleetest Of Backfielders

(By The Canadian Press)

Royal Copeland of Toronto Argonauts proved the fleetest of three starry footballers in a special 100-yard race Sunday at Montreal.

Dressed in full football uniform and carrying a ball, Copeland, Tom Casey of Hamilton Wildcats and Virgil Wagner of Montreal Alouettes set out to prove something or other among the title Four league stars:

It was practically a blanket finish with only a step or so between the three at the end. Copeland's winning time was 11.1 seconds.

Howie Turner, of Ottawa, Rough Riders was unable to fill his engagement to round out a field of four because of an injury suffered in Saturday's Argos-Ottawa football game.

The special race was run just before the Wildcats-Alouettes game, won 28-18 by Alouettes who made sure of a playoff place.

Four skaters, three from Toronto and one from Vancouver, will represent Canada at the world figure skating championships in London next March 6-8.

They were chosen at Toronto Saturday at the 36th annual meeting of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, which also decided to hold the 1950 Canadian Figure Skating Championships in St. Catharines, Feb. 2-4.

Roger Wheeler of Vancouver, Canadian Senior Men's Champion, will seek the men's world senior championship. Suzanne Morrow of Toronto, Canadian Ladies' Senior Champion, and Merlene Smith of Toronto, runner-up for the North American Ladies' Championship, are to enter competitions in World Senior Ladies' Events. The World Pairs title will be sought by Miss Smith and Donald Gilchrist of Toronto, who hold the Senior Canadian pairs title.

Assumption College Purple Raiders, paced by halfback Gino Fracas, ran wild at Windsor on Saturday to win their city its second Junior Ontario Rugby Football Association championship in four years. The collegians defeated, Hamilton Junior Tigers, 18-1, in a sudden death game before 1,000 fans at Jackson Park.

The victory sent Assumption into the All-Ontario Junior grid final against Hamilton Junior Wildcats in Hamilton next Saturday.

Mrs. Eleanor Veeck Saturday at Tucson, Ariz., was granted a divorce from Bill Veeck, Jr., president of the Cleveland Indians baseball club. She was also granted custody of their three children, William 12, Peter 7 and Ellen 5. The Veeck's were married Dec. 5 1935. Mrs. Veeck filed a complaint for divorce Feb. 3, 1949. She alleged desertion. In Chicago Wednesday Veeck said that he is planning to remarry as soon as "my divorce goes through". His second bride is to be Mary Frances Ackerman, 27, a former Pittsburgh and New York model.

The American Power Boat Association Sunday created a new "middleweight" inboard racing boat class, the 225 cubic inch class.

Specifications of the new classification were given final approval at the Association's 46th annual meeting at Chicago by the Inboard Racing Commission and the Inboard Technical Commission.

Boat hulls in the 225 class must be at least 13½ feet long, but there is no top limit on length.

Sixteen members of Hull-Volants hockey team left Ottawa by air for overseas Saturday on a six-week tour of Europe. Volants are in the Eastern Canada Hockey League and already have played a few games this season. They will rejoin the circuit upon their return to Canada early in December.

Tom Wright, 26-year-old Louisville outfielder, was certified Saturday as the American Association 1949 batting champion with a .359 mark. He was the first Louisville player to capture the crown since 1921 when Jay Kirke took the honor.

Playing over a sea of mud, Saskatoon Hill Tots and Weston Wildcats battled to a 1-1 tie in their two-game, total-point Western Canada Junior Football semi-final series at Winnipeg Saturday. The teams play the second game at Saskatoon next Saturday.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Oct. 31. (AP)—Torchy Peden says the development of post-war six-day bicycle racing in North America has been retarded because the sport has so little to offer amateur riders. Peden, now a sedate-looking bike race official, was one of the top six-day speedsters of the last quarter century. He learned to ride around his home city of Victoria.

Murray Ready to Rid C.I.O. Of All Pro-Communist Groups, Says So in Prepared Address

Cleveland, Oct. 30. —(AP) — C.I.O. President Philip Murray indicated today he was ready to rid the Labor Union Federation of all pro-Communists groups.

Murray said so in a report prepared by the annual convention opening here Monday.

He used the most vigorous language in C.I.O. record to describe his feelings toward Communists and pro-Communist unions in the C.I.O.

The C.I.O. leader was reported ready to tell the 11th annual convention there is no room for Communist domination in his organization for pro-Communist unions.

He also was said to have described the left-wing anti-Murray program as one of destruction.

Murray and other top C.I.O leaders have threatened to tow all left-wingers off the powerful executive board.

They also have made plans to throw at least three pro-Communist unions out of the organization. The left-wing unions scheduled to get the boot are the United Electrical Workers, the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the Farm Equipment Workers. The three have a combined membership of about 900,000.

Luke Sewell will perform the kind of miraculous cure of Ewell Blackwell's arm that he promised to do on Joe Dimaggio's heel . . . The new Cincinnati Reds' manager, you recall, sprang that last fall right about making Dimag's heel as good as new for a mere 50,000 bucks . . . and Bearcat Sieg didn't ask whether Bucky Harris gets permanent possession of the Washington managerial job by winning it three times.

Sunday Driver

Harry Lawrence, Bucknell coach, was showing game pictures to his squad recently when he noticed a glaring error. . . guard Jim Butcher, who pulled out of the line to lead interference for Jim Ostendarp on an end run, went galloping down the field without touching anybody while Ostendarp was piled up by three tacklers . . . "What were you doing there, Butcher?" Lawrence yelled . . . "Why, coach," Butcher innocently replied, "I thought if I got through those guys, Jim ought to be able to get through those guys, too."

BURIED ALIVE

Philadelphia, Oct. 31 — (AP) — Rescued from a 15-foot-deep hole where he was buried alive for nearly an hour, 40-year-old Harry Edwards was reported recovering today in hospital. For a time Edwards was buried completely in the excavation and owed his life to the frantic digging of his son Harvey, 10, who scooped earth from around his face permitting him to breathe.

This 40-pound sturgeon lived for more than 12 hours in a bathtub corral after Ernest Tanguay caught it in the Mille Isles River near Montreal. The 53-year-old truck driver lassoed the fish as it leaped out of the water and plunked it into his tub. — (CP Photo.)

In Manhattan:

New York Stage Producers Look for 'Angels' in Britain

By PAT USSHER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

New York, Oct. 30. —(AP)— New York stage producers, finding it increasingly difficult to charm money from the pockets of "angels," are gazing enviously across the Atlantic to London, where the theatre is booming and where operating costs are roughly one-quarter what they are in Manhattan.

This week New York has 20 stage productions running; the corresponding figure in London is 38.

Play costs in New York have roughly tripled during the last 14 years. A straight play which could be staged in 1935 for $15,000 to $20,000 now requires $50,000 to $60,000, producers maintain. A musical which could be brought to Broadway then for less than $100,000 now may cost anywhere from $160,000 to $200,000.

Why the difference between costs in London and New York? The general manager of an American producing firm put it this way: "In London expenses of initial production are much smaller than here and running expenses are correspondingly lower."

Ballet Flourishing

The Sadler's Wells Ballet at the Metropolitan Opera House, and Les Ballets De Paris at the Winter Garden have been playing to standing - room audiences night after night.

The British Sadler's Wells troupe has engagements in three Canadian cities. It will be in Toronto Nov. 24-Dec. 3 and in Montreal Dec. 6-11 following a one night stand in Ottawa Dec. 5.

Years Anniversary

When Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne open in "I Know My Love" in New York Nov. 2, it will be a landmark in their joint stage career. The occasion will be their 25th anniversary as an acting team. The date also will make them their partnership longer than those of two other celebrated acting partners: Henry Irving and Ellen Terry who were together 24 years, and Edsard Sothern and Julia Marlowe, who appeared together for 22 years.

Alaia Jottings

Ann Harding has returned to Broadway after 21 years. She replaced Ruth Hussey in the feminine lead role in "Goodbye My Fancy" this month. Miss Harding's last appearance on the local stage was in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." . . . The leading part in "The Rat Race," a new play by Garson Kanin, will be taken by Betty Field. Leland Hayward is producing "The Rat Race," which is expected in New York in December . . .

IN SHARK FAMILY

A member of the shark family, the angle fish, is also called monk-fish, fiddle-fish, shark-ray and kingfish.

DAFFY-nition:

PEDESTRIAN — one who, for no good reason at all, walks. It might be noted here that there is only one more primitive method of locomotion than walking, and that is crawling. If therefore you are beginning to be worried about being called a walker or crawler, you have an easy out. As you have probably seen by the papers they've been building a rail-dart contraption called an "automowbile" for the past 50 years and many people have parted with their hard-earned dough to become motorists instead of pedestrians.

Now there's a bunch of fellas up the 4-lane highway who have made over a million out of pedestrians than anybody we know. And when you stop to think that people have been walking (or crawling) for the past 50,000 years and all of a sudden West End Motor Sales is rapidly changing this primitive pastime—it just makes you stop and think!

MORAL:

If you're tired of walking the boys to see are West End Motor Sales at Herchimer Avenue and Kingston Road. And in case you haven't heard, Rawson Bus Lines have started a new service to Parkwood Heights, which will take you right up to our lot. Or phone 3766 and we'll pick you up. No obligation.

Martin's Summer

By Vicki Baum

In front of the little weather forecast people stood tapping resignedly on the glass of the barometer. The patch of blue in the sky had grown larger. The cornices of the lake became clearer and drew nearer—with its curving sedge-clad outlines and the droop of its trees over little Scythe Villas. The promenade opened out into a square surrounded by whitewashed houses. On a tongue of land running out into the lake stood several hotels. From windows lighted up at midday came the sound of last season's music and whirring electric fans spewed out the heated atmosphere within into the village street.

"That's our square," the boy remarked. Martin had quite forgotten him, but he was still at his heels, bound apparently in unremitting service by the gift of a fragment of chocolate. "The square and the hotels. The Big Petermann and the tennis courts."

The tennis courts were by the edge of the lake, and presented a sorry sight, being more than half under water. Martin shook his head.

"What sort of weather do you call this. I'd like to know!" he asked with a reproachful glance up at the sky.

"It generally rains cats and dogs," replied the boy from below.

At this moment, and most inexplicably, the girl came out of the Petermann, stood at the top of the three red sandstone steps and looked critically at the clouds in the sky. It was the same girl, the one in whom the bitter kind tasted best. The girl with long legs and shapely knees and who scarcely a quarter of an hour before had vanished along the promenade in the opposite direction accompanied by an arrogant young man in a gull-lined coat! Martin could not help standing still in astonishment, and his small, well shaped ears grew red with a sudden rush of blood.

This time, contrasting his fair eyebrows, Martin took a good look at her, and her appearance, though attractive was all the same slightly disappointing. The knees were not set so high above the ground nor turned with so incomparable a neatness as he had supposed. Her figure, tall, well-made, and graceful as it was, had not the charm, the repose, and the sure and balanced poise it had had before. The eyes were brown. Yes, they were certainly brown and they were fixed now upon Martin, with a wide-open look that was almost surprise. But it was not the right look, not the right brown—the brown that Martin carried about with him—not that pair of smoke-quartz and dark gold in a setting delicate blue enamel. Martin sighed.

The girl turned and went down the steps and across the square. There a motor car was waiting and in it sat a well-dressed elderly man who might be her father. Martin's grasp on the cardboard box had slackened and allowed it to slip downward but now he pulled himself together. There's a girl for once who's properly sprung from the bliss, he thought roughly and in a strange confusion of mind. The long journey, the mountain air and a hunger of twenty-two hours had produced a slight dizziness in his head. He whistled a marching tune and forced himself to keep to it. And now they could see the red flag flying from the redpainted bathing station.

"That was the other," the little boy remarked, who all this while accompanied Martin like a mysterious unremarked.

Herr Alois Birndl, the proprietor of the swimming and sunbathing establishment, was dozing with his friend, Eggenhofer the porter of the Big Peterman, and discoursing at large. He was leaning his large paunch, tastefully adorned, against the table of the porter's box, and on it were extended the ten bluish red fingers, as thick as thumbs, with which he was adding emphasis to his argument. He was speaking in the Frauensee dialect, a form of speech to which he had been born and bred; at the same time he did not disdain certain refinements of speech due to the yearly influx of visitors from other parts.

"The new swimming master," Herr Birndl was saying, "the new swimming-master, there's a man for you, if you like. Just wait till we get the right weather and the women have set eyes on him, and then you'll see them queue up for the ticket office, I can tell you. You see if he isn't the sensation of the place my friend. Not like it was with our late-lamented Adolf with his big flat feet, and always drinking himself silly. However,he's gone now, God bless him, and the new one, I'll tell you what he is—a sportsman that's what he is a real sporting man. He's a boxer, he's a fencer, he's swum against Rademacher at their club. I've seen the badges with my own eyes on his bathing suit. Record for two hundred meters—that's what he put on it. He says it's real silver, but I don't believe that. He doesn't know what he's talking about there, but when it comes to swimming, ye gods and little fishes," said Birndl, as he brought down his flat on the table for Herr Eggenhofer's edification, "you should just see him jump from the high springboard and take a somersault into the water. You'd never believe it till you saw him. That's a style of my own, Herr Birndl," he says and laughs.

"He talks like a proper gentleman. Got it in his blood, you can tell that. University man or engineer, he tells me. Out of a job now, he says, and a man must live, he says and so, you see, he's a swimming instructor for the summer. You've got to bite on it, he says, and then he clenches his teeth till you can hear them grind. And he's proud —oh, he's proud as anything. I'm a sportsman, he says, an amateur. It's true I've passed out as swimming instructor, but that's only by the way. I'm not one of your professionals.' That's the way he talks—like a proper gentleman." And this Herr Eggenhofer shook his head in astonishment.

But now Herr Birndl had got fairly well and poured out all there was to stay of the new swimming instructor in one uninterrupted flow. "My old woman could stand the whole day listening to him. He wears a little bathing slip only a few inches long, just a little three-cornered affair—and let him, if it pleases the ladies. 'Get back to your kitchen,' I says to my old woman. 'You'd like to stand out here all day staring at the swimming men, and that might come to five schillings a day in fine weather, but with this everlasting rain a fellow might go to skin and bone. Well of course he has pictures free too. My old woman has put the hut in order for him next to cabin 36. So he's all right, as far as that goes. And that way, we have someone always on the spot to see that nothing's stolen. It saves me a night watchman. He's a useful man all round.

"That fellow Adolf left everything go to bits, but you should see how this new chap has shovelled the sand up onto the beach and put all the posts to rights along the bridges. He's rigged up that bit behind near the tennis courts as a gymnasium, and he's brought a great big punchball with him, and now he sits about and waits for fine weather. There's been no one yet barring that Saxon gentleman. He's there every day, for he's got his season ticket you see, and he's going to have his money's worth however cold it is. Of course there has to be someone there in case to keep an eye open. Those are his orders even if it hails and that's what a swimming instructor's for. So now he stands about in his swimming slip and bathing cloak and shivers, for he isn't used to the air here yet.

"Three times a day he's off to the post office to see if there's a letter for him. "You've got a girl at home, I see,' says I. 'No,' says he, 'when I'm in training it's good bye to the girls.' It's a fact he's in training. He's swimming for his club in Berlin in September—that's what he writers. 'I'm expecting something more important by post than a love-letter,' says he. 'I shall have a letter worth millions,' says Herr Birndl. As a matter of fact I've hit on a marvelous invention.' Who's going to believe that, I think to myself. He only wants to give himself airs, do you see, because he's an engineer and hasn't enough to eat, and so he takes it out in big talk. But he's proud. Yesterday I was sorry for the man when it rained on and on. So I said to him, 'Here's a schilling for you, Herr Mo'ton,' I said, 'for making such a fine job on the beach.' You should have just seen him when I said that. It was touch and go he didn't give me a punch on the jaw. 'You've no finesse whatever,' said my old woman. She used to be in service you know, at the castle across there with the cracked Baron Dohlerstein . . . as she knows all about finesse.
